In the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water. — Isa. 35.6, 7

Kennedy has yet to come to grips with issues

It probably reveals your writer for the low-brow that be is when he admits particular respect for James "Scotty" Reston, New York Times political writer, because of his first, direct acquaintance with the gentleman. That was back in '36, when Ye Ed was a graduate student in journalism at Columbia university in New York City and "Scotty" was a sportswriter for the Times and covering the National Amateur Golf tournament at Garden City, L. I.

Passage of time has proved a sports writing background (with emphasis on golf) a somewhat more useful asset in political writing than it might have been regarded in pre-Eisenhower days. Be that as it may, Reston's early newspaper career perhaps also played a part in his ability to "call 'em as he sees 'em," despite the fact that has Democratic leanings, politically. We envy his ability to view facts without permitting his preferences to color his judgment.

The above comments explain why we took a partisan delight when Reston let loose in his syndicated column last weekend on the shallow mouthings of Democratic Candidate Jack Kennedy. Observed the Times writer:

"The worst break Senator John Kennedy has had this month is that he didn't come down with a bad case of housemaid's knee, as Vice President Richard Nixon did. If he had, he might have had time to plan his campaign before he started it. As it is, he has started before he was ready."

Reston then continued: "All week he has been talking not about the new frontier but about the issues of the old backyard, not about the continents but about the local communities, not about the future but about the past, not about what he proposes to do but about what President Eisenhower has not done . . . He bounced right out of the senate into thin air, and has had to keep talking ever since."

Hero-worship played a vital part in getting President Eisenhower elected four years ago, despite the nationwide Democrat resurgence. And the majority of voters who put "Ike" in office are NOT going to flock to Kennedy's cause on the strength of carping criticism of their hero To attract the votes he needs. Kennedy is going to have to convince the voters that he can do BETTER — and WHY, rather than simply pointing out what he regards as Eisenhower failures.

Kennedy has enjoyed all the political success money could buy. But he's going to find that the purchase price of the Presidency runs considerably higher than that of a nomination to that office. In fact, the Kennedy millions can never do the trick unless abetted by political acumen that only experience — not cash — provides.

The chips are now going on the table in the 1960 presidential campaign. Voters are going to be listening more and more critically to the candidates' exhortations as they get down to the bedrock decision of whom they are going to cast their ballots for. Talk of the "new frontier" is going to have to provide a clear glimpse of what lies beyond the river, or the majority of voters are going to settle for the known territory they can expect of a continued Republican administration.

Consequently, we're happy to have a man of Mr. Reston's analytical intellect and opposite political preferences share our present suspicion that Senator Kennedy's new frontier might rather prove, in truth, to be only an untried wilderness.

Training school boys cite delinquency's causes

A recent issue of the Iowa Falls Citizen reprinted some highly thought-provoking comments cribbed from the monthly publication of the state training school for boys at Eldora.

Several inmates of the institution were asked, "What, in your opinion, is the chief cause of delinquency?"

The answers printed impressed us from several standpoints. They were clearly honest. They were intelligent. And, unless the crux of the original replies was rephrased by some adult before publication, the comments reflected a distinctly uncommon ability of self-expression.

Your writer has judged enough essays written by Belmond High school students (in most cases, by juniors) to guess with some authority that a majority of our students in 9th through 12th grades would have difficulty in expressing themselves with equal adeptness.

Read below what 10 boys at the training school had to say on delinquency:

Forrest Perkins: "It is usually the teenagers' fault. They have minds of their own and can stay out of trouble."

Carl Purscell: "All teen-agers like excitement, but delinquent teen-agers want theirs in illegitimate ways."

Marion McConahay. "Broken homes are the main cause, since they lead to disrespect toward parents and lack of family togetherness."

Terry Painton: "Home environment and the wrong kind of associates contribute to delinquency. In a gang what one doesn't think of the others will."

Jeffery Opel: "I'd say there's not enough use of the old woodshed."

John Scott: "I think some people misunderstand their importance as parents. Lacking the necessary interest, they neglect their teen-agers, expecting others to correct them."

Richard Jeffery: "In many homes today there is no parental discipline and no close supervision."

Ron Kiner: "There are not enough appropriate facilities to take up a teen-ager's time."

George Eckard: "Delinquent teen-agers enjoy trying to out-smart the law by doing wrong things without being caught."

William Newton: "It seems to me there is a yearning for the wrong kind of excitement with the wrong kind of guys."

Clipped Comment

Independent voter no asset to U. S.

We acknowledge that everyone has the privilege, in this country, of voting exactly as they wish.

But we do find ourselves completely out of sympathy with the folks who made their brags about being independent, who claim no interest in either the Republicans or the Democrats, and who maintain, with a great deal of pride, that they "always vote for the man, not the party."

In the first place, the conduct of our political system has depended almost since the establishment of the country on a strong, two-party system. And in spite of obvious troubles now and then, our system has demonstrated that it is the best yet devised.

IN ORDER TO MAINTAIN A two-party system, the two parties naturally need support. The only way they can have support is to have workers and contributors, and the only way they can be strong, effective parties is to have the party members support the party candidates, whenever, in any conscience at all, they can do so.

We have often wondered how the Independents explain their part in the primary elections. If they do not believe in being party members, how can they justify voting in a party primary? And if, being completely consistent, some do not vote in a primary, then how can they feel they have any particular right to criticize the men nominated?

IF THE RANKS OF THE INDEPENDENTS continue to grow, it appears to us that the two political parties will become correspondingly less dedicated to real causes for they will both be required to step up their campaigns to woo the Independents. This is usually done, it seems, by appeals to special groups and has already done much to make both parties appear to be fighting on the same side in many cases.

A recent Gallup poll reported [illegible] week that "the nation's Inde[illegible] voters — who have swung back and forth between Kennedy and Nixon during the last year — are supporting Nixon in the most recent poll. Since these voters tend to base their preference more on the man than they do on a party, Senator Kennedy may be able to reverse this trend."

WHILE WE KNOW THAT "THE man" will always be a highly important element in any one's choice, still it seems that ideals, aims, purposes and platforms should carry more weight than personalities, particularly in a government that intends to be run by laws instead of men.

This tendancy of the Independents to concentrate on man instead of party, and at the same time to swing, or be swung, back and forth from one to another, certainly adds nothing to the stability of our system, and does put too much power in the hands of a small group of people without any particular convictions. — Sheldon Mail

"Network trouble"

Television was a wonderful invention, and is a mighty medium for broadcasting pictures of interesting events, but some place along the line the TV stations are falling apart. Or maybe the broadcasting stations are not sending out a good signal. One or the other must be at fault, for we are getting so weary of seeing the sign "Network Trouble" on the TV screen.

For a time we thought our set was growing weary and needed replacing, but then the "Network Trouble" sign came with increasing frequency. Right now we wouldn't gamble one red cent on whether or not any given program would be good.

WE TRIED TO WATCH ONE OF those "rebroadcasts" that fill the summer TV time. All we saw was a bunch of crooked lines and then the sign "Network Trouble." We tried to watch some of the Olympic events, only to see "Network Trouble." It's getting so "Network Trouble" is the title of most of the shows on TV.

And we wonder how long the networks can keep their sponsors quiet when "Network Trouble" obscures the pictures and the commercials.

Oh well, we can always work on the lawn, or enjoy a good book. — Huboldt Republican

Subsidy won't do it

The stark truth in our farm situation is that only the most efficient farmers are going to survive. We hate to see it as much as you, but big labor has driven up the cost of farm machines and supplies so that the pinch has squeezed out the smaller farmer.

Farmers aren't the only ones to have felt the economic pinch but their condition has had a greater effect on more people.

IT'S ONLY A SMALL NUMBER of persons affected, but at one time there were 10 newspapers in Hancock county. Today there are four. The 10 weekly papers were the Britt News, Britt Tribune, Garner Signal, Garner Democrat, Klemme Times, Goodell Globe, Kanawha Reporter, Corwith Hustler, Crystal Lake Mirror and Woden Watchman.

Six of these papers suspended publication over the past 60 years because of lack of sale "demand" and "parity" income to meet their publication costs, leaving less than a living wage for the publisher.

THE LARGER, MORE EFFICIENT papers have survived but the cost squeeze is cutting their margins slowly year by year. The same is true in the rest of the local business picture, which has seen fewer retail sales licenses reporting over the past several years. Since last year, the total retail reports issued from the county has dropped from 1,675 to 1,583 during the four quarters.

So we all have a stake in the farm economy of Iowa. Inflation has not kept pace in farm prices while it has brought on the cost-price squeeze. — Britt News Tribune

THE NEW FRONTIER

SCANNING THE HORIZON

WITH YE ED

OLD FRIEND HEARD FROM—

We were delighted to receive recently from John Jansson, who was our vacation relief man a couple of summers ago, a letter and a check for renewal of his subscription to The Independent. Although John was in Belmond only a month, he has remained a faithful reader of this newspaper — which has perplexed us and pleased us about in equal degree.

Folks along Main street who still remember John will be interested to know that he was married last month; that he is now employed by the Chicago Tribune; and that he has issued an invitation for any Belmond friends happening in the Windy City to contact him at "The World's Greatest Newspaper."

We always like to hear from John. He keeps us humble. He never lets us forget that perfection is an impossibly elusive goal and always offers a few frank comments as to how we might — in his opinion — improve the paper.

It's tough, trying to live up to John's expectations of us. But he helps us keep on our toes; and we like that. And subscriptionwise, four bucks and a quarter is four bucks and a quarter.

SIGN THE DURNED THINGS!—

We've received a couple of anonymous letters lately and are thereby inspired to comment. We just plain don't like anonymous letters. So far as we're concerned, anyone with convictions strong enough to prompt writing to the editor should be willing to sign his name to his opinions.

One of the letters concerned janitors' salaries at the local schools. A simple explanation for the existing rates of pay could have been obtained by the writer of the letter had he (or she) had an honest wish to know. We had no trouble obtaining information that made it quickly evident that the unknown correspondent's gripe had no foundation in fact.

The other missive was a pro-Democrat proclamation, taking a pot shot at a recent Independent editorial. We grant our Democratic friends the same right to disagree with us as we claim to disagree with them. That's part of the game of politics. But when an editorial appears in The Independent, no one has to guess whose opinion it reflects.

Anyone is welcome at any time to offer rebuttal to those editorial opinions. And if they want their arguments in type, we'll happily oblige. But writers by the name of "John Doe" and "An irritated taxpayer" will get no space in this newspaper unless they take off the whiskers and dark glasses and let themselves be known.

TOO HIGH A PRICE?—

Ardent sports fans who followed closely the 17th Olympiad, now reaching its final stages in Rome, viewed with mixed pride and dismay the performances by athletes representing this nation There was ample justification for both emotions.

Although the white-skinned American swimmers did themselves proud and a handful of white specialists in track and field — particularly in the field events, such as Oerter in the discus, Nieder in the shot put and Bragg in the pole vault — lived fully up to expectations, most sports fans would say "amen" to the comment made by Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic committee.

Said Mr. Brundage, "We are out-classed in half the events on the Olympic program. If it were not for our great Negro athletes we'd be second class now. Life in the United States is too soft."

The discussion now raging over U. S. disappointments prompts the question, "How much obligation does the endowment of unusual physical skills attach to their possessors?"

Does a gifted athlete bear the same responsibility as a genius in, say, artistic or scientific fields to make maximum use of his natural endowment?

It seems patently clear that the Russian athletes feel, or are made to feel, that the prestige of their nation rides heavily upon their shoulders when they represent the hammer and sickle in sports competition.

The state of the world today perhaps places false values on such show cases of national superiority as the Olympics. Still and all, any who falter in ANY type of performance due to poor deportment owe an apology to their admirers.

That is equally true whether the level of competition be the 17th Olympiad — or only a high school football game in Middleburg USA.

WOW! WHAT A GAME!

Any mention of high school football in these parts this week is bound to start conversation flowing in regard to the fantastic victory of the BHS Broncos over Clarion last Friday night — a nice example, we might say, of producing phenomenally when the chips are down.

It was brought to our attention, incidentally, that the losers held possession of the ball less than five out of the 24 minutes that comprised the last half.

We were inclined to question the accuracy of the statement, but reference to our game notes quite clearly substantiated it.

Although the ratio of plays didn't exactly match the time in possession of the ball (the Broncos were taking their time during long downfield drives when matters were going their way), our statistics showed Belmond had the ball for 38 plays to only 15 for Clarion!

Know your businessmen—

Sports-minded Pearsons run Bowl-Mor Lanes

Give a couple of people who are sports addicts from 'way back a line of business that permits them to indulge that addiction to the fullest and you have an example of A-1 compatibility.

That pretty much sums up the relationship between Gene and Dorothy Pearson and their bowling establishment, the Bowl-Mor Lanes. This weekend they're holding the grand opening of the Bowl-Mor, as enlarged this summer from six to eight alleys and featuring AMF automatic pin-spotters.

They say that the enthusiasm of bowling enthusiasts from Belmond and surrounding communities has reached a new high with the opening of league play for the 1960-61 season, justifying their fondest hopes — and making them feel just a little relieved, in view of the heavy investment their expansion program involved.

Gene and "Dort" say this investment, and the favorable outlook for it paying off, have killed — most certainly for the next five years or so, at least — any temptation to cultivate a wanderlust. It took some thinking before they sunk their stakes as deeply as they have, but they like Belmond and are happy to look forward to calling it "home" for some time to come.

Both the Pearsons have interesting sports backgrounds. Dorothy's first husband, Glenn "Chip" Sharp, who lost his life in a tragic accident back in the early 'thirties, was organizer and promoter of a Negro ball team famous in its day as Chip's All-Stars.

Dorothy helped with management of the team's business affairs for a couple of years after their marriage, until Chip went into partnership with famed Abe Saperstein in organization of the Harlem Globe Trotters.

Gene, a salesman in those days, was a good friend of Chip Sharp— so good that Dorothy used to dislike him cordially for monopolizing Chip's time whenever Gene called on him for "business" purposes.

As a semi-pro basketball player with a team that operated out of his home town of Swea City, Gene's path crossed with the Sharps' periodically some three decades ago when Gene made a good-sized handfull of appearances against the clowning, colored cagers Chip was managing.

Some time after her first husband's death, Dorothy found Gene considerably more tolerable than he'd seemed as a crony of Chip's. Their acquaintanceship blossomed into a romance — and next Nov. 6th they will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

When they married, Dorothy had two small daughters. The eldest, Betty Ann, is now Mrs. Bart Boehmler of Sperryville, Va., where her husband is herdsman for a millionaire cattle-raiser's 150-head herd of purebred Holsteins. The younger daughter, Eula Mae, is now Mrs. Bart Marschall and is an Air Force wife stationed in Adana, Turkey, with her officer husband (he's a captain).

Gene and Dorothy have a son, Perry, who was an outstanding Hampton High school athlete and is presently an Airman 2/c stationed at Alexandria, La.

After the Pearsons' marriage, they spent a year running a dance hall and pool hall Dorothy owned at her home town of Fenton. In those depression years of the mid-'thirties, recreation enterprises enjoyed less than flourishing business, and Gene took a job as a Bankers Life insurance salesman to help make ends meet.

A year later he was transferred to Hampton, where in 1943 he departed from the insurance business and bought a small restaurant. After five years the Pearsons sold this eating place — only to buy another just a matter of weeks later, which was and still is known as Dreierdale Inn.

Their career as restaurateurs ended eight years later when they sold out and Gene returned to his early occupation of salesman for a wholesale concern. One of his customers was Henry Hokel.

One day Henry told Gene he had a bowling alley for sale and asked if he had any notion where he might locate a prospective buyer. Gene told him he just might know of such an individual. After he and Dorothy talked the matter over that evening, they bought the Bowl-Mor Lanes the next day.

Both of the Pearsons bowl a very respectable game, themselves. Gene last week had top game in one league and top series in two. Their willingness to help new bowlers get the knack of the game has helped to create a good many new enthusiasts for the sport in Belmond and vicinity.

This has played an important part in creating enough bowlers to make up 30 more teams than participated in league bowling just a year ago — and these new teams, in turn, have bolstered the Pearson's confidence that the Belmond territory would supply a first-class bowling establishment good patronage.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

The Man-of-the-Z is back again Thursday through Saturday — the gent whose zigzag initial in the flesh of defeated foes leaves them a stern reminder that the way of wrong-doers is ultimately hard. Today's kids may think they discovered Zorro; but actually, the novel that inspired "The Sign of Zorro" were written by Johnston McCulley three generations ago. He still thrills youngsters (young and old) though; and, like the Northwest Mounties, still gets his man.

Princess Grace (Grace Kelly, that is) and William Holden have the lead roles in the re-run showing of "The Bridges at Toko-ri," which occupies the New Belmond screen Sunday through Wednesday.

If you missed this James Michener classic the first time, you won't want to miss it now. If you did see it, you know it will bear seeing again.

This is a story of the Navy carrier-based jet pilots during the Korean disturbance — and the helicopter rescue teams who fished them out of icy seas or from behind enemy lines when they'd been downed.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by virtue of the terms and provisions of the last will and testament of Earl J. Jenison, Deceased, and an order of the District Court of Iowa in and for Wright County construing said will and authorizing Trustee to sell real estate at public auction, entered in the above entitled proceeding on August 20, 1960, wherein L. B. Cox, as Trustee under the will of Earl J. Jenison, Deceased, for the use and benefit of George Jenison, Leland J. Jenison, Arnold Jenison, Ardith Pauley, Robert Jenison, and Elna Jenison, is authorized to sell the real estate hereinafter described at public auction to the highest and best bidder for cash,

I, L. B. Cox, Trustee under the will of Earl J. Jenison, Deceased, for the use and benefit of George Jenison, Leland J. Jenison, Arnold Jenison, Ardith Pauley, Robert Jenison, and Elna Jenison will sell the following described real property, to-wit:

> East Half (E½) of the Northwest Quarter (NW¼) and the Southwest Quarter (SW¼) of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of Section eighteen (18) in Township Ninety-three (93) North, Range Twenty-three (23) West of the Fifth P. M., Wright County, Iowa, at public auction to the highest and best bidder for cash on the 1st day of October, 1960 at the hour of 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of said day at the farm home located upon the premises above described, located approximately one mile north of the City of Belmond, Iowa, when and where due attendance will be given by the undersigned.

TERMS OF SALE. Fifteen (15%) per cent of the purchase price at the date of sale, the balance to be paid in cash on March 1, 1961, upon delivery of a good and sufficient Trustee's Deed describing and conveying the premises to the purchaser, together with an abstract of title showing merchantable title with power of sale in the Trustee.

Dated this 29th day of August 1960.

VOL. 41 NO. 51 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, SEPT. 22, 1960 | 9-19-85 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Foster Castleman, who since his marriage to the former Joyce Waddington has been claimed by numerous friends here as a Belmondite by adoption, was renewing old acquaintances here last week. He wound up the 1960 baseball season with Columbia (S. C.) of the American association, after playing earlier with Miami and San Diego.

As the season concluded, "Fos" had serious doubts that he would return to organized baseball next year. He's been a professional player for 11 years, and before leg injuries seriously handicapped him it appeared he might have a bright future in major league ball. Both knees went bad on him, though, and operations served only to improve their condition to an insufficient degree.

He says that this past season he also developed arm trouble from throwing in a manner that "favored" his legs. As a consequence, "Fos" sees little likelihood at this point that he'll endeavor another come-back in pro ball. He played for both the (N. Y.) Giants and Baltimore in the majors before leg trouble got him down.

George Jenison, who was attending a Masonic Grand Lodge meeting at Des Moines last Friday, reports he had the pleasure of seeing Vice President Richard Nixon at the capital city. As a good and true Republican, Postmaster Jenison of course refers to Mr. Nixon as "our next president." He says the "Veep" looked to be in good fighting trim and, in person, appears quite a bit younger than he does on television.

Belmond junior high football players of a couple of seasons back were happy to hear that a 200-pounder (plus) who'd been a fly in their soup as a Garner junior high gridder had departed from that community. As 90- and 100-pounders themselves, they'd found the amount of beef packed by Tom Revland a bit more than they liked to contend with. So where is the massive Revland now? A freshman at Britt, and now packing 266 pounds! Monday, Oct. 10, on the local gridiron the Bronco freshmores will have the problem of sprawling the big boy on the turf — without getting caught underneath.

Five guaranteed Gallagher cats available at the customary price (pick one up, it's yours). This is a real nice bunch. Fluffily cuddlesome and extra loving. Will fit best into families where they'll have at least limited house privileges. All have one variation or another of tiger markings. Place your orders by phoning 6107.

An entire sheet of mailing stickers was overlooked as single-wrap copies of The Independent were being prepared for the mail last week. As a result, about 30 subscribers living in parts afar failed to receive their weekly copies of the paper.

Among the wails this omission gave rise to was one from Fred and Olive Vestweber at Bradgate, who wrote, "Our week, last week, was almost a total ruin because we didn't get The Independent."

Their brief letter continued, "We are fine and have the prospects for a fairly good corn crop despite two hail storms. Have had a busy summer and will be busy till the corn, beans and grain sorghum are in the bins." . . . Our apologies to all who were missed.

Sheriff Bob Blecker got mail from many parts of the nation after the wide publicity that was given his office's Labor Day Rest Station. Press services gave the project wire coverage and clippings of the wire story from numerous points on the map were sent to Bob by former Clarionites and other persons from Wright county now living elsewhere. Perhaps the most interesting clipping was one sent by a chiropractor in Montreal, Canada, which was from a Montreal newspaper and printed in French.

TOP TENS FOULED UP

Due to an error in making a pair of corrections in the women's top 10 games and series in league bowling last week, as reported in "Tomco's Top Tens" on the sports page, a mix up in the listings occurred. Donna Cockram and Dorothy Pearson tied for 10th high game at 172, while Geline Ter Hark was alone at the top of the series standings with a 512.

Thompson, Mann each post 626—

Local bowler ties expert's score

Local bowlers committed themselves very respectably against "imported" opposition as Leo Mann of St. Paul rolled exhibition singles and doubles matches Sunday in conjunction with "new" Bowl-Mor Lane's grand opening.

Four times winner of the Minnesota match game bowling championship, the young guest expert defeated Ed Albers in the singles contest; but paired with Jack Lobdell, he was out-bowled by Duan Thompson and the latter and Cecil Mosiman took the doubles match.

Mann turned in especially fine performances in his two high single games, posting 10 strikes in each of them. A 259 in the singles was marred only by two spares and concluded with a string of five strikes. A 232 followed the same pattern, but a pair of 6-10 splits that resulted from pocket hits kept Mann's count for the game down.

Best of Mann's two series was a 626 in the singles, in which Albers trailed with a 584. The St. Paul ace bracketed his 259 with games of 193 and 174. Albers opened with a 185, then followed with 200-199.

Duan Thompson matched Mann's best series with a 626 in the doubles. The smooth-throwing General Mills kegler had consistent games of 203-216-207. Mosiman contributed a 201-180-182—563 series that enabled him and his partner to hold an advantage over their opponents from start to finish.

Mann's doubles series was a creditable 603 on games of 195-232-176. Lobdell had a 548 on lines of 191-177-180. The Thompson-Mosiman duo led 404 to 386 at the end of the first game and 800-795 at the end of the second. The final totals were 1,189 to 1,151.

Attraction of the evening program was the double-feature "King of the Hill" contest. Seven-ball matches formed the basis of the contest, with the bowlers producing the most strikes surviving.

In the women's competition, Edna Eccles and Sharon Morris, the latter of Meservey, each defended "the hill" successfully four times. Others who survived on the summit were Opal Cuppett (3), Janice Pals (2), Mrs. Harvey Hopkey (1) and Mary Gordon (1). Each successful defense was worth a dollar. Mrs. Eccles and Miss Morris played off for an additional $5 prize for most turns on "the hill," and Mrs. Eccles was the winner.

Ed Albers monopolized proceedings in the men's contest, being "King of the Hill" an even dozen times. Anson Avery won three dollars. Don Baker and Gene Robbins one each. Albers' defense was highlighted by a string of 12 consecutive strikes at one stage — the equivalent of a perfect 300 game of bowling.

When Sharon Morris dethroned Opal Cuppet, it took her 13 frames to get the job done. Almost as long a contest resulted in the men's match between Albers and "Cec" Mosiman, Albers finally retaining his position on "the hill" after 12 rounds.

Present from St. Paul with Leo Mann to witness the Bowl-Mor's grand opening was Jack Piggott, head of Modern Bowling Supply company. This firm supplied all the new equipment for the local recreation emporium except the automatic pin-spotters. Mr. Piggott praised the opening as "one of the best I've witnessed."

JOAN WATSON WOMEN'S DEAN AT FERGUS FALLS ACADEMY

Mrs. Joan Watson recently accepted a position as dean of women and school nurse at Hillcrest Academy, one of the Lutheran Brethren schools operated at Fergues Falls, Minn.

She and her two children have been making their home at Fergus Falls since she took up her duties last month.

Her brother, David Swenson, is attending the academy as a high school junior.

Iowa Falls editor will speak here Wednesday Night

Carl Hamilton, editor and publisher of Iowa Falls Citizen and Hardin County Times, will be presented at a public meeting Wednesday evening of next week by the League of Women Voters as a guest speaker.

This meeting will be held at the youth center of the Congregational church at 8:00 o'clock. Husbands of the League members will be guests. The women also extend a cordial invitation to anyone interested in the proposition of a state constitutional convention to hear Mr. Hamilton's remarks.

He is a member of the Citizens Committee for Fair Representation by Constitutional Convention. In view of the failure of the 58th General Assembly to get anything accomplished relative to reapportionment, this committee has been urging a constitutional convention as the only alternative means of fair apportionment of legislative representation in Iowa.

Mr. Hamilton is one of the most prominent figures in the Iowa weekly press and his opinions are widely quoted by his fellow editors. He and Duane Dewel, editor of the Kossuth County Advance at Algona, are currently making weekly appearances on Sunday nights over WOI-TV, Ames, as interrogators on the "Meet the Candidates" program.

NEARLY 400 REPUBLICANS ATTEND DINNER AND RALLY

Close to 400 Republicans of Wright county assembled at Eagle Grove's Memorial building Tuesday evening for a dinner-rally that was attended by a number of major candidates who will be leaders of the party ticket in the November election.

Main highlight of the program was an open forum presided over by Former Governor Robert D. Blue. Forming the forum panel was: Jack Miller of Sioux City, candidate for the U. S. Senate; Norman Erbe of Boone, candidate for governor; and Evan Hultman of Waterloo, candidate for attorney general.

Other Republican office-seekers who were present to greet the party members at the rally were: Curtis Riehm of Garner, candidate for U. S. Representative from the 6th district; John Walker of Williams, running for reelection as state senator from the 37th district; and Ray Hagie of Clarion, candidate for state representative from Wright county.

Various county officers seeking reelection were also introduced to the gathering.

DEMOCRATS HEAR SPEECHES BY TOP PARTY CANDIDATES

There was a good attendance of Belmond representatives among the more than 300 Democrats who met Wednesday night of last week for a county rally at the Eagle Grove Memorial building. Marion Robinson of Holmes, county central comittee chairman, presided and introduced the candidates who were present.

U. S. Rep. Merwin Coad of Boone denied a claim by his Republican opponent, Curtis Riehm of Garner, that the Democrats in the 86th Congress could have pushed farm legislation over a presidential veto — noting that an insufficient majority was held by the party to achieve passage of any bill in that manner.

Mr. Coad praised highly the intelligence and ability of Richard Wilson, Clarion young man who is a candidate for state representative from Wright county. The two men became acquainted when Mr. Wilson, as a St. Olaf college student, spent a term at American university, Washington, D. C., under the university's Washington Semester Plan. Mr. Coad said his young friend showed remarkable political insight during his period of study at the capital.

Also appearing as speakers were Mr. Wilson, himself; and Conrad E. Lawlor of Ames, candidate for state treasurer.

McLaughlin heads Young Democrats

About 50 young people from various parts of Wright county met Tuesday evening at Gannon's Party Room in Clarion to form a Young Democrats organization. Approximately 20 were present from Belmond, which provides a number of the new group's officers.

Bob McLaughlin and Steve McLaughlin, both of Belmond, were elected chairman and vice chairman, respectively. Sharolyn Wilson of Eagle Grove was chosen as secretary and Lynn Mikelson, Clarion, as treasurer.

On the executive board are: Duane Anderson, representing Belmond; Tom Kenefick, Eagle Grove; Russell Melhus, Clarion; Kathy Dorr of Belmond and Cathy Coleman, Clarion, elected at-large.

Football guessing prize last week to Mrs. Kelley

Mrs. Irene Kelley of Goodell did the best crystal ball gazing among the small number who endeavored to guess the outcome of last week's Belmond-Osage football game.

Her prediction was: Belmond 25, Osage 16. The actual score was 21-14 in favor of the Broncos. Most of those submitting guesses had Belmond on the short end of the count.

The football page in this issue invites sports fans to guess the outcome of tomorrow night's Belmond-Garner game. Guesses will also be accepted at any time (up to 5:00 p. m. on game night) for the Broncos' outings against Northwood and Forest City next month.

Fifth to Belmond in E. G. judging

Friendly Service chapter of the Future Farmers of America took part in the annual judging contest conducted in conjunction with the yearly Sow Buck Sale at Eagle Grove a week ago Saturday.

Dustin Johnson, reporter for the BHS chapter, advises that the Belmond team placed 5th among 23 teams competing in the judging. Johnson was a member of the team, as were Stephen Hinman, Douglas Pals and Daryl Suntken. Alternate was Randy Thayer.

Douglas Pals ranked high among the individual judges, placing 6th out of some 300 FFA boys who competed.

Served years as general store—

Oldest Main street building razed

Downtown Main street's oldest landmark disappeared from the scene last week as the former Jacobson general store was razed by a crew of workmen headed by Reuben Nelson, Russell Lonnevik and Gerald Swenson. Once one of the community's leading mercantile establishments, the structure had in late years become an eyesore and the decision to remove it was made by Mrs. S. P. Leinbach, daughter of the owner, Oscar Jacobson.

Mrs. Leinbach says that plans are fairly well advanced to replace the old frame building with an attractive, modern business structure. She informed The Independent that plans are still at the tentative stage, but that there appears a reasonably certain likelihood that the construction of the proposed new building will be started in the near future.

An examination of the abstract of the property by Mrs. Leinbach offered evidence that the earliest portion of the Jacobson store was built about 1876. The original deed bears the signature of Archer Dumond, founder of the town of Belmond, Mrs. Leinbach reports. The property is a part of the original town plat. In addition to that of Mr. Dumond, the initial deed also bears the signatures of a number of other prominent citizens of early-day Belmond.

Builder of the front part of what became the Jacobson store was J. B. Kern, perhaps best known in the annals of Belmond history as proprietor of an early hotel called the Kern House.

The men who demolished the aged structure say it was apparently built in five different stages. Living quarters on the second floor fronting on the street were originally reached by an outside stairway attached to the west side of the building. When the back half of the building was later attached, an inside stairway was built to give access to the apartment.

Owners of the store when it was bought in August of 1894 by Hans Jacobson, father of Oscar, were James and William McGuire, brothers of a later prominent clothing merchant here, Charley McGuire. The McGuire brothers operated on the premises a general mercantile business similar to that carried on by the Jacobsons.

Oscar Jacobson became owner of the property and the business following the death of his father in the spring of 1908. Mrs. Leinbach recalls that her father took great pride in the high quality of the merchandise he offered for sale.

His coffee, canned goods and other staples earned a reputation for being as fine as was obtainable in their era and his extensive knowledge of fabrics made his dry goods department an attraction to fastidious housewives for many miles around Belmond. His adeptness as a merchandiser, according to his daughter, once brought him an offer to join the staff of a Chicago wholesale house; but he preferred to remain in Belmond as a storekeeper.

After the death of a second daughter, Carol Winifred, just 30 years ago this coming Sunday (Sept. 25, 1930) at the age of 15, Mr. Jacobson lost some of the zest he had always taken in tending his store. Mrs. Leinbach says that although her father conducted his business on a declining scale for another 15 years, it did not provide him the enjoyment it had before.

In 1945, at the end of World War II, Mr. Jacobson ceased to operate the store — although a considerable stock of merchandise remained on its shelves and under its counters.

He made it his daily practice, though, to stop at the store whenever he called at the post office for mail and continued to look after some of his personal affairs while there. This habit he carried on until failing health forced him to abandon it a little more than 2½ years ago.

When the store was cleared of stock and equipment prior to its demolishment, it yielded many relics of general trade as it was conducted two or more generations ago. Mrs. Leinbach says that also among the interesting keepsakes discovered in the safe were treasurer's books of the St. Olaf and Trinity Lutheran churches.

Hans Jacobson had served many years as treasurer of the former, when records were still kept in Norwegian; and Oscar was over a long span of years treasurer of the Trinity church.

Also in the safe was a dollar's worth of nickels that dated back to the Jacobson store's earliest years in business, some of them having been coined as early as 1891 and '92.

HUGH CLARKE WILL ATTEND SEED ASSOCIATION PARLEY

Hugh Clarke, Tomco executive, will attend the annual convention of the Iowa Seed Dealers association at the Savery hotel, Des Moines, on Thursday and Friday of next week.

This is the 58th annual convention of the association, of which Mr. Clarke is a current director. "The Seed Industry in a Changing Agriculture" is the theme of the 1960 meeting.

New year started by Toastmasters

Belmond's Toastmasters opened their 1960-61 meeting year Sunday evening with a Ladies Night at the city library basement. Including wives, guests and new members, 44 were present.

Sam Zickafoose of Ames, past area governor of the Toastmasters, was the major speaker and took as his topic, "The Magic Ingredient."

Rev. Richard Jackson of Rowan, who as a Belmond Toastmaster was winner of the state contest last spring, spoke on "The Value of Toastmasters."

President Dave Hallowell conducted the meeting and Keith Wiggins served as toastmaster for the speaking part of the program.

Accepted as new members were Don Lancaster, Darrell Staley, Gerald Kintzi and Hugh Witham.

First regular Toastmasters meeting of the new season will be held tomorrow (Friday) at 7:00 a.m. at the Town House cafe.

Mayor proclaims coming Saturday Poppy Day here

Mayor L. T. Trafford has proclaimed this Saturday, Sept. 24, as Buddy Poppy Day in Belmond to spur the annual sale of the memorial flowers by the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

His proclamation reads:

"Whereas: VFW Buddy Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans, and

"Whereas: the basic purpose of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies of the VFW is eloquently reflected in the desire to 'Honor the Dead by Helping the Living,'

"Therefore: I, Mayor L. T. Trafford of the City of Belmond, do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies."

COX TO HEAD BOARD

Luin Cox was elected president of the Belmond Community School district board of education as that body reorganized for the 1960-61 school year. The directors met at the Goodell elementary school Monday noon. Carl Green was reseated as a member of the board, after his reelection Monday of last week. Mrs. Al Mennenga was retiring president of the board.

RUBINOFF AT CLARION

Clarion Lions club is sponsoring a popular concert by Rubinoff, famed violinist, at the Clarion High school auditorium next Thursday at 8:15 p. m. The concert is serving as a benefit to help the Lions raise money towards a $1,500 pledge made by the club toward construction of an addition to the Clarion Memorial hospital.

Rites arranged for Mrs. Bishop

Mrs. Lillian Bishop, a native of this community and mother of Mrs. Vera Gaffri, died Tuesday morning at Good Samaritan Home in Mason City. She had been taken there for care three weeks ago.

Funeral services were arranged for 10:00 o'clock this (Thursday) morning at Johnston Funeral Home, Rev. H. A. McKinney officiating. Burial will be in the Belmond cemetery.

Mrs. Bishop was born here April 21, 1879. In addition to Mrs. Gaffri, she is survived by another daughter, Zola Trees of Des Moines, and a son, Lloyd Bishop of Rockwell.

Late not better than never

Only one lucky numberholder showed up Tuesday afternoon to enter a claim for a Cash Gift Day award—and she was more than an hour and a half late in meeting the required deadline. As a consequence, none of the $400 in prizes left the fold this week. The same sum in awards will be posted next Tuesday, divided as customary into eight $25 prizes at 2.00 p. m. and four $50's at 3:00 o'clock. Remember, claims must be made within five minutes after the hour.

Plan style show for next Tuesday

A fall style show will be held next Tuesday at 8:00 p. m. in the basement of the Methodist church under sponsorship of women of the Newcomers club. Members of various women's clubs and the women of the school faculty have been extended an invitation to attend.

Mrs. Jack Granzow, chairman of the committee planning the affair, adds that any women of the community will be most welcome to attend and are cordially invited to see the new styles on display.

Coffee and tea will be served at the conclusion of the revue.

Serving on Mrs. Granzow's committee are Mrs. Claire Hildman, Mrs. Robert Kellermann, Mrs. Hale Mason, Mrs. Les Classick, Mrs. Robert Wilson and Mrs. Dave Hallowell. Valuable assistance has also been received, Mrs. Granzow says, from Mrs. Rex Elphic and Mrs. John Greenlander, the club's sponsor.

Models chosen by local stores will show not only the latest in women's wear, but junior miss styles and boys and girls garments. Mrs. Laura Guthrie will fill the role of commentator as the apparel is modeled.

TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION

A demonstration of the new Case tractors in actual operation pulling four- and five-bottom plows will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. by Followwill Implement company on the Guy Baker farm a mile and a half north of Belmond. Followwill's issues an invitation to all farmers to witness their "Caso-O-Rama" under floodlights.

Republican women to meet and hear GOP candidates

Mrs. C. W. Sankey, president of the Wright County Republican Women's club, announces that the group's fall meeting will be held next Wednesday at 1:45 p. m. in the Fireside Room at the Methodist church at Clarion.

Jack Miller of Sioux City, candidate for the U. S. Senate, will be a guest speaker and will be heard promptly at 2:00 o'clock as he has another engagement following the Wright county meeting.

Curtis Riehm, Garner, candidate for Congress, is also to speak, as will R. W. Hagie, Clarion, candidate for Representative from Wright county.

Other county candidates and present officers are invited to attend as well as any others who are interested in meeting and hearing these candidates.

There will be special music and a tea served by the Clarion Republican Women's club. Mrs. Ray Hagie, president, is in charge of the arrangements.

It is hoped that Otto Knudson of Eagle Grove, chairman of the county central committee, will be present to conduct a pre-election workshop and question and answer period.

JACK MILLER

Appearances here set for next week by McManus, Coad

Two of the top Democratic candidates running for office in the November election will be visiting Belmond within the next few days to make the personal acquaintance of Belmond voters.

Edward J. McManus of Keokuk, present lieutenant-governor, who is opposing Norman Erbe of Boone for the governorship, will be in Wright county this Saturday morning and has Belmond on his itinerary for the day.

Next Tuesday, Congressman Merwin Coad of Boone will attend a series of Coffee-for-Coad parties being held in the county to further his campaign for reelection as U. S. Representative from the 6th district.

COAD

Kathy Dorr has made arrangements for the local Coffee-for-Coad to be held at the Blue Bell tea room between 3:00 and 5:00 p. m. Mrs. Coad will accompany him on his visit here and in his appearance at similar functions to be held at Clarion.

All Belmond women who would like the pleasure of meeting their incumbent Congressman in person and putting questions to him will be welcome at the coffee party during the hours designated.

Three similar affairs are scheduled at Clarion on the same day — at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Maxon from 9:30 to 11:00 a. m.; at the home of Mrs. R. B. Wilson, mother of the Democratic candidate for state representative from Wright county, from 1:30 to 3:00 p. m.; and at the home of Mrs. Howard Groves, 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Any women interested are cordially invited to attend any of these functions that might best suit their convenience.

George Comstock death attributed to heart attack

A post mortem performed Tuesday morning by Dr. Robert Eaton of Clarion, Wright county coroner, revealed that a heart attack was responsible Monday night for the death of George K. Comstock, 73, living three miles north of Belmond.

Mr. Comstock's body was found by Pete Daniels near the edge of a bean field about 4:45 a. m. Tuesday after a searching party had been called out to look for the elderly man. The sheriff's office had been notified about 1:00 a. m. that Mr. Comstock had been missing since going to the field at dusk Monday evening to pull some weeds from the soybeans.

Sheriff Bob Blecker called upon the Belmond police and fire departments and the Goodell fire department to supply men for the search party. Fog and extremely heavy dew made the search difficult.

Mr. Comstock had been making his home with his son Vernon for about the past two months, coming from Storm Lake. He was a native of Askhum, Ill., where he spent most of his adult lifetime as the manager of an elevator. He had been an elevator employee at Eagle Grove for about 10 years before his brief period of residence at Storm Lake.

Survivors in addition to his son Vernon include another son, Charles of Lake Mills; and a daughter, Mrs. Donald Hoechers, Kirkland, Wash.

Prayer service will be conducted by Rev. M. L. Jones at Johnston Funeral Home at 10:00 a. m. Friday. Funeral services will be held at Assembly of God church at Storm Lake at 2:00 p. m., with burial in Storm Lake's Memorial Park cemetery.

Roepke jury can reach no verdict

A hung jury resulted in the prosecution of Ormal Roepke, Eagle Grove mail carrier, in district court at Clarion last week on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, second offense.

When the jury was unable to reach a verdict, they so informed Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp about 10:00 o'clock Wednesday evening. On the jury from Belmond were Rita Schaal, Harm Braner, Warren Thompson and Lucille Mennenga.

Roepke was kept under $750 bond and the case has been reassigned for Oct. 24, during the next term of court. Whether or not the case will actually be retried, County Attorney Newt Draheim this week said he wasn't yet in a position to say.

Bliss book tells history of extension work

Dr. R. K. Bliss has presented to the Belmond city library a book which he has just had published by Iowa State university at Ames. It is entitled, "History of Cooperative Agriculture and Home Economics in Iowa — The First Fifty Years."

The volume bears the following dedication: "To Extension workers in Iowa and the many thousands of farm people who have given generously of their time and money, in furtherance of the education program."

In a foreword to the book, Floyd Andre, present director of the extension service, notes that Dr. Bliss for more than 30 years was director of the service.

"In writing this book," comments Dr. Andre, "Professor R. K. Bliss has performed an invaluable service to all persons interested in adult education — most especially those who are employed in Cooperative Extension work or may be preparing for a career in this field."

Dr. Bliss's research in preparation for writing the book emphasized the trail-blazing role that Iowa has played in the development of mass education among farm people. The author regards as particularly noteworthy an act of the first Iowa territorial legislature, which was passed in 1838 providing for incorporation of agricultural societies.

"The purpose of the act," Dr. Bliss observes, "was clearly to encourage and help farmers solve their problems through discussions, competitive exhibits and the wide dissemination of known agricultural information."

Another bellwether in the advance toward extension work as it is known today was establishment in 1903 — prior to organization of the extension service at the state college — of the Sioux County Farmers Institute at Hull.

The resolution creating the institute provided for the founding of an experimental farm and appropriated money to finance experiments in "the growing of cereals, grasses and vegetables." The institute was established due to doubt that crop experiments carried on at the college, 200 miles distant, would be closely applicable to problems existing in Sioux county.

Wright county and its citizens receive mention in Dr. Bliss' book in a variety of connections. For example, it is noted that Wright county played a key role in the creation of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation. Among the members of the first executive committee were A. J. Middleton of Eagle Grove and S. A. Barber of Kanawha.

The part played by Oliver H. Benson, creator of the 4-H emblem, in the development of boys and girls club work earns mention. Also the influence of Mr. Benson on Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, originator of extension demonstration work in the south.

Dr. Knapp, the book tells, became personally acquainted with Mr. Benson when the former came to Clarion to visit his son, Bradford Knapp, Belmond lawyer at the turn of the century who at this slightly later time was Wright county attorney.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

When the giant government dams that created the TVA were on planning boards, many a home that was dear to the hearts of those living in it was doomed to destruction.

That's the nub of the plot that makes "Wild River" (showing Thursday through Saturday) a highly dramatic movie. It was filmed on location in and around the village of Cleveland, Tenn.

"Wild River has pretty Lee Remick, Montgomery Clift and Jo Van Fleet at the head of its cast. Of course, the government wins out (when didn't it?).

If you're a Jerry Lewis fan, there will be no keeping you away from "The Bellboy," playing at the New Belmond next Sunday through Wednesday. Persons not so hep on Jerry might find the show worthwhile as a means of "getting inside" the fabulous Hotel Fontainebleau at Miami (takes dough to do it otherwise) — or see famed golf pro Cary Middlecoff miss a three-foot putt (thanks to Jerry's "help"). It's all comedy — gag-packed and laugh-loaded, Lewis-style.

● Belmond Locals

Mr. and Mrs. John French of Goldfield visited Sunday evening in the Arnold Nodland home.

Nell Hawley of Jefferson spent three days last week at the home of her niece, Mrs. Gene De Lancey.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen spent the weekend at Royal.

Osage froshmores manage 13-7 win

After outplaying the Osage froshmores on the ground by a wide margin Monday night, the BHS Junior Broncos had to settle for a 13-7 loss when a fumble on the two-yard line cost them a touchdown opportunity in the final seconds of the game.

Coach Jerry Kintzi was disappointed in the outcome, but well pleased with his team's general play. He singled out Raymond Roberts for particular praise, reporting that "Big Red" committed himself well on both offense and defense.

The Belmond boys did more to defeat themselves than the host Junior Imps did to earn the victory, according to Kintzi. Five times the Junior Broncs fumbled — and Osage snatched four of the bobbles. In addition to the crucial fumble at the close of the game, the losers lost the ball in the same manner one other time deep in rival territory.

Osage tallied first, notching its initial TD on a series of four consecutive passes. Belmond retaliated with a scoring drive that put Roberts over from the three and at halftime the Junior Broncs were in front 7-6.

The decisive marker for Osage came in the third quarter on a 30-yard sweep around right end.

Besides the two drives ended by fumbles, Belmond had another fizzle out on the Osage five-yard line when a penalty interrupted their progress toward the goal.

Forty seconds showed on the clock when the Junior Broncs earned a 1st-and-10 on the Osage 11. The next play advanced the ball to the two — but there Belmond's hopes were killed by the fumble.

Starters Monday night for Belmond were: Roberts, fullback; Randy Brandmeyer and Marlo Luick, halves; Dennis Hauge, quarterback; Dennis Gallagher and John Kaduce, ends; Sam Davis and Dick Kamm, tackles; Roger Meyer and Tom Lerdal, guards; and Steve Schroeder, center.

Next start for the Blue and White froshmores will be next Monday night at Garner. Game time will be 6:30 o'clock.

No. 4 of a Series PEOPLE MAKE IOWA GREAT

...the business man

To Iowa's business men, special recognition is due for the great part they are playing in this state's stable economy and growing prosperity.

Without the continuing investment these men are making in stores, factories, warehouses, and other facilities . . . and without their tireless efforts . . . we would not have the thriving communities of which all Iowa is so proud.

In this attractive Iowa business picture, the brewing industry plays a substantial role. It has over $62,500,000.00 invested in business facilities in Iowa . . . spends another $27,500,000.00 per year in general business expenses . . . and has Iowa payrolls of more than $30,000,000.00 per year.

Yes, for the solid advancement and prosperity of our home town communities, we all can say . . .

Belmond's Broncos gained revenge for their disappointing 12-7 defeat last season at Osage by trimming the Green Devil gridders here Friday night 21 to 14 after holding a 15-0 lead late in the third quarter. While neither team at this stage possesses the poise or depth of their counterparts of '59, they put on a rock 'em-sock 'em battle that was at no stage dull to watch.

Thanks to a 60-yard scoring attack by air in the closing moments of the game, the visitors made the final statistics about a stand-off. But the Broncos held the upper hand almost from the outset and had the game quite securely bagged before the Imps posted their first TD with 15 seconds left of the third quarter to make the count 15-7.

Osage returned the opening kickoff to its own 43 and advanced to the Belmond 23-yard line before the Bronco defense stiffened and took over the ball on downs. Belmond then marched 74 yards, to the Osage three-yard stripe, before a couple of losses brought the advance to a halt and the Green Devils gained possession on the 11.

An exchange of punts found Dennis Anderson — whose kicking was excellent throughout the fray — angling a well-placed boot out of bounds on the Imps' six. After a pair of short gains, Osage fumbled and Merrill Kalkwarf recovered just three yards from the end zone. Anderson was stopped inches short, and Jerry Jenison then tallied on a quarterback sneak. Anderson got the extra point on a placekick.

In the 5½ minutes of play remaining before halftime, neither team threatened.

Belmond opened the second half with a flurry. Vern Pastour returned the kickoff from his eight to the 40. The Broncos then pushed 47 yards, to the Imps' 13, before Jenison was dumped for a 12-yard loss on a pass effort and a punt was forced. Anderson kicked out on the Osage two-yard line and on the very next play a bad pass from center produced a safety that sent Belmond ahead 9-0.

Osage's required kick from the 20 sailed to Belmond's 38, where Anderson gathered it in and sprinted 34 yards back to the visitor' 28. Just 2½ minutes after they'd reaped the two points via the safety, the Broncos had their second TD. It came on six plays that had to cover 42 yards, since the series included a 14-yard loss. Anderson went through the right side on a 10-yard juant for the score. His kick for conversion was blocked leaving the count 15-0 with a bit under three minutes left in the third period.

That was enough time for the Green Devils to manage their first marker, though — with 15 seconds to spare. Starting from their 38 after the kickoff, they went all the way to the Broncs' 20 in one play, a pass from Steve Halbach to Dale Hemingson. After John Van Voorhis tallied from a foot out, Chuck Bowman slanted over for the extra point that shortened Belmond's lead to 15-7.

Neither team could make headway the early part of the final quarter. Getting desperate for time, Osage finally risked a 4th-down pass on its own 33 and Belmond got possession there when the toss was incomplete. Four plays later Jenison rifled a screen pass to Anderson and the fleet halfback skirted the Imps' right end, going 28 yards to score. His kick for point was smothered, but the 21-7 Bronco lead with a shade under 4½ minutes to go looked quite safe.

It was then that the Imps pulled out all stops as they went to the air and hit on six out of eight pitches by Halbach to move into the end zone with 12 seconds remaining. Bowman again plunged for the point after a 24-yard Halbach-to-Hemingsen aerial produced the touchdown. Osage stood no chance to get ahold of the ball again, and 21-14 remained the final score.

Coach Rich Koolbeck declared after the game that it was "very much a team victory." All the Bronco backs performed commendably. Bob Stadtlander and Mike Armour did yeoman service as linebackers and Bill Heinzig again pleased the coach with some good play at defensive end.

Tom Middleton, making his first varsity appearance of the esason, did very creditably. Bob Whipple and Merrill Kalkwarf also played a lot of football. As Koolbeck declared, "You start naming the boys who did well, who can you leave out?" Which indicated he was generally satisfied with all the performances.

Garner Cardinals here Friday night

Tomorrow night the Belmond Broncos will take on the Garner Cardinals on the local gridiron at 8:00 o'clock in a game of key importance to both teams. Each will be striving to keep its record for the season unblemished and to keep alive its not too solid hopes for the North Iowa conference championship.

With their decisive 40-0 clobbering of Forest City last weekend, the Britt Eagles made it clear that any team already defeated when it faces them is pretty apt to be sidelined as a title contender after their meeting with the Britt crew.

Duane Garman, in his first year as coach of the Cardinal varsity, has Garner off to one of its best starts in a handful of years. The Cards, with an even dozen lettermen in uniform, have trimmed Nora Springs and Lake Mills and will be looking for their third scalp.

Veteran Wally Elling quarterbacks a seasoned backfield that includes Don Cataldo, Roger Hayungs and Dick Rockwood, with Jack Pringle — a scatback junior — also available as a letter-winner from last year.

Garman's line has allowed only one score in the first two games, led by Bob Brede, one of the league's better defensive tackles.

Garner has exhibited the makings of a pretty fair passing attack, with Elling doing the throwing. In view of the fact that the Broncs' aerial defense hasn't been one of their strong points in their two starts to date, it's a reasonable expectation that Belmond will get a good opportunity to sharpen up this department of its game tomorrow night.

How 2 out of 5 feeders cut cost of producing pork $3.18 per 100 lbs.

Recent studies made by research workers from a leading Midwestern state college disclose that only 2 out of every 5 feeders are using enough supplement with their grains to make a balanced ration. If you are among the 3 out of 5 feeders who do not feed enough supplement, the results of this study can mean extra dollars in your pocket. Today — right now — you can take immediate steps to cut your cost of gain by as much as $3.18 when you take advantage of Purina's Check-R-Mix Service. See us today.

A simple turn of the Purina Check-R-Mixer dial gives these 2 farmers the latest research-proven formulas—suited exactly to their grains, and to their type of livestock and poultry. Check-R-Mix is today's scientific approach to low-cost production.

Fourth burglary prompts warning from B. Blecker

After a fourth farm burglary in two months' time, Sheriff Bob Blecker this week made an urgent request to rural dwellers of Wright county to please lock their homes when they plan to be away for some little time. He also recommends that either a yard light, a light inside the house, or both be lit before departure at night.

Latest farm home to be victimized by a burgler was that of Clair Meyer in Wall Lake township, 13 miles southeast of Clarion, which was visited last Saturday night. Mrs. Meyer was visiting friends in Clarion and her husband was away on a fishing trip.

Missing after the intruder's departure were two shotguns, two rifles, a pistol, about 15 boxes of shells and approximately $20 in cash. The house door had been left unlocked, Sheriff Blecker says, so entry presented no problem.

All of the recent farm burglaries have taken place in Wall Lake and Vernon townships, according to the sheriff.

He adds as another precaution that farm people might take to protect themselves against losses by burglary is to jot down the license numbers of any strange cars they see on the gravel roads in their vicinity — particularly unfamiliar vehicles seen at night.

MR. AND MRS. VERLYN FROHLING

Barbra Richsmann, Verlyn Frohling spoke vows at Osage on Sept. 11th

Miss Barbara Ann Richsmann, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert C. Richsmann of Osage, and Verlyn R. Frohling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frohling of Belmond, were united in marriage Sunday, Sept. 11, at 2:30 p m. at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Osage. Rev. Obert S Hoven performed the double-ring ceremony.

Baskets of mums and gladiola decorated the altar.

Mrs. Russell Ackroyd of Minneapolis, cousin of the bride, was organist. Mrs. Thomas Dougherty of Osage, sister of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer." She was accompanied by Marcia Olsen of Osage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin with a scalloped bateau neckline and basque waist. The long sleeves ended in bridal points at the wrists.

Her petal veil of pure silk illusion tulle was held by a crown of tulle with pearl trim. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings, a gift from the groom. Her bouquet was a crescent of yellow mums and pompons with ivy entwined.

Kathleen Richsmann of Osage, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a full skirted, street-length dress of brown organdy over yellow cotton satin with bell sleeves. She carried a cascade bouquet of white mums and pompons and wore a yellow satin picture hat.

Sharon Holland of Forest City was bridesmaid. She wore a full skirted, street-length dress of yellow organdy over brown cotton satin with bell sleeves. She carried a cascade bouquet of bronze and yellow mums and pompons and wore a brown satin picture hat.

Arlyn Frohling was his brother's bestman. Groomsman was John Sternberg of Traer. All the men in the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and white carnation boutonnieres.

Ushers were Jerry Frohling, brother of the groom, Larry Kinseth and Roland Lerdal.

The bride's mother wore a dress of rose beige lace over satin. Her corsage was a white feathered mum.

The groom's mother wore a two piece beige brocaded satin sheath dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was a yellow feathered mum.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Parish Hall for 200 guests. Host and hostess were Mr and Mrs. Lowell Olsen, Osage. Presiding at the guest book was Marilyn Richsmann, sister of the bride. In charge of the gifts were Mrs Harley Johnson of Osage, Mrs Richard Hawke of Nora Springs, and Mrs. Alfred McLaughlin of Belmond.

The three-tiered wedding cake trimmed in yellow was cut by Mrs. Carroll Rustad, Lyle, Minn., aunt of the bride, and served by Mrs. Robert Rustad, St. Ansgar. Presiding at the coffee service was Mrs. Lloyd Ruehlow, aunt of the bride, from Lyle, Minn. At the punch bowl was Mrs. Harold Rierson, aunt of the groom., Belmond.

Waitresses were Cynthia Richsmann of Osage, Nylene Greenlee of Shell Rock, Karen Bohning and Laural Holmgaard, both of Belmond.

For going away, the bride wore a cotton dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow pompons from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Osage High school and attended Iowa State Teachers college. She has taught at Mount Vernon and Belmond and is currently teaching at Tripoli. The groom is a graduate of Belmond High school and will be a senior at Wartburg college, Waverly.

After a short wedding trip to Minnesota, the newlyweds are at home at 610 Main street, Tripoli.

Marlin G. Mehl, Diana Dutcher wed in Sept. 3 ceremony at Stratford

Miss Diana Marie Dutcher of Fort Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Dutcher of Webster City, became the bride of Marlin Glenn Mehl of Belmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Mehl, in a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Robert Ruppert at Calvary Methodist church in Stratford on Sept. 3 at 7:00 p. m.

White gladioli were placed in the altar vases and the chancel was decorated with two baskets of white and orchid gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of lace and chiffon. A lace jacket fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves topped the strapless bodice of the gown. A wide cummerbund encircled the waist and emphasized the full skirt.

The bride's shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a crown of iridescent sequins. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations with white streamers and lavender pearls. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Serving as her sister's maid-of-honor was Nancy Dutcher of Webster City. She wore a waltz-length gown of sheer organdy. Floral sprays of orchid and green flowers were repeated on the bouffant skirt. The gown was fashioned with short sleeves and a fitted bodice.

MR. AND MRS. MEHL

The maid of honor wore a fitted crown of orchid satin and tulle and carried a colonial bouquet of white and orchid carnations with orchid streamers.

Gary Dean of Belmond served as best man. Ushers were Bill Metcalf of Clarion and Owen Flygstad, uncle of the bride, from Jewell.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony, with 40 guests present from Belmond, Clarion, Jewell, Stratford, Webster City, Dayton and Fort Dodge.

The serving table was covered with a white linen cloth. White tapers were placed in silver holders. The two-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and was trimmed with orchid bows, white wedding bells and orchid roses.

The cake was served by Mrs. Maurice Lindquist of Stratford, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Tom Greenwood of Belmond, sister of the groom, was in charge of the gifts. Serving assistants included Mrs. Gerald Banning of Belmond.

The bride is a graduate of Dayton High school and has been employed by the Fort Dodge Messenger, where she will continue to work. The groom is a Belmond High graduate and is also employed in Fort Dodge. The couple will make their home at 426 First ave. N. in Fort Dodge.

Mr. J. R. Gallagher

Belmond, Iowa

Dear Mr. Gallagher:

This letter is in reference to the editorials that appeared in the last issues of your local paper dealing with land retirement as a means by which we might or might not control all feed grain production in U. S. Agriculture.

I would like to comment on the question that you raise in the 5th paragraph "Can any conservation reserve program adequately fulfill its purpose if a fertile county like Wright places no more than one third of one per cent of its tillable land in the Conservation Reserve?"

I would prefer to answer this question outright before making substantiating comments. The answer is YES it would fulfill its purpose. We in Wright are not primarily interested in where the feed grain reduction is accomplished, but are interested in prices that we receive for the grain and livestock we sell that would be influenced by any reduction in production wherever in this country it may be accomplished.

This comment immediately brings forth the issue of what land (fertile, semi-marginal, or marginal) would be retired to most efficiently accomplish a reduction in production for the least expenditure of Federal funds. I realize that until just recently the opinions available were street corner opinions and as usual this kind of information only led to greater confusion.

I base my answer on the recent study at Iowa State college (Center for Agricultural and Economic Adjustment), which concluded that a larger number of bushels reduction for the dollar could be obtained by taking out low productive land as compared to high productive. This conclusion makes a land retirement program seem very workable and practicable.

I would like to further comment on other opinions you have brought forward in the editorial.

First: The word compulsion is only a nice substitute for a distasteful one. Force.

Second: Voluntary retirement is questionable only in your vision. One can only be optimistic when he studies the number of applications for retirement of land as compared to money available.

Third: You hasten to add an example that may or may not be relevant. Would you buy woodland today at $60-$80 per acre, clear it at a cost of from $100.00-$200.00 an acre and then take $12.90 per acre rent or less? It is as rough as you indicate the formula by which they arrive at rental value would be less than the national average and then the fact also remains that his bid to retire land must be lower than other competitive bids before he can qualify. In my estimation, this would be a pretty foolish investment, especially now when such a program isn't even on the books.

Fourth: Your final paragraph is only a summation of a completely misinformed motovation to add fuel to the fire of Agricultural Policy Confusion.

Sincerely yours,
Jack Burt

JOE TRIPLETT SEZ:

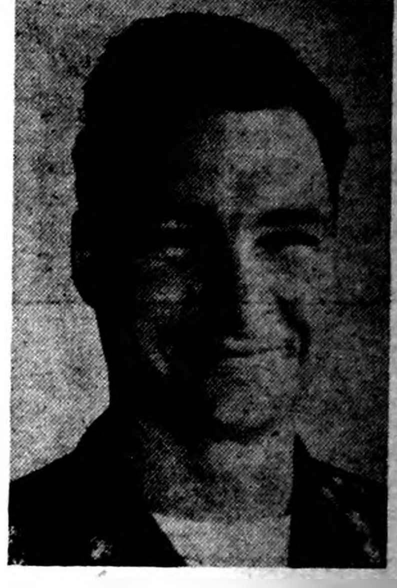
The first question you probably have is who is that handsome fellow? That's me. Oh! You mean the fellow in the other picture? Well, his name is Gene Black and he's the man who is going to take over the job as sales manager in the Belmond area. Gene is Ris-Van's plant manager at Belmond and is taking on the job of sales manager in addition to his other work. If you're looking for the best in fertilizer service he's the man that can get it done.

I want to take this opportunity to thank all of you fine folks who have done your fertilizer business with Ris-Van during the past year. It certainly made the bosses happy and when they're happy you know how I feel. It is through your business with this company during the past year that encouraged the powers-that-be to offer me the job of manager at our new plant at Jefferson, Iowa.

I know you will continue to give Gene the same consideration you have given me and I know he can give you the best service possible.

So, if it's prompt service for your fertilizer needs, call on Gene Black, and

Get RIS-VAN, Man!
... that's fertilizer!



GENE BLACK SEZ:

Well I don't suppose many of you folks paid much attention to what Joe Triplett "Sez" in the past. And you shure won't have to pay any attention to Joe from now on either, because Ris-Van shipped poor Joe off to the salt mines at Siberia last week. (More specifically, Joe was transfered to Jefferson, Iowa to take over some of the important duties of the Jefferson operation.)

When Joe left, he told me to take special care of everyone of his old customers and then after I had done that to try to "save" some of you other folks that Joe didn't get enough time to get around to. When we speak of "save" we mean save you from the BBB&C method(back breaking, bag carrying method of applying fertilizer).

One other thing which is probably most important is, that we have a new set of fall prices. These fall prices you will find, I'm sure, are very much to your liking. In the mixed liquid line we have reduced your cost to make a nice saving for you. Undoubtedly these prices will go up again in the spring as they always have in the past. So the time to fertilize your fields is now.

We have one more addition to the Ris-Van Inc.'s family of service trucks, in the form of a 7-row truck mounted potash spreader to take care of your 0-0-60 needs. This machine is now in operation and will be available to any of you folks who need 0-0-60 to balance your soil.

Don't forget our complete 10-day Ris-Van soil sample service. Our laboratory is now in fall operation.

So with the departure of Joe Triplett to Jefferson to make greener fields with Ris-Van, I will do my best to take care of your fertilizer needs, in addition to my duties of overseeing our shop down town and our manufacturing plant on west Main street. Just call 201 and ask for Gene Black or my home phone no. is 908 and you can bet you'll always hear me say

Get RIS-VAN, Man!
... that's fertilizer!

We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against wickedness in high places. —Eph. 6:12

Olympics proved peoples—if not nations—friends

As a general rule, we change the Bible verse in the heading of this column each week with the expectation that readership will likely achieve a fraction of one per cent. Just as a kid would not be likely to take regular doses of cod liver oil just for the good of his soul—without parental order—we suspect that few of our readers permit their eye to wander to the verse corner, voluntarily.

But if you're bothering to read the words here written, you're going to have to look at today's verse to get any sense out of this editorial.

It was just shortly after we'd copied the verse that we read "Sec" Taylor's column on the D. M. Register sports page and found the following quote from Rafer Johnson, the marvelous Negro athlete who won the Olympic decathlon championship.

Said Johnson: "I can't say about the rest of the athletes, but I feel the MOST IMPORTANT PART (the capitals are ours) of the Olympics was the first day, the opening ceremony. Regardless of all the other disputes we see in the world, at the parade of nations into the stadium we see everyone as friends."

That this friendship extended beyond the opening ceremonies was demonstrated continually throughout the games, as rival congratulated rival — regardless of the ideologies that their governments might represent.

What "wrestling" there was "against flesh and blood" during the 17th Olympiad at Rome was conducted on a basis of friendly, personal rivalry; and we're certain that the athletes present from all over the world must have gone home perplexed how such bitter animosities can exist between nations when the flesh and blood of those nations can find so much that is admirable and likeable in people who are supposed to be enemies.

The moral of all this lies, of course, in Ephesians 6:12. Which leaves us all the hope, at least, the friendliness that is natural to humankind will ultimately prevail over "the rulers of the darkness of this world."

Some rumination on the world of the funny papers

We intended to devote some space in this column this week to a stirring editorial condemning the part that religious prejudice appears destined to play in November's election. But a good Democratic friend of ours expressed dismay at the way politics has been monopolizing The Independent's editorial page in recent weeks, so we've decided to take a week off and concern ourself with other matters of import.

For instance, is Snoopy (of the daily comic, "Peanuts") going to stand up and fight the freeway steal of his doghouse site, or is he going to "chicken out" and let "the government" push him around without a scrap? Our concern has reached a state where a cry of "here come the bulldozers" would send US grasping for a security blanket.

We find less social significance in the current procedures in "Pogo," but believe Artist Walt Kelly could do the country a noteworthy service by bestowing on some political candidates of our knowledge the same affliction to which Ol' Bandicoot's housekeeper Martha is heir. Martha's voice, you know, fades to an inaudible whisper whenever she gets exited. Better yet, if her weakness could be visited upon some characters we know who bear such unlikely names as Krushchev, Lumumba and Castro and render THEM silent — what a blessing THAT would be!

As to social significance, we dwell in calm confidence that Rev. David Crane will soon be striking a telling blow in behalf of the down-trodden itinerant worker and that Dr. Rex Morgan will have the misled foes of innoculation trundling off to the nearest physician to accept a needle wherever it will do the most good.

It's worthy of note that Judge Parker's friend Oliver Towne (as of last Friday) appeared in interior settings TWO DAYS in a row without a drink in his hand. That he was calling on the judge in his chambers unquestionably provides the explanation, rather than any inclination of Cartoonist Dan Heilman to permit Oliver a wholly sober breath. (Or hadn't you noticed that Oliver's the heaviest toper who ever graced a comic strip?)

We've quit wondering how that Nature Boy in "Abbie An' Slats" acquired the well-fitting swim trunks that save him the need for a fig leaf. For a long time it bothered us, though. Since Tarzan is a linguist compared to this jerk, he couldn't have purchased them in a store; he'd have been clapped in the clink long before he got to one. . . . Oh, would that we still had the childish acceptance of yesteryear, when we didn't try to figure these things out!

For down-to-earth reality, "The Ryatts" are like a refreshing breeze on a muggy day. Their creator, Cal Alley, is a true biographer of the American family. He manages to capture each day without fail a capsule dose of family living that has never a foreign ingredient. And how much more entertaining are his bits of true life than the numbskull gooferies of Dagwood, the Bumstead family's fall-guy.

You can see that the concerns of our life are not limited to politics, better streets and getting out a newspaper once a week. We welcome the opportunity to put such mundane matters from our mind during the time each day it takes us to read the "funnies" — even if some of 'em AREN'T very FUNNY.

The "timer look" of Model T days

LISBON FALLS, MAINE

To us old tin-lizzie people, progress does seem to be baffling at times. The way my garageman turns and looks at me, as if I had just arrived from Lapland and asked him to shoe a reindeer, is what I call the "timer look." I don't remember when the timer ceased to be part of an automobile, and I can't remember what takes its place. I just know that my practiced old ear can listen to a motor and tell you when the timer needs tinkering, whether it has a timer or not.

I got the timer look again the other day when I drove in and told my garageman, "I'm shimmying!"

"Sure don't look so from this side," he said.

THE OLD TIN-LIZZIE USED TO shimmy. It was a recognized part of highway locomotion, and was caused by the informal nature of automotive construction. There was a thing underneath called the wishbone, and when it aggravated a clavicle, or something, the front wheels would wobble. On a good dirt road this would set you sidewise, and while the brakes were taking you'd go off into somebody's oat field.

Shimmying was caused by short takes and long stress in the steering department, and had a salutary effect in keeping the speed down.

WHEN MY FAIRLY NEW VEhicle, out of a clear sky, shimmied the other day and danced me sidewise into, hooray, an oat field, it was like meeting up with an old high-school classmate. Nothing like that had happened since 1923. I felt young again. With something of a fond, delighted expression I turned to my seatmate and said, "We shimmied!"

He said, "If you take a notion to rhumba, let me out."

And when I drove in to see my garageman and told him I had shimmied, he gave me the old timer look and said, "You got to have that new wheel balanced."

Now, this may be hard to believe, but I had a tire that kept people kept telling me it didn't have any hole in it. They'd say it was all right and put it back on, and the next day it would be soft. At length I looked over the man's shoulder while he was working on it, and I said, "They ain't no chube!" He explained that this was a tubeless tire.

SO I SAID TO THE MAN, "Well, if the rubber part is tight, maybe the steel rim leaks." He gave me the timer look, but he was kind enough to patronize me, and when we splashed some water on the rim — lo! the steel rim leaked!

I said, "Maybe we can squeeze in some Never-Leak."

He said I'd have to buy a new wheel. So I bought one, and after that I got the shimmy. And there is something about this which bothers me. The rubber industry has worked its head to the bone to develop a tubeless tire, and the automobile people have been going right along making wheels that need tubes. They've got the rubber tight, but metal is still porous. And having subscribed to this absurdity by buying the wheel, I'm back in 1923 shimmying all over the road.

SO WHEN HE SAID HE'D HAVE to balance the wheel, I said, "Do you mean you sold me a crooked wheel?" He gave me the look. The timer look. I'm so out-of-date. "Why didn't you balance it before you sold it to me?" I said. "You do it after," he said. So I got a tire with no tube, a steel rim that leaks, and then have to buy an unbalanced wheel. All the years of progress, and I'm no better off than I was in 1923.

He balanced me all right, and I refused to pay him. I told him to send the bill to the tire people, or the auto people, or somebody. I said it was time we automobile owners stood our ground. Lopsided rims, and who knows what?

HE SAID IT WASN'T LOPSIDed. And I said then why did you have to balance it? And he gave me the old timer look — that withering, pitying, disgusted look they always give me when I come in and say, "She's humping on the hills, you better titivate the timer."

Oh, he'll put it on the bill, all right. He'll get his money. But he knows better that to itemize it as "wheel balancing." I have a notion what the bill will say, all right, when it comes the first of the month. My whole foray against the tire, rim, and balance program will be reduced to: "To adjusting timer, $38.60." That, he knows I'll pay. — John Gould in Christian Science Monitor

U. S. "second rate"?

Senator Kennedy is calling this country "second-rate." He is ill-advised in this kind of a campaign position. It is not true.

It's difficult to believe the senator seeks to be president of a "second-rate" country, and it's difficult to believe that Kennedy actually believes what he is saying.

Such statements are political demagoguery of the worst kind. They give aid and comfort to Russia and shake the confidence in this country among our allies.

What would you think, as a citizen of another country if a senator aspiring to the presidency said his country was falling behind, was "second-rate"? Wouldn't you be uneasy about an alliance? — Algona Advance

SCANNING THE HORIZON

WITH YE ED

SIXTY YEARS AGO—

Ward Martin brought in to us last week some old newspapers he unearthed in clearing out the contents of a trunk. All dated back some 60 years ago, and included was a copy of The Iowa Valley Press issue of July 5, 1900. On its front page was a list of Belmond's commercial and civic assets of that day, which we believe would be of general interest. The item was headed . . .

What Belmond has

and then continued: "Did you ever think of the total number of business institutions in our city? Belmond has—" . . . and the list below followed . . .

3 Railroads
3 Banks
6 Churches
1 Graded School
3 Hotels
2 Drug stores
3 Hardware stores
2 Clothing stores
1 Shoe store
1 Grocery store
7 General stores
3 Millinery stores
3 Barber shops
3 Blacksmith shops
2 Wagon Shops
1 Implement house
3 Restaurants
2 Feed stores
3 Harness stores
2 Newspapers
1 Jewelry store
2 Livery stables
2 Meat markets
2 Furniture stores
1 Tailor shop
3 Lumber yards
4 Elevators
1 Photograph gallery
1 Creamery
1 Billiard hall
1 Variety Buffet
1 Cigar factory
1 Chinese laundry
1 Collection agency
1 Insurance agency
6 Physicians
5 Attorneys
5 Real estate dealers
6 Painters
6 Carpenters
2 Veterinary surgeons
A volunteer fire department
A fine system of waterworks
A gas light system

Considering that Belmond's population in that day was well under half of what it is today, that's an impressive list of commercial services and professional personnel. A moment's contemplation of the trade potential of a community with only a little over 1,000 population brings the emphatic realization that a dollar certainly HAD to go a whale of a lot farther back in those days than it does today.

ONE WENT ON TO GLORY—

On the front page of this issue of the Iowa Valley Press appeared the professional card of one Bradford Knapp, lawyer. Attorney Knapp outstripped all of his Belmond contemporaries in the amount of national prominence he went on to gain.

He was the son of Seaman A. Knapp, who for a brief time was president of Iowa State university (then Ames college). Another son of S. A. Knapp, Herman Knapp, was some decades later the acting head of ISU for a couple of years.

But to get back to Bradford, after several years of government employment in Washington, D.C., after his departure from Wright county, he became president of Alabama Polytechnical Institute (better known today as Auburn). He went on from there to become president of Oklahoma A & M and still later was president of a Texas institution of learning (we presume it was most likely Texas A & M, but we don't know).

BIG DAY IN BELMOND—

Occupying most of the front page of this July 5th issue of The Press was an advertisement of the 14th Celebration of the E.L. Tiede department store. This was one of north Iowa's major mercantile establishments of that day. The annual Anniversary Celebration was a gesture of appreciation for the past year's patronage.

That the occasion pulled remarkable crowds is testified by the fact the Mason City & Fort Dodge railroad (all stations from Eagle Grove to Thornton on what is now the Great Western) and all stations on the Iowa Central and Burlington railroad within a 50-mile radius of Belmond offered special excursion rates to Belmond for the celebration day of July 12.

Mr. Tiede hired a staff of 30 clerks to accommodate the throng of shoppers! Bargains galore were offered by every department of the store.

Entertainment to supplement the shopping spree included a free band concert in the afternoon by "the celebrated Carpenter's Harp Orchestra," a baseball game and a grand ball at the Opera House in the evening — with Carpenter's musicians again doing the honors.

Know your businessmen—

Saunders' By-Lo run to convenience customer

J. D. (Junior) Saunders in nine years as a Belmond grocer has succeeded in proving very conclusively that there IS a place in the commercial scheme of things today for the "family grocery" along with the super market. His By-Lo store is a type of business enterprise that has almost passed from the scene. But it is because it is not "typical" of the type that it continues to provide him and his family an excellent living in a day and age when the super market has virtually eliminated the "family grocery," by and large.

Junior acquired the location of his store in 1951, after four owners had come and gone in the preceeding five or six years without attaining sufficient success to justify remaining in business. Consequently, it seems evident that the present owner MUST be doing things a bit different.

For one thing, Junior had a dozen years of varied grocery experience behind him when he entered the business "on his own." A native of Hopkinton and a graduate of Lennox Junior college that used to be operated there, he'd gone to work for the Diamond Brothers grocery chain at the age of 21. During the last several years of his employment with Diamond Brothers he was a trouble-shooter, responsible for breathing the breath of life back into stores that had gotten in serious straights.

He came to Belmond in 1950 to serve that function. By installing new floor islands and introducing electric refrigeration in the store for the first time (it had up to then refrigerated with ice), he'd revived its business appreciably when the opportunity to obtain his present store arose.

With a place of his own, he had the chance to put into use a host of ideas he had as to how a "family grocery" might compete successfully with the modern super market.

He names the following as essentials: a home-like atmosphere and courteous treatment of all who enter the store; a clean appearance; well known name brands of merchandise; good service; low overhead expenses; and being in the store when the customer wants to buy.

Junior recalls that the first Sunday he was open, a well-meaning neighbor indignantly warned him that he would never make a success of his store remaining open on the Sabbath. He further recalls that three weeks later she was in the store as a Sunday customer.

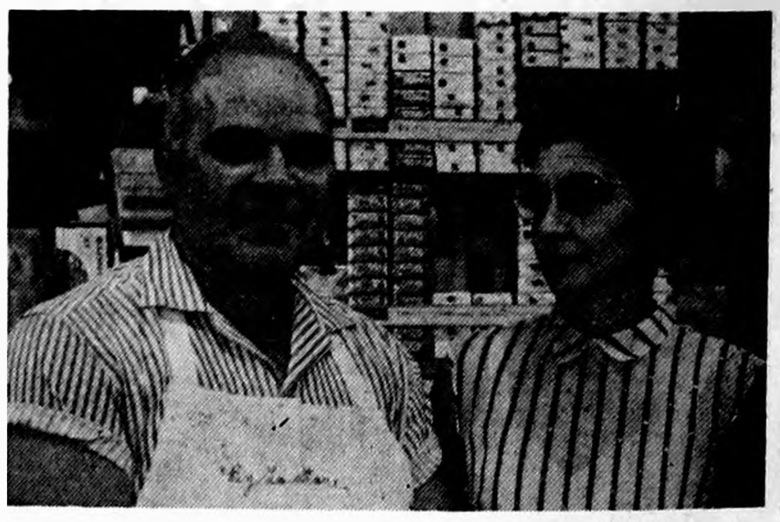
The By-Lo's hours are 8:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. during spring and summer; during fall and winter the closing time is an hour earlier; and the year around its door is open on Sunday from 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon. Junior closes Friday nights so he can take in the high school games.

"I can't stand idle moments," Junior says; and he makes it clear that he'd as soon — or a bit rather — be serving customers in his store as doing anything else he can think of.

He and his wife Gladys comprise the entire "staff" of the By-Lo. He gives her a generous share of the credit for the store's success.

It's with a big grin that Junior recalls the marathon romance that made him and Gladys husband and wife.

They had met very casually at a state creamery convention in Des Moines in '35. Though he was wholly unacquainted with her, Junior was attracted to the young lady at an adjacent table and cranked up his nerve to ask Gladys if she would dance with him.



JUNIOR, GLADYS SAUNDERS COMPRISE BY-LO "STAFF"

Their brief friendship was ended by separation and both subsequently were involved in unsuccessful marriages that concluded in divorce. Then came the war years, and while Junior was in Army uniform (he survived the Battle of the Bulge, in which he served as a litter-bearer and medical technician) he "got lonesome for mail" and on an impulse wrote to his chance feminine acquaintance of a decade earlier.

A regular correspondence followed for some time afterward, until mail "snafus" brought it to an end. This rivival of their friendship brought Gladys' name to his mind though, when Diamond Brothers assigned Junior to their Belmond store.

He wasted no time in phoning the girl who had so caught his eye 15 years earlier — and the acquaintanceship mellowed into a romance in relatively short order.

Contemplating the fact that only a few decades ago, Belmond had no less than eight groceries, Junior takes understandable satisfaction in the profitable survival of his business in this "super market age" that has seen the existing number of groceries pared to four — and two of those comprising a dual business.

GOP Has Expanded Welfare

Great advances have been made in social welfare under Republican policies to meet human needs. GOP programs, however, have been designed not to subsidize such activities, but rather to encourage greater individual, private, local and state participation while rejecting such schemes as socialized medicine.

Human problems were brought to the highest councils of government when Republicans established the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Social Security coverage was extended to 12 million additional persons, and benefits were increased. In 1959, there were 13,750,000 beneficiaries, a 174 per cent increase over 1952.

Since 1953, over $1 billion has been allocated to research aimed at finding and curing the causes of dread diseases.

The elderly have been aided, in addition to Social Security improvements, by liberal terms for housing financing, assistance in employment for elderly, increased vocational rehabilitation and by the program of the Federal Council on Aging.

ORDINANCE NO. 121

AN ORDINANCE CREATING A MEMORIAL PARK WITHIN THE BELMOND MUNICIPAL CEMETERY AND PROVIDING THEREFOR.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BELMOND, IOWA:

Section 1. Purpose. The purpose of this ordinance is to create a Memorial Park within the Belmond Municipal Cemetery: to provide that flat markers which are flush with the ground shall be used therein, instead of monuments and gravestones; and to seek the appearance of a park or garden therein, rather than the more somber impression created by the conventional cemetery.

Section 2. Extent and Scope of Memorial Park. All of the cemetery lots included within that area heretofore known and designated as FOURTH ADDITION to the Belmond Municipal Cemetery shall be included within and shall be subject to the regulations applicable to Memorial Park, and shall hereafter be known and designated as MEMORIAL PARK of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery.

Section 3. Baby Land. All of Block No. 95 of MEMORIAL PARK is hereby set aside as "BABY LAND" and the only burials that will be permitted upon this area in MEMORIAL PARK will be the bodies of babies under the age of one year.

Section 4. Purchase Price of Cemetery Lots. The purchase price of cemetery lots within MEMORIAL PARK of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery shall be in accordance with the following schedule:

Full Lots	$250.00 each
Half Lots	$160.00 each
One-fourth Lots	$100.00 each
One Gravesite Lots	$60.00 each
Baby Land Lots	$25.00 each

Fees for perpetual care of all lots hereafter sold are included in the above schedule as follows:

Full Lots	$100.00 each
Half Lots	$60.00 each
One-fourth Lots	$35.00 each
One Gravesite Lots	$15.00 each
Baby Land Lots	$10.00 each

Section 5 Bronze Tablets Permitted. Monuments or stones of any kind, or enclosures, shall not be permitted on the graves in MEMORIAL PARK. Only bronze tablets shall be allowed and they must be set level with the ground at the head of each grave. The foundation must be placed under the supervision of and as directed by the superintendent. No markers may be set to embrace two or more lots, nor shall double markers be permitted, nor shall two or more inscriptions be permitted on one marker unless specifically permitted by the city council at the time the sale of the plot is made.

Section 6. Standard Specifications. The following standard specifications are directed to the notice of manufacturers of bronze grave markers intended for placement in MEMORIAL PARK of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery. All markers or tablets are subject to the approval of the superintendent prior to placement, and acceptance or rejection shall be based upon the specifications contained herein.

1 SIZES AND DIMENSIONS.

A. Outside dimensions including flange

(1) Small - twelve inches by twenty-four inches (12"x24")

(2) Large - sixteen inches by twenty-eight inches (16"x28")

B. Sloping flange.

(1) Width - two inches (2") on both large and small markers.

(2) Height of flange edges - not less than 3/8".

(3) Thickness of metal - not less than 3/16"

C. Attachment bolts.

(1) Six bronze attachment bolts on back face of each marker.

(2) Diameter - not less than 5/16".

(3) Exposed length - not less than 3".

(4) Must be deformed for concrete setting.

(5) Bolts may be case integrally or attached by screw, threading not less than 3/8", in cast lugs on back of casting.

2. MATERIALS

A Standard of quality - Bulletin No. 172-A of the U. S. bureau of standards on the subject of statuary bronze.

(1) Proportions of materials as follows 88% of copper, 10% of tin, 2% of zinc (a variation not exceeding 3% is permissable on each above material providing a minimum of 2% zinc must be used);

all virgin metals must be used and mixed to a uniform alloy at proper temperature.

No other alloys of metals or combination of materials acceptable.

3. DESIGNS

A. Standard designs.

B. Other than standard designs.

(1) Subject to approval by superintendent before placement.

4. CRAFTSMANSHIP

A General requirements.

(1) Markers shall be free from sand holes, pits and/or other imperfections which mar the appearance of and/or impair the usefullness and stability of the finished marker

(2) All ornaments should be clean and sharp and all edges true and accurate to the standard dimensions defined herein.

B Lettering

(1) Lettering shall be carefully spaced and accurately set in line, both vertically and horizontally.

(2) Names and dates, inscriptions and emblems shall be arranged so as to result in an artistic and neat-appearing plate

(3) Style of lettering to be, preferably, round-faced classic, V-shaped classic, or flat-faced classic. Other styles of lettering subject to approval.

5 FINISH

A. General requirements.

(1) Castings shall be free from scale, sand, pinholes and pits.

(2) All ornamentation, face of letters and background shall be hand-chased and tooled and burnished appropriately for a memorial tablet.

(3) Matching of approved color and texture, as per sample marker, shall be done by oxidizing and application of clear lacquer.

(4.) No colored lacquer or lacquer carrying pigment shall be used.

Section 7. Benches, Chairs, Settees, Urns and Vases. The placing of benches, chairs, settees, urns and vases in MEMORIAL PARK of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery shall be subject to the approval of the superintendent.

Section 8. Trees, Shrubs, Flowers, and Other Plantings. No trees, shrubs, flowers, or other planting on any lot or gravesite within MEMORIAL PARK of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery shall be permitted, except such as shall be placed thereon by the City of Belmond, Iowa.

Section 9. Other Ordinances and Regulations. All ordinances, rules and regulations of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery with reference to improvements on lots, monuments, head stones, markers trees, shrubs, flowers, and other plantings, inconsistent with this ordinance are inapplicable to, and do not apply to cemetery lots within MEMORIAL PARK of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery. All other ordinances, rules, and regulations of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery and amendments thereto, except only as modified herein, shall apply to all cemetery lots within the said MEMORIAL PARK.

Section 10. Restrictions In Cemetery Deeds. All plots in MEMORIAL PARK, of the Belmond Municipal Cemetery, shall be sold by the City of Belmond, Iowa, and accepted by the purchasers thereof subject to the restrictions provided in this ordinance. The requirements of this ordinance shall be contained in the deed to each plot in said MEMORIAL PARK, or made a part thereof by reference. The cemetery deed and the provisions of this ordinance, and any amendments thereto, shall be the sole agreement between the city and the plot owner.

Section 11. Penalty. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in a sum not to exceed One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment in jail not to exceed thirty days.

Section 12. When Effective. This ordinance shall be in force and effect after its passage and publication, as provided by law.

Passed, Ordained, and Adopted by vote of the City Council in regular session this 12th day of Sept., 1960.

VOL. 41 NO. 52 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, SEPT. 29, 1960 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

9-26-85

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Knowing that the No. 3 Mainstreeter would get much more of a kick out of witnessing the coming of Kennedy to Fort Dodge last Thursday than Ye Ed would derive, the front Mainstreeter yielded his press privileges at the Democratic clam bake to Duane Anderson. The reality of those privileges exceeded "Andy's" fondest hopes.

He found his press badge an "open Sesame" that won him freeway among the biggest of the big-wigs.

Prior to the Demo hopeful's speech at the airport, "Andy" had the opportunity not only to shake the Senator's hand, but a chance to chat with him in a small group of no more than four or five persons. Now Duane's looking hopefully to the day when he can tell his grandchildren (he says) that he shook the hand of a president.

Handsome Ed McManus, the likeable young Democratic candidate for governor, was in Belmond last Friday afternoon — about 12 hours in advance of his advertised appearance. Schedule changes due to bad weather caused him to miss his planned tour of Wright county on Saturday morning.

Ye Ed hesitatingly introduced the distinguished visitor to "Office Girl" Louise Johnson when he stopped in at the Independent office. We explained to Louise that we were fearful that the guy's good looks were apt to win feminine votes, regardless of the political affiliation of females exposed to his charm.

Duane Anderson substantiated our misgivings when he informed us that Mrs. A. had told him. "Given a choice of seeing a Rock Hudson movie or attending a political rally featuring the youthful good looks of Jack Kennedy and Ed McManus, I'd take the rally any time!" Pretty sneaky of those Democrats to spike their vote-seeking efforts with sex appeal, seems to us.

In the story on the Belmond-Garner football game, Ye Ed expresses curiosity as to what Coach Rich Koolbeck had to say to the Broncos at halftime that got them to bucking so viciously after the intermission. Subsequently, we found out. After expressing his disapproval of their first-half performance in no uncertain terms, Rich disgustedly vowed he'd move for changing the school colors from blue-and-white to pink-and-white if that was the best his gridiron charges could do. The insult fell on fertile ground! Last half statistics: scoring — Belmond 13, Garner 0; first downs — Belmond nine, Garner three; yards gained — Belmond 143, Garner 44!

Well, Broncos, we see that Sports Editor Jim Van Heel of the M. C. Globe-Gazette is at his alphabetical belittlin' again. Last basketball season we called Jim to task for listing Osage always ahead of Belmond in the North Iowa conference standings, when the two teams were tied on games won and lost. Jim, whose astuteness as a sports scribe we admire (in most cases), explained that he places his teams in league standings according to superiority in case of ties.

This week, with three NIC teams boasting 2-0 records to date, Jim has 'em ranked in this order — Britt, Belmond, Buffalo Center. According to United Press - International state ratings, guess Jim's right — for the Britt Eagles this week were ranked the 10th best team in Iowa high school football.

Incidentally, the Broncos thus far this season have not met a team that had a blemish on its record up to the time it met Belmond. Buffalo Center, tomorrow night, will be the fourth in a row. If we can get by the Bison, Britt will be No. 5. Incidentally, last winter friend VanHeel finally was obliged to reverse the Osage and Belmond positions when the Broncos handed the Imps a real lacing in their second meeting. Let's get by Buffalo Center; then think about THAT!

WHAT PAPER D'YA READ? It makes a lot of difference, when a football game's the subject of discussion. When Northwood-Kensett played unhappy host to Buffalo Center Friday before last, losing 14 to 6, the Northwood Anchor put a three-column head on the write-up . . .

N-K Vikings Beat Bisons
. . . Except in Touchdowns

Then the Anchor reported: "The Vikings were ahead in almost every department except the score." The Buffalo Center Tribune's comment? "A fine display of teamwork and good, solid blocking and tackling by the entire squad turned the tide in favor of the Bison." H-m-m!

Randall Klemme, as vice president in charge of industrial development for the Northern Natural Gas company, laid it on the line for the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting last Friday at Hotel Savery.

We understand he gave what he calls his "Belmond speech" — at least in part — holding up his home town as an example of the small town's attraction for industry.

Compared to the rest of the nation, Iowa hasn't done so well over the past half century in holding its own populationwise, and Randall blames apathy toward industry for this state of affairs. Answer? Time, hard work and money.

In this week's issue of The Independent is inaugurating a series of weekly reminders to readers of this newspaper that their voting franchise is a precious possession and should be used. These reminders will appear at the top of the front page, adjacent to the "flag" or name-plate. Some of them will take the form of a brief verse, supplied to us by Ella Luick Bliss. The first of these is published today. Read . . . think . . . and VOTE!

• • • • • •

Jenison now on rural route—

Townsan named acting postmaster

T. A. "Ted" Townsan was notified last Thursday of his appointment as acting postmaster of the Belmond post office and the same afternoon was sworn in by a postal inspector from Des Moines, W. R. Ludtke.

On the following day George Jenison the retiring postmaster, undertook new duties as rural carrier on Route 1, east of Belmond, a post to which he had been appointed on June 27. The route had been vacant and was being serviced by a substitute from the time of Ed Tracy's retirement as the regular carrier about three months earlier.

Mr. Jenison's transfer to the carrier job had been held up until such time as an acting postmaster could be obtained to relieve him.

On March 1 of next year, Mr. Townsan was due to retire as a General Mills employee here. He was the first local employee hired by General Mills, since he was serving as warehouse superintendent for the American Crystal Sugar company of Mason City when GMI bought the former sugar plant here in October of 1943. The building here had for the prior 13 years been used by the sugar concern as a storage warehouse, only.

Ted continued as warehouse superintendent for General Mills, and it was that position he surrendered when he accepted the acting postmastership. A native son of Belmond, Ted was an employee of the American Crystal Sugar company and its predecessors here from 1923 until he became a member of the General Mills staff.

Mr. Townsan stated in making application for the acting postmastership that he has no interest in filling the position by permanent appointment. Because of the imminence of the national election, there was no possibility of gaining action in the U. S. Senate on a permanent appointment to the postmastership after Mr. Jenison announced his resignation.

As matters stand, Mr. Townsan will fill the post until the outcome of the November election has determined which political party will be making recommendations for filling post office vacancies during the ensuing four years. At that time the alternatives will exist of recommending a present member of the post office staff, if an employee of the proper political faith is interested in the postmastership; or conducting a civil service examination to ascertain the top candidates on a competitive basis.

Counter hours shortened to speed PO deliveries

A minor reduction in post office hours to the end of improving mail delivery service was announced this week by Acting Postmaster T. A. Townsan. Effective the first of next week, counter service will be suspended Monday through Friday at 5:00 p. m., instead of being available until 6:00 o'clock.

This action was taken on the earnest recommendation of Postal Inspector W. R. Ludtke of Des Moines, who said the Belmond post office is the last in this part of the state to continue counter service until 6:00 p. m.

Mr. Townsan says that, in reality, patrons of the post office will benefit by the change in hours. For one thing, mail dispatch via the 5:05 p. m. star route truck to Mason City and the 5:25 star route from Garner to Webster City will be more generally assured if mailings precede the 5:00 o'clock closing hour.

Mail making these connections will be assured prompter delivery than if placed in the slot later, requiring dispatch via the Great Western night trains. He pointed out, however, that the post office lobby will remain open until 6:00 p. m. and mail posted too late to make the star routes will still go out on the night trains if in the post office by 6:00 o'clock.

Manpower that has been required to provide counter service during the last hour of the afternoon can, under the new arrangement, be reassigned to early morning hours. This will permit faster handling of mail on hand to go out on the local and rural routes and expedite the start of daily deliveries.

The Saturday post office hours of 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon will remain unchanged.

Meeting of Hagie, Wilson scheduled

Under auspicies of the Clarion Junior Chamber of Commerce, the opposing candidates for state representative from Wright county — Ray Hagie, Republican, and Richard Wilson, Democrat — will appear next Tuesday in a face-to-face discussion of state political issues. Their meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. at the community room of the First National bank at Clarion.

After being introduced to the audience, each candidate will have an opportunity to comment on his plans, if elected. The major portion of the program will be comprised of a question and answer period during which each candidate will be queried specifically on current issues.

A moderator will pose the questions from a list that will be submitted to both men in advance of the meeting, to provide time for research if desired.

The Clarion Jaycees are sponsoring this program as a part of their community political activities project and cordially invite all voters to attend. Refreshments will be served at the program's close.

Other opposing candidates for office in Wright county have been invited to be present with the promise that they will be given equal time to air their views.

Series of clinics for immunization set up by school

Annual immunization clinics for the local schools will start on Thursday of next week, according to School Nurse Alta Gabrielson. Completing the schedule will be later clinics on Wednesday, Nov. 2, and Thursday, Dec. 1.

Shots to immunize against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus will be administered; also vaccinations against smallpox.

Youngsters who have not previously been immunized will take the full series of shots, says Mrs. Gabrielson. Children who require booster shots only, need report to only one of the clinics.

Booster shots are advised every five years; also, re-vaccination against smallpox. The serum and vaccine are administered only with parental consent.

The clinics will be conducted at the nurse's office in Ramsay Elementary school. Mrs. Gabrielson points out that tots attending the afternoon kindergarten class will have to be brought to school especially to obtain their shots, as the clinics start at 9:00 a. m. and likely won't extend over 1½ hours.

Rural Chest sets goal of $7,500

The Wright County Rural Community Chest held its organization meeting at Hagie's conference room in Clarion on Monday night of last week, with good attendance.

Gerhard Thompson of Belmond, president, took charge of the meeting. The goal for 1960 was set at $7,500.

The drive will be held the last week in October, as usual. There will be the kick-off meeting on Oct. 17th. Agencies that will receive appropriations are:

Sister Kenny Foundation, Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation (Iowa chapter), American Red Cross.

Also, Mental Health Association of Iowa, Wright County Association for Mentally Retarded Children, American Social Health Association, Community Welfare and Operating Fund.

Republicans will conduct census

Next Monday through Wednesday the scene above will be repeated in many Belmond households as Republican women conduct a block-to-block census in behalf of their party. They not only wish to obtain an accurate nose-count of Republican inclined voters, but to learn what voters may need rides to the polls or baby sitters in order to cast their ballots on Nov. 8.

In more than a few homes will be found first-time voters, such as Gary Gabrielson (right), who is being shown some Republican literature by Mrs. Paul Rietz, one of the block workers. Gary reached his 21st birthday in August of last year, so he will be participating in a national election for the first time this fall.

Also interested in Mrs. Rietz' words, though she'll not be able to vote until 1962, is Gary's 19-year-old wife Charlotte. But the young couple's four-week-old son, Randall Scott, from the crook of his mother's arm leaves it apparent that his concern with national politics is still a good many years away.

Fine setting; plot loused up

Bright sunshine, Indian Summer weather, good-sized crowd. The setting was perfect Tuesday afternoon for peeling off a whole fistful of Cash Gift Day greenbacks. But the script was completely loused up by Lady Luck, who neglected to get any of the possessors of winning numbers downtown where they could cash in on their good fortune. Not a cent of the $400 in prizes was disturbed — with the result that the whole bundle will be there for picking again next Tuesday. Same number of awards available: eight of $25 each at 2:00 p. m. and four big ones of $50 apiece at 3:00 o'clock.

Church plans special services—

Methodists will mark 100th anniversary

BISHOP ENSLEY
To preach morning sermon

It was just 100 years ago this fall that the Belmond Methodist church was organized with a membership of five persons — Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Overacker, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Jenison and Elizabeth Connell. That occasion will be recalled next Sunday with a 100th anniversary observance, special services being planned for morning, afternoon and evening.

Highlight of the respective services will be: morning — sermon by Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of Des Moines; afternoon — a pageant, "The Church through One Hundred Years," written by Ella Luick Bliss; evening — "Tidings from the Congo," delivered by Missionaries Don and Mary Collinson, formerly of Belmond.

Hour of the morning service will be 10:30 o'clock; the afternoon, 2:30 o'clock; and the evening, 7:00 o'clock. All will be presided over by Rev. M. L. Jones. Rev. C. R. Buckwalter of Fort Dodge, superintendent of the Fort Dodge conference of Methodist churches, will read the morning Scripture.

Special music for the occasion will be presented by the church's chancel choir, Wesley and junior choirs, directed respectively by Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Maurice Jones and Mrs. Ernest Doeringsfeld. Organ and piano music will be provided by Mrs. Paul Jenison and Mrs Ronald Courson. A marimba medley by Mrs. Doris Bailey Schwinger of Cedar Rapids will be a highlight of the afternoon service.

Built first church in '74

An unusual feature of the morning service will be the baptism of Jeffrey Merrill Jenison, infant son of Mr and Mrs. Merrill Jenison of Clarion, and David Paul Jenison, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Jenison of Des Moines, both direct descendants of the co-founders of the church, Mr. and Hrs. J. B. Jenison.

It was in 1874 that the Methodists built their first church, which was supplanted three years ago by the beautiful house of worship that the membership now occupies. The original structure was remodeled several times before it was replaced It still stands at First street and Third avenue NE, where it has been converted into an apartment house.

Initial cost of the original church was $3,794; that of the new church, which was dedicated just three years ago this coming Sunday, some $150,000.

70 in first Sunday School

When the first Sunday school was organized in 1878, it had an enrollment of 70. The Sunday school enrollment has since grown to 433, and the church membership from its original five to approximately 530.

John Connell was minister of the pioneer church organization, 100 years ago. Then known as the Belmond Mission, it shared its pastor with Otisville (now Dows) and the village of Liberty, near Goldfield.

What was known as the Belmond Circuit was established in 1878, which included Amsterdam, Hickory Grove and Liberty, in addition to Belmond. In 1919 Belmond became half of a joint charge with Alexander. It was not until 1925 the Belmond Methodists had a wholly independent pastoral unit. Between 1860 and 1938, 40 ministers served the local congregation.

The first parsonage was built in 1878 and was replaced in 1915 by the present parsonage, the cost of which was $4,000.

Ground broken May 6, 1956

Plans for the present church were initiated in August of 1955, the official board going on record at that time in favor of undertaking the project. The actual drive for funds was inaugurated on Nov. 10, 1955, pledges on the first night of soliciting coming to $53,000 and by the end of the year amounting to $123,000.

Ground-breaking for the new edifice, for which A. H. Hattendorf of Ocheyedan was the designer and builder, took place on May 6, 1956 and the cornerstone was laid on July 29 of the same year.

Always alert to its responsibilities in regard to worldwide missions, the Methodist church developed heightened interest in the mission field when two of its own members, Don and Mary Collinson, undertook special training and then became agricultural missionaries in the Belgian Congo in 1955.

Public welcome extended

They and their daughters, Virginia, Susan and Kristin, the latter born Aug. 31, are scheduled to return in December to the same African mission station the Collinsons left on furlough in August of last year. The state of rebellion that has prevailed in the Congo since it was given its independence some few weeks ago has not deflected the dedicated couple in their resolve to resume their duties among the people they had come to know so well.

People of Belmond who are not members of the Methodist church are extended a cordial welcome to attend any or all of the special services planned in celebration of the 100th anniversary.

• • • • • •

Hunt carried on for hold-up pair

Law enforcement authorities of Wright county were assisting Franklin and Cerro Gordo county officers Tuesday and Wednesday in pursuing a pair of young bandits who held up a Dows business place Tuesday morning.

Wanted were Larry Dean Stilman, 20, and his half brother, James Gobeli. An all-night search Tuesday failed to turn up the pair.

Warrants were out for the arrest of Stilman on charges of armed robbery and auto theft and a "John Doe" warrant aimed at Gobeli charged armed robbery.

The fugitives are wanted for investigation regarding the hold up of the Cozy Corner service station and grocery store at Dows, where two culprits took about $95 and some checks from Mrs. Norman Ericson Tuesday morning.

Wife of the store proprietor, Mrs. Ericson told officers that one of the bandits pointed a gun at her five-month-old daughter Marla, lying in her crib, when the mother scolded the hold-up pair for "stupidity."

Car thefts at Mason City and from a farm south of Clear Lake were tied in with the hold-up. According to Mason City authorities, Stilman is currently on parole for a law violation in California.

First of the cars thought stolen by Stilman and his young accomplice was owned by Tom McNider of Mason City. The second, used in conjunction with the hold-up, belonged to Arthur Gattridge, Clear Lake farmer.

Stilman has been in several previous scrapes with the law. The Franklin county sheriff's office says that Gobeli, insofar as that office's records show, has never been charged with a crime.

ATTENDS D. M. MEETING

Lois Hammond attended a meeting Saturday of the Iowa State Association of State, County and Municipal employees at Des Moines.

ICA assigning Roger Leinbach to post in Iran

Roger W. Leinbach of Rockwell City, Calhoun county extension director for the past three years, has accepted a position with the International Cooperation Administration (ICA), which will take him to Iran.

A native of Belmond and brother of Dr. S. P. Leinbach, Roger is well known to many persons in Belmond.

He is scheduled to go to Washington, D. C., Oct. 16 for an orientation course that will prepare him for his duties that will involve introducing new agricultural methods in Iran.

His wife will accompany him abroad and their son Kent, now a student at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, will join them in Iran next summer.

BAKE SALE SATURDAY

The Rebekah lodge will hold a bake sale Saturday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the P&G Grocery.

RIETZ TO CONVENTION

Dr. P. A. Rietz is one of about 100 members of the Iowa Optometric association scheduled to attend that group's third annual contact lens seminar set for Sunday and Monday at Des Moines.

Ellis Smith talks cold turkey (eggs)

Ellis Smith, doing business as Ellis Smith Turkeys, filed a suit in district court at Clarion last Saturday asking judgment from the Railway Express agency for damage done to a shipment of turkey eggs handled by the express company in March of last year.

In his petition, Mr. Smith advised the court that he had received by express on March 17, 1959, a shipment of 28 cases of turkey eggs valued at $2,350.

The weather was cold at the time of their scheduled arrival and the door to the heated office of the CGW railroad was left open in order that the perishable eggs would not have to be left in the unheated freight room. However, the eggs were not placed where they would keep warm.

According to the plaintiff he picked up the cases, which had been shipped from McMinnville, Ore., as soon as the depot was open at 8:00 a. m. The night train had delivered them at the station at 1:39 a. m.

Mr. Smith claims that the fertility of over half of the eggs was destroyed by their exposure to cold and asks a settlement of $1,373.19, plus interest since claim for that amount was made May 14 of last year, and court costs.

22 at Lutheran teacher institute

Twenty-two delegates from the three Lutheran churches here attended a teachers institute held Sunday at the Thor Lutheran church.

Representatives from St. John's Lutheran church were: Rev. William Heinzig, Mrs. Pete Kalkwarf, Mrs. Robert Kalkwarf, Mrs. Ernest Kalkwarf and Mrs. Harm Sandman.

Delegates attending from Trinity church were: Mrs. Al Mennenga, Mrs. Jens Johnson, Mrs. Ed Reasoner, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dorenkamp, Mrs. Gerald Banning, Mrs. Francis Morris, Mrs. Herbert Hill, Mrs. Earl Sheller, Mrs. Arlotte Clark, Mrs. Silas Sampson, Mrs. Sid Swenson and Gladys Eliason.

St. Olaf church was represented by Mrs. Chester Hill, Mrs. Elmer Gabrielson, Mrs. Gerhard Thompson and Mrs. Clarence Johnson.

JENISON NOW AT D. M.

After completion of training at the Remington-Rand business machine school at Ilion, N. Y., Marlin Jenison has now been assigned to Des Moines, where he and Mrs. Jenison are now making their home. Marlin will be responsible for maintenance of Remington-Rand computors in the home office of the Hawkeye Insurance company.

Woman hurt en route to wedding given $7,480 damages by jury

An award of $7,480.25 was made to the plaintiff by a district court jury last Saturday at Clarion in the case of Doris N. Cappola vs. Ernest Feller and Robert J. Feller. This suit grew out of an accident that occurred May 2 of last year when some Des Moines students of the former Betty Clare Henderson came to Belmond to witness her marriage to James E. Houser.

Mrs. J. W. (Doris) Cappola was driving with her daughter Bobbye and five of her teen-age classmates in the car when a truck ahead of them driven by Ernest Feller allegedly turned without adequate warning into the Standard Service station south of the former Greyhound intersection.

Charging negligence on the part of Feller as the primary cause of the accident, Mrs. Cappola had asked $25,000 damages for personal injuries she suffered and with her husband had sought judgment for another $2,960.50 for demolishment of their jointly owned car.

In finding for the plaintiff the jury awarded Mrs. Coppola $6,000, which included her share of the car, with another $1,480.25 for her husband's interest in the car, which was assigned to her for purposes of the hearing.

At the same time that Mrs. Coppola was hurt, five of the six young companions with her were injured to varying degrees. Most critically hurt were Ellen Weinberg, who suffered a deep-seated brain injury; and Michele Brown, whose injuries included a fractured skull and fractures of several facial bones.

Both of these girls, like the others, were recovered from their injuries by the time school started in 1959 and were able to enroll and go on with their studies.

Two persons from Belmond were among the jurors who heard the case, Airell Clark and Alvin Pals. Foreman of the jury was Walter Flower of Eagle Grove. Its other members were: Margaret Carroll, Harry La Barr and Clifford Nelson of Clarion; Laura Deeny and Virginia Surber, Eagle Grove; Doris Larson and Helen Stueland, Goldfield; Charles Snyder, Dows; and Walter Johnson, Williams.

Hearing of the case started Monday of last week. It was not completed so Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp could give instructions to the jury until mid-morning on Saturday. The jurors deliberated until 8:00 o'clock that evening before returning their verdict.

ATTEND SECTOR MEETING

Monday evening a group of members of St. John Lutheran church attended a sector meeting of the Every Member Visitation Program held at Renwick. In the delegation were Rev. William Heinzig, Al Nolte, Bob Hein, Robert Kalkwarf and Mrs. Roy Hansen, Jr.

ELECTED CLASS OFFICER

Ardith Pals, BHS graduate of '60 who is a freshman at Central college, Pella, has been elected as vice president of her class. Eleven states are represented among this year's class officers at Central.

Club established for Republicans under voting age

A Young Republicans club was organized at a meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Clark H. McNeal for the purpose of eliciting interest in the current political campaign among boys and girls below voting age.

Twenty-one young people were present and heard comments on the Republican party and its objectives from Ray Hagie of Clarion, the party's candidate for state representative from Wright county.

Barbara Musselman was elected chairman of the Young Republicans; Bill Heinzig, vice chairman; Mary Ellen Mason, secretary; and Sheila Musselman, treasurer.

The group is presently looking for space they can fix up as their headquarters. A money-making project is planned in the near future to raise funds for club activities in behalf of the party.

JUNE MOORE HOSTESS TO FEDERATED CLUB

Meservey Federated Woman's club met Friday afternoon at the home of June Moore, 10 members responding to roll call. Mrs. Agnes Gruis was a guest.

Alvina Dorenkamp had the special topic on "Helen Keller." Jane Jurgenson presented the lesson, "Women's Role in Life," taking women from the Bible as her theme.

Plans for conducting a UNICEF "tricks or treats" project on Halloween were discussed and with the help of other Meservey organizations it will be carried out.

The hostess served a dessert lunch.

Many callers congratulate Mr. and Mrs. C. Waddingham

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waddingham celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday with open house at the E.U.B. church. Many friends and relatives called to express congratulations. A short program was held at 2:30 o'clock.

EUB Youth Fellowship sends $66 to Spend-A-Day project

The EUB Youth Fellowship met Tuesday evening of last week at the church for their monthly meeting and social. President Kathleen Diddy presided. The devotions were presented by Bertha Shaw. Recreation was led by Dixie Lee Koenen. Lunch was served by Gary Pals and Charlotte Dorenkamp.

Plans were made for their annual chili supper on Oct. 5th at the church. Tickets are to be sold by the members. $66.00 was sent to the district treasurer for the Spend-A-Day project with the members choosing the date which they wish to spend with their chosen missionary on the field.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wendel returned home last week from a six-week trip through 15 states of the west as well as Canada. They visited relatives and friends among whom was the former Phyllis Agler, a resident of Meservey some 40 years ago.

Last Friday night the BHS Broncs chalked up their third victory of the gridiron season with a 13-0 decision over Garner before a home crowd. Delighted though the Blue-and-White backers were over the outcome, the question entered a lot of minds as to when the Broncs are going to run into an opponent who won't allow them to waste several touchdown opportunities without the result being disastrous.

Three times in the first half the Belmond team let scoring chances get away from them — making eight times in three games that they've failed to tally with the end zone within easy reach. Twice the Broncs advanced to within six yards of the double-stripe, only to lose the ball; and on the other occasion the goal was only a foot away when a costly fumble gave the pigskin away.

First half scoreless

Garner also had a chance to break the scoring ice in the first half, which ended 0-0 — but the Cardinals launched their drive a little late and time was against them. They had a first down on Belmond's 10 with 28 seconds to go, but a pass and two running plays used up the clock and left them still nine yards shy of pay territory.

Belmond completely dominated the opening quarter. A clipping penalty against Garner on the initial kickoff gave the Broncs the ball on the Cards' 40. Five plays picked up two 1st and 10's and 31 yards before the march was interrupted by a five-yard loss. Two more carries put the ball on the six, but then an incomplete pass snuffed out the drive.

Heinzig nabs fumble

Garner picked up a pair of first downs, then Bill Heinzig fell on the Cardinals' only fumble of the night to repossess the ball for Belmond on the visitors' 45. Vernon Pastour picked up 23 yards in three carries. Dennis Anderson added seven and a pass to him from Jerry Jenison provided 14 more.

That gave the Broncs a 1st and 10 with a shade over one yard to go. Mike Armour picked up all but a foot of it — then the ball got away from Jenison on a quarterback sneak and it was Garner's ball on the four, Jack Pringle recovering. The first period ended two plays later.

After the Cards picked up one first down, Merrill Kalkwarf dumped Don Cataldo for a 10-yard loss and a couple of downs later Cataldo was forced to punt from his own 15. The kick went to the 45, where Pastour nabbed it and returned to the 26.

Interception ends threat

Anderson picked up four and then Jenison sprinted for 16. A two-yard loss on a fumble broke the Broncs' momentum and after an incomplete pass Cataldo snagged a second aerial in the end zone to give Garner the ball on the 20.

With Cataldo rampaging for 53 of the yards in six tries, the Cards advanced to the Belmond 10 on a 12-down march — where time leaked away from them, as reported above, to leave the first half a scoreless stand-off. Garner had outrushed Belmond 122 yards to 90 (the Broncos added 14 more passing) in the first two quarters and had eight first downs to the Blue-and-White's six.

What did Rich say?

Coach Rich Koolbeck apparently had a heart-to-heart talk with his warriors during the intermission, for in the last half the Broncs made 1st-and-10 distance nine times while Garner earned only three first downs. In achieving this superiority, Belmond totalled 143 yards — 125 by rushing — to only 44 for the visitors.

Belmond's first scoring advance was launched from its own 47 after Garner failed to make yardage following the second-half kickoff. This time all of the 53-yard distance was covered in 11 plays, Anderson slashing over from the six. A fumble on the attempt to run for extra point nullified the conversion effort.

Bronco defense tightens

After the ensuing kickoff the Belmond defense again promptly held for downs. Another fumble threw a wrench in the Bronco offensive machinery, and an exchange of punts developed when the Cardinals were once more stopped. This time, Cataldo booted from his 30 to Belmond's 36, and Pastour made a beautiful return all the way back to Garner's 35.

Once more the Broncos were able to sustain a scoring march, the big gains being a 17-yarder by Anderson and a 13-yard aerial, Jenison to Anderson. It was Anderson, again, who tallied — punching over from a yard out. He also gathered in a Jenison pass in the end zone for the extra point that fixed the final score at 13-0.

Anderson, Pastour shine

With the help of a 15-yard pass interference penalty, Garner moved 39 yards after the Belmond kickoff before the drive was squelched on the Bronco 29. Belmond was down around the Cardinals' 30-yard line when the game ended.

Anderson averaged a shade over six-yards per try in racking up 92 yards on 15 carries as workhorse of the Belmond offense. Pastour covered 64 yards in 10 tries for a slightly better average and did some fine work running back kicks. On defense, it was the determined battling of Bob Stadtlander, above all, that kept Garner from launching more than its one scoring threat.

Cataldo was the big cog in the Garner offense, which was operating without Wally Elling, the regular quarterback who was sidelined with a pulled back muscle. The 190-pound fullback hauled the leather 107 yards in 19 trips for a 5.6 average. Guard Bob Brade was the Cards' defensive standout.

Thompson winner of $30, new ball

Duan Thompson, one of Belmond's top bowlers, became "scratch" game champion on last Sunday night's "Money Bowl" exhibition on KQTV, Fort Dodge. He will return to defend his championship on Oct. 23, and appear every four weeks so long as he can defeat his challengers.

It was a profitable day for Duan. He won a new bowling ball for having the highest game as qualifying scores were rolled Sunday afternoon to pick the men's and women's challengers to appear on the 5:00 p. m. program. And for beating the champion, Duan picked up $30.

In the afternoon, Duan had a top game of 214 and a 610 series. His winning score in the challenge match was a 193.

Sunday saw the "Money-Bowl" jack-pot finally fall, as a contender for the prize succeeded in picking up the 6-7-10 split that had defied all previous attempts on the program. The prize had been mounting since last year and was worth $600.

Broncos take on Buffalo Center there tomorrow

Tomorrow night the Belmond Broncos travel to Buffalo Center in pursuit of their fourth football win of the season and their third in North Iowa conference play. Regarded at this point as the likeliest foe to give Britt possible trouble in the Eagles' expected romp to the championship, the Broncos need this one against the Bison to keep their own title hopes alive.

Coach Chuck Schumann has nine lettermen back this season and has been pleased with the way his team has been developing. They trimmed Northwood 14-6 in the NIC opener. Their game with Forest City, postponed until Monday night because the Indians' field was too wet for play Friday, was still in the offing as this story was written.

Short on weight, the Bison line is aggressive and maneuverable and Coach Schumann believes it will prove a match for most of its foes. The Blue and Gold has three experienced back in John Oftedahl, Glenn Tjaden and Harry Nelson. A fourth veteran ball-carrier, Fullback Dennis Recker, was out of the Viking game due to an appendicitis attack but may be ready for the Bronco fray.

Tjaden has demonstrated he's a dangerous passer and the Bison have several competent receivers, which suggests the Bronco pass defense may be put to another test tomorrow night.

The Buffalo Center line was able to stop several scoring threats posed by the heavier Northwood team, so Coach Rich Koolbeck isn't regarding Belmond's probable weight advantage in the line as too important a factor.

Next Monday night at 6:30 o'clock, Belmond fans will have their first opportunity to see the BHS froshmores perform on the local gridiron. The Junior Broncos have shown considerable promise, and Coach Jerry Kintzi would like to see a good crowd out to watch his boys take on the Bison Calves.

Mrs. Lee winner of guessing prize

Mrs. Paul Lee's allowance for windage, weather and the other factors that go into a football game was "right on the nose" in last week's football score-guessing contest. She submitted as her prediction: Belmond 13, Garner 0.

Her accuracy prevented the Kelley family of Goodell from making it two in a row. Irene Kelley had claimed the $7.50-in-trade prize for the Osage game; and last week her son Joey was just off the mark with a 14-0 score, favoring Belmond.

The list of entries for the Belmond-Garner game was considerably larger than the week before. Next contest will be based on the Homecoming game with Northwood on Oct. 14. Guesses can be turned in any time up to 5:00 p.m. the day of the game.

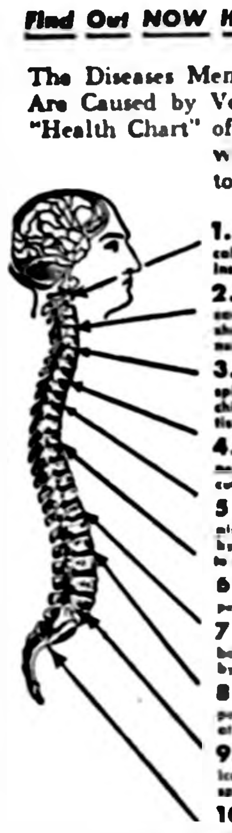
SEE WHY YOUR SPINE PLAYS SUCH AN IMPORTANT PART IN GOOD HEALTH MAINTENANCE
Find Out NOW If Yours Is a Case for Chiropractic!

The Diseases Mentioned Below Are Only a Few Which Are Caused by Vertebrae "Pinching" Nerves. Study this "Health Chart" of Chiropractic, and you will understand why more and more people are turning to Chiropractic care.



1. Slight "pinching" of nerves at this point will cause so-called headaches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry or stiff neck, facial paralysis, dizziness, etc.
2. A slight nerve difficulty in this part of the spine is the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goitre, nervous prostration, la grippe, nose bleed, disorder of gums, catarrh, etc.
3. The arrow head marked No. 3 locates the part of the spine wherein "pinched" nerves will cause so-called bronchitis, felons, pain between the shoulder blades, rheumatism of the arms and shoulders, hay fever, etc.
4. A blocked nerve at this point causes so-called nervousness, heart disease, asthma, pneumonia, tuberculosis, difficult breathing, other lung troubles etc.
5. Stomach and liver trouble, enlargement of the spleen, pleurisy and a score of other troubles, so-called are caused by troubles in this part of the spine, sometimes so light as to remain unnoticed by others except the trained Chiropractor.
6. Here we find the cause of so-called gall stones, dyspepsia of upper bowels, fevers, shingles, hiccough, etc.
7. Bright's disease, diabetes, floating kidney, skin disease, boils, eruptions and other diseases, so-called, are caused by nerves being pinched in the spinal openings at this point.
8. Regulations of such troubles as so-called appendicitis, peritonitis, lumbago, etc., follow Chiropractic adjustments at this point.
9. Why have so-called constipation, rectal troubles, sciatica, etc., when Chiropractic adjustments at this part of the spine will remove the cause?
10. A slight slippage of one or both innominate bones, located here, will likewise produce so-called sciatica together with many "diseases" of pelvis and lower extremities.

SICK?
THIS CHART CLEARLY SHOWS WHY YOU MAY BE SUFFERING!

Regardless of what your ailment is called . . . no matter how long you have suffered . . . Chiropractic care may be the exact answer to your specific health problem. Chiropractic succeeds many times after all other methods have failed.

DON'T WAIT! Time is a friend of disease!

Torsion spring heavyweight

HERE!
'61 CHEVY TRUCKS
WITH WORK-PROVED INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION!

Chevy's '61 fleet swings in with a ready-made reputation as the trucks that are worth more because they work more . . . the latest editions of the haulers that scrapped the I-beam axle and proved the important advantages of independent front suspension!

You'll find new models for '61—long-wheelbase 4-wheel drive units—and thoughtful refinements throughout the line. But the big news for '61 is nailed-down proof (based on owner reports) that Chevy's torsion-spring design is the best thing that's happened to trucks in decades!

With Chevy's independent front suspension and Sturdi-Bilt design, you cruise over trails where other trucks creep. You feel the difference in less wheel fight and vibration. You can see why drivers are happier, why loads are better protected and why the truck itself will stand up to thousands of miles of more work. That goes for any size Chevy, too—pickups, tilt cabs, tandems, all of them.

Check the latest specs with your Chevrolet dealer: capacity, power teams, options. Then, by all means, drive a '61. Once around the block and you'll never be satisfied with a front axle truck again!

WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE!

MR. AND MRS. SAM SHOEMAKER AND CHILDREN

● ● ● ● ● ●

Meet the newcomers . . .

Sam Shoemaker, Belmond's newest barber, took a stab at being a chiropracter — at the urging of his parents — several years ago.

Perhaps because his personal aspiration lay in becoming a barber, the experiment didn't work out satisfactorily. He didn't leave Davenport (where he attended the Palmer School of Chiropractic for seven months) with "Doctor" attached to his name — but he DID acquire a wife.

He and a pal, on arrival at Davenport, were seeking an apartment when they called at an address where a vacancy was being advertised in the newspaper. There a young lady with black hair showed them around the place — and made a lasting impression on Sam.

Although the girl and her apartment mate decided to "stay put," so the boys didn't get the apartment, Sam got her phone number and soon afterward called for a date. As it turned out, only the roomate was home when the phone rang and first thing Sam knew he had a date lined up with the room mate.

That was the last time THAT happened. Before too long afterward, it was Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker.

When Sam decided that the chiropractic profession was not for him he worked a couple of year's for wife Mary Jo's father in his grocery store in the small town of Charlotte.

Then the barber bug bit Sam, once and for all. In the winter of '58 he entered LaMar Barber college at Detroit, Mich. Mary Jo worked to help meet his school expenses.

After concluding his training, Sam worked in shops at Maquoketa and Clinton before launching on his own here.

Both Sam and Mary Jo are bowling enthusiasts. Mary Jo last week had one of the highest games in the women's leagues.

TB case-finding survey nears end

Mrs. Alice Alleman, R. N., public health nurse, has spent several weeks interviewing persons who may have been in close contact with an active case of tuberculosis and who may have become infected, but not yet be aware of it. If these persons have had positive tuberculin skin tests, they will have a chest x-ray in the mobile unit, receiving their x-ray appointment letters through the mail

The "contact" case-finding program has been sponsored by the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association. A portion of the cost is borne by the sale of Christmas Seals each year.

This program has the approval of the Wright County Medical society, and is conducted by the division of tuberculosis, state department of health and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association.

"Practically everyone I visited has been willing to participate in the program," said Mrs. Alleman. She further states that only those persons who have been previously advised to report for an x-ray can be accepted at the mobile unit. The contact program is not for the general public.

The x-ray films will be interpreted by a certified radiologist of the state department of health and the confidential findings reported to the family physician. It is from him that the persons who were x-rayed may receive their x-ray report.

Follow-up work will be done in the community by Mrs. Alleman. This follow-up work will be done in co-operation with the physicians of the community.

4-H record books judged; top prize to Lynne Arends

One hundred and three 4-H girls had long-time record books judged recently by Mrs. Arthur Homervold, Mrs. Phillip Ketchum, Mrs. C.C. Woodin, Mrs. Marvin Hilpipre, Mrs. Enfred Pearson, Mrs. Melvin Richardson of the county 4-H committee.

Lynne Arends of Iowa U-Go-I-Go was judged as having the outstanding long-time record and will receive the Wright County Bank Award. Her book will also be sent on for judging in state competition.

A long-time record includes at least three years records supplemented with the girl's photograph, long-time story of entire 4-H record of all years, health certificate, scholastic rating and record books. It is necessary for a girl to have a long-time record in order to compete out of the county.

County purchases of savings bonds still on schedule

Sales of U. S. savings bonds in Wright county during August were sufficient in amount to keep the county slightly ahead of schedule for meeting its 1960 quota. While both the state, at an average of 63 per cent, and the nation at 64 per cent lagged behind the two-thirds mark in quota achievement at the end of August, Wright county had met 69 per cent of its quota for the year.

Robert L. Davison of Clarion, volunteer county chairman, reported bond sales of $73,943 during August. This brought Wright's eight-month total up to $906,161. Iowa sales for the month amounted to $9,197,208 for a total through August of $97,816,911.

Nationally, current value of uncashed Series E and H bonds hit an all-time high level in August, Mr. Davison reports, with a total of $42.8 billion outstanding. This is approximately $12 billion more that the World War II peak for Series E bonds. The H series wasn't introduced until 1952.

Only two adjacent counties had better quota achievement records than Wright at the end of August. Webster, with an eight-month total of $1,831,589, had met 71 per cent of its quota and Hardin, with $1,171,911, stood at 70 per cent.

Eight-month sales and per cent of quotas reached by other counties in this area were: Hamilton, $849,054 for 62 per cent; Humboldt, $588,599 for 62 per cent; Hancock, $663,101 for 61 per cent; Cerro Gordo, $1,115,081 for 53 per cent; Kossuth, $821,105 for 49 per cent; Franklin, $484,642 for 48 per cent.

Blue ribbons won by demonstration teams of county

Wright county 4-H girls demonstration teams are still in action, according to Geraldine Steele, county home economist. The first place team from the county fair came home from the State Fair with a blue ribbon. Sharolyn Wilson and Judy Moellering of the Woolstock Willing Workers in their demonstration, "Short Cuts to Fashion," showed how to cut and construct a one yard wool skirt and also how to combine it with a complete set of accessories.

The second place senior team at Eagle Grove was comprised of Kathy Evans and Sharon Loux of the Dayton Dandies. They will travel to Waterloo to the National Dairy Cattle Congress on Oct. 1 and will give their demonstration, "Have Dress, Will Travel." It shows how to make several smart accessories and how to use them on a basic dress to fit many occasions.

The third place senior team, Wendy Duitscher and Jerilyn Johnson of the Lake Leading Ladies, at the Clay County Fair, Spencer, rated a blue. Their demonstration, "Smart and Thrifty," showed how easy it is to construct three different hats and the occasions on which they could be worn.

No fall sign-up of additional soil bank land

There will be no sign-up this fall of additional land or contracts under the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve, the Wright county ASC committee stated this week in response to inquiries from farmers regarding the status of the program.

They also said that program contracts which expire in 1960 or later are no longer eligible to be extended for an additional period of years.

"Under the Soil Bank act enacted in May of 1956," the committee explained, "the secretary of agriculture was authorized to enter into Conservation Reserve contracts with producers during the five-year period 1956-59.

"The sign-up under the 1960 program was held last fall, so that farmers would know in advance of the cropping season whether their land would be accepted into the Conservation Reserve. Since the authorization to enter into new contracts has not been extended beyond 1960, there will be no sign-up period this fall.

"Farmers should understand, however, that the existing contracts for 1960 and previous years will remain in effect and payments will continue to be made under them for the period of the contracts and in accordance with contract terms. The annual department of agriculture appropriation bills provide money with which to meet obligations already on the books."

There are 14 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect this year in Wright county, involving a total of 1,278 acres. Contract periods range from three to 10 years, and annual rental for 1960 amounts to approximately $25,808.

Nationally, there are more than 300,000 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect in 1960, covering a total acreage of approximately 28.6 million acres in 48 states. The average rental payment is $11.85 per acre, and the rental payments for 1960 will amount to about 338 million dollars.

Announcing the 1961 Ford . . .
Beautifully proportioned to the CLASSIC FORD LOOK

An honor to be proud of, this is the medal presented by the international fashion authority, Centro per L'Alta Moda Italiana, to the 1961 Ford for functional expression of classic beauty.

The 1961 Ford Galaxie Club Victoria - beautifully built to take care of people

BEAUTIFULLY BUILT TO TAKE CARE OF ITSELF

The 1961 Ford introduces a whole new concept of what a car can do for you . . . and for itself!

It lubricates itself. New nylon bearings and a newly developed lubricant keep the '61 Ford freshly greased for 30,000 miles. Good-bye grease racks! What's more, it cleans its own oil. The 1961 Ford's Full-Flow oil filter lets you go 4,000 miles between oil changes.

It adjusts its own brakes. A "mechanical brain" keeps brakes adjusted for the life of the lining.

Rust? Ford's body is specially processed to resist corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath doors.

Ford takes care of itself on the turnpike, too, with a new 390 cu. in. Thunderbird Special V-8 that has all the punch you'll ever need. The 352 Thunderbird Special V-8 and 292 Thunderbird V-8 thrive on regular gas. And, for top economy, you can choose the '61 Mileage Maker Six.

This is the 1961 Ford . . . beautifully proportioned to the Classic Ford Look . . . beautifully built to take care of itself.

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

LUBRICATES ITSELF. You'll normally go 30,000 miles without a chassis lubrication.

CLEANS ITS OWN OIL. You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes with Ford's Full-Flow oil filter.

ADJUSTS ITS OWN BRAKES. New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves automatically.

GUARDS ITS OWN MUFFLER. Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized—normally will last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

PROTECTS ITS OWN BODY. All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath doors.

TAKES CARE OF ITS OWN FINISH. New Diamond Lustre Finish never needs wax.

Important meeting slated on outlook for livestock

One of the most important meetings to be held in Wright county this year, in the opinion of Extension Director Aaron Bowman, will take place in the First National Bank basement at Clarion next Wednesday starting at 8:00 p. m. Purpose of the meeting is to discuss livestock feeding and management problems for the coming year.

Mr. Bowman says there will be plenty of opportunity to ask questions. The livestock feeder's situation is especially difficult this year because of the large grain supplies and lower feeding returns, he notes, and there may be problems in utilizing the corn crop this year.

William Turner, area economist from Iowa State university, will present current information on the feed and livestock price outlook and on a management and feeding program that can be used by Wright county livestock men.

He will discuss particularly the feeder cattle market situation, the various possibilities indicated in the fat cattle market outlook, the available information bearing on how a farmer can decide what grades and weights of feeders may best fit his situation — or whether he wants to feed more or fewer cattle than he did last year.

Mr. Turner will also report on the hog outlook, providing information which may be used in deciding how many sows to farrow in 1961.

The county extension staff will discuss specific livestock problems in this county, including starting cattle on feed, feeding methods, the most profitable use of roughage and other feeding questions.

Work sheets will be used to figure the break-even price on feeder pigs and feeding cattle. A new leaflet on the management of fall purchased cattle will also be distributed.

This meeting, says Mr. Bowman, will give livestock producers an opportunity to think through such perplexing problems as the size of the cattle feeding operation to carry on this year and if its should involve calves, light steers, or heavy animals.

Also, some light will be shed on the question of whether hog production will increase enough to put hogs down to distress level again next fall and the possible necessity of a soft corn utilization program.

Final rites held for Wm. Boelman died at 72 years

Funeral services were held a week ago Saturday at the Bethany Reformed church for Will J. Boelman, a resident of the Belmond community for more than 59 of the nearly 73 years of his life. He would have been 73 next Dec. 3, having been born on that date in 1887 at Oestfriesland, Germany.

Rev. Elmer Vander Ploeg officiated over the final rites and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Jelto Boelman, Roger Boelman, Joe Boelman, Bert Boelman, Calvin Boelman and William Boelman.

Mr. Boelman suffered a stroke early on the morning of Sept. 14 and was taken to Belmond Community hospital. There he died only a few hours later, at 9:05 a. m.

Son of Jaje and Tete Boelman, Will came to America with his mother and three brothers in 1901, arriving in this country on June 1. They settled near Belmond and he followed the occupation of farming. He was married on Dec. 6, 1911, to Titcia Frohling. Eight children were born to them, all of whom survive.

For nearly 40 years, Mr. Boelman was a loyal and active member of the Immanuel Reformed church. He and his wife retired from farming in 1948, and after formation of the Bethany Reformed church they affiliated with it as charter members. He served several years as an elder of the consistory.

Last June, Mr. Boelman was honored for 30 years of service to the Wright county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee and its predecessors. During his active farming years he served over a long span of time as township committeeman.

He also held other ASC offices and most lately had been a scale and site attendant, checking in and supervising the shipping out of corn. Although he had intended to retire in June, the county ASC committee was short-handed in this area and had prevailed upon him to continue his duties, which he did up to the time of his death.

His survivors include, in addition to his wife and children, a brother, Nysco Boelman, and half-brother, Mient Wubbenta of Ackley; also 16 grandchildren and three great grandchildren. The children are: four daughters — Mrs. George (Thada) Kuhlers of Meservey, Mrs. Pete (Henrietta) Baker of Corwith, Mrs. Henry (Dorothy) Abbas and Ruth Boelman of Belmond; and four sons — Joyce of Meservey, Herman of Alexander, William of Belmond and Daryl of Austin, Minn.

Mr. Boelman was preceded in death by a brother, two sisters and two grandchildren.

LDR of circuit in last meeting

The valedictory convention of the Eagle Grove circuit LDR (Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation) will be held on Sunday at St. Olaf Lutheran church in Fort Dodge.

This is the last convention of the LDR as in the new merged American Lutheran Church there will be no separate organization, the LDR becoming a part of the American Lutheran Church Women.

The afternoon session will begin at 3:00 p. m. with Mrs. Odvin Hagen of Forest City as the speaker. During the supper hour Hanna Awolum, an Ethiopian student at Waldorf college in Forest City, will be interviewed. The convention closes after the supper hour.

All present and former LDR members from Belmond as well as Women's Missionary Federation members, are urged to attend.

Engh boar rated Pacesetter Sire

Donald Engh, purebred swine breeder of the Kanawha neighborhood, has received word from the National Spotted Poland China Record that his herd boar has qualified as a Pacesetter Certified Meat Sire. This classification has been established jointly by the various purebred swine associations to encourage the raising of meat-type pigs.

Royal Trend, the Engh boar, is the first of his breed to win the coveted certification and is the second of all breeds to be rated a Pacesetter under the program. He was champion junior boar at the 1959 Illinois State Fair and was purchased by Mr. Engh at the National Barrow Show, Austin, Minn., last fall.

To qualify as a Pacesetter Meat Sire, two barrows each from five different litters sired by the boar must meet the following specifications as carcasses: length, at least 29.5 inches; backfat, 1.5 inches or less; loin eye, 4.5 square inches or more.

Mr. Engh was notified that the pigs from Royal Trend surpassed the minimum requirements by appreciable margins in each case. They had an average carcass length of 30.1 inches, backfat averaged only 1.33 inches and the loin eye average was 5.94 square inches.

County funds go for TB research

Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association has during the present year provided $500 for research in tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, reports Mrs. A. B. Parsons of Eagle Grove, the association president. Of this amount, $400 was earmarked for research being conducted here in Iowa and the remaining $100 was contributed for national research projects.

Part of the contribution provided this year by Wright county will go to support current research at the State University of Iowa and at Des Moines, including study of a number of respiratory problems similar to and which may have some relationship to the control and treatment of tuberculosis.

National research projects under the administration of the National Tuberculosis association will also benefit from the research contribution of Wright county. Current national research projects include a study to develop a new tuberculin test, and investigations into the metabolism (processes) of the lungs and the relationships of certain parasites in tuberculosis.

"Tuberculosis is not a community problem but a worldwide one as well. Medical and social research in tuberculosis and related fields must be accelerated if we are to discover more about respiratory diseases and the best means of controlling them. Our county tuberculosis and health association is happy to share in this vital work — research which someday may mean the defeat of tuberculosis," Mrs. Parsons says.

This research contribution is in addition to the one per cent of Chirstmas Seal campaign contributions provided to the National Tuberculosis association by all county associations to be used exclusively for research.

BISON BEAT FOREST CITY

Froshmores beat Garner, 6 to 0

Coach Jerry Kintzi's BHS froshmores evened their record at 1-1 Monday night by edging Garner, 6 to 0. Although the Junior Broncs were in charge most of the game, they were able to put together only one scoring thrust — in the first quarter.

In the early stages of the fray it appeared Belmond might win about as it pleased. They gained readily in the opening quarter and posted their lone touchdown just before the horn sounded.

It was Dennis Hauge who tallied the six points as he went left on the option play and traveled 11 yards for the TD. A try at the line by Marlo Luick for extra point was stopped.

Garner made its only serious bid for an equalizing touchdown midway in the last half after a poor Belmond punt. With the help of a penalty on the Cardinal Chicks, however, the Belmond defense was able to turn back the threat.

Although both the Belmond offense and defense were spotty, the Junior Broncs showed samples of good play in both departments. Ray Roberts was the winners' biggest offensive gun, with Marlo Luick chipping in with several nice runs.

Scouts preparing for their yearly "Good Turn Day"

On the Saturdays of Oct. 8 and 15, the Winnebago Area Council Cub and Boy Scouts in over 50 towns throughout nine counties in north central Iowa will be carrying on their annual Good Turn Day clothing drive for the handicapped workers at the Goodwill Industries.

Cubmaster Guy McClenahan and the Cub Scouts will deliver a Scout Goodwill clothing bag to every home in Belmond on Saturday, Oct. 8.

One week later, on "Good Turn Day," Scoutmaster Merle Bonte and the Boy Scouts will return to the homes to collect the filled bags and boxes of clothing for storage at a central collection station. Goodwill Industries' truck will pick up the filled bags at the collection station the following week.

Again this year, the particular need is for clothing, shoes, small toys, repairable electrical appliances and kitchen utensils. Also much in demand are such articles as drapes, curtains, bedding and cloth materials.

Newspapers and magazines will not be included in this drive and will not be picked up by the Scouts.

Activities chairman for the Winnebago Council Scouts, Ted Leaver, Jr., of Clear Lake, asks that everyone plan now to fill a bag, and an extra box with the needed articles.

Mr. Leaver states, "This is a wonderful opportunity for those of us who are more fortunate, to be a Good Scout and help the local Cub and Boy Scouts in their effort to do a good turn for the handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries."

Hospital Appreciation Day brings net proceeds slightly over $800

Hospital Appreciation Day, conducted Labor Day as Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary's annual fund-raising project, netted slightly more than $800 to be expended to the benefit of the hospital.

Mrs. R. H. Gowdy, president of the auxiliary, announces that the event grossed $1,125.02 and that expenses amounted to $323.73, leaving net proceeds of $801.29.

Making up the bulk of the expenses was the cost of food for the meal served by the auxiliary on Labor Day to General Mills employees and their families at Veterans' Memorial hall and the cost of meat and pop served at the lunch stand in the park.

General Mills, as a reward for the local plants' safety records, also bought tickets for the employees and members of their families good at the various concessions the auxiliary operated at the park. Altogether, GMI made a very important contribution to Hospital Appreciation Day's success, the company's check to the auxiliary coming to $564.23.

Mrs. Gowdy noted that not all auxiliary members who were unable to provide food or prizes for the Labor Day affair have employed the alternative of making a cash donation. Any who would still like to have a part in the good works that the Appreciation Day funds will be devoted to may hand or mail their $2.00 cash contributions to either Mrs. Paul Rietz or Agnes Rikansrud.

What the proceeds from this year's Hospital Appreciation Day will be expended on has not yet been decided. Administrator Hugh Witham will meet with the auxiliary at its October meeting and discuss needs of the hospital that the Appreciation Day funds might meet.

● OBITUARY

GEORGE K. COMSTOCK

George Kellogg Comstock, son of C. H. and Adelia Comstock, was born March 5, 1887, at Askhum, Ill., and received his secondary schooling at Askhum and Barbonus, Ill. In 1909 he was graduated from Valparaiso (Ind.) university, receiving the degree of Master of Accounts.

He was a member of the Congregational church of Askhum in his youth but later was baptized and became a member of the Assembly of God church in Storm Lake, where he held membership until his death.

Mr. Comstock was in the grain business at Askhum for several years before moving to a farm he purchased north of Sulphur Springs, Ia., where he assisted his sons Charles and Vernon in farming. Later he purchased a farm north of Eagle Grove, where they farmed for about 10 years.

This summer he had been assisting his son Vernon on the farm near Belmond. Monday evening, Sept. 19, he had gone out to view the crops when he suffered a heart attack. When he failed to return to the house, a search was organized by Sheriff Robert Blecker, assisted by the fire departments of Belmond and Goodell, which led to the discovery of Mr. Comstock's body.

Funeral services for Mr. Comstock, who was the last survivor of the C. H. Comstock family, were held Friday afternoon, Sept. 23, at the Storm Lake Assembly of God church. Rev. V. Huffy officiated and military rites were conducted by the Storm Lake Legion post. A prayer service preceded in the morning at Johnston Funeral Home, Belmond, Rev. M. L. Jones officiating.

Mr. Comstock was age 73 years, six months and 14 days at his death. Besides his wife and two sons he left a daughter, June Rose Hoescher of Kirkland, Wash., four grandsons and two granddaughters.

Severely disabled may be eligible for new benefits

Severely disabled workers no longer need wait until they are 50 years old to become entitled to disablity benefits under the social security law. Prior to the recent social security amendments of 1960, a disabled worker under the age of 50 could apply to have his social security record frozen, but he and his family could not be paid monthly benefits until he became 50.

According to Clifford W. Swedlund, district manager of the Fort Dodge social security office, disabled workers under 50 who have already had their social security record frozen will receive a letter explaining what they need to do to get the new benefits for themselves and their dependents.

However, disabled workers under 50 who have worked under social security, but have never applied to have their social security records frozen, should get in touch with their social security office now to inquire about their rights to payments.

To qualify for disability benefits, a worker must be so severely disabled that he is unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity. In addition, he must have worked under social security for at least five years out of the 10 years before he became disabled.

A leaflet explaining the Social Security Amendments of 1960 may be obtained by writing the Social Security Administration, 300 State Bank Building, Fort Dodge.

ASC completes wool marketing payments for '59

Wool growers of Wright county have now received a total of $28,108.87 in incentive payments earned during the 1959 marketing year, C. C. Woodin of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee reports.

This completes payments to the county's wool growers on wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the year from April 1, 1959, through March 31, 1960.

On shorn wool, the rate of payment was $43.20 for each $100 received for wool marketed. For unshorn lambs, the rate was 75 cents per hundredweight for the liveweight of lambs sold.

The wool program, authorized by the National Wool Act, is continuing during the present marketing year, with a national incentive price of 62 cents a pound. The object is to increase the annual wool output of the United States to a total of 300 million pounds.

"She-e-e-esh" hasn't this been terrible weather lately. The only thing rainy weather is good for is hunting ducks, but then at this time of year it seems that the game wardens frown on such activities.

I haven't been able to get out to see you folks much lately to get those soil samples taken because my hip boots are too small for me. Altho I did get some sampling done at a couple of places and as you all know taking a soil sample is the very first thing we do before you start working on your next year's crop.

There is a lot of plowing to be done on stubble fields yet and the good farmer will be plowing down some fertilizer. Of course, we don't want all the fertilizer business around Belmond, just 99% of it.

Harry Mennenga's two boys, Larry and Len, were in the office last Friday when it was raining and asked me to come out to their place to take soil samples as soon as it is dry enough.

They asked me if Ris-Van has a credit plan this year. Well, we do have a credit plan that should be of interest to some of you folks who might want credit this year for your fertilizer needs. I would be glad to answer any questions you might have concerning this plan when I call on you, or you can call Ris-Van office phone 201 and ask for me.

So for easier farming methods and bigger profits why don't you

Kennedy's farm "controls" have failed in past

A good Democratic friend of ours dropped into the office the day following Sen. John Kennedy's address before the farmers in attendance at the national plowing contest and asked, "Now, why don't you give that man credit for some sound ideas on the farm problem?"

What was the young senator's solution? Full income parity can be theirs, he promised the farmers — IF they are willing to limit their production.

If this were something new, we told our friend, we'd be willing enough to cross our fingers and hope that maybe the key to the lock had been found. But this approach to the farm problem has probably been more completely proved ineffective than any of the many that have been attempted.

Why do we feel so sure that Kennedy can't magically find some new application of it that would make it work, where it wouldn't work before? Well, we think his political opponent, Richard Nixon, uncovered it when he spoke at the state plowing match at Grundy Center earlier. The biggest round of applause he received in the course of his remarks was when he advised his very predominantly rural audience that they ought to keep their freedom from government interference.

Does it seem reasonable that the same farmers who applauded this comment would readily accept what Senator Kennedy said would be "as strict marketing controls as any imposed" since the earliest day of farm programs?

Our Democratic friend declares he's willing to tolerate what restrictions might be required, assuming that full parity is thereby assured. We're sure he says this in good faith; but knowing how ruggedly independent he has been in the past, we suspect that the distasteful reality of strict regulation might be much more unpalatable to him than the mere prospect is.

It is the past history of all our farm problem "solutions" that when they require wide acquiescense to controls, an insufficiently large per cent of the farmers has been willing to accept them to make them workable.

It is not difficult to work out in theory a farm plan that would produce the desired result. But implementing such a plan is another matter. Jack Kennedy's "farm program" is nothing more than a hodgepodge of principals that have in the past produced unsatisfactory results.

Kennedy treats the problem as an economist would; but a solution based on economic principals goes out the window as soon as foreign factors — such as artificial controls — are introduced.

Ostensibly, the one plan that might obtain the desired result would entail paying enough for retirement of land for "soil conservation" purposes to reduce the gross crop by a really appreciable amount. This could be done only if a quite tremendous appropriation were made for this specific purpose. If EVERYONE were interested in the farmer's plight, this might be feasible. Unhappily, though, there are many more wage-earners concerned with low grocery prices than with the farmer receiving an equitable share of the national wealth.

A clear tip-off to the importance of this factor was offered by Kennedy, himself, when in the waning days of the 86th Congress he was much more concerned with raising the minimum wage — as an appeal to the laboring class — than in pushing through a bill designed to aid the farmer.

Let's face it. There are many more labor votes than farm votes. And Kennedy is not going to make good on any promises to the farmers that would inevitably alienate a much larger bloc of voters.

Said Kennedy of his plan, "It makes no vague promises than can be interpreted different ways. It makes no pledge that I cannot or that the public interest would not permit."

But we fear that when the cost of his program — if it actually came close to achieving its goal of full parity for the farmer — were toted up, there would be some mighty powerful PRIVATE interests who would regard the farmers welfare NOT worth the COST.

We credit Jack Kannedy with honesty in his desire to help the farmer. We cannot, though, believe his plan could be implemented to bring the farm problem even one real step closer to an actual solution.

W. Earl Hall has good word for voting machines

It is no secret to readers of this column that The Independent has been for some time staunchly in favor of Wright county introducing the use of voting machines to supplant hand-marked ballots.

What might be regarded as a minor drawback to machine voting was recently mentioned in the state press in regard to the up-coming vote on the special issue of a constitutional convention.

We think Editor W. Earl Hall of the Mason City Globe-Gazette had a very sensible comment to make on this point and wish to pass on a brief editorial he published last week regarding this matter — and voting machines in general:

"Cerro Gordo county's supervisors have decided — and correctly, we think — that the question of an Iowa constitutional convention should be decided on our voting machines rather than on a special paper ballot in the Nov. 8 election.

"Studies are said to show that in the past voting on special propositions in Iowa has been appreciably heavier when there was a separate ballot. The explanation is that many voters are afraid of spoiling their vote on the machine.

"If that be true — and we are by no means convinced that it is — the task is one of education. We should not have to retreat to the dark age mode of voting to achieve a representative vote on as simple a proposition as this one.

"This newspaper endeavored for many years to gain an acceptance of voting machines in our county. Neighboring Franklin county had used them with notable success for years before our officials could be persuaded to take such a progressive step.

"In the light of this, we are not about to place our blessing on a procedure which in pursuit of something which we favor (a constitutional convention) would put progress in reverse in another area of our democratic procedures."

E. G. unhappy with road program

Following the joint meetings of the city council and the county board of supervisors last week, at which there were several business men, and in view of the obvious reluctance on the part of the board to commit themselves to taking on the South Braden street improvement there has been considerable discussion concerning the county's entire 10 year hard surfacing program.

These facts coupled with the hard surfacing that is going on at present both north and south of Clarion and north of Holmes have brought on some heated discussions.

TO CLARIFY THE SITUATION the Eagle is reprinting on this page a map of the original 10 year program as adopted and announced in the spring of 1956.

Completion of the three projects this fall will give Clarion approximately 19 miles of hard surfaced road leading into the county seat and approximately 7 miles of hard surfaced road from Highway 3 north through Holmes.

Eagle Grove on the other hand will have only about 6½ miles of hard surfacing east and west of town. The next hard surfacing project in the Eagle Grove area is to connect the Hamer corner with Highway 3 and Holmes. This is scheduled for 1962. The total then will be about 12 miles.

THE ONLY DEVIATION IN [illegible] from the original plan, if it [illegible] be called a deviation, is the 5 [illegible] south of Clarion on county K [illegible] completed this fall. In the or- [illegible] plan you will notice that no [illegible] for this stretch. It was [illegible] time with a ques- [illegible] is all scheduled in the Galt, Dows and Belmond (Editor's note: "our" project is the Alexander road) areas.

When this program was first announced the Eagle gave it full news and picture coverage and did some beefing in this column on the obvious difference in total miles of hard surfacing for the various towns.

IT DID STIR UP INTEREST IN the program in many neighboring towns and Eagle Grove business men attended meetings at the court house helping both Holmes and Woolstock people voice their protests. But no one seemed interested in doing anything about Eagle Grove's situation even though it is the largest population center and the largest contributor to road building taxes.

Now after 5 years of the program this inequality is showing up. And it won't get any better at the end of ten years. — Eagle Grove Eagle

U. S. debt is B-I-G!

A billion dollars is a lot of money, but our national debt is a fantastic $285 billion. The Citizens Pubilc Expenditure Survey, New York, a state-wide tax research organization, calculated that even if the government should end each year with a surplus of 1.1 billion and apply all of it to paying off the debt, it would still take about 260 years — until the year 2220 — for the entire debt to be paid.

In the meantime, just the interest on the debt makes it the second most costly item on your federal tax bill Only national defense costs more We must continue to tell our legislators — on the local and state as well as the federal level — to keep government spending within revenues and step up the battle to reduce the debt. — Lake Mills Graphic

POT'S A HOTTIN' UP—

The flood of political news in last week's issue of The Independent impressed us with the fact that the campaign pot is coming to full boil about the earliest in this election year of 1960 that we can remember. Ordinarily it isn't until the later stages — say a bare month before the election — that developments reach the stage attained by mid-September this time.

Just what the explanation is, we don't know. Perhaps the "favorites" are somewhat less favored than normal, with the result that most candidates in the field regard that they stand at least a chance of election.

For example, all Democratic candidates from young Richard Wilson — running for state representative — to Edward McManus, who's running against Norman Erbe for governor, clearly figure that they can possibly emerge the victor in this traditionally Republican county.

It wasn't always thus.

FOR REPUBLICANS, ONLY—

The remarks immediately following are for our brother and sister Republicans, only — so you Democrats flip over to the front page, the sports page, or take a peek at the classifeds while we talk in private.

As we've mentioned editorially several times of late, the GOP problem in Wright county is not so much one of wooing Republican-voter support as one of getting dyed-in-the-wool Republicans to GO TO THE POLLS.

Which leads up to that old alibi of the lazy citizen that "my one vote won't make any difference." As many times as the tremendous importance of one vote — or a very meager handful of votes — has been proved, any person who relieves his conscience for not voting with this excuse is being stupid as well as lazy.

A prime example of the value of a vote was provided by Thomas E. Dewey's defeat by Harry S. Truman in 1948. With a margin of about 3,135,000 votes over his Republican rival, Truman ostensibly won the presidency by a comfortable majority — but consider this . . . Truman carried both California and Ohio by margins that represented LESS than ONE VOTE per precinct.

In other words, had a Republican voter in each precinct gone to the polls and cast his vote for Dewey instead of staying home, Truman would have lost California and Ohio — and without them, he could not have won the election!

In the same year, the infinitesimal majority of 87 votes sent Lyndon Johnson of Texas to the U. S Senate. Had 100 lazy voters of Republican bent had ambition enough to exercise their franchise, Johnson would have gone down to defeat.

One vote unimportant? Don't kid yourself. A tiny handful of votes has on many an occasion been CRUCIAL. They could be again — in the county of Wright, in this year of 1960.

FALSE GENERALIZATION —

We enjoy the "Strictly Personal" column of Sydney Harris in the Des Moines Register and regard him as an ordinarily astute commentator on our life and times. But either Belmond deserves classification as one of this nation's "three or four cities" or Sydney caught his heel in the coils of one of his own generalizations the other day.

Said he: "The real distinction between a 'city' and a 'town' is not one of geographical size or population, but one of attitude; a city embraces differences, while a town resents and rejects them. Using this criterion, there are not more than three or four cities in the U. S."

We take Mr. Harris' inference to be that the "provincialism" attributed to a small town inflates social, religious and racial differences and so gives them false importance. Thus are prejudices born, it is true.

But we have lived in Chicago and in New York (of course, we can only assume that Sydney may have been including them among the "cities") and would unhesitatingly declare that Belmond people are less bigotted, less prejudiced, and in almost all respects more tolerant than the city folk who dwell in these two metropolises.

Since we've also lived in quite a number of small towns, we're familiar with the type of small-mindedness of which the columnist speaks. But we would insist that, by and large, Belmond is more exempt from accusations of bigotry and prejudice than any other community we've ever called home.

Here, differences in religious faith, skin color and social or economic status are truly shrugged off as so secondary to individual personality traits as to have almost literally no bearing on personal judgments.

By Mr. Harris' criteria we could, indeed, lay claim to being "smallest real CITY in the U. S. A."

Oscar Nelson has run gravel pit 15 years

Oscar Nelson, who has his 73rd birthday coming up Nov. 3, has spent the better part of one-third of his years handling gravel in one way or another. He's owned the gravel pit at the south edge of Belmond only since 1946, when he purchased the property from Chester Luic. But he looks back on another eight busy years when he and Louis Moe contracted road graveling jobs over much of the north part of Iowa.

Back during that period of 1924-32, he and Louie had up to 50 and 60 trucks working for them as this part of the state was "getting out of the mud." So it was not as a newcomer that Oscar went into the production end of the gravel business 15 seasons ago.

Between 1933 and 1946, Oscar was a farmer; but in talking with him, you sort of gather that he had "gravel in his blood" and was only biding his time until an opportunity in the gravel business knocked on his door.

One of his sons, Gene, and two sons-in-law, Ralph Turner and George Eckhoff, Jr., work for Oscar. He says, though, that with that 73rd birthday staring him in the face he's thinking of retiring and plans to take the boys into the business in the near future.

Since acquiring his pit in '46, Oscar has invested $40,000 in necessary equipment. His latest big investment was three years ago when he needed a jig to clear the shale out of his material sufficiently well to meet the tough specifications set forth in the Luick Memorial Swimming Pool plans. That cost $13,000, but is paying off well by enabling the pit to produce higher grade gravel than before.

The Nelson pit provides concrete material to contractors over quite a wide area, extending from Latimer to Britt and from Eagle Grove to Meservey. Six trucks do delivering. Another four, which it's not necessary to license or insure, move material about at the pit and stockpile rock for crushing during the slack season.

Oscar observes that his is a business that gives you quite a sense of history. His gravel was deposited by glacier many, many thousands of years ago; and he says it is evident when a bank is ripped down that the present pit clearly was under water for many additional years.

Contributing further to the awareness of times past, several Indian arrowheads have been turned up at the pit — recalling that the red man prevailed over this territory long before the ultimate use and value of a pocket of gravel was ever dreamed of. Oscar suspects that many another arrowhead lies forever locked into concrete jobs here and there that used Nelson gravel.

OSCAR NELSON, SOON 73, THINKS OF RETIRING

There's been two major changes in the gravel business in the relatively short time he's been operating the pit, Oscar says. For one thing, pit-run gravel was predominantly used on most jobs 15 years ago; now, carefully graded mixes are demanded in most cases. Also, the ready-mix concrete business has changed the complexion of gravel selling a good deal

Oscar admits that the Belmond Ready-Mix plant is a mighty handy customer to have right across the road It delivers in mixed form a lot of the gravel that Nelson's formerly had to deliver to the job; and, in addition, selling to Ready-Mix has greatly reduced the amount of collecting the pit has to do, since the concrete concern handles the sales.

Because pit-run gravel is so little used now, Oscar stockpiles sand and crushed rock and then mixes the latter as aggregate according to order. The Nelson pit is beginning to run somewhat short on rock and as a consequence Oscar currently buys much of his rock from the pit on the George Eckhoff, Sr., farm northwest of town.

He has his rock crusher there at present, but it's a portable affair and he plans to return it to his own pit this fall and put it to crushing rock that's been stockpiled there.

Gravel sales are largely seasonal, since few concrete jobs can be done during cold weather. Nelson's uses the winter months to do their stockpiling and to catch up on crushing. Since water pressure is an essential factor in washing out shale, when cold weather descends in earnest things slow down pretty much to a stop at the pit.

Considering that a couple of Wright county road-surfacing projects alone used 16,000 tons of pit-run gravel for fill, it can be appreciated that the pit's supply won't last forever. Asked how long its likely to last, Oscar shows no worry, though. He says with a grin, "I won't see the last of it."

Do you bring home everything you've paid for?

It's a good question.

Which you can answer "yes" – if you always buy from the business people right here at home. Where you live.

Wherever you buy, part of your money goes to build and to keep up the community in which you spend. To support schools, churches, civic projects, to pay the people who work in that community, and to provide better business and job opportunities for those who live there.

When you buy in YOUR OWN town, you get about the same merchandise you'd get anywhere else – PLUS the enjoyment of these other things that your money pays for.

When you buy anywhere else, you get merchandise ONLY. And your home community is a little poorer because you carried off part of its resources. And the many things other than goods that your money pays for are left for somebody else to enjoy, while they wait for you to return and give them some more.

It Pays to Buy where You Live

These BELMOND Business Establishments Are Genuinely Interested In The Future Of This Community And In Your Welfare – TRADE AT HOME WHERE YOUR MONEY BENEFITS YOU!

FORDS FOR '61 that were scheduled for first public display the nation over today include the new model pictured above, the Galaxie Club Victoria. The new Fords are nearly four inches shorter and two inches narrower for greater maneuverability. It is the boast of Ford Motors that the 1961 models also will introduce 30,000-mile lubrication and a 4,000-mile oil change interval, along with self-adjusting brakes and other engineering innovations.

September 12, 1960
Clarion, Iowa

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa met in adjourned session at the court house in Clarion, Iowa with the following members present: Albert W. Christopher, Harland E. Hill, Ed Kennedy, Everett Nelson, Walter Weidemann, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Several persons appeared before the Board in regard to hard surfacing a road near 10th street and Jackson in Eagle Grove. It was decided to get an attorney general's opinion to determine if it could be done legally and also when funds were available.

Motion by Hill, seconded by Weidemann to approve the bond of Glenn Williams a member of the Soldiers Relief Commission. Motion carried.

Resolution

Whereas, on June 5, 1940, The Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa, having sold to H. G. Riley Lot No. 9 in Block 6 of Broadway Addition to Eagle Grove, Iowa, duly authorized the execution of a quit claim deed from the County to him by proceedings recorded in minute book 13, page 456; and

Whereas, on June 11, 1940, the County duly executed and delivered to H. G. Riley a quit claim deed for said premises; and whereas said deed was never recorded by H. G. Riley and has been lost; and

Whereas, on September 7, 1960 H. G. Riley and his wife, Sadie Riley, executed and delivered to Norman D. Iehl and Millie A. Iehl, husband and wife as joint tenants with full right of survivorship, a quit claim deed for said property; and

Whereas, the title of the said Norman D. Iehl and Millie A. Iehl is not marketable by reason of the fact that the deed from the County to said Riley is not recorded and cannot be found.

Therefore, be it resolved that the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa be and he is hereby authorized to execute a quit claim deed for said property to the said Norman D. Iehl and Millie A. Iehl, husband and wife, as joint tenants with full right of survivorship, which deed he shall then present to this Board for approval.

Upon motion made by Supervisor Hill, and Seconded by Supervisor Weidemann the foregoing resolution was unanimously adopted.

Resolution

Whereas on September 12, 1960 this Board authorized the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa to execute a quit claim deed for Lot no. 9 in Block 6 of Broadway Addition to Eagle Grove, Iowa to Norman D. Iehl and Millie A. Iehl, husband and wife as joint tenants with full right of survivorship; and

Whereas the aforesaid deed has been so executed and presented to this Board. Now, therefore, be it resolved that the deed so executed as aforesaid be and the same is hereby approved.

On motion duly made by Supervisor Kennedy, and seconded by Supervisor Nelson the foregoing resolution was duly adopted.

Motion by Weidemann, seconded by Nelson to adjourn. Motion carried.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Spotting the Spenders

As a party, Democrats in Congress in 1959 voted AGAINST economy 72 percent of the time, according to Congressional Quarterly. Republicans voted as a party FOR economy 57 percent of the time this vital issue came up.

Coad's record of extravagance:

Voted for an extravagant $5.2 Billion housing bill authorizing large numbers of unneeded public housing units for which the taxpayers would still be paying 40 years later. Voted against economy efforts to substitute an adequate and moderate $1.3 Billion housing bill.

Voted twice to override presidential vetoes of public works bills to start 67 new unbudgeted projects which will eventually cost 800 million dollars.

Voted for $300 million in direct housing loans not requested in the President's budget.

Voted to increase national debt limit to $295 Billion, an action necessary to cover extravagant Democrat congressional spending.

Voted for a program of federal aid to build fishing boats.

Are you anxious to pay higher taxes? If not . . .

Elect Curtis Riehm to replace Coad in Congress! November 8.

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Jenison of Minneapolis were down in these parts weekend before last getting acquainted (or reacquainted) with their second, third and fourth cousins — of which they have a host, all being descendants of Elias Jenison. This pioneer gentleman came to this community in a covered wagon in 1856 with his married children, J. B., Charles and William Jenison and Mary Jenison Sprague.

All were early settlers to the north and east of Belmond; in fact, the north mile of what is now Luick's Lane was in those pioneer days called Jenison Road. Merle is from the William Jenison line, while all his Belmond kin stem from the J. B. Jenison line.

(Contrary to some sources of Belmond history, which note him as one of the founders of the Methodist church here, the J. stood for Joseph, not James.) Elias Jenison was the first person to be buried in Franklin Grove cemetery — now the Belmond cemetery. Not far from his grave lies that of Archer DuMond, whose name was incorporated into that of the community he helped found. A history-rich clan, the Jenisons!

A note from Wilma Trumbell, former Belmondite now living at Ellensburg, Wash., accompanying her check for a renewal subscription to The Independent, says: "Much interested in knowing Belmond is now producing 'Meals for Millions' Friendship Food. My students have been contributing to this fund for many years."

If we had more subscribers like Ole Eliason of the Olaf neighborhood, The Independent would experience much wider fluctuations in circulation than (happily) it does. Ole is a Democrat, good and true, and our editorials — particularly in an election year — make him so all-fired mad that we usually lose him off the list.

He let his subscription lapse in 1952, again in '54 (we didn't get him back, then, until '58), he was with us again from March of '59 clear up to June of this year. But then we got his Democratic dander raised again, and . . . Ole's gone from the list once more.

It just happens that Ye Ed has a personal liking for Ole — and a great admiration for his talented daughter, Shirley. But the doggone politics! Oh, well. Maybe next year, after things have simmered down, Ole will be in to subscribe again. We rather hope so. He's about the only Democrat who pulls this disappearing act on us.

Monday afternoon Ye Ed discovered when the fire siren sounded that he'd left his faithful camera at home over the weekend and went racing after it, hoping he might be able to get a picture to spice up this week's front page. With the camera on the front seat, we turned west down First street NE. At Sixth avenue, Police Chief Ray Thompson hove into view so we fell in behind him, confident he would lead us to the scene of the conflagration.

Ray hauled to a stop just three doors away from the Galagher abode, where we'd just picked up the camera!

There by the curb in front of his mother's home was the station wagon of Larry Jones, a cloud of smoke emerging from the vicinity of the right rear brake. The fire laddies gave the rear wheel a good dousing and the "conflagration" was extinguished. While we didn't want to see anyone the victim of a bad fire, we must confess that we were a bit disappointed. A shot of the fire company battling the brake-lining blaze would've lacked drama.

Ed Albers hits 702 in bowling

Ed Albers on Monday night as a member of the Texaco team in the Pinbusters league rolled a 702 series at the Bowl-Mor. This was one of only a handful of 700 series achieved in league bowling here in the 11 seasons since the Bowl-Mor opened.

Eddie started out with a 255, which included eight strikes, three spares and a 5-7 split on his final ball. He followed up with games of 231 and 216.

SALE DATE CLAIMED

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ridge of Kanawha have claimed the date of Monday, Nov. 21, for holding a closing out sale of their livestock and farm machinery. Auctioneers Ray Frye and "Coonie" Smith will conduct the sale.

CANDIDATES for political office at three levels — county, state and federal — were guests last Wednesday night of the Wright County Republican Women at a meeting held at the Fireside Room of the Clarion Methodist church. Present were (left to right, above): Robert Maddocks of Clarion candidate for county attorney; Jack Miller of Sioux City, candidate for the U. S. Senate; Ray Hagie of Clarion, running for state representative; and Myron Price, Clarion, seeking re-election as county auditor.

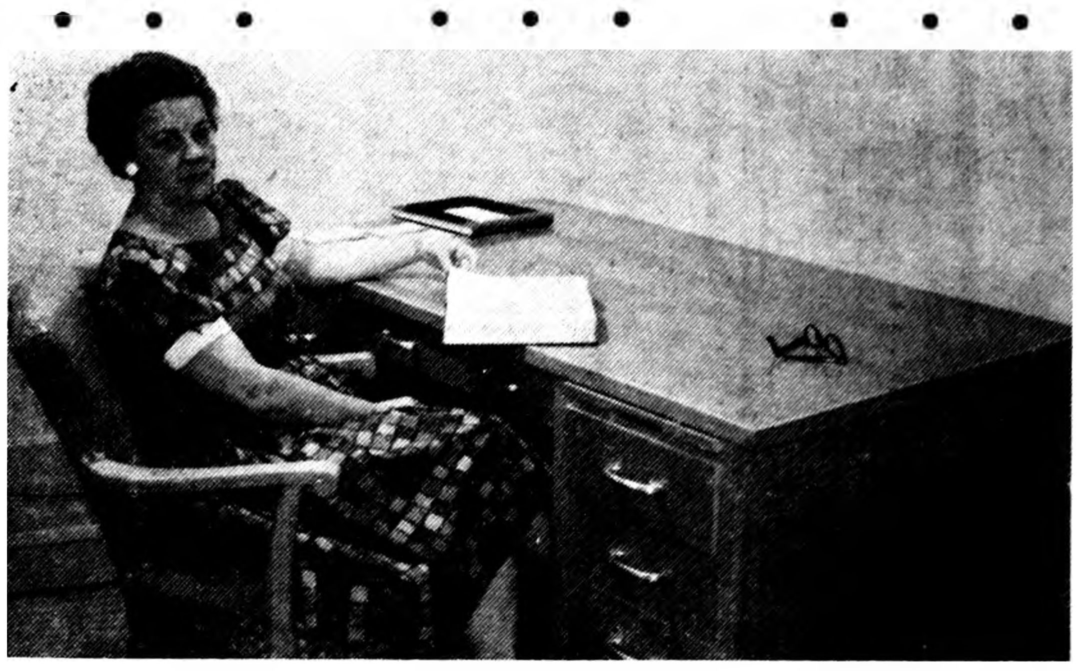
It's disgusting! No winners

Members of the Cash Gift Day committee are threatening to launch a Congressional investigation if some of those Tuesday afternoon prizes don't budge pretty soon. Again, this week, not a single CGD award was claimed. It puzzles the Cash Gift Day sponsors, because 12 numbers capable of putting $400 in the hands of Independent or Buyers Guide readers were posted. That amount in awards will be available this week, too — once more divided into eight $25 prizes at 2:00 p. m. and four $50's at 3:00 o'clock.

With other tax districts affiliated—

Library's book circulation now highest ever

• • • • • • • • •



PRISON INMATES at Fort Madison produced the handsome desk and chair with which Librarian Faye Colby is pictured above. The two pieces of furniture, which have been installed in the librarian's office, were a gift to the library from the First State bank. Cost of the desk and chair came to only about $110 — the wage scale at the Fort Madison institution running somewhat under union level.

Librarian Faye Colby reports there has been a phenomenal increase in the Belmond public library's circulation of books since eight additional tax districts have affiliated with the library on a levy-support basis.

In the first eight months of the current year, the circulation of books has exceeded by more than 50 per cent that of the same period in 1958, when persons outside Belmond could borrow books only by purchasing a card.

During the period through August of this year, circulation totalled 21,821 books — an increase of 7,362 over the total of 14,459 recorded for the same eight months in '58.

Many new borrowers

Month-by-month circulation for the two years ran as follows, the figures for 1958 and 1960 being listed in that order: January, 1,842 up to 2,766; February, 1,866 up to 2,863; March 2,064 up to 3,301; April, 1,768 up to 3,089; May, 1,668 up to 2,483; June, 1,608 up to 2,511; July, 1,957 up to 2,267; August, 1,686 up to 2,541.

Mrs. Colby says borrowers from the new, tax-affiliated districts number as follows: Belmond township, 196; Pleasant, 186; Twin Lake, 82; Town of Goodell, 67; Grant township, 59; Iowa, 51; Avery, 40; Norway, 10.

In addition, the library still has 51 paid borrowers, most of them being from Klemme and Rowan.

Since January, Mrs. Colby notes, 520 new books for adults have been added to the stacks and 960 for juvenile readers, a total of 1,480. Not all the books purchased through the grant received last year through the Iowa State Traveling Library have yet been delivered.

Some of the above total of books were purchased with library funds, but the larger share were acquired by means of the grant. The large addition of books required the installation of new shelving at a cost of $1,200. This expense likely will be met by the regular budget, Mrs. Colby says.

State help provided

A $1,000 bequest to the library in the will of the late Chester P. Luick remains to be used, according to the librarian. She says this will be applied on a major improvement project at the library, possibly to purchase needed new lighting fixtures.

In August, four employees of the State Traveling Library spent some time in Belmond helping Mrs. Colby and her assistants, Mrs. Richard Woodin and Cecelia Holtzbauer, on recataloguing all of the library's older books and cataloguing the newly acquired ones.

Standard cataloguing used

When this job is finished, all of the library's books will adhere to the standard system of cataloguing used throughout the nation, which Mrs. Colby believes will be a great help to young people using the library who plan to go on to college.

Another recent gift to the library included a new filing cabinet to hold catalogue cards on all adult books (the old cabinet now being used for the juvenile books) and a handsome desk and chair for the librarian's office. These were presented to the library by the First State bank, having been purchased at a cost of close to $400.

BHS ALUMNI IN SUI BAND

IOWA CITY (Special) — Members of the Hawkeye Marching Band of the State University of Iowa have been announced for the 1960-61 academic year by Director Frederick C. Ebbs. From Belmond they include DaDean Obrecht, Bill Halfwassen and Gary Porter.

Regarding Congo's Lumumba—

Collinson reveals inside story

Don Collinson, former BHS vocational agriculture teacher now on leave as a Methodist missionary to the Congo, told an audience at the Methodist church Sunday night that Patrice Lumumba is a former student of the school at the missionary station to which Mr. Collinson plans to return in December.

Mr. Collinson, his wife and three daughters were in Belmond to attend the centennial observance of the Methodist church. His remarks were the highlight of the evening service that concluded the 100th anniversary celebration.

Lumumba, the ousted premier of the independent Congo, was described by Mr. Collinson as a trouble-maker since his youth. He was expelled from the mission school after having advanced no further than the fifth grade, because of poor work.

As a young adult, Lumumba was employed as a government civil service worker until he embezzled a sizeable sum of money and was sentenced to a three-year prison term.

Since that time, he had established himself as leader of a group of native malcontents and at the time Belgium gave Congo its independence he possessed a fairly sizeable following.

Mr. Collinson said the ex-premier is held in very low regard by the Congo patriots who have been desperately trying to establish a stable government. But it had been the hope of President Joseph Kasavubu that a coalition government incorporating the Lumumba faction might have the best chance of survival.

It did not take long for the president, highly esteemed by the most of his people, to be disillusioned on this score. He was responsible for firing Lumumba from the premiership when it became apparent the rabble-rouser's influence would be detrimental to the goal of a stable government.

Col. Joseph D. Mobutu, the army "strongman" who has been endeavoring to help Kasavubu set up a sound and peaceful regime, has like the president gained much admiration for his adherence to Christian principles. When he released from prison only a day or so after their capture two men who had plotted to assassinate him, he explained the surprising act with the comment that he is "a Christian."

This incident and similar ones involving both Kasavubu and Mobutu have had great impact on the Congo citizens, Mr. Collinson reported. As a result, some degree of optimism is developing in the dissension-torn, infant nation that Lumumba's influence may be overcome and a workable government created by his opponents.

Skelly Oil company plans to raze station, rebuild

Skelly Oil company this week announced plans to completely rebuild Joe's Skelly Service station at Main street and Highway 69 to make the facilities wholly modern and, incidentally, to reduce the traffic hazard that parking cars at the station has constituted.

Parking space for six or seven cars awaiting servicing will be provided by the new station arrangement, where they will not obstruct vision of cars approaching the highway from the east.

Joe McLaughlin, lessee of the station, says that he will continue to service cars with gas and oil at the station site while the construction work is going on but that servicing of vehicles will be done during that period at the former Crapser garage west of the city park.

B&R Contracting company of Britt was to start on demolition of the present station today, preparatory to building the new station. Mr. McLaughlin, in regard to the contract, said local builders who were invited to bid on the job had all advised the Skelly company that they were too busy at this time to handle it.

Built in L-shape, with the longer extension running east and west at the north edge of the property and the shorter one extending south along the east edge, the new station will provide much more space than the one it is supplanting.

The east-west wing will contain two commodius service stalls plus storage area at the east end. The office will occupy the south extension.

Gasoline storage will be greatly increased, the new station to be served by a 6,000-gallon tank for regular gasoline and a 4,000-gallon tank for Keotane. The station at present has only 1,650-gallon storage capacity, provided by three 550-gallon tanks.

An innovation of the new station will be dummy pumps that merely meter the gas going into vehicles being serviced. The actual pumps will be attached to the underground tanks as a safety precaution. The new service island will hold two dual "pumps," each dispensing both regular and Keotane gasolines.

Mr. McLaughlin says that, barring delays due to weather, the new station should be completed in about 90 days.

STILLMAN, GOBELI CAUGHT

Iowa authorities on Monday of this week returned to Mason City with Larry Dean Stillman and James Gobeli after their apprehension at Hope, Ark. The pair await court action as an outgrowth of the armed robbery at Dows on Tuesday of last week and were to be questioned regarding a number of other crimes in this geographical area during the past few weeks.

Sandry business bought by Jenison

As of last Saturday, Greydon Jenison became owner of the recreation parlor that has been operated by Francis Sandry. He purchased both the business and building and will operate under the name "Grady's."

He has several plans for improvement of the facilities. He intends to lengthen the bar to allow for the installation of additional cooling equipment. He also intends to do some redecorating.

For the past six years, Mr. Jenison has been an operator at the state police radio station.

E. HOWARD HILL

H. Hill to speak at meeting of FB Tuesday evening

The official annual meeting of the Wright County Farm Bureau will be held next Tuesday at the St. John Catholic church basement in Clarion. The 8:00 p. m. meeting will be preceded by a banquet at 6:30 o'clock.

E. Howard Hill, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, will be the headline speaker. A special feature of the meeting will be recognition of the past county Farm Bureau presidents.

Entertainment will be furnished by Barbara and Priscilla Shortenhaus, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shortenhaus of Eagle Grove.

Lyle Lewellyn, county vice president of near Galt, will present the resolutions for discussion and adoption. Verven Reichter of Goldfield will present the list of candidates for election.

The meeting will be conducted by Olaf Watne of Blaine township, completing his first year as county Farm Bureau president.

The committee in charge of the annual meeting is headed by Mr. and Mrs. Don Burt of Rowan, with help from Mr. and Mrs. Marion Enghausen of Galt and Mr and Mrs. Monroe Newcomb of Eagle Grove.

A crowd of over 200 members is anticipated.

MRS. R. COULSON RETURNS FROM FOUR-WEEK JAUNT

Mrs. Robert Coulson returned recently from a four-week trip with the William Coulson family on their way to their new home in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

They visited Yellowstone Park, Glacier Park and Big Horn mountains, and Banff Park and Lake Louise.

Mrs. Coulson helped the William Coulson family get settled in Edmonton, where he will be associate professor of mathematics at the University of Alberta.

RUMMAGE SALE TUESDAY

A rummage sale will be conducted by the WSCS of the Methodist church next Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. at the library basement.

Lions Bag-of-Bulbs sale scheduled for next week

Belmond's Lions club next Wednesday night will conduct its annual Bag-of-Bulbs sale as a benefit for the Iowa Lions Sight Conservation Foundation. A minimum of half the proceeds realized from this yearly project will be contributed to the state organization's sight-saving activities.

President Lloyd Lerdal says, "Belmond citizens have always been generous in their support of this project of our club. The Lions hope that they will find the same public response this year as in the past. The cause certainly could not be a more worthy one."

Two assortments of bulbs will be offered by the Lions in their door-to-door canvass. Whether a household prefers larger or smaller sizes, one or the other of the assortments should fit the home's needs, Mr. Lerdal believes.

Major expenditures of the Lions' Sight Conservation Foundation go for support of the Iowa Lions Eye Bank at the University of Iowa at Iowa City; providing Leader Dogs for blind Iowans who can use them; supplying typewriters for youngsters at the state school for the blind at Vinton; and for eye research, to the end of combatting blindness.

Another project being undertaken by the Lions' Foundation this year is the supplying of Braille Writers for use of Fort Madison penitentiary prisoners' use in transcribing textbooks into Braille for blind students in this state.

During the 12 months that ended Aug. 1 of this year, the Sight Saving Foundation spent more than $19,000 on it various undertakings.

"As in the past," Mr. Lerdal says, "the price of a Bag-of-Bulbs will be $2.00. You will get your full money's worth in quality light bulbs."

Young Democrats to meet E. G.

It has been decided by the Young Democrats club of Wright county to hold rotational meetings at the various larger towns in the county, with next Tuesday night's meeting scheduled for Eagle Grove.

Exact location of this meeting is not yet known, but interested Young Democrats wishing to attend can obtain transportation to Eagle Grove by meeting at Joe's Skelly Service before 7:30 o'clock that evening.

This week Young Democrats attended the discussion of issues by Richard Wilson and Ray Hagie, opposing candidates for state representative, in lieu of a regular meeting.

Last week's meeting of the club at Clarion brought a surprise visit by Congressman Merwin Coad, who was in the county during the day to attend several Coffee-for-Coad parties. His appearance had been entirely unanticipated.

Adams to speak Monday evening

Richard Adams, Wright county speech therapist, will be speaker at a special meeting to be held next Monday at 8:00 p. m. at the high school auditorium under sponsorship of the Parent-Teachers association.

Topic of Mr. Adams' remarks will be, "Prevention of Speech Defects." He says that an important phase of his work is to see that speech defects in pre-school youngsters are avoided, as well as correcting defects that already exist.

Because his comments will especially apply to children of pre-school age through kindergarten, parents with youngsters in that age bracket are particularly urged to attend the meeting. Anyone interested in the speech therapy work being carried on in the schools will, however, be most welcome to attend.

This will be an informal meeting, and questions will be solicited.

Mr. Adams says that work in speech defect prevention is new in his field, but that it gives promise of eliminating many speech problems before they fully develop — and at a time when they lend themselves to easy correction.

Council makes appointments—

Two accept zoning-planning posts

C. C. Christie and Dr. A. M. Larson are new members of the city zoning and planning commission by recent action of the city council. Two newcomers have also been named to the board of adjustment, which hears protests over application of the zoning and planning ordinance. They are Robert Kellermann and Ted Zook.

Mr. Christie was appointed to succeed Stuart Kutz, whose term on the zoning and planning commission expired this summer. Dr. Larson was named to fill out the unexpired term of Ron Hummel, who resigned following his withdrawal from Belmond Motors and acceptance of a job in Humboldt.

Russell Dougherty was at first appointed to the commission, to succeed Mr. Hummel, but he declined the appointment.

Mrs. Russell Schaal was reappointed to the commission, her term in office also having lately expired.

The appointment of Mr. Kellermann and Mr. Zook to the board of adjustment followed the resignations of C. N. Hildebrand and Howard Jacobmeyer from that body.

At Monday night's council meeting the city fathers accepted the resignation of Vernon Dippel as street commissioner and appointed Harold Vanness to that position. Mr. Vanness, who has been serving as assistant commissioner, will receive the $315 monthly salary designated for the commissionership by the council at the outset of the current year.

Another matter of business at this week's council meeting was receipt by the city of a quit claim deed from Central Telephone company for a strip of property that adjoins the fire station on the east. The telephone concern made the city a gift of the 20-foot strip to allow for enlargement of the fire station, when, as and if this is deemed necessary.

TRIPLE MOVE MADE

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Bailey and Marcia have moved into the house formerly occupied by the Raymond Lowenberg family. The Lowenbergs moved to the apartment where the family of Mrs. Sid Williams had lived. The Williams have moved to Maryland. The Hugh Witham family moved into the George Hoppel house vacated by the Bailey family.

SALE DATES RESERVED

Sale dates that have already been reserved for the coming weeks and months include the following: Dec. 5, Walter Schubert, Kanawha; Dec. 12, Stanley Nedved, Britt; Dec. 13, James Chodur, Clarion; Dec. 14, Harry Slining, Belmond; Dec. 20, Harlow Helps, Klemme; Jan. 3, Peter Weydert, Ventura; Jan. 4, Jim Peterson, Clarion; Jan. 10, Albert Rasmusson, Britt. Wiemann and Howlett will auctioneer these sales.

Tragers to mark Golden Wedding

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Emil F. Trager are cordially invited to join with them Sunday in celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Their children are planning to hold open house for their parents at the Trager home, 616 Sixth avenue NE, between the hours of 2:00 and 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:00 and 9:00 o'clock in the evening.

Their children are August, Fred and Carl Trager of Belmond, Elmer of Riceville, Mrs. Ted (Henrietta) Kaduce and Mrs. Melvin (Irene) McMannus, also of Belmond.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Trager are long-time residents of the Belmond vicinity. Mr. Trager was born in Illinois, but came to Iowa as a young man. He and Tena Groen were married at the Immanuel Reformed church east of town on Oct. 11, 1910.

They engaged in farming around Meservey and Belmond until retiring 18 years ago. They have lived in Belmond since. Both are active and Mr. Trager is an employee at the Christie and Larsen livestock yards.

No invitations to the open house have been mailed. This announcement, say the Trager children, is to be regarded by all the honored couple's friends and kin as a personal invitation to attend the open house.

Scouts to launch "Good Turn" drive

A reminder is offered that Cub Scouts of Winnebago Council Area, including those in Belmond, this coming Saturday will launch the annual Scout Good Turn Day clothing drive for the handicapped at Goodwill Industries.

On that day the local Cubs will distribute to homes throughout Belmond the Goodwill bags in which contributed items may be placed for later pick-up. Cubmaster Guy McClenahan has charge of the bag distribution and will be assisted by the Den Mothers.

Public support of all citizens is solicited to aid the Scouts in helping the handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries earn their own livings, instead of being supported by charity.

Mr. McClenahan asks, "If your home should be accidentally missed this Saturday, please gather up your articles in a box or another bag and have them ready for the Boy Scout pick-up on Saturday, Oct. 15."

He added that newspapers and magazines cannot be used at this time and will not be picked up by the Scouts.

One gets 30-day jail term—

Beer spree brings 2 heavy fines

A "beer bust" at a private home last Saturday night brought $200 in fine money to the school fund as the contribution of two participants, drew a 30-day jail sentence for another, left two with $100 fines hanging over their heads and a sixth with a $10 suspended fine.

A seventh principal in the case did not have immediate action taken against him, pending deliberation on his punishment by the mayor.

Paying the $100 fines (Mayor L. T. Trafford granted the defendants the privilege of squaring the obligations by means of $10 weekly installments) were Erwin Crabtree and Jon Jenison. Crabtree, who did not take part in the drinking spree, admitted in mayor's court that he had bought two cases of beer for the affair; and Jenison played host to the party.

The charge against Crabtree was making beer available to a minor — all of the participants in the beer party being under-age. Jon Jenison was charged with permitting a minor to consume beer in a private home without permission of parents or guardian.

Legal action was initiated after the six young men directly involved in the drinking bout were apprehended by the city park about 3:00 a. m. Sunday by Policeman Marvin Miller. He called Police Chief Ray Thompson in on the matter, who in turn summoned Sheriff Bob Blecker.

With the elder Jenison were his younger brothers Peter, a Marine home on leave, and Arthur, on parole for an earlier offense; Robert Busick, who's been in periodical trouble with the law; John B. Reed and Robert Green, both of Dows.

Questioning of the sixsome at the city hall prompted a visit to Jon Jenison's home, where vestiges of the party in the form of a quantity of empty beer bottles were picked up as evidence.

Mayor Trafford also levied $100 fines against Reed and Green on a count of unlawfully securing beer, but in each case suspended the fine and placed the defendant on six months' probation. A like charge against Busick brought him a jail sentence of 30 days — this punishment having been promised him by the mayor the last time Busick appeared before Mr. Trafford, in the event Busick should again be hailed before the mayor's court on a misdemeanor and found guilty.

Because of mitigating circumstances, the fine of Peter Jenison was held to $10 and was suspended for an indeterminate period on good behavior of the defendant. He had never been in previous trouble with the law.

Mayor Trafford was investigating Arthur Jenison's parole provisions before assessing a penalty against him.

COAD-FOR-CONGRESS chairman for the 6th District was named this week by Rep. Merwin Coad in the person of B. C. Berge, Garner attorney. The two gentlemen are pictured above conferring on campaign plans. Primary purpose of the Coad-for-Congress committee is to aid the district's 15 county Democratic central committees in furthering the election prospects of all Democratic candidates for office. Ninety local chairmen will serve under Mr. Berge. The Garner lawyer is prominent in north Iowa legal circles, having practiced law in Hancock county for 22 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Myers were in Lawton, Okla., visiting the Kenneth Myers' son, Kae, who is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla. On their way down, they stopped at Tulsa and visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hawkins, former residents of Alexander.

Glen Myers returned to Davenport Saturday to begin his second year of Chiropractor school.

Mrs. Henry Fekkers, Alice and Helen Suntken and Mrs. Herman Modderman with the ladies of the Garden Club from Thornton took a bus tour to McGregor Thursday sight-seeing.

"THE PLACE TO GO FOR THE NAMES YOU KNOW"

GENE BLACK SEZ:

Well another week has gone by and we are getting more and more into the fall harvest season. Seems I have less and less time to get out in the country to see you folks.

I got a very pleasant call from Mrs. Bert Sorenson last Monday, to come out to the farm and see Leroy Christie. Leroy was discing corn stalks and asked me to bring out some fertilizer and spread it for him so he could plow it down. In Leroy's case that was a sensible way to handle his business. By calling me, I wasn't out there wasting his time and I know he is a busy man.

I made another call last week, also, this one was to Joe Rodecap out west of Belmond and you folks who know Joe will understand this. Joe said quote (You tell that Joe Triplett that if I want my fields irrigated with water again I'll dig my own well). Seems that Joe Rodecap didn't have as good results as Ron Courson told him he would have. I told Joe that at least we have a pretty good grade of water. In fact I don't think I would recommend anyone drinking any 9-9-9 or 14-7-7 or any of our other numbers either.

I just about fell off my chair the other morning when I came to work. I had just sat down when from the laboratory came the darndest buzzing sound you have ever heard. I picked up my fly swatter and killed 6 flies that were about the same size as bumble bees. They must have been getting into some of Doc Strauss' experimental fertilizer samples.

Maybe we should dump some Ris-Van into the river, we might grow some fish worth dropping a line in after. If it grew the flies to that size in a few days, it probably would only take about a week for the fish to grow enough so you'd hear them say

Get RIS-VAN, Man!

Junior class play slated next week

Two performances of the Alexander High school junior class play are scheduled for next week, a matinee on Thursday and an evening performance at 8:00 o'clock on Friday.

Twelve characters all have a go at muddling things up in the three-act comedy, "Everything Happens to Us."

In the cast are Cheryl Scott, Linda Greenfield, Susie Schulte, Jim Latham, Eddie Olson, Jerry Modderman, Della Rewerts, Joan Hofacre, Jim Hoekstra, Milo Twedt, Delorus Hopkey and Donnie Pals.

Matters get off to a frantic start when Rhett Ross informs his family that he is engaged to marry the daughter of a dime store millionaire, in one of whose establishments the young man works.

To "live up to" their daughter-in-law-to-be, the Rosses impulsively buy a new home and are head over heels in redecorating it when they learn the millionaire has changed his mind about permitting the match. Everything, of course, gets straightened out before the curtain falls.

FRIDAY! THE GREATEST

SIXTY-ONEDERFUL CHEVROLET

Here's the car that reads you loud and clear—the new-size, you-size '61 Chevrolet. We started out by trimming the outside size a bit (to give you extra inches of clearance for parking and maneuvering) but inside we left you a full measure of Chevy comfort. Door openings are as much as 6 inches wider to give feet, knees, and elbows the undisputed right of way. And the new easy-chair seats are as much as 14% higher—just right for seeing, just right for sitting.

Once you've settled inside you'll have high and wide praises for Chevrolet's spacious new dimensions (in the Sport Coupes, for example, head room has been upped as much as 2 inches, and there's more leg room, too—front and rear). Chevy's new trunk is something else that will please you hugely—what with its deep-well shape and bumper-level loading it holds things you've never been able to get in a trunk before.

Yet, generously endowed as this car is with spaciousness and clean-etched elegance, it holds steadfastly to all the thrifty, dependable virtues Chevrolet buyers have come to take for granted. Your dealer's the man to see for all the details.

IMPALA 4-DOOR SPORT SEDAN—one of five Impalas that bring you a new measure of elegance from the most elegant Chevies of all.

NOMAD 9-PASSENGER STATION WAGON. You have a choice of six Chevrolet wagons, each with a cave-sized cargo opening nearly 5 feet across.

There's never been a trunk like it before! The floor's recessed more than half a foot and the loading height is as much as 10½ inches lower.

Rita Schroeder, Dwight Daniels wed in rites at Dows on September 23

Miss Rita Schroder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schroder of Dows, became the bride of Dwight P. Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Daniels of Belmond, on Friday evening, September 23, at 8:00 o'clock. The candlelight ceremony was performed at the Methodist church in Dows before an altar decorated with bouquets of large yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and lighted candelabra. Rev. Frank L. Considine officiated over the double-ring ceremony.

The traditional wedding march was played by Mrs. W. R. Burns, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Erwin Schroder, sister-in-law of the bride, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length wedding gown styled of white Danslite taffeta with a fitted bodice fashioned with bow accented three-quarter sleeves and scoop neckline that dipped to a V in the back. The full circular cut skirt fell from a pleated hip drape highlighted in the back by a fold-over bow.

Her fingertip-length bridal veil of imported all silk illusion fell from a taffeta bow hat accented by pearls. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow rosebuds and stephanotis centered with a corsage of yellow roses on a white bible, a gift of the groom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John Whipple of Popejoy, sister of the bride. She was attired in a street-length gown of coffee brown taffeta with matching veil hat and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Valerie Whipple, niece of the bride, wearing an identical coffee brown dress with yellow net headpiece and carrying a basket of yellow flower petals. was the flower girl. Tommy Schroder, nephew of the bride was ring-bearer, and carried the rings on a yellow taffeta and net heart-shaped pillow.

Charles Daniels of Belmond, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Robert O'Connor of Belmond, cousin of the groom, and Erwin Schroder of Dows, brother of the bride. They also served as candlelighters.

They wore dark suits and yellow carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a yellow rose from the bride's bouquet.

The bride's mother wore a beige brocade sheath suit dress with brown accessories. Mrs. Daniels chose a dress of beige brocade and wore moss green accessories. They both wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

Mrs. Clayton Meyer acted as hostess for the reception following the ceremony. The bride's chosen colors of yellow and brown were used in the table decorations. Women of the church served.

Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. James Scott of Blairsburg, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Donald Watt of Clear Lake aunt of the bride, poured coffee. Mrs. Cecil Mosiman of Belmond, aunt of the groom, cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and decorated with yellow roses.

The waitresses were classmates of the bride, Charlene Bridges of Forest City, Esther Christiansen, of Des Moines, and Mrs. Vern Foust of Dows. Beth Yocum of Dows and Carol Knuths of Ames were in charge of the gifts. Beverly Karstens of Eureka, S. D., presided at the guest book.

The bride is a 1959 graduate of Dows High school and of Hamilton Business college, Mason City. She is now employed in the Wright County Extension Office in Clarion. The groom is a graduate of the LeRoy, Minn., High school and was in the service for three years. He is now employed by the Goodyear Service store at Webster City.

For going away costume, the bride wore a blue printed Dacron sheath dress with black accessories and a yellow rose corsage. After a short wedding trip, the couple is at home in the Middleton Apartments in Clarion.

MR. AND MRS. WESSELS

WANDA LOU PALS WED TO KENNETH WESSELS

Miss Wanda Lou Pals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Pals of Rockford, became the bride of Kenneth A. Wessels, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wessels of Belmond in the Assembly of God Church at Hampton on the afternoon of Sunday, Sept. 25.

Rev. John Walker of Mason City, officiated. Peggy Joy Nichols, sister of the bride, was her attendant and the bestman was the bridegroom's brother, Bernard E. Wessels.

A reception in the church basement followed the ceremony.

After a week's trip, the newlyweds are now at home in Hampton. The bride is a graduate of Hansell Consolidated school and is employed in the Mode O'Day factory. The bridegroom attended the Belmond schools and is self employed as a truck driver.

ROUND TABLE HOLDS ITS INITIAL MEETING

First meeting of the new season was held Wednesday of last week by the Literary Round Table division of the Federated Women's club at the home of Mrs. Henry Halfwassen. It took the form of a buffet dinner and was presided over by Cecelia Holtzbauer, the new chairman.

At roll call, each member was asked to present a baby picture of herself, and these pictures later provided the basis for an interesting guessing game.

The members discussed means of raising funds to assist toward the Federated club's project of resurfacing the library floor. This project was initiated last year and all divisions are expected to contribute toward it.

Mrs. H. E. Colby, as lesson leader, exhibited several new books lately acquired by the library and recommended them to the Round Table members. Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, Mrs. Henry Halfwassen and Kathy Dorr presented book reviews.

● Belmond Locals

Mrs. Chester Luick spent from Tuesday until Sunday evening visiting in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Luick, and family in Webster City.

Mrs. Maude Thompson spent Tuesday of last week in Mason City visiting relatives. She also visited her nephew, Albert Moen, who is a patient in the Park hospital.

Bunny Lou McKinney, student of the Omaha Baptist college, Omaha, Neb., will spend this weekend in the parental Harry A. McKinney home.

NEW '61 CHEVY CORVAIR

More space . . .
more spunk
and wagons, too!

The newest car in America: the CORVAIR 700 LAKEWOOD 4-DOOR STATION WAGON.

CORVAIR 700 CLUB COUPE. Like all coupes and sedans, it has a longer range fuel tank.

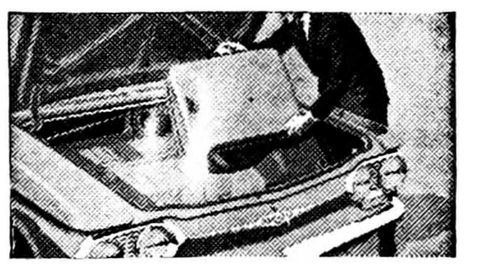
Here's the new Chevy Corvair for '61 with a complete line of complete thrift cars.

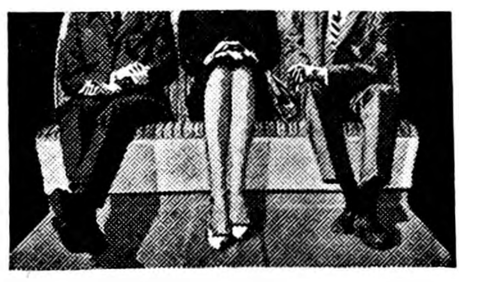
To start with, every Corvair has a budget-pleasing price tag. And Corvair goes on from there to save you even more. With extra miles per gallon . . . quicker-than-ever cold-start warmup so you start saving sooner . . . a new extra-cost optional heater that warms everyone evenly. Riding along with this extra economy: more room inside for you, more room up front for your luggage (sedans and coupes have almost 12% more usable trunk space).

And our new wagons? You'll love them—think they're the greatest thing for families since houses. The Lakewood Station Wagon does a man-sized job with cargo, up to 68 cubic feet of it. The Greenbrier Sports Wagon you're going to have to see—it gives you up to 175.5 cubic feet of space for you and your things.

Corvair's whole thrifty lineup gets its pep from a spunkier 145-cu.-in. air-cooled rear engine. Same rear-engine traction, same smooth 4-wheel independent-suspension ride. See the polished and refined 1961 Corvair first chance you get at your Chevrolet dealer's.



Spare tire is in the rear in coupes and sedans—leaving more luggage space up front.



Even middle-seat passengers sit pretty, thanks to Corvair's practically flat floor.

Now in production—the GREENBRIER SPORTS WAGON with up to twice as much room as ordinary wagons (third seat optional at extra cost).

SWIFT'S BULK PLANT FOOD SERVICE

Increase your chances for a real money making corn crop next year by plowing under Swift's high value Plant Foods this fall. You can do it with no more effort than lifting the telephone and calling your authorized Swift Plant Food Dealer

Swift's High Quality — Free Flowing Plant Foods are offered to you in bulk — at bulk savings. What is more, Swift's Plant Foods are made by the exclusive Flo-Fusion process that chemically hitches all the nutrients in each particle The plant food elements just can't separate during hauling and spreading. You get an even distribution of all Plant Food elements over your fields.

Field Spreading Service — Your authorized Swift Plant Food dealer will arrange for modern spreader trucks that will do a good job for you.

Fall is the ideal time to bulk spread Plant Food. Fields are firm, no sinking in soft soil as in early spring. Firm soil means a good even distribution.

So right now while you are thinking about it, why not call your local authorized Swift Plant Food dealer or contact Swift Agricultural Chemical Plant in Mason City (Phone GA 4-3876). You'll be dollars ahead.

When you're farming to make money, Swift's is your finest buy.

Belmond kept its North Iowa conference football title hopes alive Friday night on a wing and a prayer as a fired-up Buffalo Center eleven gave the Broncos very nearly more than they could handle.

The wing was the good right arm Bob Whipple, state football throw champion in track. The prayer was eminating from the Broncos' throng of followers as game time was running out and it appeared the Blue and White gridders were headed for no better than a 7-7 tie — and possibly a defeat.

A shade under two minutes remained on the clock when the Broncos tallied the decisive touchdown on as beautiful a clutch play as a coach ever devised.

Bison interception nullified

Seconds before, it appeared the curtain had been drawn on Belmond's victory hopes when Glenn Tjaden intercepted a Bronco pass on the Bison 26-yard line. But a Buffalo Center player was detected holding and instead of losing the ball, Belmond got a reprieve in the form of a 1st-and-10 on the foes' 29.

Lady Luck again turned her back on the scrappy Bison on the next play. A Buffalo Center defender grabbed a Bronco pass in the flat with a clear field ahead of him — only to drop the ball. Then came the play that broke the hearts of the BC Homecoming crowd.

The "Whipple Special"

Coach Rich Koolbeck called for the "Whipple Special," as the Broncos have named this ring-ding dandy. The Bison line apparently took note of Belmond's first unbalanced line formation of the evening, which made Whipple an eligible pass receiver.

Jerry Jenison faded well back from the line of scrimmage, and as would-be tacklers swarmed toward him he lobbed a short forward to Whipple. Bob's own position was behind the scrimmage line, making him also an eligible passer — and pass he did, his heave traveling close to 40 yards and settling into the arms of Bob Finn, who'd sped past the Bison secondary and into the end zone.

BC Threatens again

There was momentary question whether Bob had been beyond the end zone when he received the ball, but the officials ruled he was in safe territory. Mike Armour was stopped a foot away from the double stripe on his plunge for point, but the score favored the Broncos 13-7 and. as mentioned, a few seconds less than two minutes of playing time was left.

It must be said that in the 100 second or so that remained, the Bison about scared the bejabbers out of the Broncs and their followers. Tjaden ran the ensuing kickoff back from the 14 to the 29. On the next play, Whipple threw little Larry Weaver for a five-yard loss and there was exactly 1:25 to go.

In those remaining moments Buffalo Center — with the help of a 15-yard Bronco penalty — traveled 57 yards before time ran out on the Bison with the ball on Belmond's 19. The losers had picked up 40 yards via passes on the last two plays, and it was an elated bunch of Broncos who heared "time" called at that point.

First TD came easy

Belmond did all of its scoring in less than five minutes of the 48 minutes of game time. The first time they owned the ball, after the opening kickoff, the Broncs went 65 yards in five plays for their initial TD. The pay-off came on a 23-yard aerial, Jenison to Dennis Anderson. Anderson also cracked the line for extra point and Belmond was in front 7-0 with the game less than three minutes old.

Perhaps that first marker was too easy. Whatever the explanation, the Broncos seemed to lose some of their sting at that early stage and the Bison had the pressure on Belmond most of the remainder of the game. Statistically, the Broncos would appear to have had a solid edge in the fray — but those who saw the game will vouch that in this case, statistics were mighty misleading.

Three opportunities flubbed

As in all of their preceding games, the Blue and White lost their "go" repeatedly when presented with scoring opportunities. A drive in the first quarter sputtered to a stop at the Bison 20; and early in the second period they got down about to the 15 only to fumble the ball away. Then, toward the end of the third stanza, they had 1st-and-10 on the 14 but lost the ball on downs at about the seven.

During too much of the game, the Belmond line was noticeably outcharged by the opposing forwards. Twice, though, the Broncos did stifle Buffalo Center threats — mainly on the strength of excellent defensive work by Bob Stadtlander.

On the first occasion, a wobbly pass dangerously thrown into the wind from Belmond's 15 was intercepted by Dennis Recker and run back to the Bronco five-yard line. Four downs netted only two yards, the last tackle being a saver by Finn. Anderson later got off a punt to the 33 that John Oftedahl returned to the 26—and four plays later Tjaden crashed over from the two after a 17-yard pass from him to Oftedahl had set up the scoring chance.

The TD came with well under a minute remaining until halftime. Oftedahl kicked the extra point that tied up the ball game at 7-all.

It was in the third quarter when the Belmond defense again earned "A" for effort. With less than six inches needed for 1st-an-10 on fourth down at the Bison 30, Oftedahl was held without gain and Belmond took possession. This golden opportunity later fizzled out when Belmond, in turn, failed on the seven to make necessary yardage.

As the game ended and the downhearted Bison trudged off the field, the happy Broncs gave Bob Whipple a shoulder-ride to the bus. There was no gainsaying the fact that he and Finn had produced admirably when the chips were down. But without the smart coaching that had conceived the winning play, the Broncos' mood could have been a radically different one at that particular point.

Broncos vs. Britt Eagles—

Title rides on tilt Friday night

Every chip will be on the table when the undefeated Belmond and Britt football teams match talents tomorrow night on the Eagles' gridiron. It will be a virtual rematch of the meeting of these two North Iowa conference title contenders here a year ago — except that this time, one of the two rivals is a distinct favorite.

Last year. advance calculations shed little light on the probable outcome of the Bronco-Eagle clash, which Belmond won 20 to 12 after coming from behind twice. Tomorrow night. the odds very clearly are on the host team.

At the outset of the current season, Coach Steve Everett frankly conceded that in his belief his talented squad stacked up as the team to beat for the NIC grid championship. With 13 lettermen back from his co-championship outfit of '59, Everett openly admitted the conviction that "we have the horses to do the job."

Have allowed one TD

Subsequent developments have given him no cause to change his mind. In four games to date, the Eagles have pummeled opposing defenses for a total of 144 points in racking up four victories — and it was not until Northwood scored a touchdown last Friday while absorbing a 27-6 defeat that the Britt goal line was crossed.

It was expected that All-Conference Bob Nielsen would monopolize the limelight as an offensive threat for the Eagles; but three junior stars. Jim Rasmuson, Dale Brcka and Raymond "Buzz" Walsh, have been matching the veteran in backfield brilliance. Rickie Johnson and Bob Steenlage, who also lettered last season, give the Eagles unusual offensive depth. Arnold Smith, another junior, and Gene Guenther, a sophomore, are additional backs of varsity calibre.

All-veteran line

Everett has a letterman at every line position. All are seniors except Don Anderson, 163-pound junior end. The Britt forward wall averages considerably lighter than the powerful Eagle line of last year at 163 pounds; but Everett regards that better maneuverablity makes this line at least as tough as last season's.

Completing the Eagles' first string line are: Lee Vaughn, end, 157 lbs.; Dennis Krull. 174, and David Loney, 155. tackles; Keith Sillman, 165, and Dan Mikkelson, 150, guards; and Jerry Schrader, 178, center. In addition, Britt is so well endowed with line reserves that Everett can substitute quite freely without weakening his line appreciably.

The versatile Eagles run from three different offensive formations, the T, modified box and single wing. They combine fleetness of foot, which makes their wide runs particularly difficult to contain, with a sharp passing game that features the throwing of Nielsen and Walsh and adept receivers who are elusive as well as fast.

Need to "cash" chances

Coach Rich Koolbeck's biggest concern in preparing his charges for their important game Friday has been to add continuity to the Bronco attack that will produce touchdowns when scoring opportunities present themselves. Eleven times in their first four games, the Broncs have penetrated the foes' 20-yard line — or well inside — without garnering a score.

"We're not going to be able to spot Britt these could-have-been touchdowns and beat them," Koolbeck has been warning his players. In addition, Belmond will have to exhibit a sharper pass defense and defend the ends better than on numerous occasions in the earlier games if the potent Britt offense is to be held in check.

With a much more inexperienced team than Britt's, Coach Koolbeck regards that the Broncos have committed themselves very respecably thus far. They haven't faced a push-over opponent yet and have won 'em all, even when last minute heroics have been required to pull the fat out of the fire.

Rivals' 38th meeting

Neither Koolbeck nor the Broncos are in the least convinced that they can't whip the Eagles. But they well realize that it will take the best Belmond effort to date, if they're to jolt Britt as they did last year.

This will be the 38th meeting of the Broncos and Eagles in a rivalry that goes back nearly four decades. Belmond holds a slight edge in victories, having emerged the winner 19 times. Britt has has chalked up 16 wins and two games resulted in ties.

Two ex-Broncos start at MCJC

Two BHS alumni are making their mark as first-string players on the Mason City Junior college football team this fall.

In the Trojans' 13-0 win over Emmetsburg JC, Tom McNulty scored a touchdown and averaged better than seven yards per carry on a gross of 86 yards in 12 tries as fullback.

Larry Tideback, who was injured in a pre-season practice and saw his first action in the Trojans' victory over Emmetsburg last Thursday, drew praise as a line backer.

Stan Brandmeyer, like Tideback a member of last year's Bronco varsity, saw duty at a tackle position.

OCT. 19 — 1st day to make application for regular ballot.
OCT. 24—1st day to vote absent voter's ballot AT COUNTY AUDITOR'S OFFICE

+ PLEASE NOTE +

1. Applications must be made to county auditor (53.2).
2. Ballots must be mailed BOTH WAYS unless voted at Auditor's office or delivered IN PERSON (53.9 and 53.17).
3. Only voters outside county can have application and ballot at same time by mail (53.10).
4. Only notary public can be present when voter marks ballot. (Sec. 53.15).
5. Absent voters ballots must be in the auditors office prior to election day. (53.17)

EXCERPTS FROM THE IOWA LAWS

Excerpts from Absent voters law:

53.2 Any voter, . . . may on any day not Sunday, election day, or a holiday and not more than 20 days prior to the date of election, make application to the county auditor . . . for an official ballot to be voted at such election.

53.4 Said officers (Auditor) shall furnish to any qualified voter of the county . . . blanks on which to make application for such ballot.

53.9 Upon receipt of such application, and immediately after the ballots are printed, it shall be the duty of the auditor to mail such applicant, postage prepaid, such official ballot.

53.10 If the voter is absent from the county and requests such application by letter, the auditor may send him both the application and the ballot at the same time.

53.11 Such officer (Auditor) shall deliver said ballot to any qualified elector appearing in person at the office of the auditor . . . and subscribing to the foregoing application not more than 15 days before the date of said election, but said ballot shall be immediately marked, enclosed in the ballot envelope with proper affidavit thereon, and returned to said officer.

53.15 The voter, on receipt of said ballot . . . shall in the presence of the officer administering the oath (notary public, etc.) and of no other person, mark such ballot . . . but in such a manner that such officer will not know how such ballot is marked.

53.17 The sealed envelope containing the said ballot . . . may be personally delivered by the voter to the auditor . . . if not so delivered, said envelope shall be enclosed in a carrier envelope, which shall also be securely sealed, and mailed by the voter, postage paid, to reach said auditor . . . prior to election day.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Consistency, Thou Art . . .

We believe consistency is a virtue. Here is Congressman Coad's voting record on labor reform legislation:

On record vote in Congress, August 13, 1959, Coad voted against labor reform legislation, including a bill of rights to protect the rank-and-file union members and against provisions to protect the general public against the abuses by some union bosses which were uncovered by the McClellan Committee

Then — when he saw that labor reform legislation could not be beaten — he tried to jump on the bandwagon. On August 14th, Coad voted for exactly the same labor legislation he had voted against the day before.

What do you think about this? Friends of labor reform legislation know that Coad voted against them when it mattered most.

People who were against this legislation have his number, too. They know he is not dependable. He will change his vote when it looks politically expedient.

Is this the best man the Sixth Iowa District can send to represent it in the Congress?

Elect Curtis Rhiem November 8th to replace him!

1961 MERCURY METEOR 800

MERCURY METEOR
600 and 800 series
Priced right in the heart of the low-price field

HIGHLIGHTS

Modern new size_trimmer, better proportioned, for easier handling and parking.

7 self-servicing features including chassis that is pre-lubricated for first 30,000 miles.

Even roomier than last year. More rear-seat shoulder room, hip room, and head room. More entrance room. Bigger trunk.

New Super-Economy engines. Up to 15% more gas mileage. Mercury's first "6" plus new V-8's that use regular gas. Up to 10% better pickup than last year's brilliant Mercury.

First low-price car with a fine-car ride. Exclusive Cushion-Link suspension!

PRICES START HUNDREDS LESS THAN LAST YEAR
Optional equipment and transportation cost far less, too!

1. MERCURY METEOR 600	Priced right in the middle of the low-price field with such cars as Chevrolet Bel Air and Plymouth Belvedere.
2. MERCURY METEOR 800	Priced with the top series in the low-price field with such cars as Chevrolet Impala and Plymouth Fury.
3. MERCURY MONTEREY	Finest, most luxurious of all 1961 Mercurys.

HERE IS A NEW AND BETTER LOW-PRICE CAR —WITH A 12-MONTH OR 12,000-MILE WARRANTY

You're looking at the newest car in the low-price field_the Mercury Meteor. But the resemblance to other low-price cars ends with the price.

COSTS LESS TO DRIVE! You save on upkeep. Your Mercury dealer is extending his warranty on all 1961 Mercurys to one full year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. See him for full information. He will be glad to show you a copy of his new warranty. Conventional car warranties are good for only 4,000 miles or 90 days.

You save on gas. Mercury's new, wider choice of engines and transmissions lets you tailor your new Meteor to your kind of driving. Choose super economy, super power, or any combination in between. And just think of these 7 other savings:

A new pre-lubricated chassis lets you drive 30,000 miles before it needs another lubrication. A new-type oil filter lets you drive 4,000 miles between oil changes. Mufflers are aluminized for more than double the life. Brakes are self-adjusting. New zinc-coated body panels protect your car from rust two or three times as long. Spark plugs are self-cleaning, save gas. A special Super-Enamel finish never needs waxing.

LOOKS BETTER_AND IS! The styling and size are completely new. Trimmer, easier to garage, far more agile. You get a de luxe interior in every model at no extra cost.

FEELS LIKE MORE! Here's the first low-price car to provide a true "fine-car feel." Not just shock absorbers and springs for your riding comfort, but a unique new system of rubber cushioning called Cushion-Link suspension. It is exclusive on all Meteor 800's, Montereys, and Mercury station wagons. No more bumps from tar strips and other road-surface irregularities.

Don't miss the first showing! See your Mercury dealer now. Here, without question, is the newest and smartest buy in the low-price field.

Phone specialist advises "smile" to make friends

IOWA CITY (Special) — A voice with a smile is the most valuable asset of a person answering a telephone, according to Nancy iBshop of Northwestern Bell Telephone company, Cedar Rapids.

Miss Bishop spoke at a workshop for medical assistants held on the State University of Iowa campus, which ended Friday. It was an intensive week-long course in office practice and public relations.

Registrants for the conference included Opha Thompson of Steele Memorial clinic, Belmond.

Miss Bishop went on to say that since the person at the other end of the line can't see you, your telephone manners are doubly important. She gave the following suggestions:

Talk directly into the mouthpiece with your mouth one-half inch from it. Speak distinctly and be interested in the caller. The best way to have a smiling voice is to smile — a mirror may help you to do this.

Always have a paper and pencil near the phone for note taking. Answer calls promptly. Identify yourself when you answer; "hello" means nothing more than that the caller has reached a number.

A loud voice distorts speech. Don't think that you are keeping a secret by holding your hand over the mouthpiece. Both ends of the telephone transmit sound.

Summing up her advice, Miss Bishop suggested, "Telephone as you would be telephoned to."

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Zoology Professor George Edward Challenger (played by Claude Rains) flies home to London from South America to announce he has discovered a "lost world" where fearsome prehistoric monsters who lived 150 million years ago still roam.

When members of the Zoological Institute doubt his claim, he leads an expedition back to the area.

There you have the opening of the plot that made Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "The Lost World" a best-selling thriller some years ago, which in film form is showing Thursday through Saturday. Have yourself a tranquilizer — and go see this one.

Jimmy Stewart takes a demotion in "The Mountain Road," playing at New Belmond next Sunday through Wednesday. A U. S. Brigadier general in real life, Jimmy is cast as an Army major in this story of a World War II demolition team ordered to destroy a vital mountain road in Eastern China. "China" was reconstructed near Phoenix, Ariz., as the film's setting — but you'd never guess it. Also transplanted was lovely Lisa Lu, Stewart's Chinese co-star.

SHOW ON WORTH! CHEVROLET

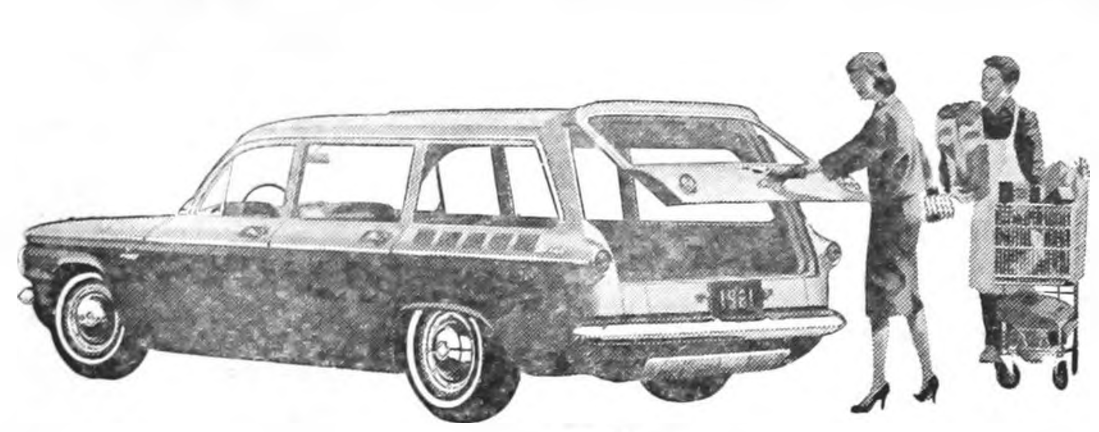
More space . . .
more spunk
and wagons, too!



The newest car in America: the CORVAIR 700 LAKEWOOD 4-DOOR STATION WAGON.

CORVAIR 700 CLUB COUPE. Like all coupes and sedans, it has a longer range fuel tank.

Here's the new Chevy Corvair for '61 with a complete line of complete thrift cars.

To start with, every Corvair has a budget-pleasing price tag. And Corvair goes on from there to save you even more. With extra miles per gallon . . . quicker-than-ever cold-start warmup so you start saving sooner . . . a new extra-cost optional heater that warms everyone evenly. Riding along with this extra economy: more room inside for you, more room up front for your luggage (sedans and coupes have almost 12% more usable trunk space).

And our new wagons? You'll love them—think they're the greatest thing for families since houses. The Lakewood Station Wagon does a man-sized job with cargo, up to 68 cubic feet of it. The Greenbrier Sports Wagon you're going to have to see—it gives you up to 175.5 cubic feet of space for you and your things.

Corvair's whole thrifty lineup gets its pep from a spunkier 145-cu.-in. air-cooled rear engine. Same rear-engine traction, same smooth 4-wheel independent-suspension ride. See the polished and refined 1961 Corvair first chance you get at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Spare tire is in the rear in coupes and sedans—leaving more luggage space up front.

Even middle-seat passengers sit pretty, thanks to Corvair's practically flat floor.

Loveless' refusal to debate shows lack of stature

While last week's Nixon-Kennedy debate before the nation — which was actually something less than a debate; rather a joint appearance — probably changed the minds of few voters, it did shine a very glaring light on one major political race in Iowa.

It must have left all thinking Iowans with a heightened curiosity as to why Gov. Herschel Loveless has so determinedly avoided a similar meeting with his young Republican opponent, Jack Miller.

Neither Vice President Nixon nor Senator Kennedy had any cause for fear that his appearance on the TV screen with his opponent had been harmful to his own campaign. Both men capably demonstrated their personal stature and emphasized that the determining factors in the November election will be — or most certainly SHOULD be — issues and party principles, NOT the personalities of the rivals.

But where Nixon and Kennedy each satisfactorily demonstrated that he could match his opponent on a public platform — which involved the display of more than a few important, private attributes — it is clearly evident that Governor Loveless is certain he would not come off anywhere near so well in a similar match with Jack Miller.

Loveless has been Iowa's governor for two terms mainly on the strength of being a man in the right spot at the right time. His background, from almost any standpoint you wish to consider, does not justify the political prominence he has gained — to say nothing of recommending him for the important office he is now seeking.

Deprived of his advisors close at hand, Herschel Loveless is pretty small potatoes. And he as much as concedes this evident fact in his alarm over the prospect of meeting Jack Miller in a toe-to-toe commentary on the issues involved in the contest for U. S. Senator.

Debate is a traditional medium for comparing abilities with a political foe. A refusal to engage in debate, to our notion, might well be interpreted as a concession of inferiority. As matters stand, the voters of this state have no choice but to regard that Loveless is plane-and-simple scared to appear in a match of wits with Jack Miller.

American agriculture's surplus years are numbered

It is small consolation to the present-day farmer to be reminded that the time is not too far distant when the problems of his industry may be much happier ones (for him) than they are today. But this virtual certainty of a few decades hence could well be borne in mind by those pursuing a sensible answer to the existing concern over crop surpluses.

Today there are 10.6 acres of all kinds of land and only 2.6 acres of cropland per capita in the United States. Our booming population produces the projected figures of only 8.8 acres of all kinds of land and 2.25 acres of cropland within another 15 years.

How different was the picture when the census of 1800 reported a population of 5,308,483 to be provided for from a vast land area of 553,437,440 acres — an average of 104.2 acres per person!

We have been profligate with our rich endowment of fertile land. In many areas, erosion and poor crop management have depleted the productivity of once rich acres to a point that only years of scientific conservation effort will return them to usefulness.

As a result — though it's hard to believe, at this stage — the day is inevitably coming when our No. 1 farm problem is going to be one of scarcity, like that which already exists in so much of the world.

Fortunately, Americans are caring for their land better than did their ancestors of a century and a half following 1800. Actually, the soil and water conservation movement began in the mid-1930's and has since awakened a majority of the farmers to the fact that there are no new lands to which they can turn as did their forefathers.

As late as 1935, the best available experts were predicting a U. S. population of 158,000,000 in the year 1988. It is now certain that the 1960 census will find the population close of 180,000,000; and the figure of 300,000,000 is looked upon as a conservative estimate for the year 2000.

These statistical facts emphasize that today's farm problem cannot be solved to the detriment of the even more critical one in prospect within so relatively few years.

Surpluses need to be avoided insofar as possible today, not just because they pose an economic problem for the farmer-producer, but because the land fertility creating them will be crucially needed to feed the American horde of which our own children will be a part.

Beware candidate who promises "all" for nothing

One aspect of the campaign promises of all candidates running for federal offices should be examined closely by all citizens distressed with the steady substitution of government controls for free enterprise.

Like our ever-climbing federal debt, the trend toward infringement upon private rights has been steadily on the increase. When these infringements are identified for what they are — government socialism — most citizens cry out in alarm . . . against all except those from which they seemingly benefit.

John Q. Public is slow to learn that he CANNOT receive back from the government any financial aid except what is comprised of funds he, himself, has placed in the federal coffers.

A vote for the candidate who promises the most "for nothing" is a vote for (1) higher taxes; and (2) more extensive inflation, which reduces the value of the dollars you're allowed to keep.

DON'T ELECT candidates who freely make the federal treasury their personal campaign fund via brash promises. (As good an example of this type of candidate as we can think of is Congressman Merwin Coad. He hasn't given away the Capitol yet — but give him another term and he may get the job done.)

What's farmwife worth?...Plenty!

How much is a farm wife worth?

It all depends . . . A specialist at Washington State university says more than $2,000 a year, absolute minimum.

He reached this conclusion by calculating her value as housekeeper, baby sitter, cook, nurse and governess, on a basis of a minimum of 40 hours a week, (8 hours a day, five days a week, at $1.00 per hour), and this means an annual cost of replacing these services of $2,080 . . . or in ten years, $20,800.

TO ALL THIS HE ADDS WORKmen's compensation and liability insurance for the housekeeper, and the cost of advertising, interviewing and screening, plus a training period.

Another study of the minimum cost of replacing the service of a wife and mother in a home containing a husband and two small children, four months and 16 months, established the figure of $5,800 This was arrived at in this manner.

Combination nurse-governess for the children, $80.00 per week; part-time housekeeper, (16 hours at $1.50 hr.), $24.00 per week; baby sitter (6 hours per week at $1.00 hr.), $6.00 per week.

THUS HE REACHED THE MINimum figure of $5,000 per year, to replace the service of a wife and mother, and if the young widower remained unmarried for five years a cost of $30,000 . . . would result.

But this is the minimum, and it doesn't include the love, the devotion, the overtime, the counselling, the companionship, and in many cases the contributions made to the family income by part-time or full-time working wives and mothers.

AND HOW CAN YOU ASSESS the value of a farm wife who works side by side with her husband and family, gardening, helping in busy seasons in the field and in the barn, keeping farm accounts?

(Isn't it time that we mere men awakened to the fact that our most valuable asset is a neatly proportioned bundle of enticing humanity our wives?) — Blue Earth (Minn.) Post

Frowns on controls

The Kennedy (farm) program is directed toward more and tighter governmental controls. They would require an enlarged bureaucracy and interferences which farmers rarely relish.

The Nixon program looks toward fewer controls and a freer market. Therefore it is far more in line with this newspaper's long-held basic position on farm problems. — Christian Science Monitor

Aid should accompany state school controls

A point for more state aid to schools was made by Steve Knezevitch before school boards last Thursday night.

The professor from Iowa University said that the state department of public instruction and other state agencies are making increasing demands on schools to meet certain educational requirements and also for the physical plant.

Since they are making this demand, they should also take a greater part in the financial responsibility toward the schools.

EVERY TIME A NEW REGULAtion comes out, it costs the local school additional money, but they receive no more in state aid. A document circulated to schools shows there are "82 standards for the approval of school districts." Add to this the fire marshal's demands, the state safety department demands on school buses, etc., and the school costs mount.

However, educators cry for more state aid, but few offer ideas for sources of the funds. It's up to the legislators to do this job and we'll have to settle for more sales or income taxes in order to have some relief from property taxes. — Britt News-Tribune

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO US—

This week The Independent is not only turning over a fresh leaf — it's starting an entirely new volume. You will notice in the dateline underneath our nameplate that this is issue No. 1 of Volume 42. That connotes the fact that the Independent, whose first issue came off the press back in 1919, has completed 41 years of publication and this week launches on its 42nd year.

From a standpoint of direct continuity, we could as well be calling the present volume 78, for The Independent's forebears by merger actually go back to 1872.

Because we take pride in those forebears, we wish that the older volume number had been adopted when The Independent was consolidated with The Herald-Press back in 1928. But because the merged papers continued as The Independent, Publisher Roy Rankins chose to retain the volume number of the newspaper he had established in 1919.

"MIRROR" WAS FIRST —

Looking back at our family tree, we can trace our direct origin back to this community's first newspaper, The Belmond Mirror. Hon. B. P. Birdsall in his history of Wright county says this publication was founded in 1873 by G. G. Pritchard and A. M. Allen.

We're quite sure that the historian erred by a matter of a few months in the year of the Mirror's establishment.

The file of The Belmond Herald (the name Frank Gates substituted for "Mirror" after he bought the paper in 1876) has on the front page of its issue of Jan. 5, 1910, Vol. 37 No. 21 — which would indicate The Mirror actually was first published in late August of 1872.

By direct line through consolidations that have taken place over the years, The Herald would be our oldest antecedent — and give us claim to being in our 78th year of publication.

PAPERS HAVE BEEN FEW—

Compared to many communities of our age, Belmond has had relativley few newspapers. Only two died shortly after birth. Back in 1884 a Democratic paper, The Belmond Democrat, was published briefly. At another time there existed for a few issues The Belmond Times (date unknown).

For a period of almost 20 years, Belmond had competing newspapers prior to World War I. J. D Baker, father of Glenn, Guy and Ralph Baker, in 1895 founded The Iowa Valley Press.

The Press and The Herald were rivals until 1914, when both were purchased by The Belmond Printing company, which was owned by a group of stockholders that included many prominent Belmond citizens of that day (plus a few from Garner).

W. R. and W. C. Ramsay acquired The Iowa Valley Press in 1900 and were the publishers until it was consolidated with The Belmond Herald and the two were combined as the Belmond Herald-Press. E A Pierce was owner of the Herald at the time of the merger, having bought it in 1897 from S. A. Keeler.

LAST CONSOLIDATION—

The Herald Press had the field to itself for five years, when The Independent made its appearance. Then, for another nine years Belmond was a two-newspaper town.

Probably the higher costs of operation that followed World War I influenced the sale of The Herald-Press to Roy Rankins in 1928. The latter suspended publication of the older publication in favor of continuing the combined papers as The Independent — and hence comes about our advancement this week to Vol. 42, rather than a change to Vol. 78 last August.

At any rate, The Independent and its predecessors have served Belmond and vicinity for going on 79 years. By and large, these newspapers have served the community with distinction — and we like to think that it's a BETTER community for the influence the press has had.

REPUBLICAN ALL THE WAY—

All of Belmond's newspapers, with the exception of the ill-fated Democrat, have been outright Republican journals or have at least favored the Grand Old Party. This has posed no problem most of the time (although we suspect that there must certainly have been some Democrats among the host of stockholders in the old Belmond Printing company).

Now, however, The Independent's ownership numbers two active Republicans and one no less active Democrat. We keep following the Republican line, editorially, and must say that Duane Anderson is tolerant about what must be to him an unhappy state of affairs. We suspect he does some mumbling as he sets editorials flailing at the Democrats. Sometimes he sails forth to Ye Ed's office to give argument.

Your writer must confess that Andy's probably a better sport about the situation than Ye Ed would be, were the positions reversed.

Know your businessmen—

Rise regime has seen creamery stay strong

In an era when creameries have been folding like flies hit with a facefull of Flit, the Belmond Co-operative Creamery is a noteworthy example of how sound management can successfully defy the times.

Manager Curt Rise would be the last to claim that whole credit for this situation should go to him. If you talk to Curt about it, he will tell you that the creamery has been fortunate, indeed, to have a steady string of progressive-minded directors during the crucial years that have forced so many creameries out of business.

Curt also gives generous credit to the leadership that has been provided by Lynn Thompson, who as chairman of the board threw his influence behind the plans for modernizing the creamery that in the past eight years have made it one of the finest to be found in all of north Iowa.

But if you questioned these men whose contributions are cited by Curt, there's little doubt that they would readily give Curt a major share of the credit for the sound position Belmond Co-op Creamery enjoys today.

It was back in 1939 that Mr. Rise first became an employee of the creamery. His status was more or less that of a helper during the years before he was drafted for military duty in 1942. He spent a good share of the next four years abroad, attached to a transportation unit that brought him service in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

His military service not only brought him a lot of interesting experiences, it also brought him an association with a charming madamoiselle by the name of Marguerite who served Curt's unit as interpretor when he was stationed in Alsace; and when he departed for the States it was with the understanding that his fiancee would follow as quickly as the unwinding of red tape would permit.

Actually, it was the better part to eight months before Marguerite made it to Belmond. They were married here in January of 1947 and now have two sons, Philip, age 12, and Bobby, 11.

While Curt was in uniform, the creamery ceased to operate as a stock company and became a cooperative. Curt regards that step as one of the essential ones that have made its survival possible. When he got out of uniform, he resumed his employment with the creamery.

In 1950, Curt became manager; and two years later the modernization plan was worked out that saw the creamery building — one of the older business establishments in town — completely rennovated.

According to Mr. Rise, close to $55,000 was expended on new equipment and on remodeling the building. Every item of equipment in the plant was replaced in the next half dozen years with the exception of the boiler, which had been new in 1945. Pasteurizers, churns . . . refrigerating equipment . . . receiving equipment.

Then to cap the program off, the building — which had been added onto twice, to accommodate the growth of business — was remodeled from top to bottom. This job was completed in 1958, and the creamery officers were then able to view the future with no further need for large capital outlay for appreciable years to come.

All these improvements were made without the need for any sort of mortgage or for going into a dollar's worth of debt. When the business had become a cooperative, annual dividends that otherwise would have been payable in cash to the patrons were regularly held up to finance such a program as has lately been completed.

In June of this year, a $6,000 accumulation of dividends was at last paid out to the customers. This represented the cash payable to them for the years 1944-49.

It is Curt's expectation that yearly dividends will most likely be paid now until about three years' accumulation is all that is outstanding. That will be regarded by the directors, according to present plan, as a "current" basis and maintained. This amount of money will be needed against possible contingencies and will represent the total current investment of the patrons in the business.

Manager Rise anticipates that another three or four years will suffice to bring dividend payments thus up to date. He concedes that in today's radically changing agriculture, it is difficult to read very far into the future for a business such as the creamery. But he says the past decade and a half have seen it entrench itself as not only a sound but thriving business; and he believes that by "keeping up with the times" it will continue to be such for years into the future.

VOL. 42 NO. 2 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, OCT. 13, 1960 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

When Dr. Les Classick was elected some time ago as president of the Wright County Veterinary association, we were advised too late to make a timely news item of it. So we waited an occasion when we might "sneak" it into the paper in belated fashion.

That opportunity has now presented itself in somewhat unexpected fashion. The Veterinary association has been publishing periodically a series of advertisements in the county press, and the Eagle Grove Eagle was collecting the money and distributing it to the various papers.

This week we received from the Eagle a check accompanied by a note saying, "Send all future bills to Dr. Leo Clock, Belmond, not to . . . Dr. Leo Clock! Not a very near miss — but that's our man, Dr. Les Classick, president of the WCVA.

Our neighbors to the north have formed a Hancock County Little Theater for the 1960-61 season, which this coming week is presenting its first production, "You Can't Take It With You." Curtain time Monday at the Garner Memorial auditorium will be 8:15 p. m. (It will have a second performance Tuesday at Britt). Mrs. Grace Stroh is the director and the cast personnel was chosen from both Garner and Britt. A second production is planned for next March, consisting of three one-act plays.

A reader of this column suggests that is is unnecessary for Belmondites and their neighbors to drive any long distance this year to enjoy autumnal foliage in its brilliant grandeur. She says that an afternoon ride past almost any of this vicinity's numerous wooded areas is highly rewarding right now, mentioning in particular Tyrrell's grove, Hickory Grove and the riverside timber on the road east from Highway 69 past Gerald McNulty's farm — with the latter itinerary continuing east and then circling back to Goodell.

Before very long, the Belmond soybean processing plant of General Mills, Inc., will be under another division name. These changes have come so fast in recent years that the local administration has some trouble in keeping the big General Mills sign in the office yard up-to-date.

An announcement made from the Minneapolis office last Thursday advised the Oilseeds Division (with which the plant here is now affiliated) will soon be combined with the Special Commodities Division and the combination renamed the Specialty Products Division.

The soybean plant was initially in the Vegetable Oil and Protein Division, then in the Chemical Division . . . then the Soybean Division, before the Oilseeds Division came into being. Sewel Andrews, Jr., who's headed Oilseeds, will head the new, combined operation, says "the General."

We heard several comments made by Bronco fans who followed the football team to Britt last Friday as to how Britt High school might appropriately use some of the admission money poured into the host school's coffers. It's probable that the Belmond crowd numbered conservatively 400 to 500.

Any who sat in the "guest bleachers" were ready to recommend that some of the money they brought to Britt might be spent beneficially to give a few more visitors seating facilities — and something wider than a six-inch board to sit on.

Others contributed the proposal that a scoreboard of some sort — perhaps even so elaborate as to include a clock to count off the minutes of the game — might be to the point. . . . Our accommodations for football visitors may not be the best; but Britt demonstrates they AREN'T the worst!

Scouts to collect Goodwill articles Saturday morning

Saturday, Scoutmaster Merle Bonte and the Boy Scouts of Belmond will perform the last part of the annual "Good Turn Day" clothing drive for the Goodwill Industries.

On that day, the filled bags and boxes from homes in this community will be collected and taken to a central collection station where the Goodwill Industries truck will pick them up next week.

Contributors in Belmond are asked to please have their filled bags set out on their front steps by 8:30 a.m. The Scouts will not be ringing doorbells for them.

In the event that your home was missed last Saturday when bags for Goodwill items were distributed by the Cub Scouts, Mr. Bonte asks that discarded clothing and other contributions be placed in any sort of sack or box and set out for pick-up this Saturday.

Badly needed articles are: discarded clothing for men, women and children; shoes, with pairs tied together; curtains, drapes, linens, bedding and other items of cloth; small toys, electrical appliances and other household articles and utensils.

Ted Leaver, Jr., of Clear Lake, activities chairman of the Winnebago Council Area, urges householders to look in closets, basements and attics for articles no longer needed that can help the handicapped men and women at Goodwill Industries to earn their own living.

It is repeated that newspapers and magazines cannot be used at this time and will not be collected.

Vikings foe in Homecoming game

Tomorrow night's gridiron battle between Belmond and Northwood will highlight the annual BHS Homecoming festivities, which are scheduled to get underway with the traditional afternoon parade.

Clarence "Buddy" Mounts, in his first year as coach of the Vikings, had a nucleus of seven lettermen around which to build this year's Northwood team. Only seven members of his 40-man varsity squad are seniors.

Among the Viking veterans is Dave Skellinger, who as sophomore guard last year stamped himself as one of the most promising linemen the North Iowa conference has produced in some time.

Skellinger's running-mate at guard, Charles Wright, is also a letterman, as are End John Orvedal, Tackle John Roberts and Center Craig Pangburn. The only two experienced backs are Albert Adams and Dwight Hall.

Mounts can field one of the heaviest lines in the conference and the Vikings have been showing much improvement as the season has progressed. The Broncos will enter the game quite decided favorites, but Coach Rich Koolbeck has predicted that Northwood is apt to hand some NIC foe a shocker before the campaign is over. He's hoping the Broncs will be resolved not to submit themselves as victims before a Homecoming crowd.

Thursday of last week each of the BHS classes elected a Homecoming Queen candidate by popular vote, the Queen to be chosen tomorrow by vote of the varsity football squad. Contenders for the honor of reigning over the Homecoming of 1960 are: Eileen Morris, senior; Ruth Larson, junior; Norlene Pastour, sophomore; and Kathy Soma, freshman.

The privilege of crowning the Queen and presenting her with a bouquet of roses during the halftime activities Friday night will go to the game co-captains, Bob Stadtlander and Mike Armour.

Tomorrow afternoon's parade will start forming up adjoining the school grounds at 2:06 o'clock and is expected to leave on its parade route about 2:30. As usual, each of the 12 homerooms will have a float and another will be entered jointly by the FHA and FFA. Led by the band the paraders will stop briefly at the First State bank corner for a pep rally.

A traveling trophy is awarded to the winning float and a picture of it is placed in a frame on the trophy, this practice supplanting the award of cash prizes made prior to last year. Judges will select the three best floats and all of the floats wil be displayed at the football game for the benefit of persons unable to witness the afternoon parade.

Following the game, the usual dance at the gymnasium will conclude the Homecoming program. Music will be provided by the Ralph-Lester Combo, which is booked out of Webster City.

Tico very happy to be home after 10 harrowing days as "free" bird

It's well known to Tico's friends that he is back home once more and seemingly recovered from his recent harrowing experience. But the episode is sufficiently newsworthy that probably even those whom Tico is not acquainted with would find it of interest.

Tico is a handsome, blue parakeet belonging to the R. H. Gowdy's. Being tropical birds, parakeets supposedly must lead a sheltered life to survive. They are to be kept reasonably warm, should not be exposed to drafts, etc.

Consequently, when Tico "flew the coop" in late September when a door was inopportunely opened one Sunday afternoon while he was out of his cage, much concern was felt by his owners.

A desperate search of Kirkendall Addition and environs was conducted to no avail; and as day followed day with no reports of Tico having been sighted about town, all hope for his recovery was abandoned.

It was 10 days afterward that Maynard Holmgaard, completing his residential mail deliveries on south River avenue, noticed a patch of blue on a windowsill at Nell's Place on the highway. When he walked over to investigate, a forlorn and grubby-looking parakeet fluttered onto his shoulder.

There the bird remained when Maynard walked into the tavern. In due course, it was learned that Minnie Galloway — across the street — had a vacant bird cage and the little fugitive was willingly placed in its safe confines.

The next morning, Mrs. Gowdy claimed the feathered mite — by no means sure that it was, indeed, Tico. After all, temperatures had sunk as low as 39 degrees during his absence. Also, this parakeet was tattle-tale grey where Tico'd been white and there were unfamiliar yellow rings around the eyes.

It was a very chastened bird that perched wearily in Tico's cage after the return home. And whereas Tico had possessed a rather remarkable vocabulary, no conversation emerged from between the bars.

Identity was firmly established not too long afterward, however. Feeling a bit more chipper, the little blue "budgie" hopped from the cage and made a landing on Miriam Gowdy's shoulder. After riding there a while, Tico peered up into his mistress's face and announced with a return of his old-time roguishness, "You're cute!"

It just HAD to be Tico.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST of the Belmond General Mills plant last Friday and his hosts for the occasion are pictured below (left to right): Henry Stokke, Susanta Mukherjee of Calcutta, India, Robert Kellermann and Walt Hotvet. Both Mr. Mukherjee and officials of General Mills are hopeful that the visitor may be able to arrange under Public Law 480 for the import of some sizeable quantities of GMI edible proteins to his native land.

Food director here Friday—

Official from India visits GMI

General Mills had an interesting visitor at its soybean processing plant here Friday afternoon in the person of Susanta Mukherjee, who is Reginal Director of Food for the Government of India and is administrative head of the largest of five districts, which has headquarters at Calcutta.

Mr. Mukherjee, 32, is an economist by profession. He has been in this country since Sept. 10 to inspect various types of grain storage — particularly those that are most economical and can be erected in the shortest time; and to investigate the possibilities of increasing the import of grain and food proteins to India under Public Law 480.

He was particularly interested in the edible proteins being produced at the GMI plant here and went through the plant areas where they are being processed.

When Fred Hafner, director of protein operations for General Mills, was in India in the spring of '59 in charge of the U. S. soybean exhibit at Calcutta's International Trade Fair he made Mr. Mukherjee's acquaintance.

India's population is desperately in need of additional protein. Because PL 480 permits exchange of foreign currencies for American agricultural products, the visitor from India is hopeful that he can obtain government approval for the purchase of food proteins under the international aid program.

Mr. Mukherjee spent Wednesday and Thursday at GMI's Minneapolis headquarters; also Friday, prior to his departure for Belmond in the afternoon. On Monday of this week he was in Washington, D. C.

After eating with local GMI executives Friday evening, Mr. Mukherjee was their guest at the Belmond-Britt football game. The sport was not entirely strange to him, as he'd earlier witnessed the Nebraska-Minnesota game. But soccer is the sport equivalent to football in India, and he did not find the American version nearly so interesting as some of its adjuncts — such as the cheerleaders and pep clubs.

An outspoken opponent of Communism, Mr. Mukherjee sees little likelihood that India will ever turn to that ideology. While he grants that some of his people might be more susceptible to the Communists' blandishments than himself, he says Communism gets a foothold only where a high percentage of literacy is present with abject poverty.

He concedes that poverty is widespread in his nation — in fact, was a factor behind his visit to the U. S. A. — but that 79 per cent of his fellow countrymen are at present illiterate and that this constitutes a near insurmountable obstacle to the spread of Communism.

$50 worth of excitement

Only $50 in Cash Gift Day greenbacks were claimed Tuesday afternoon — but the fellow who made the first strike at Sutter's Mill that started the California gold rush could have been no more excited or elated that this week's winner. Young Peggy Blau, whose Buyers Guide number at 3:00 o'clock was good for the sheaf of "lucky bucks," breathlessly declared, "I never had anything like THIS happen to me before!" With the "pump primed," now, the CGD sponsors are hopeful that they can get some more Cash Gift Day money into circulation next Tuesday. There'll again be $400 in awards — eight of $25 each at 2:00 p. m. and four of $50 each at 3:00 o'clock.

"Coad Caravan" coming Saturday

This Saturday will see the "Coad Caravan" passing through Wright county, making stops at all communities so Congressman Merwin Coad can greet a maximum number of people.

Mr. Coad will be accompanied by the Democratic candidates for county office. His group will leave Eagle Grove at 9:00 a. m.; will be in Clarion at 11:30 a. m.; and is due in Belmond at 2:00 p. m.

Next week's regular meeting of the Young Democrats will be held at Belmond, Tuesday at 8:00 p. m. Meeting place will be the Jaycee clubroom below the R. W. Courson Agency office.

Leinbachs building on old store site—

Construction of new IEL&P office started

This week work was to be started on construction of a new office building for Iowa Electric Light and Power company on the Main street site from which the old Jacobson building was lately removed. Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Leinbach are having the building erected for the utilities firm, which holds a 10-year lease and an option to lease for a second such period of time.

A. R. Dorr Sons has the building contract; the wiring will be done by Packard Electric company; and Kinseth Plumbing and Heating will be responsible for the plumbing and heating installations. Spahn and Rose Lumber company submitted low bid for supplying the building materials.

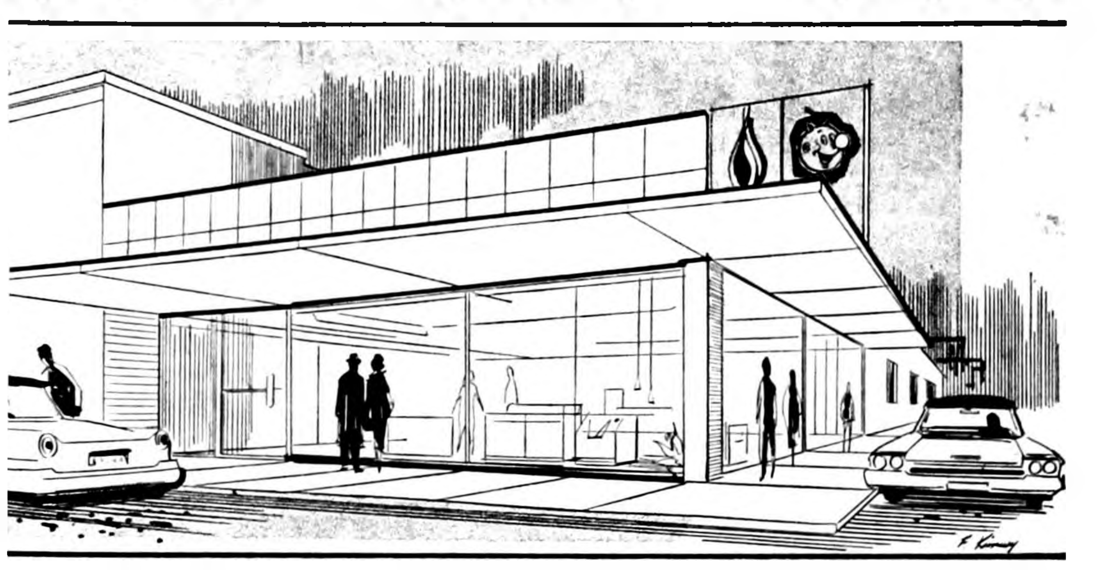
Designer of the 24x90-foot structure was W. Dean Barnhizer, who is architect for IEL&P and a member of the company's Cedar Rapids staff. Cecil Carstens, local manager for Iowa Electric Light and Power, says the building has been designed specifically to meet his firm's requirements and its attractive appearance will make it a distinct addition to Main street.

Front of the building and extending back 16 feet on the west will be comprised mainly of spacious windows, with trim of Mirawal teal blue enamel panels. Remainder of the exterior will be in gold tone clay block. A six-foot aluminum canopy will extend the width of the front and extend back 18 feet on the west.

The office proper will have a 10-foot ceiling and will occupy the front 50 feet on the interior. It will have an asphalt tile floor in teal blue color and feature light interior colors. Mr. Carstens promises it will be "the best lit building in town."

At the back will be two rest rooms and a conference room. These will be separated from the office area by a partition of oak plywood in a basketweave pattern. Air-conditioning will be installed in the building next spring.

Plans called for Kinseth to have water and sewer lines installed before the end of this week and Dorr Sons to have the footings laid. Construction will be resumed when the footings are thoroughly set, with a view to having the building ready for occupancy by Christmas time.



THIS ATTRACTIVE building will serve as the office of the Iowa Electric Light and Power company when the structure is completed — probably in late December—by A. R. Dorr Sons. Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Leinbach are having it built for the utilities firm under a lease arrangement.

TB survey finds 13 with possible disease infection

The 15th annual Contact X-ray Program in Wright county has been concluded according to Mrs. A. B. Parsons of Eagle Grove, president of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association.

Chest x-rays of 58 persons were taken while the mobile x-ray unit was in the county and interpretation of the films indicated 13 of these showed findings suspicious of tuberculosis.

In addition, 15 persons were found to have other chest abnormalities indicating possible tumors, heart conditions, cancer, or other ailments which may need further medical attention. Thirty persons were notified they had healthy chests.

Seals help meet cost

The Contact X-ray Program is an effort to find unknown tuberculosis among persons who have been in close contact with someone with tuberculosis in a contagious stage. Funds from the Wright county sale of Christmas Seals help defray the expense of the program.

Mrs. Alice Alleman, R. N., public health nurse, directed the program and interviewed those who have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. She made 63 calls to homes, taking case histories of 138 persons. These visits followed conferences with 20 physicians.

Doctors' approval held

The Contact Program is sponsored jointly by the Wright County association, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association, and the state department of health. It has the approval of the Wright County Medical Society.

About 80 counties in Iowa have been searching for tuberculosis in this manner since 1937, when the program was started.

Homemakers' holiday handicraft day slated by family living committee

The Extension Family Living Committee is sponsoring a homemakers' handicraft day Tuesday of next week from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the Evangelical Lutheran church basement in Eagle Grove.

In Merit Scholarship tests—

2 from BHS win commendation

Kay Stecher and Dennis Anderson, seniors at Belmond Community High school, have been honored for outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT) given last spring. Each received Tuesday a Letter of Commendation signed by principal Ernest Doeringsfeld and the president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, John M. Stalnaker.

The parents of Kay Stecher are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stecher and of Dennis Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Anderson. The two boys were among 23 BHS students who took the qualifying test as juniors last April.

Mr. Stalnaker last week announced: "Letters of Commendation are being awarded to some 28,000 students throughout the United States in recognition of their excellent performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

"While these bright youngsters did not reach the status of semi-finalists in the 1960-61 Merit Program they are so outstanding that we wish to single them out for special attention. The semi-finalists and commended students together constitute less than three per cent of all high school seniors, and this certainly signifies noteworthy achievement."

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation gives recognition to two groups of students who achieve high scores on the NMSQT. The semi-finalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in United States territories. Some 10,000 semi-finalists will take a second examination in December to establish further their eligibility to receive Merit Scholarships.

"The Letters of Commendation provide tangible recognition of the commended students' high ability," Mr. Stalnaker continued. "It is our earnest hope that the recipients will continue their education, and thus benefit not only themselves but also the nation."

The commended students were among 580,000 high school juniors in more than 15,000 schools who took the NMSQT last spring. The test is a three-hour examination which covers five separate areas of educational development. It was the first step in the sixth annual Merit Program.

This year's program will conclude next May with the naming of students who will receive four-year Merit Scholarships to the colleges of their choice.

The commended students and the semi-finalists who do not win Merit Scholarships are considered for certain other scholarships which are offered through the facilities of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Mary Lu Cox, a BHS graduate last spring and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luin Cox, was a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist under the 1959 program.

Korthas sees no '60 Chest drive

Al Korthas, who recently accepted presidency of the Belmond Community Chest Council for a second year, has informed The Independent that it appears no Community Chest drive will be held this year for lack of interest.

Difficulty has been experienced in getting a sufficient number of council members out at meetings to take the necessary preparatory actions to set up a campaign, he said.

Local campaigns have been held annually in late October, to coincide with national Community Chest publicity. Because nothing has been done to date to organize a 1960 drive, and because no one has been found to serve as its chairman, Mr. Korthas feels that it is too late to set up a plan of solicitation.

"In the last couple of years it has become increasingly difficult to find sufficient volunteer workers to conduct the campaign, and it has proved impossible to get even enough Chest Council members out to meetings to have a quorum present," the council president said.

"It seems too bad, after the success the Chest has enjoyed during most of the years of its existence, that it should die at this stage," he continued. "But with the indifference that has been shown toward the Chest by persons whose help is needed to keep it going, I see no choice but to let this year — at least — pass without a campaign."

Watne re-elected president of FB Tuesday evening

Some 175 members of the Wright County Farm Bureau and guests attended that organization's annual meeting Tuesday night in the basement of St. John's Catholic church, Clarion, and heard as main speaker of the occasion E. Howard Hill of Minburn, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation.

In the election of officers, all incumbents were returned for another term with the exception of Richard Derscheid of Dayton township, who was not a candidate again for secretary. Olaf Watne of Blaine township was re-elected president.

Past presidents honored

Other officers who will serve during 1960-61 are: Lyle Lewellyn, Lincoln township, vice president; Donald Mrazek, Liberty, secretary; Leroy Watts, Dayton, treasurer; Mrs. Leo Woodley, Lincoln, chairman of the women's committee; and Mrs. Jay I. Knuths, Iowa, vice chairman.

A highlight of the program was the honoring of the past presidents of the Wright County Farm Bureau. Six were present: Ed Kerstein, who headed the organization in the 'twenties; Bill McCormick, approximately 1936-40; Gerhard Thompson, 1943-46; Lawrence Woodley, 1946-49; Lynn Thompson, 1950-54; Casper "Cap" Hahn, 1955-59. Unable to attend because of illness was Fred Soults, 1941-43.

206 Opinionnaires returned

Lyle Lewellyn presented the resolutions to be forwarded by Wright county to the Iowa Federation, which were based on the return of 1960 Opinionnaires. Roger Brown, area fieldman for the Farm Bureau, reports that 206 members returned Opinionnaires this year, compared to only 102 a year ago.

In his remarks, President Hill pointed out various facets of the existing farm problem and the need for electing candidates this fall who are sympathetic and understanding toward the farmer's plight. He also discussed reapportionment at some length and explained the Farm Bureau's objections to a constitutional convention.

PLAN RUMMAGE SALE

St. Margaret's Circle of the Catholic church plans to hold a rummage sale Saturday in the vacant building just east of Nolan Rexall Drug. Selling will start at 9:30 a.m.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Because he not only appeals to them, but stands up for them, Dick Clark is solidly entrenched as one of the American teen-agers' top idols. In "Because They're Young," showing Thursday through Saturday, Dick is cast as a high school teacher who helps his young charges work out solutions to their school and out-of-school problems, both. A first-class cast of teen-age talent supports him, including popular Tuesday Weld.

"Whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge," said Ruth of the old Testament. It was that pledge that inspired "The Story of Ruth," which occupies the New Belmond screen Sunday through Wednesday.

In the title role is beautiful Elana Eden, young Israeli star, who was signed for the part after some 600 women had been interviewed or screen-tested.

When she showed up for a screen test at London, her dark hair was close-cropped because she'd been all set to go into the Israel army (compulsory for girls, as well as boys). Now her military duty will have to wait a while.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Henry Cabot Lodge, Mighty Warrior for Free Peoples

Vice President Nixon thanked the Republican Convention for "nominating as my running mate a world statesman of the first rank." Lodge, as vice president, will be directing America's foreign economic policy. His talents will be used.

Lodge was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1936, when only 34. He was reelected in 1942 but resigned shortly afterward to enter the Army and serve combat duty with distinction during World War II.

He was, in fact, the only U. S. Senator to leave the Senate for war service since the Civil War.

World War II over, Lodge won Senate reelection again in 1946 only to lose his fourth term bid in the 1952 campaign when he devoted practically all his time to help elect Eisenhower President.

He is best known as the United States Ambassador to the United Nations, who successfully crosses blades with any and all Soviet delegates sent to the UN to defame America.

The unmistakable stamp of Greatness!

In commerce, as in art, it is rare indeed that a creation emerges so inspired in concept and so flawless in execution that it is destined, from the very beginning, for certain greatness.

And yet, it seems not too soon to say that the Cadillac car of 1961 will take its place among the most memorable of the peak achievements of the automotive craft.

Its clean, classic form introduces a new look for the world's motor cars to emulate. There's a new proportion of glass to steel . . . a new "oneness" of contour and shape . . . an entirely new relationship of interior to silhouette.

Inside, the story is equally remarkable. Here is new roominess in every dimension. Head room, seat height, and entrance room, for example, have been notably increased with impressive results in greater comfort and luxury.

And as its beauty is . . . so its performance does—incredibly nimble and quick . . . smooth and floating . . . quiet and obedient in operation.

Cadillac's new engine is the very essence of controlled power . . . steering is feather light and sure . . . and its new ride seems to make the roadway vanish beneath the wheels.

This is one car you must see and drive for yourself. The facts are simply too numerous and too exciting to accept second hand.

It's the 1961 Cadillac—and we know you'll agree that greatness is written all over it.

If Britt's play against Belmond last Friday night was any criterion — and considering that the Broncos have beaten every team that the Eagles have yet to meet during the current football season — Coach Steve Everett's crew should be a shoo-in for this year's North Iowa conference gridiron title.

Britt's win gave Everett's defending co-champs sole possession of top spot in the NIC standings.

Before a record-sized Homecoming crowd, the Eagles completely out-played, out-charged — and, incidentally, outscored — the Broncs to chalk up a decisive 26-to-6 victory. It took Britt no more than five plays to make clear who was going to be boss for the evening.

Five plays bring 1st tally

Belmond, after receiving the opening kickoff, lost the ball three plays later when a Jerry Jenison pass settled directly into the arms of Jim Rasmuson on the mid-stripe and the Eagle back returned the ball to the Broncs' 44. He then ripped off 17 yards. Bob Nielsen added 14, 10 and one more to set up a two-yard touchdown plunge — the chore being performed by the selfsame Nielsen.

Likely less than three minutes were required to give Britt its 6-0 edge (a fumble killed the run for point); and the Broncos were never thereafter able to make a serious threat to steal the game away.

Hopes of the horde of Bronco followers rose when Belmond reeled off three first downs after the ensuing kickoff, but the drive petered out on Britt's 33.

Half ends 6-to-0

Belmond contained the Eagle offense fairly well the remainder of the first half, and the Broncos even advanced the ball to Britt's 25 shortly before halftime. But a try for first down failed by inches at that point, and Belmond was never afterward to come as close to evening accounts.

It was midway in the third quarter when Britt launched its second scoring march, after an exchange of punts had given the Eagles possession on the Bronco 42. On the ensuing series of downs, Sophomore Dale Brcka carried for eight yards — including a five-yard punch for the TD — and the other 34 yards were accounted for by Nielsen in six carries.

Fumble Costly to Broncs

A Neilsen pass to Rasmuson, one of only two the Eagles completed, was good for the extra point and Britt led 13-0.

On the first play after the Britt kickoff, Belmond fumbled and an Eagle recovered on the Bronco 27. It looked as if Belmond might hold this time, three downs being good for only four yards — but then the Bronco defense was completely suckered on an end-around play and Ray Walsh went 23 yards for the Eagles' tally. Brcka plunged successfully for the conversion and it was 20-0.

After the following kickoff, the Broncs gave their backers their first chance to do some sustained cheering. The "Whipple special" that had won the Buffalo Center game went for naught on the first play, but a Jenison screen pass to Vernon Pastour was then good for 26 yards.

Another pass to Vernie gained a yard, followed by a Jenison-to-Finn aerial that gained 20 more to the Britt 16. Proceedings took a dismal turn when the next two plays produced an aggregate of nearly 12 yards lost; but with 3rd-and-22 on the 28-yard line, Robbie Courson picked a Jenison toss out of the arms of two defenders at the goal line and Belmond trailed 20 to 6. Anderson's kick for point was no good.

Clearly indignant over the turn of events, the Eagles launched a 65-yard march after the Belmond kickoff to get the evening's final tally. Nielsen went the final six yards to pay dirt, but failed on a kick conversion after Britt was penalized for offside when Brcka ran a first attempt for point into the end zone.

In the remaining moments of the game, several Belmond sophomores disported themselves in commendable fashion. Ray Roberts made a nice gain of 11 yards. Dennis Hauge capably handled the quarterback chores — until a pass attempt was stolen by Britt — and Johnny Kaduce then spilled Nielsen for a six-yard loss.

Nielsen, who in the preceeding game against Northwood had carried less than a dozen times for a very modest net yardage, was unstoppable against the Broncs. The hard-hitting, 150-pound back toted the ball 19 times for a total of 125 yards. Belmond was able to gain little consolation from the fact that on another four tries he was spilled for nine yards loss.

Pastour Broncos' best

Pastour accounted for over half of Belmond's yardage, picking up 31 yards on seven running plays for a 4.4 yardage average and another 78 yards on passes. Bob Stadtlander played his usual excellent game on defense, while Merrill Kalkwarf and Bob Finn both turned in occasional fine defensive efforts.

But from the time Britt racked up its opening score, there really was little doubt about the final outcome. Whether the Eagles were actually just that much better, or whether they just outhustled the Broncs, is of little consequence with the water now all over the dam.

At any rate, Steve Everett has a mighty fine ball club and one that all of the North Iowa conference can take pride in as one of its representatives.

Junior high colts down Clarion by 14-6 margin

Belmond's junior high school gridders achieved a 14-6 victory over Clarion on Tuesday of last week in spite of having one touchdown called back by a clipping penalty and an advance to the five-yard line halted by a holding penalty.

A pass from Neal Waddington to Keith Sheller in the first quarter that covered about 20 yards produced the first Belmond touchdown. Raymond Johnson carried for the extra point.

There was no more scoring until the fourth period. Waddington made it 13-0 with a 30-yard gallop raound end and Craig Boller toted for the conversion. Clarion's lone tally came late in the final quarter.

It was a 70-yard TD sprint by Waddington that was cancelled by a teammate's clipping violation.

Coach Paul Hickman has 46 junior high gridiron candidates reporting to him, 22 from the 8th grade and 24 from the 7th, suggesting that these two classes should be providing plenty of varsity football talent a few years hence.

Sterling Laaveg, Gerald Madison, Bob Misner, Tony Mosiman, Bob Nelson, Gary Obrecht, Edwin Olson, Larry Pals, Keith Sheller and Neal Waddington.

Walter Mason, Jerry Mennenga, Jeff Modderman, Rollin Mosiman, Mike Pals, Leslie Peterson, Philip Rise, Lee Roberts, Larry Turner and Dennis Whipple.

Jr. Broncos down Bison froshmores

Coach Jerry Kintzi was able to use all his freshman-sophomores in the game here a week ago Monday against Buffalo Center's Bison Calves as the Junior Broncos racked up a 25-7 win. The visitors were so short-handed on underclassmen that they had to use four juniors to get their squad up to game strength.

Belmond posted a pair of touchdowns in each half to reach their total. Buffalo Center's tally came quite late in the game when Belmond reserves had taken over. A long run from an end sweep produced the BC marker.

Ray Roberts bulled over from six yards out for the Junior Broncs' initial touchdown. Belmond's next score came on a blocked punt, Denny Steenblock recovering in the Calves' end zone for six points. Dennis Hauge carried for the extra point.

A Hauge pass to Dennis Gallagher in the third quarter, covering about eight yards, was good for Belmond's third TD and Marlo Luick hit the line for about four yards produced the victors' final score. A jaunt of about 20 yards around left end by Hauge helped to set up the scoring opportunity.

The Junior Broncs will be playing at home again next Monday night, taking on the Britt Eaglets at 6:30 o'clock. They now have two wins in three starts.

Sheffield, Ia.

Dear Mr Editor.

It seems you are very well informed on the farm program How can you be so sure that Mr Kennedy's program will not work He has a program of supply and demand.

Your paper has a program of supply and demand. The second copy sent into each home would be almost useless.

Mr Benson's idea was to get rid of the steel bin. Instead about five years ago the rat race began, rent your neighbor's farm and produce twice as much corn.

Mr. Nixon says payment in kind, the kind we cannot eat, so we put it in the steel bin Give this corn to the farmer who must have money. He will sell it or feed it to livestock and therefore lower the price of red meat. The red meat will not keep in the steel bin.

Sincerely yours.
Jerry Hall

Clarion, Iowa

To the editor:

Why vote for a Constitutional Convention? Most authorities agree our Constitution is well written If there is a need for amending the Constitution of Iowa, such as reapportionment of legislature, our elected legislature has proved their ability.

In the past they have amended our Constitution 21 times in 12 different sessions of the legislature, with the approval of the people, and it still protects and preserves our rights.

If we hold a Constitutional Convention, once a Convention convenes, it is an absolute law unto itself, it is responsible to no one group. No one knows what amendments they might make.

In the state of Virginia, the convention delegates simply proclaimed their action the new law of the land. We, the people of Iowa, should not take our good Constitution and our rights for granted.

By past history we know our elected legislature will amend the Constitution, when needed, with approval by the vote of the people, and our rights will be preserved.

Hubert Heimstra,
Chairman, Farm Bureau
Legislative Committee

Late TD defeats Jr. Bronc eleven

Slightly under two minutes of playing time remained Monday evening when the Britt freshman-sophomore football team managed a touchdown on a 32-yard pass play and then converted on a plunge to beat the Junior Broncs 7 to 6.

Belmond was in command during most of the game, but in the last half was hampered by a series of poor punts. One punt by Ray Roberts was blocked, another sailed backward five or six yards and a 10-yarder after a bad pass from center set up Britt's score.

Roberts had cracked the line for Belmond's tally about mid-way through the second quarter. A pass attempt for extra point was no good. A Junior Bronc march in the third quarter went 54 yards, to Britt's 26, when Roberts was temporarily sidelined with an injury and the Eaglets took possession on the 28

Belmond stopped one Eaglet advance in the fourth quarter on the Broncos' 16 Britt had not been scored on prior to this game.

2 BHS students picked for special course in "math"

Dennis, son of Mr and Mrs. J. R. Gallagher, and Kristine Thompson, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Warren Thompson, who is a freshman, are among 500 underclass students who have been selected by the University of Minnesota to receive stepped-up training in mathematics through the medium of a special correspondence course

The university is conducting this program under the auspices of the School Mathematics Study Group of the National Science Foundation. Schools throughout Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and North and South Dakota were invited to submit the names of two candidates for the course, who could meet the qualifications.

Candidates had to rank in the top five percentile nationally in mathematical ability and to hold an equal ranking in general ability.

According to information from the University of Minnesota the 500 entitled to take the course were selected at random from among the eligible students. A fee of $6.00 is charged for the course, which is being met in Belmond's case by the high school It is returned upon satisfactory completion of the course, however.

Baby beeves now need not weigh initial 650 lbs.

The Jan. 1. 650-pound weight limit on Wright county 4-H projects baby beefs has been dropped, according to Gerald Anderson, county extension associate.

The new state 4-H rules expect members to start their project when animals are purchased using purchase weight as beginning weight. to feed calves separate from other cattle on the farm, and to eliminate fluid milk from the rations by the time the animals are 10 months old

All 4-H baby beef projects must be started before Jan 1 Baby beef projects will be tattoed on or before Jan 9, as has been done in previous years.

4-H club members are limited to three baby beef projects. They may be grade, crossbred, or purebred calves.

It is expected the Wright County District Junior fair board directors will change the county fair rules to conform to the new state rules concerning the dropping of baby beef weight limits.

Wickersham says the 4-H beef program is intended to teach and demonstrate cattle feeding methods the club member could follow profitably in a commercial operation. Paying "reckless" prices for a 200-to-1 "shot" at a championship is not sound training for practical beef production, he declares.

Convention seems only hope for reapportionment

An important aspect of this year's general election will be the vote on a constitutional convention. There are many valid pros and cons. However, above all other factors FAVORING a constitutional convention is the failure of the legislature to work out an equitable reapportionment of legislative representation.

Your writer must confess that while there seemed a reasonable prospect that the legislators might accept the responsibility for reapportionment he favored this method in preference to leaving the matter to a constitutional convention. But we now regard the prospect of legislative action as extremely remote.

During the 58th General Assembly, some highly influential and forward-looking lawmakers — including the late Clark McNeal and Sen. Duane Dewel of Algona — made an all-out effort to induce their fellow legislators to come to grips with the issue of reapportionment. They were unable to accomplish this goal, and there is every reason to believe that there is less likelihood of the 59th General Assembly getting the job done than seemed in prospect during the last session of the legislature.

Consequently, if a constitutional convention is not called, it seems more probable than not that reapportionment might very well be delayed for another decade. Representation in the legislature is grossly inequitable now, and another 10 years would find it even more so.

If rural citizens are presently fearful of how fairly they might be treated in the event of reapportionment, imagine the frame of mind in which an urban-dominated constitutional convention might approach the problem 10 years hence! We honestly don't believe that urban delegates would attack the matter of reapportionment in a vengeful spirit today; but we'd feel much less optimistic over the prospect for fair compromise if the more populous areas should be shortchanged on representation for another 10 years.

Opponents of a constitutional convention point to all sorts of dire things that MIGHT come about, if such a convention were held. They have examined the experience of other state constitutional conventions for the most horrible examples of cost and unhappy result. The fact is, a very large majority of the states that have called such conventions have found they performed their appointed function satisfactorily and at moderate expense.

It is reasonable to expect that the legislature, if required to set up a constitutional convention, would make every effort to see that its deliberations would benefit from the judgment of sensible, fair-minded, responsible citizens as delegates. That power would lie in the legislators' hands, most assuredly.

In addition, there is a strong precedent for submittal of all proposed amendments to the electorate for approval. There is EVERY REASON to believe that this precedent would be scrupulously observed in the event an Iowa constitutional convention is held, so that no alterations in the constitution could be made that did not enjoy MAJORITY APPROVAL of the voters.

If rural Iowans REALLY want to protect their best interests, we'd say they'd better vote for a constitutional convention NOW.

McManus would turn back on state school aid

Farm people who are loking hopefully for larger appropriations for state aid to schools to relieve them of some of their steadily heavier burdens in the way of property taxes should heed well what Lieut. Gov. Edward McManus has been having to say in regard to state aid. If he is a man of his word, he is pledged to fight increased school aid to the full extent of his influence if he is elected governor.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate must be given credit for making clear where he stands on the issue, considering that it is one of great urgency for rural Iowans. But McManus deserves much less credit in the reasons he gives for his opposition to increased state aid.

For one thing, he says, "Every year since World War II state aid has been increased."

That is a flat untruth. It is correct that the apropriations for general and supplemental aid and for agricultureal land tax credits are higher than they were in 1946; but they have NOT been increased by every legislative session — by a LONG shot — and have very nearly without exception failed throughout the postwar period to meet the claims ALLOWABLE BY LAW.

This year, the percentage of settlement on agricultural land tax credit sagged clear down around the 45 per cent mark; and both general and supplemental aid claims of the state's public school districts had to be settled at appreciable under 100 cents on the dollar.

McManus also declares that the state is currently carrying a 25 per cent share of public school costs. The Iowa State Education association denies this and sets the percentage of cost met by state aid at only 10.5 per cent (as of 1958). This compares to 16.71 per cent of the lower aggregate school costs back in 1956 — and the national average of 40 per cent state school support in '58.

These comparisons indicate two things: the steady increase in school expenses in Iowa; and the fact that it has been found necessary the nation over to relieve the payers of property taxes by supplementing their contributions toward maintenance of the schools with taxes from general sources.

The Democratic candidate for governor adds — as if it had any bearing on state aid, that many Iowa high school graduates "can't figure and can't spell."

Perhaps the observation DOES have some bearing, at that, though; for the quality of teaching in our schools certainly is not going to improve much while districts must crimp their budgets to avoid taxing the property-owner beyond bearable limits. And the quality of teacher employed is bound to be reflected to some degree in the quality of student produced.

The need for increased state school aid is not going to just "go away" if politicians choose to pretend that it isn't there. The legislature has, as statistics prove, let Iowa fall far behind a majority of the other states in the matter of meeting its responsibility for school support. It's a cinch the situation won't improve any if the man in the governor's chair should be committed to keep state aid at present levels.

AMA for limiting aid to persons needing it

There seems to be a more or less widespread feeling that the medical fraternity of this country is adamantly opposed to doing much of anything about the medical problems of elderly people.

That isn't so. The American Medical association has taken a definite position in favor of helping "those of the aged who need help in the financing of their health care."

THE ASSOCIATION IS OPPOSED to "the creation of massive federal machinery to help those who neither need nor want help, and who are capably handling their own problems at the present time." And it is difficult to see how anyone can argue against that stand.

To give federal aid on an indiscriminate basis to people who have reached a certain age, no matter how well off they may be financially, makes no sense. it would amount to welfare-statism to an almost fantastic degree.

The association also urges that there should be heavy reliance on local administration of such a plan — on the sound grounds that local agencies are best able to determine their own needs.

ITS IDEAS ARE SUMMED UP in these words: ". . . the federal government should help only those who need help, as determined locally; that action should be responsive to the needs of the individual and the community through local administration, and that such action should supplement, rather than supplant, state, local and private action."

That is the way to get the necessary job done with maximum efficiency and at minimum cost to the taxpayer of all ages. — Lake Mills Graphic

● Senator Kennedy, in his zeal, seems too inclined to rush emergency treatment to all areas. We believe this is his own chief weakness. He looks for the nation's weaknesses rather than the nation's strong points and then wants to order out the oxygen tanks. We predict that 25 years from now, whatever his status may then be, Mr. Kennedy will have learned that impatience is not much of a virtue. — Washington Journal

Bank with a heart

There are times we read a news item twice — to make sure we did it correctly the first time. This happened the other day when a short item told of what happened to the 10,000,000th person to obtain a personal loan from The First National City Bank of New York.

Mrs. Sarah Diamond of the Queens went to a branch of the NCB to borrow $1,1000 to install a concrete driveway and combination screen and storm windows on her property. After filling out all the proper forms, she was told of her unique role as the bank's 10,000,000th borrower.

THEN A BANK OFFICER HANDED the surprised Mrs. Diamond $1,200 — $1,100 to pay for the work and an added $100 to open a savings account in her name.

It's not often that a commercial bank pays out cold cash without a warm reason. But we think Mrs. Diamond's role was enough reason for the surprise.

Now, we wonder if the Selective Service system might not draft and then immediately discharge, say, the 25,000,000th person to be called up for duty. — Christian Science Monitor

Oh, for some flypaper!

We imagine that it is another symptom of added years that we can even look back with some regret on the evident passing of sticky flypaper.

The recent advent of the fly season sent us out on the annual pursuit of methods of disposing of these pesky and foolhardy creatures.

We found that there are a great many modern methods of fly-killing, all of them, we are sure, as excellent as modern science can provide; but our old faithful friend, sticky flypaper, seems to be no more.

FLY SPRAYS MAY BE OKAY, but when we see squadrons of the insects crash-landing on the premises, seemingly dead, we are never sure but what sometime later on, when we are not watching, they open their eyes again and sneak off to come back in full force the next day.

But when you once trapped a fly on flypaper, by cracky! you knew he was a goner for sure. You also had a sort of visible score of who was winning, besides a triumphant and satisfactory feeling of rightful revenge. — Sheldon Mail

NEWSPAPER "BRAG WEEK"—

Next week is National Newspaper Week, an occasion used by the nation's press to do a bit of boasting — and (we hope) at least an equal amount of soul-searching as to how well each paper is doing its job.

There is no gainsaying the fact that one of the major foundation stones of American democracy is the press. Its function of keeping a critical eye on the manners and morals of these United States is an important one. Wherever the press has been denied this function, the citizenry has suffered.

Authoritarianism such as exists behind the Iron Curtain has small opportunity to gain a stranglehold on the people in any country where a truly free press holds sway.

The Independent is proud to have its small part in keeping the American free press healthy by exercising its prerogatives. A newspaper fails to justify its place in the community, we feel, unless it uses its editorial column to benefit the public welfare, to stir thinking on the issues of the day and to provide some degree of leadership in undertakings for the community's betterment.

While our readers do not always approve of the manner in which we endeavor to perform these functions, we hope they at least give us credit for taking a stand on matters of controversy and keeping the welfare of this community in mind as we plod our editorial way.

ARE WE LOSING AN ASSET?—

Back in 1951 The Independent took leadership in the creation of Belmond's Community Chest — a project that was a factor in winning this newspaper the first of three first place awards it has won for being Iowa's most outstanding community-service weekly during a given year.

(We've also been given a third place and an honorable mention in the same category and on another occasion placed first in editorial excellence among Iowa's weeklies.)

It is with deep regret that we view the apparent demise of the Belmond Community Chest in what would be the 10th year of its existence.

When the Chest has served its purpose so well (if memory serves us right, it — sooner or later — met its appropriations in full all but one year) it is surprising that insufficient interest in it exists to keep it alive.

But so few of the persons appointed to serve on the Community Chest Council have had enough concern for their responsibility to attend meetings that it has proved impossible to set up a Chest campaign for 1960. It appears inevitable that, for the first time since 1951, there will be no "united drive" for the purpose of giving community support to the various Chest agencies.

WHAT WAS THE CAUSE?—

It would behoove all public-spirited citizens who feel Belmond owes an obligation to such youth activities as the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls and to the various charitable agencies affiliated with the Chest to examine their own roles in killing off the Chest. Except in the very first years of the Chest, persons appointed to the Council as representatives of various local groups and organizations have simply refused to consider their appointment an obligation Attendance at Chest Council meetings has been shameful, despite the fact that they are called only three or four times a year.

Another factor that played a definite part in crippling the Chest was an almost complete desertion of the Council's original format About four years ago, the constitution and by-laws were lost. They provided for a Council membership of only 15, so a working quorum of eight sufficed to do business.

Since then, without the constitution as a guide, the Council was permitted to grow to more than double its original size. As a consequence, the indifference of a majority of the Council representatives has made it completely impossible to assemble a quorum.

It is a shame that an organization fulfilling such a needy and worthwhile purpose as the Community Chest should pass out of existence. It's workability had been clearly demonstrated; but poor citizenship killed it, despite the dedicated efforts of a few conscientious people to keep it going.

It appears too late to revive it this year. But certainly such an effort should be made before another autumn rolls around. A logical starting point, it seems to us, would be to draft a new, practical constitution (a working example could be obtained from national Community Chest headquarters) and re-start from scratch.

If enough sentiment in favor of this step is evidenced. The Independent will volunteer to provide temporary leadership to the end of re-creating the Belmond Community Chest.

Opportunistic politics

In talks to New Englanders Senator Kennedy said they should not have to pay taxes to provide crop support money for midwestern farmers. New Englanders are feeders — they want cheap feeds from the midwest. The crop support program increases their costs as it increases midwest farm incomes.

It's easy to see why the Democrats in control of congress are not anxious to benefit the midwest. Senator Kennedy is not telling the same story everywhere he goes but tailors it to fit the desires of his audiences. That's not political integrity. It's politics. — Algona Advance

Christie has run stock yards for 18 years

● ● ● ● ● ●

With 18 years of livestock buying experience behind him, C. C. Christie will tell you that management practices of livestock raisers in this area have shown very appreciable improvement during that span of time.

"Management in regard to both quality and feeding of hogs and in the same regards with cattle — and especially in cattle feeding — give today's livestock man a better chance to turn a profit than was true when I started in buying and selling here in 1942," Clair says, adding, "Of course, war years are an exception."

Although the business he operates still bears the name of Christie and Larsen, Mr. Christie is completely responsible for running it. The "Larsen" is C. A. Larsen of Klemme, who was a partner with Clair's father, the late Marvin F. Christie, before the latter retired. Mr. Larsen still has an interest in the firm — but not in the modern livestock receiving yards that Clair built at the south edge of Belmond in 1958.

Mr. Christie admits that his advice on the livestock outlook is regularly sought by a good many farmers in this area. He buys extensively in not only Wright county, but also in Franklin, Cerro Gordo and Hancock. While he modestly declines to be explicit in the volume of business he presides over in the course of a year's time, Clair says, "You could put it at a few million dollars worth."

One thing he emphasizes in talking livestock with his customers is that a major share of their prospective profit is fixed by the price they pay for feeders.

"Wise buying of feeder stock, plus good feeding management, determine the livestock raiser's success — or failure," Mr. Christie comments. He adds, "At the present time I'm urging my customers to exercise particular care in buying feeder stock, because the country is going through a cycle of increased cattle numbers which has a tendency to gradually reduce fat cattle prices to the farmer."

An even sharper watch on numbers has to be kept by the hog raiser, he declares, because the hog population can change very radically in only six months time, compared to anywhere from a year to three years where cattle are concerned.

In this connection he states that the worst "bind" he can recall livestock raisers being caught in during the time he's been buying and selling was that created by the packers' strike of '48. Then, in a period of 2½ months, hog prices plummeted from $29 to $14.50. This turn of events was doubly disastrous because the farmers were feeding $2.60 corn at the time.

"Chris" comments that sheep raising has increased a great deal in volume during the nearly two decades he's been running the livestock business. He would guess that there are two or three times as many sheep in the area as there were 15 years ago.

"There aren't many large flocks," he observes, "but a lot of farmers keep a few head literally as 'weed-cutters,' to keep the place cleaned up."

All of his adult life, Clair has been associated with agriculture in one way or another. After getting his college education at Iowa State (then called Ames college), "Chris" was a vocational agriculture teacher for a year or two, farmed a couple of years and then was employed a year as chemist at the sugar factory here. He spent between 16 and 17 years with Swift and company in that firm's fertilizer sales organization before taking over management of the stock yards.

One of his years as "voc. ag." teacher was spent at Belmond, and he doubled in brass as varsity football coach. Actually, his sport in college had been baseball.

He played at Ames on a team that lost only one game in two seasons. Several men Clair played with or against went on to big league fame. George Sisler and "Lefty" Pruett, who were on the Washington U. (St. Louis) team, both played for the St. Louis Cardinals and "Dutch" Levsen was drafted by the Cleveland Indians.

"Chris" recalls with a grin that Levsen played shortstop on the college nine, not being regarded as a good enough pitcher to beat out the Cyclones' regular moundsman. But the Indians converted him into a twirler — and he won 16 games for Cleveland his first year.

Mr. Christie says the livestock buying business has become increasingly competitive during the time he's been in it. But "Chris" is a keen competitor by instinct — and you gather that that's just the way he likes it.

VOL. 42 NO. 3 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, OCT. 20, 1960 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | 14 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Banker Lu Cox reports that if everyone had showed up at the First State bank over the weekend who threatened to "rob the joint" while its front doors were off, there would have been quite a traffic jam. He adds that the inner door was secured against easy admittance, so the interior of the bank actually wasn't so accessible as appearances indicated.

But with only a sheet of canvas substituting for the outside door, it did look as if the bank might be a "soft touch" from the time the doors were removed about noon Friday until fancy new ones replaced them Monday afternoon.

The original, heavy doors had hung in place for 40 years. Not only were they getting in a state of disrepair, but they were almost too heavy for elderly customers to push open. The bank's rear door, also weakened with age, was replaced Monday, too. . . . So end the dreams of easy riches that the canvas flap inspired among the feloniously-inclined.

Last week's fire at the Bill Sheriff farm, disastrous as it was, provided what might be regarded as one benefit. On hand to fight the blaze were seven trucks from five fire departments — those of Goodell, Belmond, Meservey, Kanawha and Klemme.

Happily, it is rare when a fire occurs of such proportions as to justify the assembling of so much equipment. But when the occasion DOES arise, it might mean the prevention of a very major loss if the cooperation of all these neighboring fire companies is readily offered.

It is likely to happen that one or two of the departments may be called on to do most of the firefighting, while the others are on stand-by duty to be ready in case the flames spread. But remember that "they also serve, who only stand and wait."

If you want to know what a drowning man most likely thinks about, you might query Joe Ziller. While he escaped from the experience unwaterlogged (internally), Joe recently stared a watery grave in the face long enough to get a pretty good idea of what the mind puts itself to contemplating under such circumstances. He was fishing two weeks ago Friday on a remote Canadian lake with Leo Elthon of Fertile (former Iowa lieutenant governor and father-in-law of Joe's daughter, Evelyn).

Although a non-swimmer, Joe had left his life jacket behind when he and his friend went out on the lake in a canoe. Mr. Elthon hooked a big northern, and in endeavoring to subdue it with a club leaned too far out of their unstable craft.

Joe managed to grasp the overturned canoe and hang on while his companion swam to the shore, some 100 yards or more distant, and carry word of Joe's plight to Municipal Judge Harry Grund of Des Moines and a French-Canadian guide. Grund and the guide rowed post haste to the Belmond man's rescue. They transferred his grip to the prow of their own canoe and as he clung for dear life — literally — maneuvered the Belmond farmer ashore. Wanta bet Joe does not wear a life jacket next time he goes boat-fishin'?

THINGS TO REMEMBER . . . when the snow begins to fly . . . that on Oct. 14 we had the airconditioner on at the Independent office; and that Mrs. Lester Buseman brought us a sprig off a red raspberry bush with RIPE berries on!

It is the contention of the weekly press of this nation that the American weekly newspapers offer — in aggregate — as fine an advertising medium as any product could possibly employ. Probably no other publication is read so thoroughly as the home-town newspaper.

WNR (Weekly Newspaper Representatives), which serves advertisers and agencies in behalf of America's weekly newspapers, this week achieves a major break-through by having in every weekly paper in the U. S. a 36-inch advertisement for Camel cigarets. Another will similarly appear week after next.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, the manufacturers of Camels, is the advertiser. The Independent is happy far beyond the price of the lineage involved to be a minor partner in this big boost for the weekly press as a national advertising medium.

ACCW will meet Wednesday at EG

The season's first board and open meetings of the Eagle Grove deanery of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women will be held at St. John's church, Clarion on Wednesday of next week.

These meetings were announced by Rev. Maurice Mullan of Eagle Grove, spiritual moderator for the deanery.

The program will consist of convention reports by ACCW members who attended the Archdiocesan Council convention at Dubuque on Sept. 24-25.

Young Democrats will hold dance

At a meeting of the Wright county Young Democrats held Tuesday evening at Veterans' Memorial hall attended by 37 members, plans were set up for a Coad-for-Congress dance to be held a week from Saturday. Full details will be published next week.

Local Young Democrats will join in a caravan through Clarion this Saturday, assembling at Joe's Skelly Service at 7:10 p. m. The next regular meeting of the organization will be at the First National [illegible] Clarion, next Tuesday at 8:00

Churches here to sponsor solicitation for UNICEF

Belmond households are urged to welcome the youngsters who will be calling at their doors on Thursday evening of next week with special containers to receive contributions to UNICEF — the United Nations Children's Fund.

Boys and girls from cooperating Belmond churches will start their round of doorbell-ringing at 6:30 o'clock. Coins and bills tucked into the UNICEF containers can literally be life-savers for under-privileged children in many parts of the world.

Three-quarters of the world's children — a staggering 750 million — live in areas lacking the barest medical essentials and most of these children receive for food only the equivalent of one American school lunch every two days.

Typical of the wonders performed by money collected via UNICEF Halloween projects are the following:

For a penny, UNICEF can provide five large glasses of milk to a hungry tot.

A cent provides a shot of BCG vaccine to protect a child against tuberculosis.

Only five cents will purchase sufficient penicillin to cure a youngster of the yaws, a crippling, tropical disease.

A dime will buy drugs to protect a child against malaria for nearly a year.

Twenty-five cents will provide sulfone to treat for an entire year a little one suffering from leprosy.

The price of a gallon of gas will assure successful treatment of a youngster for trachoma, an eye disease that often leads to blindness.

Felix Schnyder, chairman of UNICEF's executive board, describes as the broad purpose of this United Nations organization "to protect the needy child in infancy from diseases and other dangers that can cause it to grow up a weakling, stunted, crippled, or in other ways unfit so he can develop into a healthy and productive individual."

Profitable clipping!

Coupon snipping is traditionally a pastime limited to more-or-less big-time stockholders. This week, though, readers of The Independent can have the pleasure of snipping coupons — and find it profitable exercise, too. On pages four and five of the second section will be found bargain coupons inserted by 23 different business firms of the community. They offer some real red-hot specials, so get out those scissors and snip yourself some savings.

Chamber to hold kick-off dinner Wednesday night

"Citizenship" will be the theme of the kickoff dinner of the Chamber of Commerce with which that organization will launch its fall season next Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock. The event will be held at the basement dining room of the Odd Fellows hall.

Chamber members are urged by President Phyllis Pals to buy tickets for their wives and for key employees. Special guests of the occasion will be the young people of this community who next month will be voting in a general election for the first time.

In cooperation with the Chamber, the League of Women Voters has endeavored to obtain the names of all young men and women in the first-time category as voters and has a list of about 40.

However, Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, who heads the League committee on heads the League committee on this matter, says that omissions are inevitable due to the arrival of new families in the community and any assistance received in making the list as complete as possible will be much appreciated. School records provided most of the names gathered thus far.

Mrs. Oberhauser asks that anyone knowing of a first-time voter who may have been overlooked should call her to make certain that that person's name is known.

Rev. Richard Jackson, who as a representative of the Belmond club won the state Toastmasters speaking contest this year, will be speaker of the evening. The Rowan minister will take "Citizenship" as his topic.

Chamber of Commerce plans for the 1960-61 season will be discussed at the dinner meeting and Secretary Len Collier will review what the Chamber accomplished during 1959-60.

AT DES MOINES PARLEY

Lois Hammond was a delegate to the meeting of the Iowa League of Municipalities held last Thursday and Friday at Hotel Fort Des Moines at Des Moines.

Belmond Hardware plans open house

Lloyd Lewis and John Thompson, proprietors of Belmond Hardware, are holding open house at their new location this Saturday. The occasion will not only serve to acquaint the public with their "new" store but will also mark the 7th anniversary of establishment of the business here.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served to visitors at the store from 10:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. and a number of door prizes will be awarded on the basis of registration.

GOP sets up headquarters

Republicans of Belmond are establishing a local party headquarters in the former Belmond Hardware location adjoining the Belmond Bakery. It was cleaned up this week by Young Republicans, under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothy McNeal, in preparation for a coffee open house to be held Saturday from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. Republican candidates of the county will be present to meet all voters who may wish to become better acquainted with them. Included among the candidates will be Ray Hagie of Clarion, who is running for state representative, and Sheriff Bob Blecker, who is seeking reelection.

For not reporting accident—

Trager gets 30-day jail sentence

Myron Trager of Goodell was sentenced Saturday night in the court of Justice of the Peace Cecil Winbigler to 30 days in the county jail as the outgrowth of an accident on the bridge that crosses the Iowa river on County U road (the blacktop) just north of town.

Charges of leaving the scene of an accident in which property damage was caused and failure to have his vehicle under control were filed against Trager. According to him, he was headed home from Belmond via the blacktop about 10:15 p m when he lost control of his car and ripped out a generous length of railing along the north side of the bridge. He was driving east at the time.

Badly battered, the car came to a stop facing due north with the front end hanging over the side of the bridge. Trager was not at the accident site when Patrolman Elmer Engle of Garner and, soon afterward, Patrolman Jerry Kramer and Night Policeman Marvin Miller arrived there in response to information that an accident had occurred.

Some 20 minutes or so later, Trager's wife was delivered at the scene in the car of some friends and informed the officers that she had been driving — alone — when the mishap took place. She further insisted that her husband had been at home all evening.

Her story was immediately rejected because blood in the car offered proof that the driver had suffered a cut on the head, and Mrs. Trager was unscathed.

Following brief questioning, after being picked up at his home, Trager confessed that he had been at the wheel of the car. Information was filed in Mr. Winbigler's court by Patrolman Kramer and, upon receipt of a "guilty" plea from Trager, the latter was taken to the county jail by Sheriff Bob Blecker.

Torch spark blamed as cause—

DESPITE SCORCHING heat from the flames at their backs, Goodell firemen prevented loss of a second Sheriff barn to last Thursday's blaze by spraying it with water. Here Russell Ver Helst and Cort Luick are directing the nozzles.

FOR MILES AROUND the tower of smoke from burning straw could be seen as the large hog barn on the Sheriff farm was rapidly destroyed by last Thursday's fire.

Loss estimated at $12,000 was caused by a fire that broke out between 2:00 and 2:30 p. m. last Thursday at the farm of William H. Sheriff, Sr., on the outskirts of Goodell. A large barn was wholly destroyed and some additional damage done by the flames. Mr. Sheriff says, however, that the loss should be well covered by insurance and this week he already had builders started on erecting a new barn.

It is believed the fire likely was started by the spark from an acetylene torch used for cutting some metal in the construction of a cattle shed, which was nearly completed at the time of the blaze. A. R. Dorr Sons were putting up this new building, and a member of the building crew was first to observe smoke emerging from the barn that burned down.

Mr Sheriff says that about 4,000 bales of straw were stored in the barn, which was an L-shaped structure It had been built in two parts, which interconnected. The section running north and south was 32x80 feet in dimension and the addition to the east measured 24x80 feet. Because of its inflammable contents, the flames gained such rapid headway that the barn was beyond saving before even the fire department from near-by Goodell could arrive.

Equipment was also brought by the fire departments of Belmond, Kanawha, Klemme and Meservey. Spectators gave the Goodell firemen a lion's share of the credit for saving of a second large barn close by the one that burned. Standing in heat that was so intense that paint on the end of the other barn was blistered, the Goodell smoke-eaters saved it from destruction by playing water on it until danger of it igniting was past.

Loss in addition to the barn and straw included several feed bunks and the board tops of several close-by cement tanks. Mr. Sheriff says the scorched end of the second barn will have to be repainted, also.

Although it was built for use as a hog barn, the burned structure — thanks to the earliness of the season — did not yet have any stock in it. Some sows with pigs that had been housed elsewhere were sold only the day before. All in all, Mr. Sheriff counted himself fortunate that the fire didn't prove any more costly than was the case.

New barn going up

Some of the fire-fighters had already left the scene when Carol Gander of the Town House cafe showed up the latter part of the afternoon with coffee and doughnuts for the men combatting the blaze. The refreshments nevertheless were appreciated by those who remained to make certain the flames did not revive and spread. It was not until 2:00 o'clock Friday morning that the last of the Goodell firemen departed.

Debris left by the blaze had been cleared away by the early part of this week and construction of a new barn on the site of the old one was to be started Wednesday. Mr. Sheriff was having Dorr Sons build the new one of corrugated metal, rather than wood construction.

Observed the victim of the Thursday fire, "That wood burns too fast."

It DIDN'T get cold

Most of the day Tuesday, radio warnings were issued regarding the abrupt arrival of "real" fall weather that was to be expected imminently. The cold front still wasn't in evidence during Cash Gift Day hours Tuesday afternoon — but it almost appeared that shoppers must have been staying home to avoid the predicted cold. At any rate, all holders of lucky CGD numbers were absent and the entire $400 in prizes remained untouched. The same amount in prizes will be posted again next Tuesday, divided into the customary eight $25's at 2:00 p. m. and four $50's at 3:00 o'clock.

High honor comes to Arlo Pitcher

Dr. Arlo Pitcher of Steele Memorial clinic on Friday of last week at San Francisco, Calif., was inducted as a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

This recognition is granted only to highly qualified doctors in the Belmond physician's chosen field. He was one of 14 Iowa surgeons to be so honored at the San Francisco convention of the ACS.

Mrs. Pitcher accompanied her husband to the convention.

H. O. Stockseth final rites held; reached age 89

Funeral services were held Tuesday at St. Olaf Lutheran church for Henry O. Stockseth, a resident of the Belmond community for 68 of the 89 years of his life. Mr. Stockseth died Saturday at a Mason City hospital after a lengthy period of illness.

Rev. Oscar Laaveg conducted the final rites, assisted by Rev. O. M. Severseike of Ames, and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Vernon Swenson, Donald Swenson, Richard Stockseth, Gerald Swenson, Arthur Stockseth and Erwin Rosheim.

Born Sept. 25, 1871, near St. James, Minn., the son of Ole and Marie Stockseth, Henry accompanied his family in 1875 when they moved to Winnebago county in Iowa. He moved to Wright county, settling west of Belmond, in 1892, where he had since made his home.

He was married on March 1, 1898, to Anna Molstad at Belmond. Four children were born to them: Mrs. Mamie Fosheim, Hazel (Mrs. Percy) Swenson, Harry and Archie Stockseth, all of Belmond.

Mr. Stockseth was an influential man in his home community. He was one of the founders of the Olaf Elevator and served for many years on its board of directors. He served for a time on the board of the Federal Land Bank and was a director of the First National bank of Belmond, in its day. He also served as Belmond township assessor.

His wife died in 1951, but all of Mr. Stockseth's children survive. He was also preceded in death by two brothers, Nels and Andrew; and by a sister, Mrs. Antonetta Hylland.

RITES CONDUCTED MONDAY FOR WM. SUMMERS' INFANT

Graveside rites were held Monday morning at Belmond cemetery for Roxanne Rene Summers, who was stillborn Sunday at Belmond Comunity hospital. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Summers.

Rev. William Heinzig officiated over the rites and burial was in Belmond cemetery. Johnston Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

Surviving in addition to the baby's parents are a brother and sister. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Summers and Mr. and Mrs. Vere Jenison.

Prefers fine to probation—

Dows youth has $100 "ducktail"

Last Saturday a Dows youth dropped in at the Belmond city hall to pay a $100 fine, plus costs, for the privilege of wearing a "ducktail" hair-cut and doing as he pleases for the next six months' time.

Robert Green, whose father, Art Green, is on the Dows police force and whose mother regards the "ducktail" hair-cut as becoming to her son's personality, was one of six young men arrested Oct. 2 for participating in a beer party here. He is 19 years old.

With a companion from Dows who was also a participant, John Reed, young Green appeared Wednesday night of last week before Mayor L T. Trafford. At that time, it was to be decided what punishment would be administered to the pair on a charge of unlawfully securing beer.

They had been temporarily placed on probation, with the alternatives of a $100 fine or 30 days in jail facing them in event their behavior didn't measure up to the court's approval.

In the interim William Guthrie, a Fort Dodge attorney, had volunteered to serve as probation officer for the two youths if they would adhere to a prescribed set of restrictions.

Mayor Trafford had told Green and Reed that their release on probation would be considered if they showed up for the Wednesday night hearing with their hair cut to acceptable standards of propriety.

Reed showed up with shorn locks. Green, however, was still "ducktailed."

Mr. Guthrie outlined the six-month probation provisions, which included restrictions on car-driving, night hours to be observed, abstenance from alchoholic beverages, and an agreement that the two youths would not associate with one another for the specified period of time.

The provisions were readily accepted by Reed. But Green complained that they would interfere with his social life — and that he liked his hair cut the way it was. Advised that that left him with a choice of either paying the $100 fine or spending 30 days in jail, he requested permission to phone his mother.

That permission was granted. Green then explained to his mother the alternatives open to him — of going to jail, paying the fine, or sacrificing his hair-do and submitting to six months of probationary restrictions.

The conversation was not a lengthy one. Green very shortly returned to the hearing room and announced, "I'll pay the fine."

According to Sheriff Bob Blecker, Green has been in trouble with the law off and on over a period of four or five years and has served a term at the state training school for boys at Eldora.

Hanson promoted to captain's rank

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanson of the promotion of their son Jerry from the rank of lieutenant to that of captain in the U. S. Air Force.

Jerry is attending an electrical engineering school at Dayton, O., under Air Force auspices and is currently engaged in his second year of advanced study and is in his sixth year as an Air Force officer.

Juniors will give three-act comedy

"Old Doc," a three-act comedy written by Jean Lee Latham, will be presented Wednesday of next week at the high school auditorium by the juniors as their class play. It is directed by Gertrude Hoffman.

Also, Ronnie Heykants, Dr. Edmond Brand; Randi Dahlgran, Helen Brand; Linda Hanson, Mary Selby; Barbara Tripp, Mrs. Rossi; Sheila Musselman, Mrs. Cronin; Jane Studebaker, Mrs. Mellon; and Faye Homervold as Lois Warner.

"Borrowed" for parts in the play are Dennis Eccles, a sophomore, as Dick Burns; and Junior Kaduce, a freshman, as Mr. Hepple.

Entre act musical entertainment will be provided by a vocal ensemble comprised of Bette Johnson, Linda Pickle, Kathy Finn, Ruth Swaroff, Loree Baker, Sharon Christensen and Barbara Musselman.

APARTMENT BUILDING SOLD

Roy A. Olson of Walford, owner of the Kinseth Apartments on east Main street for the past two years, informs the Independent that the multiple housing unit passed to new ownership the first of the month. Purchaser of the building was William Russell Edwards, a young man living at Marion.

Cox accepts chairmanship—

Plans for Chest campaign revived

An effort was afoot this week to hold Belmond's 10th annual Community Chest campaign despite an earlier decision that lack of interest would make it impractical to conduct a drive this year.

Spurred by Luin Cox, treasurer of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, the Chamber of Commerce is being asked by President Phyllis Pals and Secretary Len Collier to spearhead an attempt to resuscitate the Community Chest.

"If the Chest doesn't do its job, separate canvasses will have to be held for most of the affiliated agencies," Mr Cox declared, "and certainly the easiest way is to take care of all of them by a Chest campaign, as usual."

Al Korthas, president of the Chest Council, was willing enough to see the drive belatedly held when informed that Mr. Cox had consented to serve as the drive chairman. Mrs. Pals, for her part, promised to urge fullest cooperation of members of the Chamber of Commerce.

She warned, however, that "it will have to be a community effort; and others besides Chamber members will have to lend their help willingly if this last minute try to keep the Chest alive is to succeed."

It is planned by Mr. Cox to set Monday, Nov. 7, as kick-off day for the campaign. He plans to divide solicitation into categories, as was done effectively in the earlier days of the Community Chest, and to aim at a goal of $4,320.

This amount is the same as a year ago, except that the United Fund of Iowa is no longer in operation and the $330 that was earmarked for that agency will be dropped from the total.

That leaves the following proposed appropriations: American Red Cross $1,000, Boy Scouts $1,100, Iowa Children's Home Society $450, Camp Fire Girls $400, Summer Recreation Program $400, Salvation Army $350, Sister Kenny Foundation $220, Wright County Association for Retarded Children $100, Mental Health Society $150, Volunteers of America $75 and Medical Research Program $75.

Both Mrs. Pals and Mr. Collier join in urging, "If your help is asked in this important effort to salvage the Comunity Chest, please give your cooperation. Belmond will lose a very important asset if the Chest fails; and a lot of people will have to do a lot more work to fulfill the community's charitable obligations through independent drives."

ALEXANDER BLUEBIRDS

The Alexander Bluebirds 4-H club went on their tour to Minneapolis Sunday and Monday, Oct. 9 and 10. They were accompanied by the Richland Robins club and the mothers from both clubs. They took a chartered bus from Mason City and arrived in Minneapolis early the same evening.

The bus driver pointed out places of interest as they were passed. At Faribault, Minn., the group visited a mum show. On arrival in Minneapolis the girls checked into their hotel and then went to the Cinerama movie.

Monday morning after breakfast the group toured the Fanny Farmer candy company and saw how all the different kinds of candy are made. Then the girls went to Foshay Tower and took an elevator to the top. From the top they could see a wonderful view of the city.

Then the party visited Old Dutch foods, where they were shown how potato chips are made. After lunch a tour was taken of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. At 3 00 o'clock the bus drove to the Southdale shopping center, which is about 10 miles from Minneapolis. The girls had fun in the stores, which are all under one roof. At 7:45 o'clock the group started back to Mason City and arrived at 11:20 p. m.

"Why have so many of my neighbors switched to Hy-Line
layers?"

Answer:

Because so many poultrymen have decided that in good times or bad, they can't afford any other brand! They've analyzed results of official Random Sample Tests. They have talked with other poultrymen. They have tried Hy-Line layers in their own laying houses. They have seen firsthand that trim, thrifty, high-producing Hy-Line birds are today's most profitable layers. That is why Hy-Line birds are the world's most popular layers . . . by far.

Veterinary Medicine

Annual movement of cattle and lambs from ranges into the farm feed lots of the nation will soon be starting. One of the biggest feats of the year, this mass-movement of livestock results in heavy losses caused by shipping fever.

This disease gets its name because generally occurs after cattle and lambs have been shipped. The stress, exhaustion, radical changes in feed and water, long periods without feed or water and overcrowding seem to set the stage for shipping fever.

Affected animals appear tired, have chills and usually don't eat as much as they should. Symptoms also include a watery discharge from the eyes and nose, and difficulty in breathing. The symptoms are often confused with those of other respiratory diseases such as rhinotracheitis (red-nose of cattle) and various pneumonias of cattle and lambs.

Prompt diagnosis and treatment is necessary to hold death losses to a minimum. Preventive measures should be taken with the rest of the exposed animals for shipping fever is highly contagious.

Timely Health Hints . . .

It is a good idea to put shipped-in calves on soluble vitamins and a good shipping fever preventive in the drinking water. However, high level antibiotics in the feed and water should be avoided for they many times disturb the digestion of the animal thru the destruction of rumen bacteria that are necessary for proper digestion of roughages.

Have your veterinarian run an examination (with a microscope) on a sample of fecal material from your cattle or lambs to determine the kind of worms or other parasites present, if any.

Cost of gains are high enough without paying the board of hundreds of parasites such as worms, lice and mange!

PUBLIC FORUM

Letters to the Independent are welcomed. Please try to limit to 100 words or less.

Belmond Independent
Belmond, Iowa

A Letter to the Editor:

I sort of chuckled to myself when I read in your "Main Street" column of what one disgruntled Democrat (Mr. Ole Eliason) did each election year out of disgust for your narrow-minded, immature, and wholly biased attitude expressed through your editorials. Calling your attitude narrow-minded and immature may seem to be rather harsh terminology to you, but these adjectives are really no match for such words as "small potatoes" and "scared" which you attached to our Governor.

Unfortunately, your unbridled attacks of propaganda are not confined to just one individual. It would be easy to understand your attacking one individual for some reason or another, but constantly and unmercifully attacking, without any apparent reason, the oldest national political party in existence is utterly absurd.

I don't feel that I'm going out on a limb when I assert that you and your editorial staff (with the exception of Duane Anderson) are going to be in for a rude awakening and are going to have to eat an awful lot of words beginning late Tuesday evening, November 8th. I firmly believe that the Congressional and state elections of 1958 were a clear indication of what is to come this presidential year.

Realizing that nearly ninety percent of the press facilities in this country are conservative-minded, it is really astonishing that the Democratic Party has attained such an illustrious past and such a bright outlook in the future.

You noted that Mr. Eliason, our faithful Democrat, was brought back into the fold of Independent readers in due time after election years. Sure he renewed his subscription to your newspaper — but do you know why he did?

Well, I think I do know why he did. Mr. Eliason and millions of other people the world over depend on the various communication media to keep informed on various happenings and to keep in touch with their neighbors. They expect, and are rightly entitled to, truthful, unbiased accounts of news of their neighbors and the world as a whole. This expectation includes coverage of political events and political personalities. You, the editor, wield a powerful weapon through your editorial voice. Adjacent to this power which you possess, is attached a clear and definite duty to maintain a certain sense of bi-partisanship! Isn't this why our radio and television networks extend equal coverage and equal time to BOTH political parties, their events and their candidates?

Senator Kennedy calls the pending election a crucial one. Mr. Nixon also alludes to this idea. Both party standard-bearers feel that it is up to the American people to decide who shall lead the United States in the Sixties. The electorate is capable to. and will decide which man to follow. Good constructive criticism is essential and helpful in making this decision, but NOT this unrelentless, biased and utterly absurd name-calling, mud-slinging, and labeling which is so characteristic of so many editorial columns!

Wright team does well at Waterloo

Wright county had two individuals among the top 10 judges at the state dairy judging contest held in conjunction with the recent Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo. In addition the Wright team placed ninth and led all teams in the judging of Ayrshires.

Richard Hocraffer of the Dayton Dynamiters was fifth-high individual judge and John Rodecap of the Lake Leaders placed eighth, individually. Third member of the team was Kenneth Dawson of the Grant Growers.

RIS-VAN TIPS
TIP NO. 1 . . .
Check the ears in your corn fields now. They can give you some idea if they were lacking in nutrients during the growing year. For example, see if the kernels are smooth or wrinkled. A wrinkled, rough ear means that your corn did not have enough potash. This type of ear lacks starches and carbohydrates to fill the kernel. Smooth, glossy kernels mean enough potash and ears with this type of kernels will have a greater test weight.

Best floats in parade

Prize-winning floats in the BHS Homecoming parade Friday afternoon were the three here pictured, chosen by Mrs. Harold Simerson, Dr. P. A. Rietz and Russell Dougherty, who served as judges. The first place float of Bernard Schroeder's freshman homeroom followed and election year motif. It was the second year in a row that Mr. Schroeder's room had been the top winner. Second place was the stork built by Donna Bock's sophomores and third was the tail-wagging, water-spouting whale entered by the FFA and FHA. Two honorable mentions were awarded — to Don Lancaster's sophomore homeroom, which disported three fancy socks and declared "Argyles 'll sock 'em" and an oversize popcorn popper that was the creation of Marilyn Schroeder's freshman homeroom.

Meservey school children will be collecting for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) as a Halloween project. This fund was established to help provide needy children in foreign lands with medicine and milk they require for life and health.

This drive is sponsored by the Meservey Women's club, Junior Women's club, Meservey Garden club, and Lions. Meservey residents are urged to welcome the UNICEF tricks-or-treaters when they ring the doorbell, for they call only once.

Mr and Mrs. Conrad Meints and Mrs Ella Meints, all of Sheffield, were Sunday visitors at the Mrs. Joe Stadtlander home.

Club holds picnic meeting at park

The Meservey Federated Woman's club held a picnic meeting at the local park on Friday noon. Following the noon meal the meeting was conducted by President Dorothy Nordman.

Mrs. Harold Blewett presented the lesson on the subject, "The Coming Election." Reports were heard from the district meeting held earlier in the week at Cresco, attended by Mrs Jacob Pals and Mrs Vic Nordman.

Claude Cordell submitted to surgery Monday in the Mercy hospital at Mason City following several days of hospitalization.

MRS. WARREN ALDEN DIES

News came to Meservey Friday of the sudden death of Mrs. Warren Alden, the former Elfreida Messelheiser.

BELMOND FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Hylland (above) are invited to attend an open house for the couple that is to be held Sunday from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m. at the Center Lutheran church west of Lake Mills. A brief program is planned at 2:30 o'clock. The Hyllands started farming about five miles west of Belmond and still have numerous friends and relatives in this vicinity. The courtesy honoring the Hyllands on their Golden Wedding anniversary is being planned by their children: Mrs. Russel (Andrina) Oulman and Raymond Hylland of Leland, Mrs. Norman (Gilma) Helgeland of Bricelyn, Minn.; Laurence, Lake Mills; and Paul of Scarville. The honorees also have 18 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Surprise birthday party honors Mrs. Martha Blau

A group of relatives and friends surprised Martha Blau on her birthday Monday afternoon. They brought well filled baskets of food.

Those present were Mrs. Henry H. Pals, Mrs. Johann Pals, Mrs. Harold Aigley, Mrs. John Modderman, all of Belmond, Mrs. Tillie Pals and Mrs. Dick Dirks of Meservey, Mrs. Otto Ostendorf of Clarion, Mrs. John Blau and Mrs. Dick Schmidt of Alexander. A gift was presented to the honoree.

Belmond Locals

Mr and Mrs. Jelto Beenken spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred McBride at Saratoga.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rheim of Enid, Okla., were Sunday overnight guests in the Carl Greenfield home. They went on to Sheffield to stay with the Loran Greenfield family and help care for the younger Greenfield's new baby, Terry Keith. Loran and his wife also have a daughter, Laurie.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Fritz of Moulton spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. R. W. Courson, and family.

"Burned Clothes Mystery" solved; junior college student confesses

What was a temporary mystery was solved Thursday of last week when an Eagle Grove Junior college student confessed responsibility for burning a pile of feminine apparel that was discovered several weeks ago under a bridge southwest of Clarion.

Robert Knosby, Clarion farm youth, admitted he had stolen the clothes from the girls' dressing room in the Eagle Grove High school gymnasium after he was trapped last week when he made a second foray for the same purpose.

Foul play had for a time been suspected by the county sheriff's office when the burned clothes were first discovered. A dam had been built to drain several hundred feet of the creek that runs under the bridge on suspicion a body might be found.

Then it came to light that the articles of clothing — a skirt, sweater, slip and pair of shoes — had been taken from the girls' dressing room. With this fact to go on, Sheriff Bob Blecker had a feminine member of the Eagle Grove school staff "stake out" in the dressing room in hope of catching the culprit on a repeat of his earlier thefts.

A week passed before this effort paid off. A week ago today, Knosby returned to the dressing room, the woman look out cried out for help and prevented Knosby from running away before a janitor arrived to assist her.

Sheriff Blecker estimated no less than 45 hours of investigation had been invested in the case before Knosby's apprehension.

Hailed before Max Groves, Eagle Grove mayor, the 19-year-old junior college student pleaded guilty to petty larceny and was fined $25 and costs upon agreement to make restitution for the clothing that was burned. Mayor Groves suspended $15 of the fine on good behavior of the defendant.

OBITUARY

LILLIAN JULIA BISHOP

Lillian Julia Metcalf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Metcalf, was born in Belmond on April 21, 1879, and was a lifelong resident of this community. She was married to Descom Bishop, from whom she later separated by divorce.

Three children were born of her marriage: Lloyd Bishop of Rockwell, Vera Gaffri of Belmond and Zola Trees of Des Moines. All survive, as do five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mrs. Bishop died Sept. 20 at the age of 81 at the Good Samaritan Home, Mason City, after a brief illness. She had been a resident at the home for only three weeks.

Funeral services were conducted at Johnston Funeral Home on Thursday, Sept. 22, Rev. H. A. McKinney of the Fundamental Baptist church officiating. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery.

Mrs. Bishop was preceded in death by a brother and two sisters, in addition to her parents.

Jr. Broncs edged again by 7 to 6

Belmond High's froshmores lost their second 7-6 game in a row Monday night at Northwood, despite outplaying the host eleven most of the game.

On the first scrimmage play of the game the Young Vikings went through the not-yet-organized Junior Broncs for 60 yards on an off-tackle slant and then kicked successfully for extra point.

In the second quarter, Belmond tallied on a sustained drive that found Ray Roberts hitting the end zone on a short plunge.

A pass, Dennis Hauge to John Kaduce, was good for the point — but the coversion was nullified by an offside penalty. From the additional five yards out, Belmond's second try was no good.

Three times in the last half, the Junior Broncs got inside the Northwood 20-yard line but couldn't reach pay territory. The Young Vikings made no further serious scoring threats after their early strike.

SERVE AS GUEST SPEAKERS

Dave Hallowell of the Belmond Toastmasters club and assistant governor of Toastmasters Area 1, was guest speaker recently at a banquet meeting of the Algona club. Another Belmond Toastmaster, Rev. Richard Jackson of Rowan, who was this year's state speaking champion, was speaker at the Ames club's fall kickoff banquet.

Fib brings arrest of 2 for break-in

One youth was sentenced to 10 years at the Anamosa state reformatory and another received suspension of a similar sentence as a result of a break-in early Thursday morning of last week at the tavern at Woolstock.

Recipient of the reformatory term was Larry Donaldson, 19, of Eagle Grove. Ronald Terisner, 19, of Webster City was given a bench parole by Judge J. M. Schaupp in district court at Clarion after receiving a like sentence.

Virgil Hilpipre, proprietor of the tavern, told Sheriff Bob Blecker that the two young men had stopped at the tavern shortly after midnight Wednesday night. They said they were en route to their jobs at a certain concern in Fort Dodge.

The next morning, $23 collected in a jar toward purchase of Little League baseball uniforms was missing, plus four cartons of cigarets. Mr. Hilpipre recalled his late visitors of the night before and suggested to Sheriff Blecker that they might warrant investigation. When it was discovered that they did not have jobs where they claimed to be working, the two men were brought in for questioning. Each soon confessed to his part in the break-in.

Brought before Judge Schaupp on Monday morning, Donaldson pleaded guilty. Terisner did the same on Tuesday morning. Because he had not been in previous trouble with the law, Terisner was paroled.

Donaldson had just been released from parole last February after having been involved in a robbery at Fort Dodge, so Judge Schaupp ordered that the Eagle Grove youth would have to serve his time.

Dispute cancels planned debate, Coad vs. Riehm

Sunday night's scheduled television debate between the 6th District's two candidates for Congress — the incumbent, Rep. Merwin Coad of Boone and his Republican opponent, Curtis G. Riehm of Garner — failed to materialize when Mr. Coad refused to participate in filming of the program Friday afternoon.

In a sharply worded telegram to the program director of WOI-TV, Ames, Mr. Coad declared in advance that he would not appear with Mr. Riehm unless the latter apologized for an alleged "smear type accusation" against the Congressman.

It later developed that the statement attributed to the Garner attorney had not, actually, been made by him at all but was part of a critique on Coad's voting record in Congress that had been issued by the Republican Congressional committee. Mr. Riehm has, he conceded, made broad use of the committee release as a piece of campaign literature.

Specifically, the item that galled the incumbent Congressman was headed "Coad votes wrong" and then asserted that the 6th District Representative had "voted in effect to give aid and comfort to the Communists by his vote in opposition to the legislation permitting state prosecution of Communists for sedition."

Both candidates for the Congressional office were at the WOI-TV studios at the appointed hour on Friday afternoon, but Mr. Riehm declared no apology was required from him in the matter and Mr. Coad refused to face the camera with his oponent unless the requested apology was received. It was finally necessary to substitute another set of candidates on the program.

In a statement on the controversy issued over the weekend, Mr. Riehm observed, "Needless to say, this statement was not impugning my opponent's patriotism by charging that 'in effect' — and I emphasize that phrase, 'in effect' — his vote might have been calculated to give aid an comfort to Communists liable to prosecution under the bill's provisions."

CAMP FIRE GIRLS' GROUP PICKS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Choosing of an Indian name for their group was one matter of business on the program for the meeting this Thursday of Mrs. Guy Dickson's group of Camp Fire Girls.

Organized this year for the first time as Camp Fire Girls — they were Bluebirds last year — the girls at a recent meeting elected officers as follows:

Barbara Proeger, president; Cindy Dickson, vice president; Lora Thompson, secretary; Georgia Keleher, treasurer; Sheila Stadtlander, scribe; and Julie Black, game and song leader.

Other members of the club are Linda Thompson, Kathy Pals, Nancy Zook, Jennifer Olson, Marsha Whipple, Sharon Warren and Luanne Paule.

As Camp Fire Girls this year, the group is having the opportunity to join in the Golden Jubilee of the Camp Fire movement.

WE-TOMA-CHICK GROUP

The We-Toma-Chick Camp Fire group enjoyed an overnight outing a week ago Friday at the Clear Lake State Park. Those who took part in the sleep-out were: Diane Swenson, Sandra Kennedy, Bonita Whipple, Marlene Francis, Cheryl Smith, JoAnn Svendsen and Twyla Stadtlander.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Nixon has the Built-In Qualifications

"There is no man in the history of America who has had such a careful preparation as has Vice President Nixon for carrying out the duties of the Presidency," President Eisenhower has declared.

"There hasn't been a principal administrative meeting among the heads of Government that he has not attended as an active participant."

He has performed as America's vigorous representative of understanding and friendship in 55 Nations on all continents. In his [illegible],000 miles of travel, Nixon has gotten to know world leaders and world issues first hand.

At home as Chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Price Stability and Economic Growth, he understands that a sound fiscal policy is a dynamic policy.

Today, after 7½ years of such a policy, more Americans than ever before are working at better jobs, for the best pay with the least inflation and more security of our time.

Film Highlights

—from—

COMING ATTRACTIONS

A credit line appearing on publicity for "Masters of the Congo Jungle" states that this spectacular movie was photographed "under the gracious auspices of His Majesty King Leopold III."

This dates the picture a bit, considering what has been transpiring in the Congo in recent months since it was granted independence by Belgium. But for the same reason, this half of Thursday-through-Saturday's twin bill should be of particular interest, giving as it does an unusual picturization of native life, fauna and flora in the former Belgian Congo.

Companion film, "Have Rocket, 'Vill Travel," presents those famed laugh producers, The Three Stooges, in an out-of-this-world rib-tickler. If you go for old-fashioned slapstick, this is for you.

Mark Twain's wonderful story, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," is brought marvelously to life by the all-star cast that will cavort on the New Belmond screen Sunday through Wednesday. Playing "Huck" is Eddie Hodges, who gained his first nationwide fame in the Broadway production of Meredith Willson's "Music Man." The ol' battler Archie Moore portrays "Nigger Jim" and such comedy favorites as Buster Keaton, Andy Devine, Sterling Holloway, Mickey Shaughnessy and Judy Canova fill prominent roles.

CONGRESS

UNTRUE REPUBLICAN STATEMENT:

"The Democrats, who control Congress by a two-thirds majority could have enacted into law any farm program they desired."

THE TRUTH: In 1954 the Republican controlled Congress passed the Benson flexible farm bill. It was signed into law. In 1955 the Democrats regained control of the Congress and beginning in 1956 passed five major farm bills to aid farmers. The President vetoed all five. But at no time have the Democrats had a two-thirds majority membership of the Congress which is necessary to over-ride a veto. The highest Democratic membership of the House of Representatives was in 1959 when there were 283 Democrats and 153 Republicans — not a two-thirds majority.

SPEEDY
AER-VAC SYSTEM

SAVES YOU $5 TO $7 PER ACRE

reduces field losses — lets you harvest corn earlier, when picking conditions are good

Draws out damaging heat and moisture during storage — prevents spoilage, keeps corn sweet and cool

All for only $119.95

Harvest earlier — take advantage of good picking conditions. You avoid losses from field shelling, and down corn due to borer and wind damage. Save as much as $7 per acre.

And Speedy Aer-Vac Systems condition wet corn, automatically. Wind driven turbine moves air, removes heat and moisture even in the slightest breeze! An exclusive moisture trap collects and drains off condensation — prevents it from returning to the corn.

There's a Speedy Aer-Vac System for every type of corn crib. You can even install it after the crib is filled. Don't let late picking and field losses rob you. Install an economical Speedy Aer-Vac System.

Too high baby beef cost called "unwise gamble"

Wright county's 4-H club members stand their best average chance of profit on baby beeves if they buy their calves at not more than a dollar or two per hundredweight over the current market for choice feeder calves, County Extension Associate Gerald Anderson advises.

He points out that profits on beef cattle next year are likely to be mostly in feeding margins. Farm economists are warning professional feeders of the prospect for lower slaughter cattle prices in 1961 than in 1960.

Anderson says Animal Husbandman Tom Wickersham of Iowa State university points out that the high auction prices often paid for champion baby beef have led many 4-H members and their parents to buy fancy calves at fancy prices.

Wickersham warns that many factors are involved in baby beef championships. There's no way of being sure that a fancy-looking 500-pound calf will grow into a champion. High prices paid for these calves amount to a "gamble," not a sound beef investment, Wickersham adds.

Wright county's 4-H beef shows have from 150 to 200 entries, only one of which can be a champion. The good-looking calf doesn't always prove to be the best gainer on feed, and there are possibilities of accidents or errors in handling or feeding between purchase time and show time.

These factors put the odds up around 200-to-1 against any particular calf taking the top money spot.

Wickersham advises that all baby beef buyers weigh the animals they think they think they may want to buy; then figure out what they can pay on a hundredweight basis. Have a capable cattleman help select an animal that has good conformation and, if possible, that comes from a herd with records of efficient gains on feed and the capacity to finish at prime grade.

Be ready to pay up to $2 per hundredweight over the market to get this calf, Wickersham suggests. But some 4-H'ers, Wickersham says, have been going as high as 50 to 75 per cent above the market for their calves. The odds are against financial success with such calves.

Dr. James Lott of Clarion has been named chairman of the Wright county campaign of Evan L. Hultman, Waterloo, Republican candidate for Attorney General in the November general election.

Dr. Lott said when he accepted the post, "I'm pleased to be able to help Mr. Hultman in his campaign for Attorney General. I've known him for a number of years and there's no doubt in my mind of his outstanding qualifications for the position."

Hultman, 35, is presently Black Hawk county attorney. He is national legal council of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, Judge Advocate General of the 103rd Infantry Division Staff, and senior partner in the Hultman, Ball and Beekman law firm.

An infantry Company Commander in World War II, he is a law college graduate of the University of Iowa, where he received the Big Ten conference medalist award for scholarship and athletic achievemen. Hultman is married and the father of three children.

Farm Bureau points up issue of state school aid

If you think the matter of state school aid is not a very major issue in the up-coming general election, consider what were the first two resolutions approved by the Wright County Farm Bureau last week, concerning state issues.

The first was: "We belive that some method of providing increased state aid for schools to relieve proberty taxes would be desireable. We recommend that the sales tax be increased one per cent. If this is not feasible, we recommend a combination of an increase on corporation and personal income tax and an adjusted gross income tax."

The second was: "We favor some increase in the 15 mill limitation for ag. land tax credit, providing there would be an open end appropriation to pay all claims in full each year."

Let's take a look at just how well the state government has been meeting its obligation to provide aid to public school districts in accord with existing commitments.

First, claims for ag. land tax credit (rural land owners are by law to be relieved of all school tax in excess of 15 mills) had to be settled for the 1959-60 school year at less than 54 cents on the dollar — because the state makes a flat appropriation for this purpose and the amount, almost without exception, has always fallen short of the need.

General aid, consisting of state assistance of so much per pupil per day, had to be pro rated at 88.9 per cent, because a specific (and inadequate) amount is provided by the legislature for this fund, also.

Supplementary aid, which provides additional assistance to the poorer (and, the truth to tell, often as not the least efficiently organized) school districts, was paid on a pro rata basis of 41.6 per cent.

Even transportation aid from the state, whose purpose should be self explanatory, is insufficiently well funded and called for settlement last year at 54.6 cents on the dollar.

These failures to appropriate enough money to fulfill a state school aid obligation mean an added burden on the propertyowner — who has to make up the deficiencies in each instance. The margin by which ag. land tax credit funds fall short of the legal need is WHOLLY made up by owners of agricultural land. In addition, they shoulder a share of each of the other deficits.

Is it any wonder, then, that such organizations as the Farm Bureau are vitally interested in seeing the state live up to its self-assumed obligations relative to school aid?

As mentioned in this column last week, Edward McManus, Democratic candidate for governor, is blithely unconcerned over the burden that has been thrust upon the propertyowner by the state's default on its school aid commitments.

He has told several audiences, "There is something wrong with telling people it (state school aid) will reduce their taxes. State aid isn't manna from heaven. Every nickel of it comes from the taxpayer's pocket. And with every dollar of state aid comes more state control."

He overlooks entirely that the purpose of state aid is to relieve the propertyowner of a part of the unfairly high share of school financing that HIS taxes must meet. Of course diverting some of this burden to a more general tax source isn't going to effect school costs one iota. But state aid can, and should, help to equalize the responsibility for school support.

And McManus has no justification for saying that if the state meets its obligations in the way of school aid, more state control will be the result. The appropriation for ag. land tax credits has grown over the years from $500,000 annually to $10,500,000 per year at present without any loss of autonomy by the local school systems.

His ticket-mate, Herschel Loveless, in pursuing a U. S. Senate seat, is promising more FEDERAL AID to schools IN ORDER TO PROVIDE PROPERTY TAX RELIEF. And THERE danger of unwanted controls DOES LIE These two gentlemen could well get together on the matter of whether the propertyowner is or is not being inequitably taxed for school purposes.

Norman Erbe, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, points to the continually rising tax proceeds from EXISTING state tax sources and declares that some of these funds should be used to MEET IN FULL the existing state commitments for school aid.

He has said, specifically, that if elected he will strenuously urge that surplus funds now pouring into the state treasury year by year be used in part to increase state aid to schools, to meet the state's obligation in regard to ag. land tax credit, and to provide property tax relief accordingly.

Propertyowners should not have to study the two candidates' poles-apart viewpoints toward the problem of property taxes for long to realize that the man they NEED in the governor's chair is Norman Erbe.

Belmond fortunate in having A-1 fire department

Possibly we can blame our negligence in letting Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 9-15) escape our notice at least partly on the fact that the Belmond Fire department did likewise. It would, it seems to us, have offered a fine opportunity for the local smoke-eaters to let their light shine by holding an open house and letting the public admire that fine new fire truck.

We make this comment strictly in regret, not in criticism; for the fire company does an A-1 job of performing its primary function of protecting local life and property by maintaining a modern and efficient fire-fighting organization.

Belmond is very fortunate to have a volunteer department that does such an excellent job keeping abreast of the community's needs in the matter of equipment (and the city council should be given a vote of thanks for giving the department full cooperation).

Experienced, well-trained personnel is a vital requirement for a good fire department — and we have it. But give the best of personnel only mediocre, out-of-date equipment and it cannot do an adequate job of protecting its community against fire losses.

It would not be amiss, in passing, to mention that Belmond township will be called upon at the general election to cast another vote on the matter of tax support for the proposed purchase of a needed, new rural truck. Its residents missed by a shade giving the special fire protection levy the required percentage of support at the primary election. The people west of town should think carefully before rejecting the Belmond department's generous offer of cooperation in providing expert, low-cost fire protection for Belmond township.

With winter coming on and danger of fires thereby increased, it would be a good time to check against hazards in our homes that could bring disaster. Make sure, in particular, that wiring is adequate to handle the heavier seasonal load of the cold months and that trash hasn't been permitted to pile up that could constitute an unnecessary threat of fire.

Our firemen take pride in their work and do it well. But they're happiest when they have the least to do. Let's each do our bit to keep them as idle as possible.

Miller-Loveless race a vital one

The dramatics of the presidential election are all but obscuring for Iowans a political race which is of tremendous importance for them — that for the United States Senate between Gov. Herschel Loveless and State Senator Jack Miller.

The Senate race is of more than usual significance because a complete new farm program is almost certain to be written during the next session of Congress. Members of both House and Senate will be closely watching to see whether Iowa farmers want the strict marketing quotas offered in the Democratic platform or the milder acreage restrictions proposed by the Republicans.

THE ELECTION OF MR. LOVEless from the nation's leading farm state will almost certainly be interpreted as indicating farm approval of the strictest kind of regimentation. The election of Senator Miller on the other hand will be regarded as the strongest possible evidence of preference for an enlarged soil bank and rewards for limiting production.

The issues in the senatorial contest should not be overlooked by Iowans.

The candidates themselves should also be carefully and thoughtfully assessed by Iowa voters. The farm battle shaping up makes it essential that this great farm state be represented by the most capable and respected legislators we can send.

HOW DO MR. LOVELESS AND Mr Miller masure up?

Mr. Loveless is high-school trained. His record in business is lacklustre. He has no legislative experience. He was mayor of Ottumwa when that city was flooded and is credited with successfully administering the crisis.

It was that incident which gave him statewide publicity and encouraged him to run for the governorship in 1952. He was defeated. He ran again in 1956 against Leo Hoegh, who had antagonized a large segment of the Republican party, and won. He was re-elected in the nationwide Democratic sweep in 1958.

AT THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIdential convention last summer he was chairman of the Iowa delegation and worked diligently and successfully to deliver the votes to Mr Kennedy, contending — with encouragement from Mr. Kennedy — that Loveless was a possible choice for the vice-presidency, a contention which collapsed as soon as the votes were delivered.

Mr. Miller is a graduate of Columbia university's college of law. He has been on the faculty of Notre Dame law school and George Washington university department of business administration. He served as special attorney in Washington D. C., for the Internal Revenue Service.

HE IS AN AUTHOR OF NUMERous articles on taxation, particularly relating to farm problems. He is a colonel in the U. S. Air Force Reserve with overseas World War II service. He served on the faculty of the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College.

He has served both in the Iowa House and Iowa Senate, where he is noted for his political independence and for thorough, careful legislative procedures.

On the record there is no comparison between the qualifications of the two candidates.

With all that is at stake for Iowa in the years ahead it would be a political error of the first magnitude if Mr. Loveless is sent to the United States Senate when a man of the capabilities of Mr. Miller is available. — Jefferson Bee

WITH YE ED

GETTIN' REAL HOT—

While it may wear tempers a bit thin, this year's political campaign stacks up as the liveliest that Ye Ed can remember in the course of being interested in politics from a newspaper standpoint over a span of more than 25 years . . . and we regard it as a healthy situation.

Woe betide the day when either of Uncle Sam's major political parties becomes so weak that it can't keep the other on its toes.

Being a Republican paper both by tradition and by strength of numbers in the current ownership, we have been— and intend to keep on being — editorially outspoken in our support of the GOP cause.

Several of our editorial-writing brethren fro whom we hold the greatest admiration, incidentally, are as vehemently Democratic as we are Republican. We mutually make each other "mad" as we go our partisan ways — and at the same time look forward to seeing and talking with one another whenever an occasion permits.

Let us say that politics (no more than religion) lessens our regard for our good friends of opposite party leanings not a whit. And while we exercise our privilege of speaking our political mind in the editorial column, we readily give those who disagree with us the same privilege in the Public Forum column.

If you've been keeping track, you'll have noticed that "the opposition" has been making fairly generous use of this sounding board, too.

PERSONS OR PRINCIPLES?—

It might come as a surprise to some of our more rabid critics to learn that we've never voted a straight Republican ticket in a general election.

Where major offices are concerned, it's our feeling that — opposing candidates being virtually on a par with each other — a voter should be influenced by the party principles he holds in greatest favor; for a candidate SHOULD consider himself committed to support those principles.

But if a party candidate — even at a major level — has questionable qualifications, or has made an unimpressive record in an office to which he seeks re-election, then we feel those considerations should outweigh party considerations.

It's difficult to set up a hypothetical situation and predict with complete confidence what you would do under the prescribed circumstances. We KNOW what led us to cast our vote for Roosevelt instead of Landon in 1936. We believe the same considerations — comparative stature and qualifications of the rivals — would compell us this year to reject Loveless and Coad, even if we were a staunch Democrat.

On the other hand, if we favored the Democratic political philosophy and platform, we would without hesitation vote for the other major candidates on that ticket as worthy representatives of the party.

A loyal party member — whatever his party preference — is bound to seek for his faction the best opportunity for it to carry out its pledges on key issues of the day. Consequently, unless a candidate shapes up as such an inadequate representative of the state or district as to not justify his election on party considerations alone, he warrants the support of his fellow party members.

A perusal of our files will clearly show that the quality of representation Iowa received from Sen. Tom Martin on more than one occasion prompted our outspoken criticism, Republican or not. In the same spirit, as an Iowan first and party affiliate second, we are frankly dubious that Coad or Loveless are personally capable of giving their home state the quality of representation in Congress that Iowa and the 6th District deserve.

End of sermon.

THOSE YOUNG DEMOS—

Wright county's Democratic central committee should be grateful to the enthusiastic bellwethers who have been responsible for organizing the up-and-coming Young Democrats. It is a glaring omission that the Republicans have not been able to — or have simply neglected to — come forward with a similar organization.

Just as the strongest big league teams get that way — and STAY that way — by developing talent in the minors, it behooves a political organization to encourage activity in its younger ranks.

Even though this week (see Public Forum) we have a patch of hide peeled off by a "Young Democrat," we wholeheartedly respect his party loyalty. He'll learn in time, as we had to, not to wear his political nerves so near the surface.

But, believe us — we'd like to see some Young Republicans getting equally excited, inspired by the political system that is among our most precious possessions in a world torn by conflicting ideologies.

Know your businessmen—

Main street site has sold clothing 64 years

While the firm of Thompsen-Keleher Clothiers has been in business on Main street for only 7½ years, its proprietors take a certain amount of understandable pride in the fact that men's wear has been dispensed to the public from the same location for some 64 years, continuously.

A. P. "Dutch" Thompsen, senior partner in the firm, bought the business from C. C. McGuire in 1946; and it had been in the McGuire family for a full half century prior to that transaction.

George Keleher, "Dutch's" junior partner, bought into the business on March 15, 1953; and since affiliating with the firm has been in active management of it.

It was as owner and manager of an Army surplus clothing store at Eagle Grove that George "learned the ropes" of the clothing business. He operated that store from 1946 until August of 1951, when genuine Army surplus was becoming scarce.

With the experience gained in this business venture, George obtained a sales position with Neesen and Reil Clothiers at Eagle Grove. He remained with that firm until opportunity came to acquire an interest in Thompsen's clothing store.

Mr. Keleher says that affiliation with two clothing trade associations during the period that he has been a partner in Thompsen-Keleher has had considerable influence on the type of merchandising operation that the store conducts.

One is the Northwest Buyers and Jobbers association, which has headquarters in St. Paul and has as affiliates 255 clothing stores and 67 manufacturers. This organization enables the member merchants to buy from the suppliers without incurring the usual markup that must be paid to jobbers.

Men's wear jobbers as a general rule claim a 30 to 33 1/3 per cent mark-up on clothing sold to retailers. Through the Northwest association, the middleman's profit is avoided and a jobbing cost of only five to seven per cent (to cover overhead) is required of stores purchasing goods through this medium.

This group buying, George says, gives Northwest member merchants a distinct advantage over stores doing their buying independently — and also enables them to compete on at least an even footing with chain stores dealing in men's and boys' wear.

What might be regarded as a minor disadvantage of the arrangement, George admits, lies in the fact that Northwest buyers must accept delivery of merchandise orders at the convenience of the manufacturers — who utilize the arrangement to keep up production during slack periods.

This may entail unseasonably early receipt of goods, which must then be stored until needed; but the savings involved make this inconvenience easily tolerable.

At best, George observes, a clothing merchant is very much at the mercy of the weather; and a "bad" selling season — either fall or spring or summer — may leave shelves regrettably loaded with merchandise that under normal circumstances would have been readily sold.

The second affiliation that Thompsen-Keleher has found much to its benefit is membership in the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. This national organization sharply influences clothing styles for males and helps to establish new national trends.

"Dress right! You do your best when you look your best" is a slogan that the American Institute has made nationally familiar. George says the philosophy behind the slogan is the same as that which causes a peewee ball team — or a marching band — to perform better and with more enthusiasm when properly attired.

That pride in attire DOES have a definitely beneficial influence is claimed by the institute on the strength of experiments in schools where slovenly personal appearance was apparently encouraging juvenile delinquency. Requirements for neater attire and better personal grooming (outlawing extreme hair styles, such as "ducktail" cuts, for example) brought prompt reduction in the amount of delinquency.

Particularly in the past five years, the institute has brought about distinct, new trends in men's clothing styles. These changes are both more abrupt and more drastic than ever effected men's wear in preceding years. They have helped make the awareness of style among men more closely approach the similar awareness that has so long prevailed among women.

"That," concedes Mr. Keleher, indulging in a bit of understatement," DOESN'T hurt business!"

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Ye Ed's always been an ardent admirer of skilled artisanry in any field and regards that Belmond is fortunate to have probably more than its due share of truly skilled craftsmen. (Mrs. G. would probably explain this admiration as prompted by a total lack of handyman aptitude on the part of her inept mate.)

Anyway, we were stopped in our tracks the other day as one of the Dorr twins neatly clipped off with a bunglesome-looking mason's hammer an exact portion of brick to fill a gap in the wall of the new IEL&P office building.

We could imagine ourself battering to smithereens a half dozen bricks in trying to get a piece of the needed proportions. Not so with Don (or was it Duane?). A few well aimed licks with his hammer, and a nice, square chunk of the desired dimensions fell free and fitted the gap as if specially kilned for the spot.

No one's unhappier about it than the Mainstreeters that the past several weeks it's been impossible to get all of the "personal" items in The Independent that have been gathered by our correspondents. Stories have had to be held out, too; but we can set aside those that have the least time element. It's just a case that, when news space runs out, "somethin's gotta go." If YOU have been among the victims of omission, we can only ask your forebearance. Maybe after the election . . .

Duane Jenison has had three sons play varsity football for BHS (as any Bronco sports follower will know). In Rollie's senior year, Belmond had its best season in a good-sized handful of years — seven wins and just two losses. In Lynn's senior year, last year, the Broncos' record was a notch better — six wins, a tie and only one defeat. But if Belmond gets by Lake Mills tomorrow night, Jerry Jenison will be able to boast having a part in a 7-1 season as a senior. Added all together — 20 victories, one tie and four defeats — the Jenison boys have a pretty fancy senior-year record, as a family.

Just for the record, it was Bill Sheriff, Jr., who was wielding the cutting torch that supplied the spark creating the barn blaze at his father's farm last week. Because the story in The Independent did not specifically state to the contrary, it might have been incorrectly surmised that a member of the A. R. Dorr Sons' crew wielded the implement, since it was in connection with construction of the cattle shed they were building that the torch had been employed. Bill (Sr.) wants us to make this clear.

Thera Fitts, Belmond's historian laureate (if there is such a thing) calls attention to an item in last Sunday's television section of the Des Moines Register that should be of possible interest to local old-timers. It concerned one Edward Stephenson, who is art director for "An Hour with Danny Kaye," to be seen this Sunday evening on CBS television.

According to Thera, Stephenson, who was born at Algona but moved to southern California with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stephenson, when he was six, has early-day Belmond connections. His mother, nee Lenore Sheffield, was a daughter of E. M. Sheffield, builder of Belmond's first telephone system and also original owner of the Dr. A. M. Larson building, which for some years served as Belmond's post office.

Stephenson's maternal grandmother was a sister of the late Bill Butts, father of Goodell's present Bill and Warner Butts. Stephenson has been prominent in the film and television industries since 1952, after seven years in the orient as USAF entertainment director in the Philippines, Okinawa and Japan. Expect some local folks can say they "knew him when."

Jr. Broncos trim Forest City 20-7

Belmond's froshmore gridders scored on a 60-yard run by Raymond Roberts on the second play of the game against Forest City on Monday night and kept command thereafter to come through with a 20-7 victory.

After the Junior Broncs' early strike, there was no more scoring until the first play of the third quarter when Marlo Luick went more than half the length of the field for the game's second touchdown. Conversion on a line plunge brought the count to 13-0.

Forest City retaliated with a sustained march of 70 yards in the same period and was back in the ball game when the run for point was successful.

The host team's efforts to overtake the Junior Broncos backfired in the final quarter. A Belmond lineman, in rushing the Forest City passer, largely blocked a toss and the ball was snatched by John Kaduce and toted 50 yards for the winner's third tally.

A crack at the line made good the extra point.

Adjustment board sets hearing date for zoning cases

Public notices appear in this issue setting time of hearing on three applications from variances from the provisions of the city zoning and planning ordinance. All three cases will be heard on Monday, Nov. 14, at the city hall.

Purpose of two of the applications is to gain permission from the board of adjustment to build garages that would not allow side-yard set-backs as required by the zoning law. These were entered by Spahn and Rose Lumber company and Dale Bemerich and pertain to adjoining properties in Kirkendall Addition.

Zoning officer gives warning

The other application was entered by Tom Quigley, who seeks permission to build a porch on his home in south Belmond In this instance, the front yard set-back requirement would be violated.

Lois Hammond, city zoning officer and also secretary to the board of adjustment, asks that all Belmond residents keep the zoning and planning ordinance in mind whenever contemplating buying property for a building site, planning to construct or alter a building, or changing the use of a building If the plans conflict with provisions of the zoning and planning ordinance, as a general thing it won't be permissible to carry them through.

Violation penalty cited

"It is alway advisable to make certain your plans in regard to city property are legal, for violation's are punishable by a fine of $100 for each offense — and each day that a violation exists constitutes a separate offense." Mrs. Hammond reminds local residents.

In some instances — particularly involving existing construction — variances such as those described above may be given consideration by the board of adjustment the zoning officer notes. But she adds that such variances must be specifically allowed, after the matter has been publicly heard.

Dance Saturday to benefit Coad

Tickets may be obtained from any of Belmond's Young Democrats for the Coad-for-Congress benefit dance that is to be held Saturday at Veterans' Memorial hall, starting at 9:00 p. m.

Both U. S. Rep. Merwin Coad and Richard Wilson of Clarion, Democratic candidate for state representative, will make personal appearances at the dance. Music will be provided by an orchestra from Jefferson.

Proceeds from the affair will be divided between Mr. Coad's campaign fund and the Wright County Young Democrats' treasury.

ENSIGN STEPHEN QUIGLEY

Quigley graduates from Naval OCS

NEWPORT, R. I. (FHTNC) — Navy Ens. Stephen J. Quigley, son of Mr. and Mrs Thomas Quigley of Belmond, Ia., was graduated Oct. 14 from the Officer Candidate School at the Naval Base, Newport, R I.

The 18 week course qualifies college graduates and outstanding fleet personnel in the naval sciences, stressing technical and leadership problems.

By graduating, each officer candidate has observed, and put into practice the essential leadership principles necessary to equip him for his new responsibilities as an officer.

MRS. E. QUANDT AND SON DEPART ON TRIP ABROAD

Mrs Robert Buckles of Waterloo spent Friday at the Dean Gunderson home with her mother and sisters, Mrs Ella Pierce, Mrs. Gunderson and Mrs. Edwin Quandt, as a farewell for the latter.

Mrs Quandt and son, Harold Dean, left Saturday by plane for New York City. There they were to take the ship USS Darby on their way to Landstuhl, Germany, where they are to join Sgt. Edwin Quandt.

Annual fish supper of the Under 80's group of the Alexander Methodist church will be served at the church dining room this Friday. Pre-school children will be served without charge. The supper will be served family style.

CGD "kitty" upped to $500

Perplexed and dismayed that another Tuesday should pass without a single Cash Gift Day prize being awarded, the CGD committee is "boosting the ante" next week in hope of getting some prize money in circulation. It has been a good many months since the weekly prize fund has exceeded the customary $400 total. But next Tuesday the amount is being increased to $500. This will permit the posting of not eight but TEN $25 prize numbers at 2:00 p. m. and not four but FIVE $50 numbers at 3:00 o'clock. The committee reminds all who receive The Independent or Belmond Buyers Guide, though, that it's up to them to "come and get it."

DEMOCRATIC OPEN HOUSE

An open house to which all Democratic candidates for county office have been invited is planned for Tuesday of next week at the farm home of Iris Groves, seven miles south and 2½ west of Clarion. It will be an all-day affair and anyone interested in meeting these candidates is invited.

Elementary PTA meeting attracts turn-out of 200

More than 200 parents registered at the meeting of the Elementary Parent-Teachers association held Wednesday of last week. After a business meeting held at the high school auditorium, the parents went to their respective children's classrooms to sit in on two 15-minute periods.

There was a five-minute break between periods to accommodate parents who have children in different classes and wished to split their time between those children's classrooms. A question-and-answer period followed each class session.

This was the first time that this type of meeting had been conducted at the elementary level. Consensus of the parents was that it made a highly interesting program; and the teachers were very gratified at the parent response.

Nodland accepted as choir member

Douglas Nodland, a junior at St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., is one of 33 new members who have been added this fall to the St. Olaf choir. There are 63 singers in the choir; nine are sophomores and the rest upper classmen. No freshmen were admitted.

This a cappella choir has earned an international reputation under Director Olaf C. Christiansen. It will begin a tour of the western states Jan. 26, making appearances in Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, North Dakota and Iowa.

Campaign Director Cox notes that—

Chest benefits local youth most

This year's Belmond Community Chest drive — the same as in year's past — puts decided accent on youth. Campaign Director Luin Cox notes that a large share of the $4,320 set as the Chest's goal will go to support youth activities that are highly important to the young people of this community.

An appropriation of $1,100 has been set for Winnebago Council of the Boy Scouts, which administers the Scouting program in Belmond and in the other cities and towns in the council territory.

Some 70 boys are currently getting their introduction to Scouting by participation in the Cub Scout program here. In addition, about 30 Boy Scouts are working toward advancements and the Explorer Post numbers 18 advanced Scouts.

Another $400 has been appropriated for the Camp Fire and Bluebird organization in Belmond, which is affiliated with the Heart of the Hawkeye Council, one of the largest in the United States. Its Camp Hantesa near Boone is rated one of the finest camps for girls in the nation (corresponding praise might be given the Boy Scouts' new camp near Marble Rock).

About 140 girls are currently enrolled in the Camp Fire and Bluebird groups here, directed by 24 leaders and assistant leaders. These leaders receive regular help from a field director out of the Des Moines headquarters. Over the past five years, an average of about 150 girls annually have taken part in the Camp Fire and Bluebird program.

Belmond's highly successful summer recreation program also receives $400 from the Chest. Last year, an average of 96 boys daily participated in the well directed peewee and midget baseball program. This past summer, average daily attendance was 118 and 140 boys signed up to play on the various teams.

Funds from Belmond's share of the $1,000 appropriation to the American Red Cross go to finance swimming instruction for local boys and girls at Luick Memorial Swimming pool. Hundreds of youngsters have learned to swim, and several score have qualified as Junior and Senior Life Savers by enrolling in the Red Cross program.

Less fortunate children are given an opportunity to prepare themselves for normal or near-normal lives through the Wright County Association for Retarded Children, which receives a $100 appropriation from the Chest.

Mr. Cox says, "All of the charitable organizations and welfare agencies that share in our Community Chest's funds play an important role in our society and deserve the support Belmond gives them through the Chest.

"But we who are anxious to see the Chest continue in Belmond as a 'going concern' take very special satisfaction in the benefits to our youth that are derived through the donations you will be asked to make early next month."

Plans are progressing for the campaign kickoff on Monday, Nov. 7, with Mr. Cox in charge. The Belmond Chamber of Commerce, through President Phyllis Pals and Secretary Len Collier, promised its full cooperation to help put the campaign over — after it appeared, for a time, that no drive might be held this year.

County's teachers in dinner meeting last week at EG

All teachers of the county attended a dinner meeting of the Wright County Education association held last Thursday at Eagle Grove High school, the business session being conducted by Robert Wilson of Belmond, association president.

This meeting supplanted the annual Wright County Teachers Institute. Instead of an all-day meeting of all the teachers, the schools of the county this year are bringing to their own classrooms specialist-consultants to give advice and instruction to the respective teaching staffs.

Assembly delegate chosen

As a matter of business at the Eagle Grove meeting, Franklin Richards of Dows was elected as Wright delegate to the Iowa State Education association assembly to be held in conjunction with the state teachers meeting at Des Moines on Nov. 3-4. Max Graves of Eagle Grove and Mrs. Barbara Sunner of Goldfield were chosen as alternates.

Speakers at the county dinner were Dr. Oscar Thompson, professor of education at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, whose topic was "What is a Profession?" and Dr. Ray Bryan, chairman of the ISEA state legislative committee and head of vocational education at Iowa State university, Ames, who spoke on "The ISEA Legislative Program."

Two consultants here

Taking the place of attendance at a day-long county institute, the Belmond schools Wednesday of last week had as a consultant here Bernice Helff, associate professor of teaching at ISTC.

She offered suggestions in the area of social studies at the elementary level, visiting each classroom and meeting at 2:00 p.m. with all elementary teachers to discuss the social studies curriculum. PTA homeroom mothers took charge of the classes during this meeting.

This week, Dr. Thompson was to spend some time at Belmond similarly advising on social studies in the higher grades and in high school.

Game Warden Bill Ayers arrests drunken driver

Conservation Officer Bill Ayers temporarily deserted his assigned law enforcement field last Saturday afternoon and "bagged" a drunk driver

He was driving near the ox-bow on Highway 69 just east of Wall Lake when he noted a car ahead progressing in an erratic manner. It finally left the road entirely, dipped into the adjoining ditch, and then returned to the highway.

Apparently unnerved by this incident, the driver of the wandering car — which had been headed south — pulled off on the gravel road north of the ox-bow that leads west to Wall Lake.

There Game Warden Ayers caught up with Fred M. Cotton, 52, of Arlington, Tex., whose breath and actions suggested that a safer place could be found for him than behind the wheel of an auto.

A passing farmer was hailed down by Officer Ayers and asked to phone the sheriff's office to come and pick up the "customer." Deputy Dale Walrod put Cotton in the county jail overnight and on Sunday morning took him before Mayor E. F. Bisbey.

That magistrate bound the Texan over to the grand jury and set his bond at $500. On failure to post that amount, Cotton was returned to jail until the opportunity developed Monday to plead guilty to OMVI before Judge J. M. Schaupp in district court at Clarion.

Cotton explained that he has been working as a mechanic for a pipeline company in the north part of the state but was returning south for the winter. He'd celebrated his imminent homecoming not wisely but too well.

Good fortune of a sort smiled on Cotton when the judge said "$300 or 90 days." The southerner had on him more than $600 in uncashed checks from his summer job, enabling him to promptly settle his account and soberly resume his journey.

Jaycees will hold Halloween parties again—Monday eve

Next Monday the Belmond Jaycees plan to hold their annual Halloween parties for the young people of the community, including all from third grade through high school. The little tots in kindergarten through second grade will be given treats at school in lieu of a party, as usual.

Harry Nelson is chairman of the party for 3rd-through-6th graders that will be held at 7:00 p.m. at the high school gymnasium. This will again be a costume affair and entertainment will take the form of games and contest. There'll be refreshments, too, of course.

The 7th, 8th and 9th graders will have their fun in the form of a wiener roast and a skating party at Roll-Away Skating Rink. Their party starts at 7:30 o'clock and Ed Gabrielson is the chairman in charge.

Pete Followwill heads the committee planning the dance at Veterans' Memorial hall for the high school sophomores, juniors and seniors. There will be juke box music, interspersed with prize drawings every half hour, and at the conclusion of the evening the winner of an attractive grand prize will be drawn. The dance starts at 7:30 p.m. Ample refreshments will be provided.

Serving as assistant chairmen and No. 1 aides to the parties' three general chairmen are Roger Lathrop, Vernon McLaughlin and Bill Lacey.

Evangelist plans meetings 5 days at Trinity church

Philip Hanson of Golden Valley, Minn., a suburb of Minneapolis, will appear as an evangelistic speaker at a series of meetings to start Sunday at the Trinity Lutheran church. He will deliver messages at both Sunday services, 11:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m., and nightly through Thursday starting at 8:00 o'clock.

The general public is cordially invited to hear Mr. Hanson speak. He just lately began work as a Bible teacher and evangelist for the Lutheran Evangelistic Movement, which has supplemented the program of evangelism in the Lutheran church for the past 23 years.

HANSON

Since his graduation from the Lutheran Bible Institute in 1933, the guest speaker has served in parish, evangelistic and Bible school ministries. He spent six years as lay-pastor of congregations of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Canada and Iowa.

For five years he was engaged in full-time evangelistic work, and for seven years he was a teacher at the Lutheran Bible Institute, Minneapolis. From January 1958 until recently taking up his work with the Lutheran Evangelistic Movement he served as lay assistant to the pastor at Calvary Lutheran church, Golden Valley.

Award Night set for November 12

Wright county 4-H Award Night will be held Saturday evening, Nov. 12, at the IOOF hall in Clarion beginning at 8:00 o'clock.

Individual recognition and awards to be given include: achievement awards to outstanding members, Chicago trip awards, 4-H clover awards to leaders, style revue winners and local club awards.

A special feature of the Award Night program will be the election of the farm project 4-H county officers for the coming year.

AMMERMAN ON CARRIER

WESTERN PACIFIC (FHTNC)—Terrance J. Ammerman, fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mrs. Rollin Mosiman of Belmond, Ia., is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Hancock operating with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific. The Hancock has visited ports in Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines since leaving her home port of Alameda, Calif.

"Treats" tonight will aid UNICEF

A reminder is offered that, under church sponsorship, children of Belmond this evening will canvass the community in behalf of UNICEF — the United Nations Children's Fund.

All youngsters participating are asked to meet at the Methodist church at 6:30 p.m., so their door-to-door calls can be started by 7:00 o'clock. After the homes have been contacted, the children will return to the church for a bit of fun and refreshments. Parents may call for them at 8:30 o'clock.

This Halloween project in behalf of the sick and hungry children whom UNICEF benefits was started by one, small-town Sunday school in 1950. In the intervening decade it grew until more than 10,000 communities took part in the humanitarian activity last year.

Through UNICEF, coins of all denomination — and dollars, most certainly — perform a great service in giving millions of needy children a better chance for life and health. Householders are urged to turn on their porch lights if they want especially to have a small UNICEF trick-or-treater call at their door.

TB association plans seal sale

About 35 persons attended the semi-annual meeting of the board of directors of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association held Monday night at St. John's Catholic church, Clarion. A dinner preceded the business session. Included among those present were officers, members and guests of the association.

Instruction was given town and township chairmen for the 1960 Christmas Seal sale by Beverly Scheppler, county seal chairman, and Marion Law of Waterloo, field representative of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association. After the meeting, Miss Scheppler passed out supplies to the workers from the courthouse.

During the after-dinner program, Claude Sankey, representative director on the state board, gave a report on the fall meeting of that board held earlier this month at Des Moines.

BACK FROM TRIP WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Kling returned home last Thursday from Cheyenne, Wyo., where they spent a week with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Kling, and also visited relatives in Denver, Colo.

Fourth victim listed "critical"—

Crash on No. 69 takes three lives

Three lives were lost and two other persons were critically injured Saturday when a Minnesota car pulled into the wrong lane on Highway 69 three miles north of Belmond and was hit broadside by a second car driven by a Goodell farm youth.

Killed outright was Eva Mark, 77; dead on arrival at Belmond Community hospital was her son, driver of the Minnesota vehicle, Paul Mark, 51; and the latter's 20-year-old son John died of his injuries at the local hospital about 10 hours after the crash

Most critically injured of the three survivors was Mrs. Fayne (Lela) Hall, 41, of Goodell, who was riding beside her son Clyde as they were returning home from a shopping trip to Belmond She sustained severe head injuries.

Still listed as "serious," but improving in condition, is the lone survivor of the Mark car, Lois Mark, 41, wife and mother of the two male victims. She suffered multiple fractures and also internal injuries but has made progress toward recovery.

Clyde Hall, 17, driver of the Goodell car, escaped with chest contusions and minor cuts on his face and was released from the hospital Saturday after examination.

En route from their home at Tracy to the Marion county village of Attica, the Mark family was traveling south. As they approached the "McNulty corner" on Highway 69, they found a car ahead of them in their lane. Its driver was Pete Bohning, who was waiting on the Hall car from the south so he could turn safely onto the gravel road connecting with the highway on the east.

It was speculated by officers who investigated the accident that a rise in the road just north of the intersection may have briefly interfered with Mr. Mark's view of the highway just ahead and that he probably was traveling at a rapid rate of speed. He made an abrupt turn into the left lane to avoid the Bohning car and presumably did not see the Hall car coming on from the south.

Young Hall told the officers that he had seen the Bohning car waiting at the intersection with its turning signal indicating Mr. Bohning's intention of turning east. Then the Minnesota car was suddenly in young Hall's lane and the Goodell driver was unable to avoid crashing into the Marks' auto.

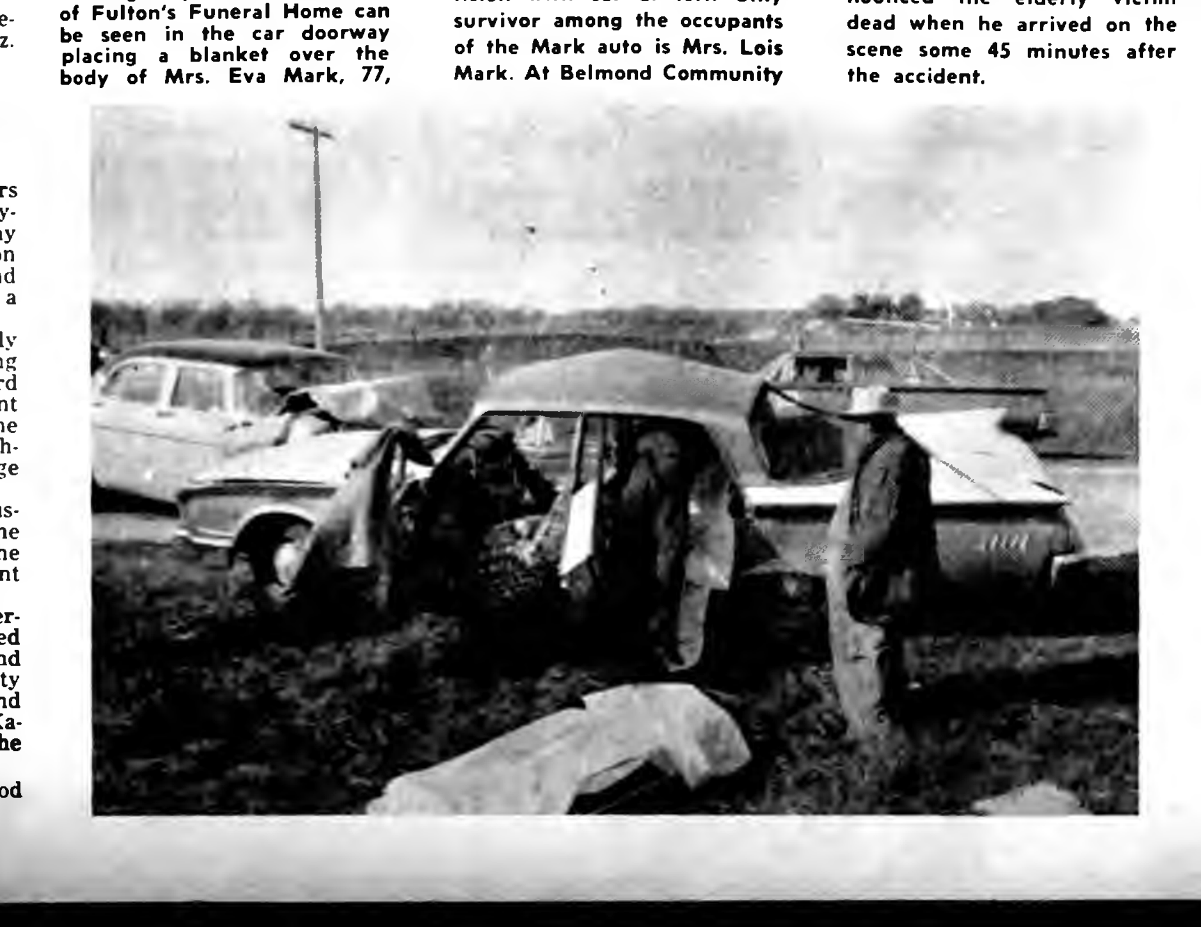
From the manner in which the Marks' vehicle was struck exactly broadside on the right side, the officers deduced that Paul Mark apparently must have made a desperate and belated effort to take to the east ditch. Seemingly, young Hall's reaction also was to turn right toward the ditch, so the impact of the front of his car against the side of the Mark auto swung the latter into an north-south position on the shoulder while Hall's car came to rest in the east lane.

All the occupants of the Minnesota car were thrown into the ditch except the elder Mrs. Mark, who was left dead on the back seat of the car. Spectators early on the scene thought it possible that Paul Mark died before he was picked up by ambulance and delivered at the hospital. John Mark was so severely injured little could be done to the end of saving his life.

The accident occurred about 9:20 a.m. It was investigated by Patrolmen Jerry Kramer of Belmond, Elmer Angle of Garner and Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod. Dr Robert Eaton, Wright county coroner, was summoned from Clarion to pronounce Eva Mark dead before her body was removed from the car and taken to Fulton Funeral Home.

The Hall family is new to this area, the father having accepted a job as farmhand for Earl Bachman on his farm near Goodell only last April.

Sheriff Bob Blecker reports that Saturday's fatalities brought the Wright county traffic toll to four for the current year. The only previous death this year was that of Vern E. Mourlam of Webster City on July 13 when he drove his car into the side of a freight train a mile west of Woolstock.



CORONER'S ARRIVAL was being awaited as this picture was taken Saturday at the scene of the fatal accident three miles north of Belmond on Highway 69. Jack Fulton of Fulton's Funeral Home can be seen in the car doorway placing a blanket over the body of Mrs. Eva Mark, 77, who met immediate death in the two-car crash. She was the only occupant of the Mark car who was not thrown out of the vehicle by impact of the collision with car at left. Only survivor among the occupants of the Mark auto is Mrs. Lois Mark. At Belmond Community hospital she was listed in "critical" condition with multiple fractures and internal injuries. Dr. Robert Eaton of Clarion, Wright county coroner, pronounced the elderly victim dead when he arrived on the scene some 45 minutes after the accident.

WHY DOES A FIREMAN wear — not red suspenders, in this case, but white "long Johns"? That could well have been the question in the minds of by-passers who Tuesday night of last week saw the trio above carefully shampooing fire hydrants throughout the Belmond business district. The explanation: Gene DeLancey, Gene Griffin and Carol Bamford (left to right) were engaging in their unusual chore as initiates into the ranks of the Belmond Fire department. They were recently elected to fill vacancies left by the resignations of three veterans who had completed 10 years as company volunteers, Paul Dorr, Ron Courson and M. B. Dannewitz.

"Hy-Line layers win official tests
What does that mean to me?"

Answer:
How layers perform in official tests is actually your second-best way to compare various brands. The best way would be to try them all yourself. But you can't possibly do that. So test results are your most practical guide. For example, 22 official tests ending in 1958 and 1959 show that Hy-Line layers outperformed the 9 next largest-selling birds by 55¢ more income over feed and chick cost . . . $550 extra per thousand birds. Such winning performance is why one of every eight layers in the U. S. this year is a Hy-Line bird.

SEE WHY YOUR SPINE PLAYS SUCH AN IMPORTANT PART IN GOOD HEALTH MAINTENANCE
Find Out NOW If Yours Is a Case for Chiropractic!

The Diseases Mentioned Below Are Only a Few Which Are Caused by Vertebrae "Pinching" Nerves. Study this "Health Chart" of Chiropractic, and you will understand why more and more people are turning to Chiropractic care.

1. Slight "pinching" of nerves at this point will cause so-called headaches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry or stiff neck, facial paralysis, dizziness, etc.
2. A slight nerve difficulty in this part of the spine is the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goitre, nervous prostration, la grippe, nose bleed, disorder of gums, catarrh, etc.
3. The arrow head marked No. 3 locates the part of the spine wherein "pinched" nerves will cause so-called bronchitis, felons, pain between the shoulder blades, rheumatism of the arms and shoulders, hay fever, etc.
4. A blocked nerve at this point causes so-called nervousness, heart disease, asthma, pneumonia, tuberculosis, difficult breathing, other lung troubles etc.
5. Stomach and liver trouble, enlargement of the spleen, pleurisy and a score of other troubles, so-called are caused by troubles in this part of the spine, sometimes so light as to remain unnoticed by others except the trained Chiropractor.
6. Here we find the cause of so-called gall stones, dyspepsia of upper bowels, fevers, shingles, hiccough, etc.
7. Bright's disease, diabetes, floating kidney, skin disease, boils, eruptions and other diseases, so-called, are caused by nerves being pinched in the spinal openings at this point.
8. Regulations of such troubles as so-called appendicitis, peritonitis, lumbago, etc., follow Chiropractic adjustments at this point.
9. Why have so-called constipation, rectal troubles, sciatica, etc., when Chiropractic adjustments at this part of the spine will remove the cause?
10. A slight slippage of one or both innominate bones, located here, will likewise produce so-called sciatica together with many "diseases" of pelvis and lower extremities.

SICK?
THIS CHART CLEARLY SHOWS WHY YOU MAY BE SUFFERING!

Regardless of what your ailment is called . . . no matter how long you have suffered . . . Chiropractic care may be the exact answer to your specific health problem. Chiropractic succeeds many times after all other methods have failed.

Broncos swamp Forest City Indians 59 to 19

In a game that saw only two of 12 touchdowns scored from a distance of less than 25 yards from the goal line — and saw Belmond's star guard, Bob Stadtlander, contribute a touchdown to the Broncos' scoring — Belmond swamped Forest City last Friday night 59 to 19.

Coach Rich Koolbeck used his reserves extensively, or the winners' total would have been considerably higher and the losers' score would likely have been a couple of touchdowns less. The statistics above are decidedly misleading, because the outclassed Indians gained 172 of their yardage total in three scoring bursts; and much of their remaining 145 yards were piled up against the Bronco substitutes.

Pastour tallies three times

Vernon Pastour demonstrated to the Belmond fans that the Broncos are not going to be without backfield power next year when he: (1) carried seven times for a total of 73 yards; (2) scored on runs of 26 and 28 yards and returned a pass interception 45 yards for a third touchdown; and (3) intercepted three other Indian passes.

Probably the highlight of the whole evening for the Broncos, though, came late in the game when Ronnie Schroeder recovered a Forest City fumble on the visitors' 26-yard line and Bob Stadtlander's team mates fixed it up for him to get the first touchdown of his gridiron career.

Bob was pulled into the backfield from his guard position. He nabbed a Jerry Jenison pass good for six yards, then ran for a 13-yard gain and finally bulled his way over from the seven for Belmond's final marker. He bobbled the hand-off for extra points, but nobody seemed to care.

Two quick touchdowns

It took the Broncs only a little over five minutes to get their first two TD's. On Forest City's first scrimmage play of the game, Pastour stole an Indian pass on the guests' 42 and returned it to the 35. Two minutes and 56 seconds were gone when Jenison found Bob Finn in the end zone for the initial marker and Mike Armour plunged for the point to make it 7-0.

After the next kickoff, the Indians tried to make a needed yard on fourth down at their own 28 and failed. A pass try fell incomplete, then Pastour went the distance and Dennis Anderson swept around end, bringing the count to 14-0.

A minute and 45 seconds later, Elliott Hibbs lofted a pass to speedy George Hanson and the Indian halfback trotted 80 yards for the first FC tally. Hanson also ran the point and it was 14-7.

Nobody suspicioned for a moment, though, that the Indians were going to make a ball game of it. 'Belmond's superiority continued and a bit over two minutes later the Broncos hit pay dirt again, Pastour romping the final 26 yards after a screen pass. Jenison-to-Anderson, for the same distance had helped set up the opportunity. Armour cracked for the point and the quarter horn found Belmond in front 21-7.

With the line-up well larded with reserves, the Broncos gained possession of the ball on the first play of the second period on another Pastour interception. Starting from their own 38, the Broncs — with Dennis Hauge quarterbacking, went clear to the Indians' nine before the drive was stemmed by a pass theft on the part of Arlen Steuber, 262-pound FC sophomore.

Double fake brings marker

This only delayed the inevitable, though, for two plays later the ever-alert Pastour once more grabbed an Indian aeiral — on the FC 25. A tricky double fake perfectly executed by Jenison sprung the little field general on a touchdown jaunt the very next play. Armour again punched over the point.

Pastour wound up his spectacular first-half performance a couple of minutes later by snagging another Forest City pass and running the ball 45 yards for his third and final marker. The try for point was fumbled, but Belmond had a 34-7 advantage.

Forest City capitalized on confusion among the Bronco reserves to score on a pass, Elliott Hibbs to Hanson, after the halftime horn had sounded. The play covered 60 yards and brought the scoreboard figures to 34-13.

"Whipple Special" works twice

Twice in the third stanza the Broncos tallied on the "Whipple special," just three minutes separating the two scoring strikes. This play, as Bronco followers are now well aware, sees Jenison lobbing a short forward to Bob Whipple on a tackle-eligible formation and Bob forthwith flinging the pigskin to Finn in the end zone. The first toss covered 37 yards, the second 35. Neither conversion try was good, but the markers put Belmond ahead 46-13.

The Bronco's next-to-last six-pointer was made by the reserves, Sammy Johnson gathering in a Hauge pass on a play that covered 39 yards and wound up in the end zone. Ray Roberts — who gained 50 yards on seven running plays as fullback relief for Armour — dashed off tackle for the point.

Three minutes later, with 1:46 showing on the clock, the stage was set for Stadtlander's moment of glory as a ball carrier and his rampage fixed Belmond's final score at 59.

Hanson scores third TD

In a repeat of the first-half finish, Forest City scored on a pass with seven seconds of time remaining, Hanson snatching an aerial from the arm of Baird Hibbs.

Stadtlander grabbed the ensuing kickoff and for a moment it appeared he might have another TD up his sleeve, but he was finally brought down on the Bronco 43 as time ran out.

Had the Belmond regulars seen more action, they undoubtedly could have garnered several more touchdowns. Even so, the Bronco reserves did very respectably. Roberts showed promise of developing into a decidedly hard-running back and Hauge showed bright prospect as a quarterback.

Stadtlander repeatedly ripped through for tackles on defense and he got especially outstanding support from Merrill Kalkwarf. As indicated, Pastour was a constant thorn in the Indians' ribs; Jenison and Anderson performed very creditably; and Finn had his biggest scoring night, with those three touchdowns.

Broncos concluding one of finest football seasons in BHS history

Tomorrow night the Bronco gridders will wind up one of the most successful seasons in BHS history at Lake Mills. Although the North Iowa conference championship — even a tie for the title — is apparently out of reach, the Columbia Blue-and-White aggregation can match the best won-and-lost record any Belmond team has ever posted.

Only the NIC champions of '45, who were unbeaten except for an opening 18-0 loss to Clarion, had previously gone through a campaign with a single defeat in an eight-game slate. The North Iowa was then a seven-member conference and the Broncos posted a win over Renwick in addition to whipping all their loop foes.

The strong 1948 Belmond team tied Clarion 13-13 and lost to Britt 0-6 but amassed the highest scoring total ever by a Bronco eleven — 245 points. In 1949, when the only Belmond defeats were 12-19 to Clarion and 7-13 to Northwood, the BHS gridders chalked up 209 points — one more than the 1945 crew.

This year's Broncos have punched over 168 points, just nine less that last season's team that shared the league title with Britt and Osage. It seems unlikely that the Bulldogs can prevent the '60 Broncos from improving on the co-champions' scoring mark. Last year, a 6-6 tie with Clarion and a heartbreaking 7-12 defeat at the hands of Osage were the only blots on the Belmond record.

Should the Broncos cut loose with a scoring barrage against Lake Molls like they unleashed in their games with Northwood and Forest City, they could chalk up the second-highest scoring total yet achieved by a Belmond team. Last week's splurge against Forest City sent them ahead of Britt in team offense by four points — 159 to 155 — so the Broncs could at least have the satisfaction of finishing on top in this department if they can gather more points against the Bulldogs than Britt does against Buffalo Center.

Coach Rich Koolbeck reports his gridders will be in good physical shape for their final game, so they should be ready for a top performance as a team.

Don Olson's guess best on FC game

Belmond High's biggest scoring total in 16 years was not fully anticipated by a single football fan in last week's score-guessing contest — but Don Olson of the Coast to Coast store picked off the $7.50 prize for coming closest.

His prediction was 55-6 in favor of the Broncos, making him only four points off on Belmond's total and 13 on Forest City's for a total of 17. Gary Obrecht and Clair Bonte tied for second-best guess, each being 30 points off with posted scores of 48-0 and 42-6, respectively.

The Broncos' made Forest City the victim of their all-time highest score 'way back in 1923 when the Indians took a 71-0 beating. Friday night's 59 points were the most a BHS eleven has amassed since 1945, when Buffalo Center was a 66-0 victim.

In 1943, the Broncos laid it on Britt 64-0. Biggest Belmond score of the past decade was 58-0 over Northwood in 1952.

There was little doubt but what the Broncos could easily have scored several more touchdowns against the hapless Indians last Friday, had not Coach Rich Koolbeck generously used his reserves in a good share of the second quarter and a large part of the second half.

Only Bison block Eagles' title path

Britt to all intents and purposes wrapped up the 1960 North Iowa conference football title with a show of defensive strength last Friday night that brought the Eagles a 13-0 decision over Garner.

Coach Steve Everett's team had to play without its star quarterback, Bob Nielsen, who made only a couple of very brief appearances in the line-up due to an ankle injury sustained in the Osage game.

But the Eagles held the improved Cardinals to only 69 yards in ground gains and 20 yards by air, and capitalized on a pair of Garner fumbles that produced scoring opportunities.

Assuming Britt disposes of Buffalo Center tomorrow night in the manner expected, this will make the fourth NIC gridiron championship the Eagles have won or shared in the past 10 years.

In 1951, the Eagles tied with Lake Mills for the crown; they earned exclusive claim to the title in 1958; and last year they finished in a dead heat with Belmond and Osage.

Forest City, doormat of the conference this season, has won the most NIC football championships — a total of seven since the loop was organized in 1926, the last coming in 1957. Northwood has owned the title outright five times and shared it once.

Albers averages just under 200 in state bowling

Ed Albers established himself as one of Iowa's top bowlers last weekend in the first shift of qualifying for the state match game bowling championship. About one-fifth of the 250 bowlers entered in the men's qualifying competed last Saturday and Sunday at Air Lanes, Des Moines, and when the firing was done Eddie was in fourth place with a 4,798 total.

This pin-fall was 147 less than that of the first-shift leader, Bill Iverson of Des Moines. With about 200 more bowlers due to qualify during the next two weekends, Albers suspects that his average of just under 200 pins per game isn't too likely to make the group of seven qualifiers who will compete next month against Defending Champion Al Meyer of Grinnell.

Some fine games were included in the 24 that Eddie rolled, but a 139 on his second game Saturday kept his total from being well up in the running as a qualifier prospect.

He had a top score of 247 on Saturday, when his 12-game total was 2,328 pins. On Sunday, he averaged close to 206 per line with the help of a pair of 245's.

Gene Pearson, Bowl-Mor proprietor, also rolled in the qualifying round last weekend. Although managing a respectable average of about 180 per game, he finished well below the leaders.

Colts win 27-0 at Boone Valley

Coach Paul Hickman's junior high Colts chalked up another one-sided football victory Tuesday of last week, walking over the Boone Valley 7th and 8th graders at Renwick 27 to 0.

Ray Johnson accounted for the victors' first tally, punching through the middle of the line for 10 yards. Neal Waddington made the point on an end run.

Belmond scored twice in the second quarter, Waddington passing to Bob Misner on a play that covered 18 yards and a double hand-off — Waddington to Keith Sheller to Misner — producing the other marker. Quarterback sneaks by Waddington brought the extra points in each case.

Colt reserves took over during the third quarter and most of the fourth, during which time the game was about even. When the regulars returned to the field toward the end of the fray, another double hand-off covered 50 yards needed for a touchdown. The final conversion attempt failed.

NOW FOR '61... 2 TOTALLY DIFFERENT TYPES OF CHEVY TRUCKS!

Rampside—roll your loads in and out. Nothing to it!
Corvan—side loading height is only 14" from the ground!

1. REAR-ENGINE CORVAIR 95's—THE TRUCKS THAT BEGAN WITH 4 WHEELS AND A FRESH IDEA!

Here are high-capacity haulers that offer the most accessible load space you ever saw. Think of up to 1,900 pounds of whatever you haul riding on a highly maneuverable 95-inch wheelbase. This design's a beauty. Features 4-wheel independent suspension, integral body-frame build, thrifty air-cooled rear engine—all kinds of fresh new ideas about truck efficiency and economy.

2. TORSION-SPRING CHEVROLETS—WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE!

You actually feel the advantages of independent front suspension in the almost total absence of I-beam shimmy and wheel fight. The driver rides easy, the load's better protected, tires take less abuse, the whole truck is subjected to far less damaging road shock and vibration. Efficiency goes up. Profits follow. Look over the whole line—both types of Chevy trucks.

FACTS — NOT FICTION
Perhaps you have heard false statements about costs of operation of our office. Take a look at the facts from 1959 Financial Report Books of other Counties. Most Counties include the costs of upkeep of the County Jail in with their Courthouse costs. All County Jail costs are excluded in this report.

COUNTY	POPULATION	COSTS	COST PER PERSON
Hamilton (Webster City	19660	$24,312.55	.$1.24
Hancock (Garner)	15077	$15,097.00	$1.00
Humboldt (Dakota City)	13117	$12,128.12	$ .92
Wright (Clarion)	19652	$20,082.79	$1.02
Total			$4.18
Average			$1.04½

The Wright County Sheriff's costs are under the average by 2½ cents per person.
In the past 10 years we have improved the operation of the Sheriff's Office to make it a modern up-to-date law enforcement agency, always keeping in mind to spend only what is needed.
Fees charged for Mileage, Salaries, and Boarding & Lodging of Prisoners, all are set by State Law.

RE-ELECT Coad - to - CONGRESS

Republican Statement:

The Democrats "vote against economy." "Coad's record shows that he has no fiscal responsibility."

The Truth:

The official records prove that from 1955 through 1960 Congress had a Democratic majority. During these years the Democratic Congress cut the Republican budget 9.9 billion.

Despite this reduction in expenditures the Republican Administration overspent the budget $21,622,832,061.29 from June 30, 1953 to June 30, 1960, thus adding that amount to the public debt.

In his four years in the United States House of Representatives, Merwin Coad has voted to cut the Republican budget requests $7.7 billion.

Dear Friends,

I can see I'm not going to be able to call on all of you personally before election even though I am still making an effort to do so. This contact work goes a lot slower than I had anticipated. However, I do want you to know that I am a candidate for the office of Wright County Sheriff. In a county this size it is possible for us to learn enough about the man running for office so that we can vote for the man regardless whether he is listed as a Republican or Democrat.

I am married and father of 3 children. We are active members of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church in Eagle Grove. I am a veteran of World War II. At the present time I am owner and operator of Merv's Auto Repair and Implement in Goldfield.

I feel I can give Wright County citizens the kind of protection they want and at a much lower cost. Did you know that the sheriff's office of Wright county spent $2637.70 in 1959 for the feeding and board of prisoners? Humboldt County spent for board and care of prisoners only $264.00?!?!?! Kossuth County (remember, it's twice the size of Wright County) spent $849.80 for board and keep of prisoners in 1959. This is really a great difference in expense! Wright County alone spent $1523.90 more than both the above counties! I acquired this information from the auditor's report, available to anyone at each county seat. The thing I'm trying to get across is — The Wright County sheriff's office has spent lots of money!! Do you, the voters, want this to continue?!! It is my promise to give you more service for less money. Remember, it is your dollar and if elected, I'll give you one hundred cents of service for each dollar spent!!! If good, impartial, economical, operation of the sheriff's department interests you, then vote for me November 8.

Sincerely,

Mervin Newkirk

Miller's been good friend to tax-burdened farmer

It must be conceded that Gov. Herschel Loveless will almost surely hold an edge over his Republican rival for the U. S. Senate, Jack Miller, in the larger cities and in labor support. If Loveless is beaten, it most probably will have to be farmers and voters in the smaller cities and towns who get the job done.

Actually, opposition should be very strong AGAINST Loveless in the rural area and the rural dominated communities of the state. During his terms in office Loveless has proved himself no friend of the farmer. On the other hand, Miller has shown very staunch friendship for the farmer.

Witness that: Miller supported a $5.5 million increase in the agricultural land tax credit fund (under which claims by rural property owners had to be settled last year at a rate of less than 54 cents on the dollar); Loveless made NO recommendation for increase in the fund to enable higher settlement of claims.

Miller voted for a bill to exempt tractor fuel and farm chemicals from sales tax; Loveless vetoed the bill.

Miller voted for a bill that would give Iowa farmer co-operatives the same tax treatment given co-ops in other states; Loveless vetoed the bill.

Miller sponsored a change in the Iowa income tax law to give farmers faster write-off of farm machinery costs; Loveless refused to sign the bill.

These comparisons should be clearly indicative of how Wright county's vote SHOULD go on the U. S. Senate contest. Miller clearly could be best depended on to represent OUR interests in Congress.

Sometimes, you know, things get to be "too much"

Ye Ed is advised by his Democratic partner, Duane Anderson, that Andy's Young Democrat friends have been climbing his frame due to an omission of courtesy on this writer's part.

It's not our practiced habit to be discourteous, and we must admit that when we were advised by phone a week ago Saturday that Congressman Merwin Coad was on Main street and wanted to "straighten us out" on something, we should have trundled down and heard what he had to say.

Why we didn't will likely seem a pretty poor reason to those fiesty Young Democrats — because it wasn't very good.

Several things entered into it. For one thing, when you play "private politics" you can pick your spot and confine any prospective argument to limits you set yourself. When you indulge in "editorial politics," you openly invite contradiction in every degree of validity — and, brother, you GET IT.

It just so happened that, for several reasons which we won't elaborate on, we were "fed to the gills" with politics of ALL flavors that weekend. We were also dog tired, and we couldn't conceive — at the moment — anything Mr. Coad could tell us that would warrant deserting our sofa and the Iowa-Wisconsin game, which at that juncture was at one of its peaks of excitement.

Bum reasons — but we talked ourself into thinking they were good enough; so we stayed put.

It may cool those Young Democrats' ire a few degrees to learn that the first of last week we chased Mr. Coad, via long distance, along his campaign trail until we finally achieved a word with him. We offered regrets for our impoliteness and inquired what had been on his mind.

Quite a number of weeks ago we'd picked up a bit of misinformation to the effect that during the last session of Congress the Democrats could have passed any sound farm legislation they might have come up with (probably true), even if this should have required over-riding a presidential veto (actually, the House DIDN'T have the two-thirds Democratic majority that this statement inferred). Mr. Coad wanted us aware that the Democrats had NOT possessed a veto-breaking majority.

Because of the Congressman's affinity for welfare programs of practically any description, we once referred to him (with politically poetic license) as a "wild-eyed spender." In this connection, he wished to advise your writer that his votes in the past two years of Congress favored appropriation cuts that would have reduced expenditures — as compared to the President's budget recommendations — by some $2 billion.

We have now been "straightened out;" our apologies have been made to the Congressman; and we're trying to calm our ragged nerves sufficiently to survive the remainder of the campaign.

We'll say this. Our tolerance with those prideful "independent" voters who remain aloof from the in-fighting that accompanies any general election campaign is at low ebb. As we lick our wounds sustained in efforts to bring support to candidates and principles we believe in, the way of the independent voters strikes us distinctly as the easy one out.

Shucks, we've got a lot more respect for a GOOD, hard-working Democrat than for those who just watch from the sidelines.

Clipped Comment

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

Loveless has little to "point to"

We've found it hard to understand why Iowans haven't gotten very excited about the contest for U. S. Senator. Now it is becoming clearer. Governor Loveless is conducting his campaign on the exactly the same formula used by Senator Kennedy in the first debate.

In his role of minor humanitarian he has managed to preserve the illusion that has been "a pretty good governor." Whenever we've asked anybody to tell us why, we've never been able to get any solid reasons for that statement.

There is still muted talk about his reducing taxes. It arises from the fact that he campaigned against the 3c sales tax in his first campaign. That proposal was an ill-advised and unfortunate issue which the Republican candidate embraced.

A REPUBLICAN LEGISLATURE reduced sales taxes from 2½c to 2c. But Governor Loveless takes full credit for it.

Aside from this tax reduction— which the Legislature gave us— we challenge anybody to point out how much taxes have been reduced in the past four years. But still the myth goes on.

Why is this so? We think it is this:

WE CAN'T THINK OF A SINGLE piece of constructive legislation for which he is responsible. He could successfully lay claim to being Iowa's champion do-nothing Governor. He really did nothing but talk.

But he talked about the kind of things which have paid off handsomely. He became the great humanitarian of the corn rows. We admit a grudging admiration for his technique.

It propelled him into the spot of Iowa's favorite son for the vice presidency. When that blew up, he became the farm expert who had all the answers.

THEN HOW DID THIS MYTH come into being? We can't think of a single legislative program he ever proposed. He can't blame the legislature for defeating his program because he never had any.

But his role as the great humanitarian, carried out through various "Governor's committees," has not been topped since the late Huey Long essayed to make every man in Louisiana a king. — Fairfield Ledger

Candidates indulged in wishful thinking

Some of our political candidates this fall, especially those for governor, U.S. Senate and House of Representatives, would like to find some simple solution to the farm surplus problem.

As an alternative to being realistic they are calling for increased exports and increased industrial uses of farm crops as a major part of the cure-all.

THESE TWO FACTORS WILL play only a minor role in solving our problem, according to the agricultural specialists at Iowa State University. The only realistic solution is decreased production. When we step up exports of grain as forgien aid, we disrupt the economy of other countries.

Our chemical engineers who have been working on finding new uses for farm products say that some can be found but they will never use the volume that will decrease our supplies to any extent.

ONE OF THE REASONS IS the price that has to be paid for a bushel of grain is too high for the amount of usable ingredients. Other sources of supply are more economical.

So candidates that use these two factors for curing the surplus problem are trying to give the impression of serious thinking on the problem, yet know — or should — that increased soil bank, acreage or marketing controls and other similar restrictions are the only plans now available to give a wholesale cut in grain supplies. — Britt News-Tribune

Still the Best Buy!

Radio and television advertising salesmen now call in Laurens and other towns throughout the area, attempting to divert local advertising funds to the city media. Considerable money goes to out-of-town concerns for that purpose.

Television people have, on occasion, attempted to sell the idea that their media is a far more effective way of interesting the potential customer than any other — including newspapers. So a survey made in Richmond, Va., is of unusual interest.

EDITOR & PUBLISHER REPORTS: "An independent research organization found that of more than 41,000 telephone calls only about one-fifth of them found the TV set turned on.

"Of that number 81 per cent were able to identify the program turned on but 71 per cent could not name any sponsor or product or type of product being advertised on that program. And even if the respondent said 'soap' instead of giving a brand name it was counted as sponsor identification, which seems to us like leaning over backward to be fair."

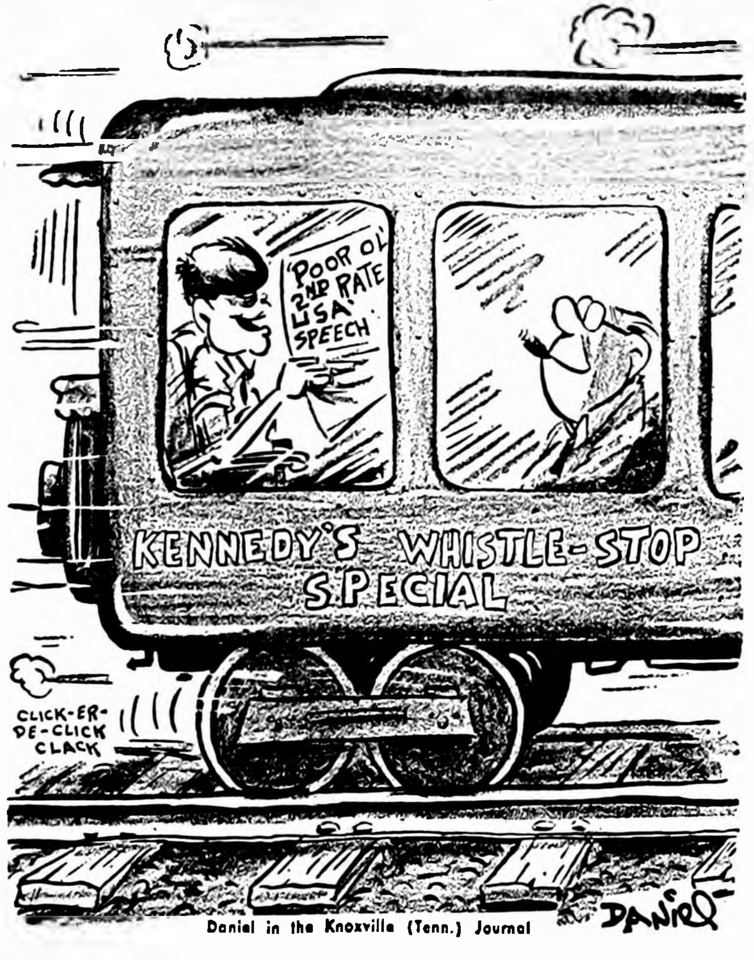
'What's The Next Miserable, Rundown, Backward Town We Stop At?"



Daniel in the Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal

SCANNING THE HORIZON

WITH YE ED

VERSATILE CORN—

Every election year (in particular) we hear quite a bit about research programs to broaden the use of agricultural products. This has been going on for such a long time that one would gather, if not otherwise informed, that little progress had been made in — for example — diversifying the use of such a farm crop as corn.

We can remember when there was quite a stir when, for a time, an attempt was made to produce corn sugar as a competitor to cane and beet sugars. They could make it, all right; but it must not have suited the public taste, for it quickly faded from the scene.

Another experiment we clearly recall was the fabrication of an insulating material like wallboard that used corn stalks in its manufacture. If we remember right, that was back in depression days. Insofar as we know, that didn't pan out, either.

But an article in the October issue of the Aramco World reveals that more headway in the industrial utilization of corn has been made than you'd ever imagine. If you're of the impression that its usefulness is confined largely to such supermarket staples as puddings, soups, sauces, candy, salad dressings, dessert powders and ice cream (not to mention bourbon and beer, which are hardly supermarket items but use up a lot of corn), guess again.

WHEN CORN WENT TO WAR—

During World War II the product of our cornfields played a part in the making of hand grenades, powder for flares, and dynamite. It was in the GI's uniforms, their knapsacks, gun covers, tarpaulins, barracks bags, camouflage cloth, air hose, stretchers and surgical dressings.

Perhaps most important, though, was its life-saving role as a medium for culturing of penicillin molds.

The early slow, tedious methods of producing these molds from which the miracle drug was extracted was vastly improved upon when it was discovered the corn steepwater (left from soaking kernels preparatory to refining the corn) added to the culture the medium sped up the growing of molds by many times over the previous rate.

Today, corn takes a similar hand in the production of auremycin and other important antibiotics.

Industry remains convinced that many uses of corn remain unknown. Twenty research grants are made yearly to further explore them. Who knows where corn will be going to work next?

STOCK CONSUMES MOST—

Of course, the major product of corn still remains the meat that goes on our table. Approximately 85 per cent of the nation's corn crop is fed to farm animals.

Some of the remaining 15 per cent goes into such familiar products as those mentioned above — plus corn meal, hominy and breakfast foods. But it's what happens to the rest that reads like a "who-dun-it."

MANY ADHESIVE USES—

The adhesive quality of starch, syrup and some other corn products contributes importantly to its varied industrial uses. One example — a corn binder is used with sand, water and other additives in forming molds and cores for the manufacture of metal castings.

Corn has a hand in the manufacture of such items as kitchen furniture, TV sets, engine blocks and armaments. Corn binders are important in the production of the ceramic material for sparkplugs and for insulators used widely throughout the electrical industry.

Corn sugar was found by chemists to be a vital ingredient in the manufacture of "cold" rubber, which makes some tires wear as much as 30 per cent longer.

Your car also has the mark of corn upon it in the smooth, bright electroplated finishes of the trim, which utilize "starchates." These are chemical compounds of starch and certain chemicals.

The automotive industry also indirectly uses corn syrup to give "feel" and "weighting" to textile materials for the upholstery. And "zein," a versatile protein that is a by-product of the corn refiner, is used as a carrier for textile colors, in the manufacture of lacquers and as a basic plastic material

AND SO IT GOES—

Most important use of corn in the textile industry is the sizing of raw cotton yarn to give it sufficient strength to withstand the back and forth abrasive action of shuttles during weaving. Backs of carpets are often treated in the same way to keep them flat and give longer wear.

Dextrin pastes probably hold your wallpaper in place; corn oil plays a role in soap manufacture; cornstarch is important in the refining of bauxite by aluminum manufacturers; and the glassine used in lampshades requires certain types of corn syrup in the making.

Fullerton manager sees bright future here

John Klaassen, manager of Fullerton Lumber company's Belmond yard, is of the opinion that it was a stroke of very good fortune that guided him to Belmond just five years and nine months after he got his initial start in the lumber business.

His periodic contact with representatives from Fullerton's general office at Minneapolis has him convinced that he could have hunted long and far to find a community in which brighter opportunity could have fallen his lot.

He points to the fact that Builders Land company, a Fullerton subsidiary, chose only Belmond among the numerous towns and small cities that the lumber chain serves to chance a speculative development of the scope that East Gate Addition represents.

"Fullerton's — that is to say, the Builders Land company — may buy a lot here and there in communities of Belmond's size or somewhat larger on which to build for sale," John says. "But East Gate is a unique sub-division for the company in a town of anywhere near Belmond's population. That pretty well demonstrates the faith that Fullerton's has in Belmond's continued growth."

That this faith appears well founded is suggested by the fact that construction is from well started to nearly completed on five new homes in East Gate in this, its first year of existence; and a sixth will start going up next month.

John leaves it no secret that he shares his employers' confidence in Belmond's future — and his own future as a resident here — when he admits that has bought one of those new homes. It was built by Ted Meyer, who also intends to begin construction of that sixth house before the snow flies (he hopes, at least, that the weatherman will be disposed to be co-operative.)

Others who will be East Gate residents before another year rolls around are Paul Hickman, George Hinman, Ray Lowenberg and Sid Hanson, district sales manager for Larro Feeds who moved here this past year.

John is personally very proud of East Gate's appearance and anticipates that it will fill up with new homes in pretty rapid fashion. It contains 34 building lots, in all; and six having been claimed so soon augurs well for the sub-division's prompt development.

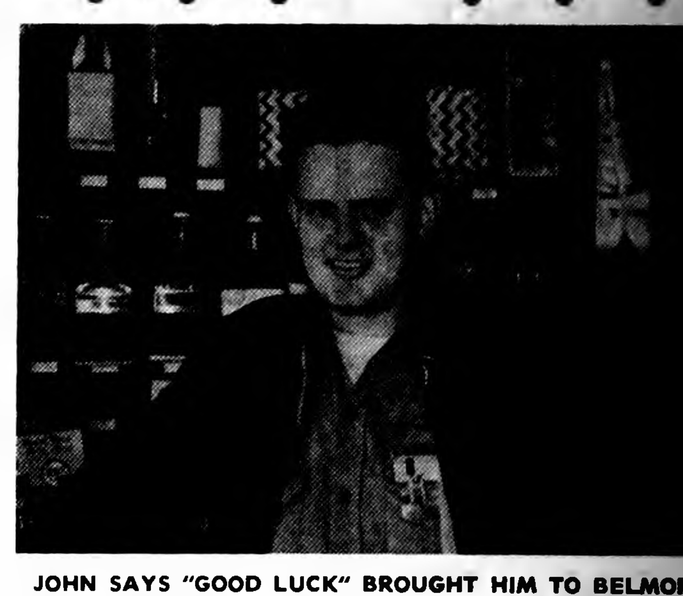
Fullerton's has yards in nearly 100 communities in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Illinois, in addition to Iowa.

Manager Klaassen said, "The Belmond yard is regarded by the company as its best of the lot in towns of about this size."

Then he amended, "Maybe you'd better make that ONE of the very best." . . . But the impression was left that the adjective "best" probably wouldn't be far wrong.

"Born and raised" a farm boy, John followed the occupation of farming for the first couple of years after graduating from Little Rock High school in Lyons county. He then deserted the farm to become "second man" — or assistant manager — for a lumber company at Rock Rapids.

In 1955, Fullerton's induced him to join their organization and he was assigned to their yard at Latimer as manager. When Henry Wynia was promoted from the managership here to the position of division superintendent, John came to fill the managerial vacancy left here. ("Hank" Wynia, incidentally, has since been promoted again and is now attached to the general office as a buyer.)



JOHN SAYS "GOOD LUCK" BROUGHT HIM TO BELMOND

John confesses with a grin that he's no great shakes as a carpenter, himself, but says, "I can at least tell 'em HOW to do it, when customers call for materiels plus a bit of advice. And you can believe me, the questions a lumberyard manager is called upon to answer are numerous."

He adds that Belmond is, in his opinion, extraordinarily well supplied with very capable builders who require advice of no one. During the year now ending, Fullerton's yard here has supplied the lumber and other materials for the construction of 16 new homes.

A dozen of those homes went up in Belmond; the others in Klemme, Goodell and Alexander. New building has represented a very healthy cut of the lumberyard's business for the past four or five years, or more.

"In some towns, it's mainly remodeling," John says. "But here, the big end of the construction we supply material for is NEW building."

And that, you gather from the way John says it, is a very desireable circumstance from a lumberman's viewpoint.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Based on the hit song "Tom Dooley," popularized by the Kingston Trio, "The Legend of Tom Dooley" comprises half of the twin bill showing Thursday through Saturday. More that two million copies of the record sold in the U. S., alone, making it the most widely played folk tune to hit the airwaves and juke boxes in a good many moons. All the pathos of the Capitol platter is captured in this treatment that co-stars Michael Landon and Jo Morrow.

Companion piece with "Dooley" is "When Comedy Was King," which recaptures the slapstick howls of silent-movie days. You'll see Fatty Arbuckle, Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Harry Langdon and many another who made gradpa and grandma weep tears of laughter. Bring a hanky to mop 'em up!

Sunday through Thursday will find the New Belmond screen occupied by Alfred Hitchcock's latest shocker, "Psycho." The theater management wants to make certain you get your full money's worth in thrills and chills so you must be in your seat by 8:15 (show starts at 8:00). With typical Hitchcock aptness, the electrifying story is laid against the eerie background of an isolated motel and a brooding Victorian mansion.

If you see "Psycho" by Saturday night or earlier, and your backbone has not yet been jellified to a satisfactory degree (this assumes you to be a full-fledged horror fan) then "The Man Who Could Cheat Death" should finish you off. It's the Halloween midnight show, starting at 11:30 p. m. Saturday.

the Sharp Trader

buys at better than wholesale

...because he buys where his bread is buttered

A REAL sharp trader doesn't need "connections" or "special discounts" or catalogs, or any other gimmick to get what he buys at BETTER than wholesale.

Maybe you think we're kidding?

Not at all. It's a fact. When you BUY in the community you LIVE in, you know that every cent you pay for goods and services above wholesale cost stays here at home with you. By staying here, it can get around to buying MORE good things for you and your family.

It's trading material . . . and TRADE ALONE builds communities with better opportunities, better schools, better churches, better neighbors.

Any ONE of these advantages could bring you returns beyond measure in a BETTER LIFE, as well as real CASH returns in the form of increased business, improved property values, a better job, more people to help you carry the load of normal community expense.

All of this — which you don't get for your money when you buy somewhere else — makes the cost of the actual GOODS very low . . . when you buy them at home.

That's how the SHARP TRADERS get BETTER than wholesale values.

It Pays to Buy where You Live

MESERVEY NEWS

MRS. MOODY QUANDT

Children to ask UNICEF treats Monday evening

Plans for Meservey's UNICEF Halloween project, being jointly sponsored by three women's clubs were completed at a meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. Victor Nordman, president of the Meservey Women's club. Also participants in the project are the Junior Federated club and Meservey Garden club.

Children taking part in the humanitarian "tricks or treats" canvass are to meet Monday evening at the schoolhouse at 6:30 o'clock. After the solicitation has been completed the boys and girls will be entertained at the school gymnasium by the Meservey Lions club.

Assisting Mrs. Nordman in drafting the final plans were Mrs. Jacob Pals, Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. Elmer Dorenkamp.

This is the first year that Meservey people have had the opportunity to join in the UNICEF Halloween project, which was started in 1950 by one small Sunday school class. These youngsters sought pennies to help carry on the work of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund instead of seeking treats for themselves.

From this small start, the movement has expanded rapidly until last year some 10.000 American communities of all sizes have joined in.

Governments of the nations receiving UNICEF aid match it with money of their own, and special purchases on food and medical supplies help to multiply the benefits derived from each penny contributed several times over.

Coins of all sizes — and, of course, currency, too — will be welcomed as the Meservey children take their UNICEF containers from door to door.

These funds do tremendous good in providing hungry, disease-striken tots all over the globe with a brighter chance for a normal, healthy life.

Mrs. Nordman and others who helped plan the project urge that the young solicitors be welcomed at every home and that generous contributions be made to the UNICEF cause.

Colleen Sprau's 8th birthday celebrated

Mrs. A. Fred Sprau entertained in honor of her daughter Colleen's eighth birthday. The festivities started with a party for the girls in Colleen's grade in school. They were: Becky Schmidt, Wanda Slusher, Judy Jurgenson, Barbara Jo Gaetzke, Bonnie Williams, Linda Vierkant, Diane Groen, Arlys Schlichting, and also her cousin, Pam Sprau.

After the opening of the gifts and the serving of lunch the children, under the leadership of Colleen's mother and grandmother, Olga Holland of Clear Lake, were entertained with games. About six o'clock the little guests left with many a happy birthday greeting for Colleen. In the evening, Mrs. Eva Meyers and Cyneva Zoe came to wish Colleen a happy birthday.

Mrs. Willamine Smith received word this past week of the hospitalization of her granddaughter, Kathy Miles of Hammond, Ind., after a bout with food poisoning which affected both she and her mother. Kathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Miles and Mrs. Miles is the former Lois Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Waddingham and Ellen and Mr. and Mrs. William Logan left Saturday for Le Mars to attend homecoming with their daughter and sister, Dorothy Waddingham, and their nephew, Larry Pals, who both attend college there. They returned Sunday evening.

Mrs. Cora Ralston spent the weekend at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ackerman, at Mason City and attended the 40th wedding anniversary of her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lewis, on Sunday.

Sunday visitors at the Andrew Pals home were Mrs. Pals' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Donat, of Cedar Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wessels and family of St. Charles, Ill., and former Meservey and Belmond residents, called in Meservey Sunday morning and in the afternoon were honored with a Silver Wedding anniversary open house in the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Ella Wessels, in Belmond. Mrs. Marvin Wessels is the former Gladys Fischer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kuhlers spent Sunday with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Woodfill, at Ames.

Quite a few people from Meservey attended the Silver wedding open house Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wessels at the Mrs. Ella Wessels home at Belmond.

Albert Pals and Jerolyn of Clear Lake were at the Leonard Pals home several days to help get ready to pick corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Faaborg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waddingham and Mrs. Grace Nissen attended open house Sunday at the Milton Lewis home at Mason City for their 40th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vierkant and family were to Des Moines Sunday to visit Mrs. Vierkant's brother, Marvin Meinders, at the Veterans' hospital. Marvin is there for a check-up for his heart trouble.

Sunday visitors at the Mrs. Lizzie Hopkey home were Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Hopkey of Webster City, Mr. and Mrs. Earney Hopkey of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hopkey and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hopkey.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ruiter and daughter of Goldfield visited at the parental John Ruiter home Saturday for supper.

Sunday visitors at the parental John Wiemann home were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pals and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wiemann and family, all of Meservey, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pals of Sheffield and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiemann and children.

School of instruction held by Legion Auxiliary members

The American Legion Auxiliary unit school of instruction was held Monday afternoon with President Mrs. Beulah Langlitz presiding. Plans were also made for the meetings of the year and the special drives for Poppy Club and Sales, etc.

Regular meeting held Monday by Lions club

Meservey Lions Club met Monday evening at the school house with President Herman C. Fischer presiding. They began with the usual 7:00 o'clock dinner served by Mmes. Carl Hopkey and Marvin Hindman.

Two Meservey men patients at hospital in Mason City

Claude Cordell is still a patient at the Mercy hospital in Mason City where he underwent spinal surgery last week. Walter Lauster is also a patient following a serious accident with machinery on his farm, causing a badly mangled arm.

Robert Raecker accompanied by two Chevrolet dealers from Nora Springs and Elma drove to Des Moines Wednesday of last week where he attended an all day meeting and luncheon for all Iowa Chevrolet dealers.

SUI law college picks L. Hindman for recognition

Larrie Hindman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hindman of Meservey, has been selected as a participant in the Junior Argument Program conducted by the University of Iowa college of law. Larrie's case, which will be ruled upon by an Iowa district court judge, involves a jurisdictional question under the due process clause of the Federal constitution.

Selection for the Argument Program is based upon scholarship and results of the First-Year Argument Program.

At the present time, Larrie is working on a bulletin entitled "Accident Epidemiology" for the Institute of Agriculture Medicine at SUI. It soon will be off the press and in the hands of most medical doctors of Iowa.

Veterinary Medicine

Many of you people have wondered just what a veterinarian is thinking while he is examining your sick animal or animals. Your veterinarian is a trained professional man. Thus, his diagnosis usually follows a routine pattern. At a veterinary university he is trained to study diseases in a set pattern, but with deviations for the unusual conditions sometimes seen.

Each disease has the following structure:

1. History of the disease.
   a. Old or new
   b. Rare or common
   c. Who and where discovered
2. Etiology (cause)
   a. Bacteria
   b. Virus
   c. Chemical
   d. Unknown
3. Symptoms
   a. Depressed
   b. Off-feed
   c. Temperature
   d. Scours or constipated
   e. Staggered or weak gait
   f. Heart action
4. Pathology (Post Mortem)
   a. Hemmorrhages
   b. Organs involved
   c. Maybe no lesions are apparent.
   d. Blood tests and cultures from involved organs.
5. Prognosis (General Outlook)
   a. Favorable, unfavorable
   b. Infectious or non-infectious
6. Treatment
   a. Symptomatic — no direct treatment, but many drugs help to relieve distress, such as blood transfusions.
   b. Direct — treatment is given to destroy or inhibit the causative agent.
      1. Antibiotics — penicillin, streptomycin, terracycline, neomycin, albamycin, etc.
      2. Serums and vaccines — lepto spirosis vaccine, red-nose vaccine, hog cholera vaccine, erysipelas vaccine, etc.
      3. Chemical drugs—sulfa drugs, nitrofurans, etc.
   c. No treatment of any value.

Very few sick animals show all of the classical symptoms outlined for a given disease. Thus, the Veterinarian must be able to fit the symptoms that are present into a reasonable diagnosis. This takes a great deal of experience and knowledge of animals, both sick and well, for it is very difficult to diagnose and treat a sick animal if knowledge of a healthy animal's appearance and structures are not known. A correct diagnosis of an animal's disease is a must before proper treatment can be instigated for a good recovery.

Important—Do not be mis-led by prominent advertisements both in magazines and on radio and television about the effectiveness and how cheap the treatment is. You usually get just what you pay for! More money is wasted each year on improper treatment of livestock by quacks than most owners pay in taxes!

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

All in the crowd of about 190 who attended the Chamber of Commerce kickoff dinner Wednesday evening of last week at the Odd Fellows hall were impressed by the excellent talk given by Rev. Richard Jackson of Rowan on the topic of "Citizenship."

The young minister left no doubt in anyone's mind as to how he happened to win the Toastmasters' state speaking contest this year. He is an orator of outstanding ability, indeed!

"Citizenship" is a topic that can (and ordinarily does) lend itself to rather dull treatment where speechmaking is concerned. But Mr. Jackson made it come alive to the extent that his listeners awaited his every word. We're looking forward to hearing him again.

Bless Mrs. Darwin Pohlman for scattering a rose petal among the thorns. Most of the letters received by The Independent in the past several weeks have been a bit on the scathing side. So we gratefully welcomed the following note from Mrs. Pohlman, which accompanied her renewal check: "Please send me the paper again for six months. I can't seem to do without it and look forward to it each issue like a daily letter, only much larger and more interesting."

One trade publication we receive publishes a report from time to time regarding weekly newspapers that have been quoted in the Congressional Record Insofar as we know, The Independent has never made that august journal. Ye Ed suspects, though, that he came close.

In reprints of his "Annual Report to the District" that originally appeared in The Record, Congressman Merwin Coad objected to being labelled "a big spender."

From Ye Ed's recent phone conversation with the U. S. Representative, there's not much question but what we were the subject of Mr. Coad's observation when he commented in his report. "I am the worst in the state of Iowa, according to one newspaper editor."

Credit lines were inadvertantly omitted under the pictures of the varsity and freshman-sophomore football squads that appear in this week's sports section. They were generously provided to us by Mueller Studio of Clarion, photographer for the BHS annual.

While there's been every indication of late that Democratic subscribers to The Independent have been giving weekly heed to this newspaper's editorial column, we nevertheless wish to urge their particular attention to the column this week.

There appears in the editorial space a straight-down-the-line Democratic editorial for our Democratic readers to savor. It was written for us by Carl Hamilton, editor of the Iowa Falls Citizen and Hardin County Times — a very fine fellow, even if misguided on politics.

In return, the front Mainstreeter wrote a Republican editorial for the Iowa Falls papers. Ye Ed gets about a 2-to-1 break on circulation, under the arrangement, so it looked like a good chance to do some missionary work in Hardin county.

That hefty carrot that adorned The Independent's front counter (and later shrivelled in the window) last week was brought in by Harley Thayer. There was a pretty good start toward a king-size batch of Mulligan wrapped up in that one vegetable — a two-pounder!

$156 contributed for UNICEF use

A total of $156 was collected for UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) as 90 young trick-or-treatsters went door-to-door in Belmond last Thursday night in behalf of this humanitarian agency.

In addition to the host of young solicitors, about 15 adult sponsors contributed time toward the project, which was headed by Rev. and Mrs. Julius Brandt of the Immanuel Reformed church.

All of the boys and girls gathered first at the Methodist church to get their coin boxes and afterward returned to the church for refreshments and a bit of entertainment before returning to their homes.

According to the Brandts, all the churches in Belmond were represented among the youngsters who participated in the canvass.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandt say, "The sincere gratitude of the sponsors of the UNICEF project go not only to the children and their churches, but the citizens of Belmond who so generously contributed to UNICEF. Great good can be done with $156 through UNICEF channels."

$500 to pick; $25 plucked

With $500 hanging on the bough, only $25 was plucked off the Cash Gift Day money tree Tuesday afternoon. This was a disappointing harvest to the CGD committee, considering that 15 numbers in The Independent and Belmond Buyers Guide were worth prizes of $25 or $50. It's getting pretty close to time for Christmas shopping, and the Cash Gift Day sponsors would like to see those prizes being spent to good purpose. Consequently, they are keeping the award total at $500 again next week, hoping to see more prizes picked off. That will once more provide for the posting of 10 $25 awards at 2:00 p. m. and five $50's at 3:00 o'clock.

This Ford Falcon will be given away day before Christmas

Tickets start going out today—

C-of-C's 1st "Gift Day" Nov. 18th

Belmond Chamber of Commerce this week announces its annual Christmas Gift Days promotion. Distribution of tickets that could be good for any one of a number of attractive prizes — including a new Ford Falcon — is being started as of today by participating business houses and will continue through the morning of Saturday, Dec. 24.

Sixty-two firms and professional people are contributing to Christmas Gift Days, as listed in the full-page advertisement on the first page of the second section. Three made a donation but will not give tickets, due to the nature of their business.

All of the other 59 concerns and individuals will give numbered tickets to their customers each time they pay the business place a visit. The tickets are free and no purchase is necessary.

Len Collier, Chamber secretary, says, "The Chamber expects interest in this year's Christmas Gift Days to reach an especially high pitch, as we have never before had so attractive a prize as the Ford Falcon. It has a dealer's list price of $2,037 and is a prize that will be happily welcomed by whomever the winner might be.

"In addition, there will be hundreds of dollars worth of other merchandise prizes, which you will be able to see in the window of the Kennedy Furniture showroom on Main street, north of the First State bank. The Falcon will be displayed on a trailer in various parts of the business district."

It is in this window that prize-winning numbers will be posted each Friday noon for five weeks, beginning Nov. 18. The sixth and final drawing will be on the day before Christmas, Saturday, Dec. 24. Persons holding numbers that are posted may stake their claims to the prizes indicated by turning the number stub in at Kennedy Furniture store.

Claiming a prize before 5:30 p. m. on the Friday it is posted will earn the winning number-holder a bonus in the form of a due bill good for $5.00 in service or merchandise at any Belmond service station.

Prizes must be claimed by 9:00 p. m. on the Saturday after the numbers are posted, at the latest, or claim to the prize is defaulted and it will be awarded on a new number the following Friday. The Falcon will be awarded on a number to be drawn on Dec. 24. This drawing, like all the others, will be conducted at 12:00 noon. Also on Dec. 24th, all remaining prizes will be drawn for until winners for them are found.

Drawings on the final day will be held at one-hour intervals until all prizes are claimed — the single hour, only, being allowed on that day for winning number-holders to stake their claims.

The Chamber asks that all prizes be left on display in the Kennedy window until the day before Christmas, when winners may pick them up.

No Belmond Chamber members, business or professional men or women, or persons operating under a trade or business name will be eligible to win prizes, nor will company or store managers. Dependents of the preceding are ineligible, also. Otherwise, all persons are eligible to claim prizes — including employees of local firms.

Mr. Collier says, "We have never had so many firms and individuals participating in Christmas Gift Days as this year. This is expected to assure wider distribution of tickets than for any similar promotion in the past, with the result that a record number of shoppers will have a chance at that Ford Falcon and the many other worthwhile prizes."

Education Week prizes announced

Two prizes of $4.00 each will be presented by the Belmond Women's club to the elementary school rooms having the largest number of parents as visitors during American Education Week, Nov. 7-14.

According to Mrs. Guy Dickson, the club's chairman for the project, all home rooms from kindergarten through 6th grade will be eligible to compete for these prizes.

It is specified by the club that the prize money is to be spent on a book for each of the winning rooms, the choice to be made by school officials.

Independent's publishers buy adjoining building

Last week a transaction was completed under which the Belmond Publishing company acquired the business location that has been occupied by the local Iowa Electric Light and Power company office. Owner of the building was Mrs. Edith Hill. Possession is to be given Jan. 2 of next year.

Business Manager R. H. Gowdy, speaking for himself and his partners, Pat Gallagher and Duane Anderson, says, "The Belmond Publishing company has for some time been faced with the need for expanding its production area. We had been investigating the possibility of extending the present building back to the alley when the opportunity arose to purchase Mrs. Hill's building."

Mr. Gowdy adds that the editorial and business offices of the publishing company will be moved into the newly acquired building, that some of its space will be utilized for storage of stock and that possibly the offset department will be transferred to the new quarters.

"We also contemplate going into the handling of office supplies," says Mr. Gowdy. "The regular inquiries we have received in regard to various types of office equipment have made it evident that there is a place in Belmond for such a business. Heretofore, though, we simply have not had room to stock the necessary merchandise."

The present building that houses the Belmond Publishing company was first occupied by the firm in March of 1947. In the intervening years, numerous pieces of major equipment have been added by the publishers of The Independent to the end of improving not only the newspaper, but also the job work produced in the printing plant.

"It had reached the point," Mr. Gowdy admitted, "where we could grow no more unless we had added space to grow in. Providing as it does appreciably more space than an addition to our present building would have, the Hill building offered an ideal solution to our problem."

He says the two buildings will be joined by an interconnecting door as soon as the publishing company takes possession of the new property.

NO DRIVER EXAMS NOV. 11

Because Friday of next week falls on Veterans Day, the driver's license examiner will not make his usual stand at the city hall here.

Statement at dance creates stir—

Coad causes big furore at "Cape"

Although Congressman Merwin Coad was scheduled to "say a few words" at the Coad-for-Congress dance held here last Saturday night, it was not anticipated by the sponsors of the occasion that his remarks would carry the Belmond dateline from one end of the nation to the other.

Nevertheless, that is what transpired when the Democratic incumbent from the 6th District released to the wire services the crux of those remarks.

Mr. Coad told the Young Democrats and others present to dance—or simply to lend financial support to the fund-raising event — that he had learned from reliable sources that because of the Cuban situation, this country's entire program of missile testing might have to be moved from its Cape Canaveral, Fla., site.

"They do not want any malfunctioning rocket to land on Cuba, which would set off an incident similar to the U2 spy plane last summer," declared Mr. Coad.

While the news release from Belmond did not create much of a stir in the Iowa press, quite the contrary was true of newspapers in the Florida area where the multi-million dollar Cape Canaveral installation is the source of tremendous income.

Stanford Griffith, Fort Dodge architect, who maintains a home near the military base, told the Fort Dodge Messenger on Monday that his phone began ringing early Sunday morning "as friends called to inquire what kind of man this Coad is to make such an unfounded and untrue statement."

Those friends added that the 18,000 workers at the Cape Canaveral base were "shocked at the (Coad) statement that the Miami Herald bore in huge headlines."

Maj. Gen. Leyton Davis, commander of the Air Force missile test center labelled the Coad allegation as "ridiculous."

He declared that the Air Force "has been firing missiles 10 years without shooting near Cuba. It's not even close to the range. The range runs from the cape out to the Bahamas in an easterly sweep."

Maj. Gen. Arno Luehman, chief public relations officer of the USAF, also heaped scorn on the Iowa Congressman's statement, remarking, "Coad's words were utterly fantastic. The idea of moving the facilities is incredible."

Coad back-tracked in an interview with a Fort Dodge Messenger reporter on Monday, after being informed of the furore his remarks had created at Cape Canaveral and the denials made by Major Generals Davis and Luehman.

He said he agrees "the base will not be moved, physically;" but he still insisted on having received information that "some shots have been delayed" right prior to the election "to insure against malfunctioning" of a missile causing a hit on Cuba.

HELLO WORLD

Mrs. Anna Jenison received a telegram Thursday of last week from Odessa, Tex., announcing the birth that day of a son, Robert Edward, to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kasch. Mrs. Kasch is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Johnson of Shreveport, La., formerly of Belmond.

Twin daughters were born Oct. 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Duane Slining of Dows. At birth Dawn Marie weighed 6 lb. 4½ oz. and Darla Mae weighed 7 lbs. 9 oz.

An 8 lb. 2½ oz. baby boy was born Oct. 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Engh of Kanawha.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bruns of Alexander are parents of a 7 lb. 6½ oz. son born Oct. 31.

Future Farmers of Belmond joining in campaign for safe corn harvest

Belmond chapter of the Future Farmers of America is taking part in an active community-wide effort throughout the corn belt to prevent all types of corn harvest accidents — before they happen.

Members of the Belmond FFA chapter, working in teams, will try to visit every farm family in the community this weekend. They will review with the man in the family rules for safe operation of corn harvesting equipment, reminding him that his responsibility includes his family and his community.

A farmer who agrees to follow these rules will have a "Safe Operator" sticker placed on his tractor. The farm housewife will receive a "Remember" card to place on the dining table to remind all who gather there that safety is a family affair.

An attractive sign posted on the gate post will serve as an outward sign of the family's cooperation in the FFA Safe Corn Harvest Program.

"Farm equipment is designed for safe operation, but the operator must follow safe operating rules," says Allen Payne, president of the Belmond FFA chapter.

Efforts of the FFA members in the state, along with those of many other interested organizations, individuals and farm equipment dealers, are noticeably cutting down the number of corn harvest accidents, Payne adds.

Major races will share spotlight with county contests in election

Whether traditionally Republican Wright county will reverse the trend of recent elections or will witness a continued upsurge by the Democratic party is the big, local question in next Tuesday's general election.

Secondary to that are several sharply contested races for offices at county and district level that are the focus of keen attention. If the heatedness of pre-election campaigning is any indication of what sort of turn-out at the polls is to be expected, an unusually high percentage of eligible voters seem likely to cast ballots.

One contest of very major concern to Wright countians will be that to determine who is to represent them in the state legislature for the next two years. Ray Hagie of Clarion will have an advantage in experience and in personal acquaintanceship with residents of the county. But Richard L. Wilson of Clarion may attract support on the strength of youthful outlook — and stands to reap the benefit if a continued revolt from the Republican standard is witnessed in this county.

Mr. Hagie is a life-time resident of the county and a successful and influential businessman. Young Wilson graduated only last spring from St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., but has shown a distinct penchant for politics and has waged an aggressive campaign.

In 1954, the late Clark McNeal easily defeated Walter Cressey of Clarion, Democratic candidate for the legislature, 3,618 to 2,041. In the heavier voting of the 1956 presidential year he had a 5,286-3,402 margin over Marion Robinson of Holmes. But in '58, when Wright county gave margins to both Governor Loveless and U. S. Rep. Merwin Coad, McNeal's edge over John Hanson of Eagle Grove shrunk to 3,672-2,983.

Without a record of service behind him, such as Mr. McNeal could point to, Mr. Hagie's chances are regarded by some political observers in the county to rest in part on the success of the rest of the Republican ticket — or the lack of it. Nevertheless, his defeat would be regarded a decided "upset."

Similar factors are considered vital in the effort of Curtis Riehm, Garner, to unseat Congressman Coad. That the former Boone pastor has gained wide popularity in Wright county is evident by the support he won for his Democratic candidacy between 1956 and 1958.

In '54, J. I. Dolliver nearly doubled the vote of Lumund Wilcox, Jefferson attorney, 3,807 to 1,904 in this county. In '56, when Coad took the seat in Congress away from Dolliver, the Fort Dodge veteran nevertheless defeated Coad in Wright county, 4,969-3,883. With Bob Wagoner of Fort Dodge as his 1958 opponent, Coad came out on top in this county 3,641 to 3,133.

Miller has campaigned hard

Governor Loveless seems much less likely than Coad to be able to win Wright county on the strength of his own popularity, as he contests with Jack Miller of Sioux City for a seat in the U. S. Senate. When Leo Hoegh was losing to Loveless virtually the state over in 1956, he still managed to edge the Democratic candidate for governor 4,756-4,526 in Wright county. And in 1958, Loveless was able to beat Bill Murray by only the meager margin of 3,664 to 3,335, well under his victory ratio for the state as a whole.

Miller has conducted the most thorough campaign any Iowa candidate for high office has conducted in a number of years. If Wright county goes Republican in the presidential vote, that might represent an advantage for Miller that Loveless could not overcome.

Eisenhower aided entire slate

President Eisenhower's personal popularity constituted a sturdy enough coattail to carry the whole Republican ticket to success in Wright county in 1956. Without his 5,512-to-3,860 majority over Adlai Stevenson, this county within all likelihood would have given Loveless and edge over Hoegh, "Spike" Evans a margin over Bourke Hickenlooper in the U. S. Senatorial race, and possibly even given Coad an advantage over Dolliver.

If tradition has any weight at all, majority support for the Nixon-Lodge and Erbe-Mooty tickets seems highly probable in Wright county. But the climb in Democratic votes in the past several elections leaves a question mark behind the size of the majorities these leaders of the Republican slate are likely to attain.

Democrats have been busiest

There has been considerably more Democratic than Republican campaign activity in Wright county during the weeks leading up to the election; but whether this indicates that Democratic support is more extensive than in most years past — or merely more vocal — will not be determined until the vote count is completed next Tuesday night.

There will be only two contests at the county level. They will involve the sheriff's and auditor's office. Mervin N. Newkirk of Eagle Grove has campaigned quite determinedly in hope of upsetting Sheriff Bob Blecker in his pursuit of a 6th term in his present office.

Blecker points to record

On the other hand, Blecker has shown no complacence over his chances and has been working at re-election by meeting voters at every opportunity and pointing out what he claims to be errors in fact that have appeared in charges leveled at his administration by his Democratic rival.

A distinct advantage attaches to the incumbent from the fact that phases of his administration — the county's highly successful safety-check program and also its holiday safety rest stops — have earned Wright county favorable nationwide publicity.

Harold Henry of Clarion has made relatively little effort to contest the re-election of Myron Price, incumbent auditor, to the office he has held since his first election in 1954.

About 530 attend Jaycees' parties

Belmond's Jaycees provided an estimated 530 boys and girls with entertainment at Halloween parties Monday night and another 300 tots in kindergarten through second grade were given treats as the JCC continued its annual project to make Halloween a time for fun rather than vandalism.

General Chairman Al Korthas reports that approximately 150 students attended the dance for high schoolers at Veterans' Memorial hall; another 130 were on hand for the wiener roast and roller skating at Roll-Away Skating rink; and close to 250 youngsters from the third through sixth grades cavorted at the school gymnasium.

The investment of approximately $200 in the project was considered by the Jaycees as very well spent, as attendance at the parties reached a new peak.

Hot dogs and milk were served as refreshments at both the junior high and high school parties — and the dancers were refreshed with punch during the course of the evening. Crackerjack, candy and pop constituted the refreshments at the grade school party; and the treats for the younger children also included Crackerjack and candy.

Straw vote at high school casts dim light on likely outcome here

On Monday of this week, a straw vote was conducted among the students of Belmond High school, using regular sample ballots for the election of next Tuesday.

In passing on the results to The Independent, Principal Ernest Doeringsfeld observed, "Anyone trying to anticipate the local vote gauged on the influence of the parents — as reflected by the outcome of the straw vote — is going to find it hard to arrive at any definite conclusions."

Similar votes at BHS in the past have at least in a general way given and indication of how the adult vote was likely to go. But the voting Monday introduced a number of confusing factors that are much more apt to perplex a would-be analyst than shed very satisfactory light on the way Belmond voting probably will go in the general election.

Just one thing appeared fairly certain, in view of the high school ballotting — a "tight" election seems in prospect.

A slight Republican preference was predicted by the straw vote, since GOP candidates received majorities in four of the six contests of major interest in Wright county.

Biggest vote-getter in the BHS election was Ray Hagie of Clarion, the Republican candidate for state representative. He gathered 140 votes to 103 for his young fellow townsman on the Democratic ticket, Richard Wilson.

Next heaviest vote total was attracted by Jack Miller, GOP candidate for the U. S. Senate. He received a total of 138 to 118 for Gov. Herschel Loveless. Vice President Richard Nixon drew 133 votes — only nine more than Sen. Jack Kennedy's 124.

Sheriff Bob Blecker also had a modest edge over his Democratic opponent, Mervin Newkirk of Eagle Grove, 128 to 113.

With the incumbent's advantage, it was perhaps not surprising that Democratic Congressman Merwin Coad nosed out his Garner rival for the post of U. S. Representative, Curtis Riehm, 123 to 121.

Less easy to understand was the one-vote margin that went to the Democratic candidate for governor, Edward McManus, 129 to 128 over Attorney General Norman Erbe.

If any one thing seemed to be augured by the outcome of the BHS straw vote, it was this — if the students' elders follow the youngsters' example, there's going to be a lot of cross-voting done on the official ballots next Tuesday.

CADET DANNY ALDRICH

Still aiming at Monday kickoff—

Plans pushed for Chest campaign

Preparations were being pushed this week by Luin Cox, chairman of the 1960 Community Chest drive, in the hope that the campaign could be launched on the appointed day — next Monday. Because of the belated start in planning, after abandonment of this year's campaign had been temporarily considered, much remained to be done when the decision to hold the drive as usual was reached.

Mr. Cox issued a plea that all persons called upon to assist in any way in conduct of the campaign please offer their ready cooperation.

"Only if full cooperation is obtained will we be able to make a success of the 1960 campaign at this belated date," he said. "Chamber of Commerce President Phyllis Pals and Secretary Len Collier have pledged that organization's help, but it will by no means be possible to limit the workers to Chamber members alone."

"It must be remembered," he added, "that 55 per cent of the $4,320 set as our goal is earmarked for activities that will be of direct benefit to young people of Belmond and the surrounding area.

"While default of the community's charitable responsibilities as they effect other agencies participating in the Chest might not be so directly felt if one year's Chest drive was omitted, the absence of funds for these youth activities would be very keenly felt."

He emphasized that this statement should not be regarded as discounting the obligation Belmond holds towards the other agencies that it has given regular support in years past. These include such highly worthy organizations as the American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Sister Kenny Foundation and others that benefit by Chest appropriations.

The good works of such agencies are not always completely divorced from this community, he continued. He recalled that at the time of the severe flood here a few yars ago, Red Cross disaster aid was promptly provided victims of the high water; and he added that the local Salvation Army committee each year dispenses funds not only to needy itinerants but to Belmond families in need — particularly youngsters in those families.

Mr. Cox urged all who are solicited for Chest donations to keep in mind that 11 agencies derive their entire support from this community in the form of Chest appropriations, so it is important that each individual give an amount that fairly provides for them all. He added the reminder that these contributions are tax deductible.

"I feel confident," Mr. Cox concluded, "that Belmond's civic pride will not permit the 1960 Chest campaign to be a failure. For that reason, I expect persons to respond graciously when asked to lend a hand with conduct of the drive — and those who are approached for donations to give generously."

To the Citizens of Wright County . . .

Do We Have More Crime In Wright County Than In Other Counties?

NO . . . Only the People of Wright County WANT the law enforced in Wright County — or they would not notify the officers of violations!

That leaves the question, how do people get in jail . . . and WHY do we have MORE prisoners than other counties?

Again we get back to the people WANTING the laws ENFORCED. After crimes are committed and the arrests are made, those arrested are put in jail under the following circumstances:

1. They are held for court hearing; or sometimes for other counties.
2. Juveniles and adults are held until the courts make their final decisions and sentences are passed.
3. The law violators are committed by the District Court Judges, Mayors, and Justice of Peace Courts to serve out a sentence of a designated period of time.

The following factors in law enforcement MUST be kept in mind:

A crime is committed, and the officers investigate and make arrests. The person or persons suspected are held for court hearing . . . and the judge determines guilt. If the individual is guilty, the judge passes sentence as to confinement and the length of time to be served.

We in law enforcement can see how someone who has never been in this type of work or dealt with its problems might be mistaken in statements to the public; but we want the public to know that we are DOING THE JOB that you call on us to do — and that the Code of Iowa requires.

VOTE FOR A SHERIFF who will CONTINUE to get the job done, and who will give you the service and protection you have come to expect. You KNOW what type of protection you have NOW.

VOTE FOR EFFECTIVE, EFFICIENT LAW ENFORCEMENT

Film Highlights

—from—

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Kids from three to 83 will take delight in the cartoon picturization of Hans Christian Andersen's beloved story, "The Snow Queen," which is half of Friday and Saturday's double feature. The voices of Sandra Dee, Tommy Kirk (you'll remember him in "Shaggy Dog") and Patty McCormack ("Bad Seed") give life to Gerta, Kay and the little robber girl, Angel.

For those who like their cup of tea a little stronger, there'll be plenty of action provided by the companion film, "Gunsmoke in Tucson." Heading the cast will be Mark Stevens, Gale Robbins and Iowa's own Forrest Tucker, most lately in the limelight as holder of the lead role in the road company of fellow Iowan Meredith Willson's "Music Man."

Sunday through Wednesday the feature will be "Strangers When We Meet," starring Kirk Douglas, Kim Novak, Ernie Kovacs and Barbara Rush. Based on an outspoken best seller by Evan Hunter, this one takes a frank look at marital infidelity and is labeled by the management as "adult" fare. Kim Novak's role is called her best since her big hit in "Picnic."

THERE'S NEWS IN THE ADS

"Can I really buy Hy-Line chicks with the same breeding as the ones that win official tests?"

Answer:

The Hy-Line chicks you buy this year will actually have better breeding than those that gave superior performance in official Random Sample Tests. In official tests ending in 1958 and 1959, Hy-Line 934 Series layers averaged 55¢ more income per bird than the average of the 9 next largest-selling layers. And that's income over feed and chick costs. By crossing highly inbred lines, Hy-Line geneticists are able to produce millions of birds of practically identical breeding. Make your next brood Hy-Line chicks.

RIS-VAN

RIS-VAN LIQUID FERTILIZER

TIPS

RIS-VAN LIQUID FERTILIZER

TIP NO. 3 . . .

Did you ever think of making alfalfa sod from your corn stalks? This is being done by many farmers in a continuous corn program. The principal is to change the chemical composition of the corn stalks so that it approximates that of alfalfa sod. The two nutrients needed to alter corn stalks, that are supplied in Ris-Van fertilizer, are nitrogen and phosphorus. The following table illustrates how alfalfa and corn stalks differ.

	% Nitrogen	% Phosphorus
Alfalfa	2.30	0.55
Corn	.75	0.11
Difference	1.55	0.44

The difference represents lbs. of plant food to be added for every 100 lbs. of corn stalks plowed under.

Since most corn fields have at least two tons of corn stalks per acre to plow under, then it will take more than 60 lbs. of nitrogen and over 15 lbs. of phosphate per acre to convert the stalks so that they decompose like alfalfa. This system of combining Ris-Van with stalks, such as 14-7-7 or 9-9-9, forms a rich organic manure that next year's crop uses to make those profitable yields for which we are all looking. So change your corn stalks to alfalfa.

Get RIS-VAN, Man!

. . . that's fertilizer!

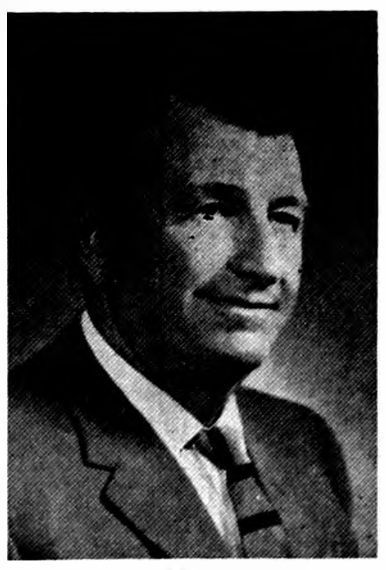
Vote November 8th For

☒ RAY HAGIE

Republican Candidate For

State Representative



Farmer

Born in Dayon Township in 1910, Ray grew up on his father's (W. J. Hagie) Wright County farm. He attended rural school, Clarion High School and was graduated from Iowa State University in 1933 in Animal Husbandry. Ray operates a farm in Dayton and Lake townships.

Business Man

Ray's interest in hybrid corn led to the establishment of Hagies Hybrids, Inc. at Clarion. Later this company became United-Hagie Hybrids, Inc. More recently, Ray formed the Hagie Manufacturing Company in Clarion, which manufactures Hagie Hi-Tractors and matched equipment. These businesses allow Ray the time and resources to represent Wright County effectively where and when needed.

Public Servant

Ray has served his community, county and state often in the past. He is a member of the First Congregational Church in Clarion and has served on the Board of Trustees as Chairman. He is a past president of Rotary, has been president of the Clarion Development Corporation, member of the Chamber of Commerce and a past board member.

Ray is a member of various farm organizations and has been a 4-H Club leader and a member of the Boys' 4-H committee.

He Will Represent Wright County Ably And To The Best Interest Of The Residents Of This County

Memorial gifts benefit hospital

AMONG ITEMS most lately purchased for Belmond Community hospital out of memorial funds is the nebulizer (or humidifier) exhibited above by Administrator Hugh Witham. This piece of equipment, which cost $200, brings relief to patients suffering from croup, pneumonia and lung infections by increasing the moisture content of the air in the patient's room.

Belmond Community hospital is fortunate, says Administrator Hugh Witham, in having three sources of funds for purchases of needed equipment that have helped to make it one of the best equipped hospitals to be found anywhere in a community of this size.

Hospital income he observes, simply does not allow for addition of equipment — nor does it cover all depreciation. As a consequence, it is a continuing problem of most hospitals to keep up with their equipment needs. This is particularly true of newly devoloped items of equipment that can provide patients steadily improving service.

Of course, the major source of supplementary funds is the Chester P. and Vida Luick Memorial Fund, which has been an invaluable asset to the hospital. The Hospital Auxiliary has also been a steady contributor to the hospital since the women's group was formed.

The third important source of money for equipment purchases and other expenditures to the hospital's benefit is the private memorials which for the past several years have been administered by the auxiliary in accordance with recommendations by the administrator.

Somewhat over $3,000 has been received in cash memorials — in a majority of cases from relatives and friends of persons who had care at the hospital.

This amount obviously excludes the pledge of Oscar T. Jacobson in the amount of $3,500 toward the cost of installing air-conditioning in the hospital next spring. That gift will be the largest, single contribution received by the hospital since the initial fund-raising period except for the donation of Robert W. Rowen, which made possible the addition known as the Rowen Room.

Largest purchase thus far made from memorial funds was the Isolette — the latest word in baby incubators — acquired early this year at a cost of about $1,216. Lloyd Rudisill of Clarion contributed $700 of that amount as a memorial to his late wife, Lillian.

Other memorial expenditures have been for wall coverings, $300; part cost of an oxygen tent, $200; humidifier, $200; toward cost of a microscope, $198; centrifuge, $194; Croupette, $160; suction machine, $142.50; nebulizer (a type of humidifier), $90; steel closet for patient room, $78; and roll-away bed, $45.

On order at present, but not yet paid for, are a typewriter that will cost $78 and two steel storage cabinets for x-ray film and equipment, $56. Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, who in behalf of the Hospital Auxiliary is treasurer of the memorial funds, says that after payment for the above items the balance will be reduced to about $50.

Not included in the above accounting of funds are several minor, miscellaneous items that memorial money has been spent on. For example, a new formica covering on the work bench in the x-ray room has lately been approved and will soon be installed.

"Members of the hospital board of trustees and the hospital staff are deeply appreciative of the memorials that have made these equipment purchases possible," says Mr. Witham.

"That appreciation extends to gifts from the size of the very generous one pledged by Mr. Jacobson down to those of only a few dollars — for all of them help to keep Belmond Community hospital among the really outstanding small city hospitals in the state, and even in the nation."

MR. AND MRS. LARRY J. ERSLAND

Miss Janice Lee Pals became bride of Larry Jay Ersland on Oct. 22nd

Baskets of lavender and white mums and candelabra decorated the chancel of the First Reformed church at Meservey for the wedding Saturday evening, Oct. 22, of Miss Janice Lee Pals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pals of Meservey, and Larry Jay Ersland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ersland. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Elmer C. Vander Ploeg of Belmond.

Mrs. Paul Jenison, organist, played traditional nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Gary Ersland, sister-in-law of the groom, as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over shimmering white, bridal satin, fashioned in princess style with a scalloped neckline, long, petpoint sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her finger-tip veil of pure silk illusion nylon tulle, fell from a cap fashioned of lace and covered with seed pearls. Her only jewelry was an opalite on a white gold chain, a gift of the groom.

The bride's bouquet was a lavender orchid, surrounded by lavender streamers, on a white Bible.

Donna Frey of Alexander was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lynne Boller and Sheryl Pals, sister of the bride. They were attired in ballerina-length gowns, styled with lavender organza over matching taffeta skirts and white Chantilly lace bodices. Their matching headbands were covered with seed pearls. They carried French bouquets of lavender asters surrounded by lavender and white split carnations.

Gary Ersland, brother of the groom, was best man. The groomsmen were Lynn Mennenga of Belmond and David Lein of Garner, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Lyle Pals, brother of the bride, and Dean Lauen of Meservey. All wore dark suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

Rebecca and Randy Ersland, twin sister and brother of the groom, were flower girl and ring-bearer, respectively. Rebecca wore a Bo-peep styled, ballerina-length gown made with a skirt of lavender organza over matching taffeta and a white Chantilly lace bodice with a lavender cummerbund. Randy wore a black suit and carried the rings on a white satin, heart-shaped pillow edged with white lace and decorated with lavender satin streamers.

The mother of the bride wore a peacock blue, tailored sheath with black accessories. The groom's mother wore a rust tailored sheath with black accessories. Their corsages were respectively, red roses and yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 200 guests was held in the church dining room. Lois Jenison was in charge of the guest book. The gifts were arranged by Wanda Mason of Goodell, Linda Todderman of Alexander, Mary Kay Pals of Belmond, Janet Meselheiser of Meservey and Jeralynn Pals of Clear Lake.

Mrs. William Sheriff, Jr., of Goodell and Mrs. Jake E. Koenen, aunts of the groom and bride, respectively, cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. Bert Pals, aunt of the bride poured coffee and Mrs. Edward Peterson, aunt of the groom, served punch.

Mrs. Marvin Groen was in charge of the dining room, assisted by Mrs. Daniel Pals, Mrs. Mervin Morris, Mrs. Ben Smit and Mrs. Andrew Lauen. Waitresses were Dixie Koenen, Rhonda Groen, Sharon Schmale, Charlotte Dorenkamp and Mary Ann Verkant.

For going away, the bride chose a black imported wool sheath with rhinestone necklace and earrings and black accessories.

After a brief wedding trip, the bride and groom are at home in a trailer house on the parental Ersland farm where Larry is engaged in partnership farming with his father.

Farwell party last week honored Mrs. Tim Wilson

Mrs. Tim Wilson was honored at a farewell party Wednesday of last week at the Lester Kottler home. Hostesses were Mrs. Kottler, Mrs. Rose Dirks, Mrs. Henry Meyers, Mrs. Kenneth Wigg and Mrs. Frances Jenison.

The 18 guests enjoyed a social time and a gift of groceries was presented to Mrs. Wilson, who moved Saturday to Forest City.

Halloween party held at Lester Kottler home

Dawn Kottler and Marjorie Meyer entertained 12 classmates Monday evening at a Halloween party at the Lester Kottler home.

Prizes were given for various costumes. After a treasure hunt and a peanut hunt, lunch was served by Mrs. Kottler and Fern Meyer.

Elect Brandmeyer Legion commander

Lonny Brandmeyer was elected commander of Pierce-Zeiger post of the American Legion at its regular meeting on Tuesday of last week, succeeding Marvin Pals in that office. He and the other electees will be installed at the next regular meeting on Nov. 16.

Other officers elected for the 1960-61 year are: Marvin Pals, 1st vice commander; George Baxter, 2nd vice commander; Hale Mason, adjutant; Ted Zook, historian; Sig Helgeland, chaplain; Ron Courson, service officer; George Hinman, finance officer; and Rex Benway, sergeant at arms.

Legionnaires elected to serve on the board of directors of the Veterans' Memorial corporation were: Rex Benway, three-year term; Leo Gilligan, two-year term; and Jack Lobdell, one-year term. Commander Brandmeyer is an ex officio member of the board.

The new commander emphasized the need for an intensive membership drive and set a period of two weeks for the effort. As many eligible veterans as possible will be brought into the organization during that time.

Commander Brandmeyer pointed out that any veterans are eligible who served in the armed forces of this country during the following periods: April 6, 1917 to Nov. 11, 1918; Dec. 7, 1941 to Sept. 2, 1945; and June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953.

Veterans who qualify and are interested in joining the Legion may contact any of the above-named officers.

Truck firm given $2,665 damages

Last week in district court at Clarion a jury that included three Belmond members awarded a judgment of $2,665 as the outgrowth of a truck-auto collision at the intersection of Highways 3 and 69 that was formerly known as Greyhound Junction. It occurred on April 15 of last year.

Plaintiff was Kimmes, Inc., a trucking firm operating out of Miesville, Minn. Defendants were Clark H. and Loula V. Jenison, former Wright countians now living at Clear Lake.

After Kimmes, Inc., had filed petition for judgment in the amount of $4,500, the Jenisons followed with a counter-claim asking damages of $33,000. The latter was set aside.

The jury was impanelled and hearing of the case was started on Monday of last week. It was not until 9:15 p. m. Friday that a verdict was returned. Judge J. M. Schaupp presided over the hearing and Craig Nelson of Goldfield was foreman of the jury.

Others on the jury were Marjorie Hill, Marvieu Mennenga and Robert Churchouse of Belmond; Blanche Wilson, Veronica O'Beill, Madge Hall and Mary E. Spencer of Clarion; H. K. Knutzen, Edna M. Beatty and Mary Ellen Wolfe, Eagle Grove; and Myrtle Rockow, Dows.

JOE JENISON DIES AT 71; HAD BELMOND RELATIVES

Cyril Jenison of Cambridge, Minn., was an overnight guest in the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Hanson.

Guests in the Hanson home on Saturday and Sunday nights respectively were two sisters of Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. A. V. Mayhew and Mrs. Chester Oberg, both of Rockford, Ill., and their husbands.

On Monday at Sanborn all attended the funeral of Joe Jenison, 71, of Spencer, who died Thursday of last week following a lengthy illness. He was a brother of Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Mayhew and Mrs. Oberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jenison and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jenison also attended the services, the deceased being a cousin of Ralph and Roy.

Rites in Missouri for fourth victim of highway crash

Funeral services for Mrs. Fayne (Lela) Hall, 42, of Goodell were held Sunday afternoon at the Martin-Azbell Funeral Home, Princeton, Mo., followed by burial in Hamilton Cemetery near Princeton.

Mrs. Hall died a little after 10:00 a. m. last Thursday at Belmond Community hospital, the fourth victim of a two-car crash on Highway 69 three miles north of Belmond that occurred on Oct. 22.

She had suffered severe head injuries in the accident that earlier had claimed the lives of Mrs. Eva Mark, 77, Paul Mark, 51, and John Mark, 20, all of Tracy, Minn.

Only survivors are Mrs. Paul (Lois) Mark, 41, and Clyde Hall, the 17-year-old son of Mrs. Hall.

Young Hall was so slightly hurt that he was released from the hospital here on the day of the accident after examination. Mrs. Mark was a patient at the hospital until Monday night of this week, when she was transferred by ambulance to Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

She was accompanied to Rochester by Dr. Arlo Pitcher, who was her medical attendant here. He says the transfer was arranged when Mrs. Mark developed complications that suggested the advisability of her being under the attention of a neuro surgeon. Her progress toward recovery had been satisfactory until this turn in her condition came about.

Mrs. Hall left, in addition to her husband and son Clyde, three other sons: Joe of Powell, Wyo., and Billy and Donald, at home. She is also survived by two sisters and a brother living at Princeton, Mo., Mrs. Hall's family home. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ellsworth of Princeton.

Patty Lawson of Madrid becomes bride of James R. Faris, Belmond

Miss Patty Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Lawson of Madrid, became the bride of James R. Faris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Faris, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 23, at 4:00 o'clock at St. John's Lutheran church at Madrid. Rev. Delmar Carlson read the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with two vases of white mums.

Two large baskets of white pompons, mums and huckleberry greenery with large white satin bows decorated the chancel. White carpet and large white pew bows of satin completed the decorations.

Karin Clevin of Madrid, organist, provided the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Edward Gilbert of Madrid as she sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of bridal satin and imported re-embroidered Alecon lace. The Dior bodice was styled with a deep scoop neckline appliqued with lace studded with pearls. The long fitted sleeves tapered to deep bridal points over the wrists. The French pleated skirt, poised over hoops, extended into a graceful chapel train. The bride's imported English illusion veil fell from a crown of Aurora Borealis crystal.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white starlight roses with stephanotis and a detatch of two orchids. Starlight net, velvet leaves and white satin streamers completed the arrangement.

Norma Romitti of Long Beach, Calif., was maid of honor. Connie Lawson of Madrid, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Kathleen Gilbert of Madrid was junior bridesmaid.

The three attendants were attired in street-length dresses of royal blue velvet with matching shoes and hats and white gloves. They carried bouquets of white pompons and starlight roses with white satin net and leaves, tied with white streamers and cascading from white French lace baskets.

Larry Larson of Des Moines was best man and the groomsmen were Don and John Faris, brothers of the groom. The ushers were Frank Lawson of Madrid, brother of the bride, Arnis Grundberg and Lawrence Steeples, both of Iowa City, and Sherman Oberhauser.

All the men of the wedding party wore tuxedoes with black satin bow ties and cummerbunds. The groom wore a boutonniere from the bride's bouquet, while the others were of white carnations.

The mother of the bride wore a dark beige suit of brocaded satin with brown and orange accessories and the groom's mother wore a green wool dress with brown accessories. The corsage of each was a white orchid decorated with satin net and tied with gold ribbon.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Nokes of Madrid, and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Marie Faris of Vinton, wore corsages of white carnations.

The bride's consultant was Mrs. Edward Palmieri of Madrid. Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Reuben Peterson of Madrid and in charge of the gifts was Mrs. Charles Holder of Des Moines.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for about 250 guests. Mrs. Richard Hartsuck of Des Moines served punch from a bowl surrounded with pompons and lace fern on a table covered with blue net over a blue cloth and decorated with white wedding bells and white satin bows.

The all white, four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom was cut and served by Mrs. Sam Despotovich of Madrid and Mrs. Bill Mahan of Ames. The cake, surrounded by white pompons and lace fern, centered a large table covered with a white brocaded satin cloth and decorated with silver candelabra holding white candles and with two silver coffee services. Pouring were Audrey Widestrom of Des Moines and Mrs. Don W. Faris of Northwood.

Parlor hostesses were Mrs. Clarence Bain and Mrs. Reuben Petersen, both of Madrid. Assisting them were Sandra Lawson, Carol Jensen and Phyllis Magnani, all of Madrid. Mrs. Albin Anderson of Madrid was in charge of the kitchen.

As they left for their wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the bride wore a green wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of the white orchids from her bridal bouquet.

The bride graduated from Madrid High school, attended State University of Iowa, Iowa City, for two years and for the past two years has been employed in Des Moines.

The groom is a graduate of Belmond High school and attended State University of Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Faris will be at home in Des Moines.

Friday evening, Oct. 21, the bride's parents entertained the members of the wedding party and additional guests at a 6:30 p.m. dinner in their home. Following the dinner, rehearsal was held.

Bulldogs' try for upset falls—

Belmond won the ball game but the glory went to Lake Mills as the Broncos concluded their football season in dismal fashion Friday night by nosing out the Bulldogs 6 to 0. Lake Mills this fall had managed wins only over the weak North Central (Manly) and Forest City elevens up to their closer with Belmond — but it looked very much for a time as if they might pull a major upset by trimming the lethargic Broncos.

The Bulldogs thrilled their home fans by once advancing to the Belmond 16 and another time going clear to the eight-yard line before failing to make a 1st-and-goal at that point by a scant six inches. It was positively the rock-bottom performance of their campaign for the Broncos as they were out-charged and out-scrapped — particularly in the last half.

Broncos hold 1st-half edge

In the first half, Belmond gained 68 yards from scrimmage and another 84 on passes to aggregate 148 yards to only 25 for Lake Mills and to out-down the Bulldogs six 1st-and-10's to one. But even then it was clear that trouble was brewing, and if "heart" could have won the game the Bulldogs would have got the job done in the second half.

It was the "Whipple special" that that set up Belmond's lone touchdown early in the second quarter. The Bulldogs had punted out of bounds on the Belmond 25 and it was from there the Broncos launched their drive. A couple of runs by Vernon Pastour for a total of 13 yards, a 10-yard pass gain on a toss from Jerry Jenison to Dennis Anderson and a 10-yard off-tackle sprint by Anderson helped Belmond advance to the Lake Mills' 44.

Armour scores touchdown

Then Jenison lobbed the familiar short pass to Bob Whipple, and the rangy tackle heaved the ball to Bob Finn on the seven. Actually the ball was deflected by a Bulldog defender, but Finn still took it in for a 37-yard gain. Anderson failed on a try at the line, then Mike Armour crashed to the end zone on plunges of first three and then four yards. Anderson's conversion kick was wide — and the scoring (though the Broncos' followers at that stage never suspected it) was done for the evening.

Lake Mills was never able to threaten in the first half, and it was apparently taken for granted by the Broncos that they could trim the Bulldogs down to size whenever they got around to it after the intermission.

47-yard punt helps

That prospect never developed. After receiving the second-half kickoff, Lake Mills went clear to the Belmond 16 before the Bronco defense stiffened for a couple of downs and a pair of Bulldog passes went sailing over their prospective receivers' heads.

Belmond was forced to punt at the 38, and it appeared the pressure might be off for a time when Anderson booted a fine 47-yarder that was downed on the Lake Mills 15. But the host team got out to the 40 before having to kick, and then a brace of 15-yard penalties against the Broncos for having illegal men downfield on pass attempts but Belmond back on its own 20.

Play was largely in midfield, then, until Lake Mills got the ball on its own 42 relatively early in the final quarter and mounted its best sustained drive of the night. Seven plays gave the bulldogs 1st and 10 on Belmond's 18. Then, after three tries gained only three yards, Gary Hagen spurted through the Bronco line on a determined plunge that left the ball a meager half foot shy of earning another 1st down.

Belmond kept ahold of the ball for the remainder of the game, with the help of a 15-yard penalty on the next-to-last play when Anderson was roughed up after a fourth-down punt.

Although several of the Broncos — Bob Stadtlander, Merrill Kalkwarf and Pastour, particularly — showed occasional play that was up to par, there was little the Broncos could take satisfaction in as they chalked up the seventh win of their eight-game card. The victory did, nevertheless, enable them to match the best won-lost record in BHS gridiron history and closed out a season that was decidedly a credit to them, over all.

GOOD PROSPECTS for the next several years of varsity football were offered this fall by Coach Jerry Kintzi's BHS freshman-sophomore gridders despite an even split in their six game schedule. They lost 7-6 heartbreakers to both Britt and Northwood and were edged by Osage 13-7. Their wins were 6-0 over Garner, 25-7 over Buffalo Center and 20-7 over Forest City. Freshmore players pictured above are: front row — Rich Meyer, Tom Lerdal, Marlo Luick, Dennis Gallagher, Dick Kamm, Sam Davis, Steve Schroeder, George Riekens, Randy Brandmeyer, Dave Lieberknecht, Mike Luick; middle row — Tim Courson, Dallas Hopkey, Doug Steffer, Jerry Soma, Dave McNeal, Larry Ackerman, Jim Pasqueriello, Jon Oberhauser, Terry Armour, Manager Gary Luick, Coach Kintzi; back row—Roger Henn, Bob Flanagan, Dudley Bonte, Jim Ayers, Denny McNulty, Allen Koppernagel, Phil Olsen, Ronnie Sheriff, Manager Tom Downs.

Belmond's junior high gridders wound up their season undefeated by taking Britt into camp Tuesday evening of last week, 14 to 0. It was the Colts' fourth, consecutive win.

After a scoreless first half, Coach Paul Hickman's crew got to clicking on end sweeps and an advance down the field was made to pay off on a two-yard quarterback sneak by Neal Waddington.

This came in the third quarter, and in the fourth the performance was repeated as Waddington went 10 yards through the center. Each time the point was converted on a double hand-off, Waddington to Bob Misner to Keith Sheller.

During their four-game campaign this fall, the Colts scored 12 touchdowns and allowed only one against them. They whitewashed Garner and Boone Valley 26-0 and 27-0, respectively, and dumped Clarion 14 to 6.

Bronco cage drills begin; only four veterans back

SPORTS

Coach Jack Steinberg will have four lettermen back from last season's North Iowa conference championship team that represented Belmond High on the basketball court. He also will have a height problem.

Monday of this week the Bronco basketball candidates began practice for the 1960-61 season, with a pretty high-test example left them by their predecessors of a season back.

While Belmond has never had a "tall" team by present-day standards and has never so much as possessed a sky-scraping center, lack of height promises to be a bigger obstacle to the Broncos' basketball success this season than for a good many back.

Among the returning veterans, Bobbie Courson, Dennis Anderson and Bob Finn might be regarded as "average" in height, but certainly not of a stature to give Belmond any advantage in controlling the ball, and Jerry Jenison is definitely on the short side.

Only three cagers who failed to letter as juniors are back and whether they will develop enough to be regulars or alternates this season remains to be seen. Bob O'Connor likely will be the tallest man on the squad this year and conceivably could turn out to be the pick of the pivot candidates. The other two, who had only squad experience last year, are Jay Mennenga and Mike Hunst.

Brightest prospects among the juniors who are advancing to the varsity ranks this season are Vernon Pastour — a real standout as a freshmore player — Bob Burk, Merrill Kalkwarf and Bill Heinzig.

Pastour will be a serious contender for a starting berth but would raise the team's height average not a whit. Burk and Kalkwarf are both scrappers but need more seasoning. Heinzig has the needed height but at the present stage of his development is somewhat short on coordination.

It remains for varsity try outs to determine who will make Coach Steinberg's squad, and a mentor is always hopeful at this point that a "sleeper" may show up who will unexpectedly bolster his team strength.

Two weeks from tomorrow, Nov. 18, the Broncos will get their first taste of action in the NIC jamboree at Forest City. They will open their 17-game slate the following Tuesday entertaining Eagle Grove at the local gym.

Following is the season's schedule:

Dear Mr. Editor:

Does the money from the subscription of the Democrats mean as much to you as the Republicans? We know you have picked the right name for your paper. We can see that it is quite independent and one sided.

Maybe some of us Democrats could print our own paper and call it the Belmond Democrat, then we would have a way to defend ourselves. Do you realize how small a business you would have?

As an Editor you surely can't believe in Democracy. In your business if you would use common sense and be neutral you would be much more thought of.

All that mud slinging has to be proven by someone. So of course it falls back onto your own candidates. So you can see how far you get with it.

They should use the one that printed it and make him apologize instead of making the candidates suffer. After all your mud slinging at the Democrats. I predict the biggest Democratic Victory YOU have ever seen.

Bill Janssen

(Editor's note: In the newspaper profession, it is expected that a paper shall pick its favorites and work for them — just as an individual does. At the same time, a fair paper gives those who disagree with it full opportunity to criticize, if they wish. That privilege we give you — and any other readers who wish to avail themselves of it.)

PLEASANT PIONEERS

Regular meeting of the Pleasant Pioneer 4-H club was held Oct. 11, with Vice President Richard Henn conducting the meeting. Thirty-two members answered roll call.

Thirteen new members were present. Cheryl Smith, Dennis Finn, Jim McGowan, Gary Walters, Jerald Wessels, David Henn, Jimmy Boelman, David Smith, Douglas Tyrrell, Danny Ketchum, Harlan Dorenkamp, Dennis Dorenkamp and Mickey Ketchum.

The club discussed a bake sale to be held at the P and G grocery on Oct. 29.

Election of officers was held, with Richard Henn elected president; Dennis Hauge, vice president; Marilyn Suntken, secretary; Eric Buseman, treasurer; and Steve Hinman, reporter.

The calling committee was announced to include: Jean Hauge, Donald Hinman and Arlynn Boelman.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Lester Buseman.

IF 1960 CORN OUTPUT was the measure of a state's size, Iowa would put Texas to shame, according to researchers for a hybrid corn company. Using the Sept. 9 forecast of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the gentlemen with the slide rules compiled the above map to illustrate state-by-state production of this year's estimated 4.18-billion bushel crop. Giving each state an area proportioned to its corn production, Iowa would dominate the geographical scene as shown above. Iowa farmers will harvest nearly 750 million bushels — 17.9 per cent of the nation's total crop — and will receive nearly $750 million in payment, according to predictions.

State Representative candidates asked stands on state school aid

At a discussion meeting of Wright county teachers and candidates for state representative from Wright county Wednesday night of last week at Goldfield, Ray Hagie, Republican, went on record as being in favor of a three per cent sales tax to furnish state aid to schools while Richard Wilson, Democrat, favored a raise in state income tax.

The Iowa State Education association feels that schools are desperate for more state aid and that something should be done about it immediately.

This meeting was a follow-up of the meeting held in Eagle Grove two weeks ago when Dr. Ray Bryan of the ISEA told the teachers and the candidates the legislative goals of Iowa teachers.

Superintendents of the schools in the county asked for a direct "yes" or "no" from each candidate on whether or not he would vote for an increase in state aid to schools. Both candidates gave an affirmative answer.

Then each was asked what source he would favor for providing the funds. Both candidates were against any raise in property tax. Wilson commented, "A raise in property tax with farm economy as it is today is not the answer."

Mr Hagie said that perhaps a gross transaction tax, as had in Indiana, could be studied and initiated in Iowa. He added that a service tax might be the answer and then later concluded that the three per cent sales tax seemed the logical solution.

Mr. Wilson observed that raising the state income tax at least up to the original level of one per cent on $1,000, two per cent on $2,000, three on $3,000, four on $4,000, five on $5.000 and and each $1,000 thereafter was in the proper direction toward a solution. It is now three-fourths of one per cent on $1.000, etc.

"The sales tax is a regressive tax and a burden on those least able to pay as many studies have proved," he declared.

Mr. Hagie was asked if he would earmark the extra one per cent sales tax for education. He said he would have to study the situation and could not make a definite commitment but he suspected he would if the bill came before the legislature. He felt that half again as much sales tax would be near the $56 million which the ISEA is requesting.

When the state legislature does go after aid to schools, Mr. Hagie said, "the teachers will have to back the legislators or there won't be any success."

Mr. Wilson felt that the state should perhaps wait to see what federal aid is received, as it seems quite obvious that no matter who is elected the federal government would pass a bill for aid to education. Both the Republican and Democratic platforms included the plank for aid to schools.

However, superintendents felt that federal aid may be too little and too late as the need for funds is urgent, within the next two years. There are those who want the schools to cut costs by getting rid of frills, but what frills, they asked.

Mr. Wilson said he would vote against a bill for state aid to schools if it has a connection with a sales tax raise, while Mr. Hagie said he would vote for raising the sales tax and added that many states had raised sales tax to three per cent.

Mr. Hagie did not favor federal aid to schools as it is "inefficient" and "not good to have control from the top," as it is better to talk over the business within the state or immediate area than with those from a distance at the seat of federal government.

Mr. Wilson countered that the federal government has a long record of aid to states in the field of education, starting with the land grant colleges. Never has the federal government assumed any control of the expenditures of such funds, he added, and noted that both bills proposed in the most recent Congress stipulated state control of federal funds.

The candidates were also asked if they would favor the payment of agricultural land tax credit. Wilson stated that the present formula should be paid in full as a means of property tax relief. Hagie stated that he felt it necessary to raise the millage limit to 20 mills in order to pay it in full. "This is more realistic," he said.

A final question regarding salary of the Superintendent of Public Instruction was raised. Both candidates were asked if they'd favor paying him $25,000.

Hagie said he felt that the superintendent should be paid a salary commensurate with the salaries of the presidents of our state schools of higher learning.

Wilson answered that he would have to study the matter before giving an answer. However, he felt the salary should be on a parity to similar positions in other states and in private industry.

NOTICE TO BELMOND TOWNSHIP VOTERS

November 3, 1960

Dear Voters:

On November 8th you will be asked to vote on a very important tax levy of 1½ mills to furnish fire protection for Belmond township.

During the past year 10 out of every 15 fire alarms answered by the Belmond Fire Department were farm fires. During the past ten years 134 of the total of 204 fires were farm fires. This certainly points out the need for good rural fire fighting equipment.

The Belmond Volunteer Fire Department feels that it has a responsibility to give you and your farm the best fire protection possible. In order to do this we need good fire fighting equipment. Our services are all donated on a volunteer basis.

It might be added that there is a definite trend toward providing for rural fire protection by this method and all townships surrounding Belmond township have voted favorably for this tax levy.

Please help us to serve YOU better by voting "YES" to the tax levy when you vote on November 8th.

Yours very truly,
A. W. Johnson, Chief
Belmond Fire Department

Wright just "on" schedule to meet 1960 bond quota

September sales of U. S. savings bonds in Wright county were recorded at $79,856, boosting the total for the first nine months to $986,017 for 75 per cent of the $1,310,015 quota.

Now right "on schedule" for meeting its 1960 quota, this marked the first time since the start of the year that Wright has not been ahead of schedule toward meeting its assigned goal. However, its performance remains ahead of both the state and national averages.

Robert L. Davison of Clarion, volunteer chairman for the county savings bonds program, also reported that September sales throughout Iowa amounted to $9,655,730, almost a million dollars more than the like month in 1959 and close to a half million more than in August of this year.

The state's nine-month total was $107,472,641 for 70 per cent of the annual goal, and the national average was 71.6 per cent.

Nine-month sales and per cent of quotas reached are shown for other counties in this area: Webster county, $2,002,901, for 78 per cent; Winnebago, $713,632 for 76 per cent; Humboldt, $631,506 for 67 per cent; Hamilton, $900,144 for 66 per cent; Hancock, $725,691 for 66 per cent; Cerro Gordo, $1,245,160 for 59 per cent; Franklin, $535,336 for 53 per cent.

Farmers reminded: no grazing upon soil bank acres

Even though the growing season is over, land in the soil bank conservation reserve may not be used for grazing so long as the land retirement contract remains in effect, Loran Hadley of the Wright County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee reminds participating farmers.

For conservation reserve contracts which expire in 1960, the prohibition on grazing continues until December 31, Mr. Hadley said. For contracts with additional years to run, the farmer is obligated to withhold the land from crops or grazing and to refrain from breaking out new land until the contract expires.

Mr. Hadley said that 1960 payments are now being made to conservation reserve participants who have complied with their contracts during the past year. There are 14 contracts in effect in Wright County in 1960, covering a total of 1,278 acres of cropland.

On November 8th, I am going to vote for Republican Jack Miller because of his good legislative background and his being a farm tax expert — having helped many farmers save taxes by his numerous articles in leading farm journals.

Mrs. Daryl R. Marshall

BELMOND, IOWA

I am casting my vote for Richard Nixon for our next President of the United States because I feel that having the opportunity of being so closely associated with the President of our United States for the past eight years has given him first hand knowledge and insight into the problems and complexities such a position will confront him with — and that with all his political experience is much more qualified to hold the position of President of the U. S. I had the opportunity to see and hear Dick Nixon four years ago in Fort Dodge, and feel that he is the man to lead our country under God, in the coming years.

Mrs. Paul Rietz

Robert Blecker, our candidate for Sheriff on the Republican ticket, will receive my vote on November 8th.

Mr. Blecker has served the people of Wright County as Sheriff for 10 years. During his tenure in office, Wright county has benefited in many ways. He has brought national recognition to the county and to his office. He was the originator of the holiday coffee break, a safety program for motorists.

Robert Blecker has been a sincere, capable and qualified man to serve the people of Wright County, he knows the problems of his office and has the creative ability to cope with them.

A NEW VOTER

As a first-time voter I have very seriously contemplated the election and the results we may expect from each candidate if elected. I am firmly convinced that our destiny rests in the hands of the man whom we elect, therefore, I am voting for the Nixon-Lodge ticket as I believe that they can best maintain the peace of the world.

I am not impressed with the spending program of the Democrats as I'm sure that in the end we'll have to pay for what we get.

The seriousness of our situation behooves all of us to vote Republican for capable and experienced leadership.

Mrs. Fred Shickell

BELMOND, IOWA

WHY I AM SUPPORTING NIXON AND THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

BECAUSE, I love PEACE and believe Nixon's cool, calm reasoning and courage, his training under IKE, his unquestioned honesty, his sincere desire to bolster the farm economy and his ready access to IKE's desire for PEACE will insure us against war.

How fortunate to have a man like Norman Erbe for Governor. Honest, moral and able.

Jack Miller as our U. S. Senator will be a credit to the people of Iowa.

Curtis Riehm a real Iowan in the house of Representatives we can all be proud of.

SCHAAL SUPPORTS MILLER

Jack Miller possesses the requisite of being a family man dedicated to high moral purpose. Jack has served in the legislature where he made an outstanding record. We in Wright County will have the privilege to vote on Nov. 8 for a self-made man. A farmer, manufacturer and businessman. Experienced in business administration, soil conservation and community affairs. I personally endorse Ray W. Hagie, Republican candidate for State Representative from Wright county. How better can Wright County be represented than a (X) vote for Hagie on the 8th.

Leo Woodley

CLARION, IOWA

I feel I can recommend Ray Hagie as having experience and ability, of being fully capable of representing the people of Wright County, as I was also a Wright Co. soil conservation District commissioner when Ray was a District commissioner and chairman of the board, and I have been with him at state meetings, and also on other committees.

I feel certain that with his experience and ability if permitted to do so that Wright Co. will be well represented in the coming session of the legislature, if you will give him your support on Nov. 8.

F. M. Wooster

CLARION, IOWA

I am glad to endorse Robert Blecker as a candidate for sheriff of Wright county because I have worked with him for the years that he has served our county, to secure news releases for the Press Associations of Iowa and several radio, TV and newspapers in northwest Iowa. He and his staff are most considerate and careful in releasing the articles, to be sure that they are correct and in good taste.

We have had something in Wright county that no other county can boast . . . the "Coffee Stops" which were originated by Mr. Blecker. Anyone who will work as hard for safety as he does, can only have the best interests of the people on his mind. I don't think we should take any chances, we know what we have, why chance anyone less concerned for the good of our welfare.

TUESDAY
NOV. 8

Wright County Republican Central Committee, Otto Knudson, Chairman

EDITORIALS

Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened up onto you. — Matt. 7:7

All Democrats, note; this editorial is for YOU!

(Carl Hamilton, editor of the Iowa Falls Citizen and Hardin County Times, wrote and submitted the following editorial at the invitation of The Independent's editor. Carl is an ardent Democrat; and the two Iowa Falls papers as staunchly follow the Democratic line as The Independent does the Republican. An editorial by the writer of this column is appearing in the Iowa Falls paper this week to salve the raw nerves of miffed Republican readers down yonder. If you like this editorial exchange idea, let us know. We might follow it more extensively, another campaign.)

Befuddled, and no doubt somewhat confused after a campaign that obviously has run too long, the American people will go to the polls next week to make some exceedingly important decisions. Of first importance, of course, will be naming a new president of the United States — one who will probably serve throughout most of the Sixties!

Suffering obvious political embarrassment over their failures in such areas as farm policy and foreign affairs, Republicans have attempted to "change the subject."

They put great stress on the fact that Richard Nixon is "more experienced." Nixon has (he says and Eisenhower says) shared in all of the important decisions made by this administration. Nixon's virtual endorsement of the Benson farm policies (in his speech here in Iowa and in South Dakota) indicates that he has been part and parcel of an administration that has watched farm prices decline 40 per cent and farm debt rise 32 per cent. Nixon has described Benson as "one of the greatest secretaries of agriculture in American history."

Is that the kind of "experience" we want?

Nixon is more "experienced" in foreign affairs, too. He has argued with Krushchev in the kitchen. But where has his leadership and "experience" been when the Russians were surpassing us in the field of science and defense and outer space?

As a matter of fact, John F. Kennedy was writing books on foreign affairs ("Why England Slept" — 1940) before anyone had ever heard of Richard Nixon.

Also, we are told, we must elect Nixon to "preserve free enterprise." The Eisenhower-Nixon administration has unquestionably been dedicated to that end. One of their own cabinet members declared "business men are now in the saddle." Let's remember that Franklin Roosevelt took over the nation when private enterprise was flat on its back — and begging for aid and comfort even from government. Rather than putting it out of business, he put it back on its feet.

But in so doing he gave other segments of our society — such as farmers and the laboring man and Negroes and the underprivileged — a place in the American scheme of things. That's all that John Kennedy is talking about — an opportunity for ALL, rather than just the millionaire cabinet class of the Eisenhower-Nixon administration.

Walter Lippman has described the Eisenhower administration as "tired and discouraged." Even more serious among its shortcomings are its continuing chant that "everything's just hunky-dory," while big chunks of the free world continue to fall into Communist arms.

Perhaps John Kennedy doesn't have all the answers to these problems — although he obviously has a lot more than people thought he had six months ago. But at least he is concerned about things that are mighty important. He has the courage to say so and the obvious will and initiative to act.

If the sheriff catches 'em, he HAS to feed 'em

Wright countians should give especially serious thought to one contest for county office next Tuesday, to make certain that the way they vote is based on sound judgment. We refer to the race for sheriff, in which some rather ridiculous inferences have been made by the incumbent's Democratic opponent.

Mervin Newkirk implied in his charge against Sheriff Blecker last week that the latter has been extravagant because in 1959 it took $2,637 to feed prisoners lodged in the Wright county jail while the corresponding cost in Humboldt county was only $264 and in Kossuth, $849.

In the first place, let it be understood that state law sets the amount that can be charged for prisoners' meals (at present, 50 cents). We've never yet heard a complaint from a "guest" at the Wright county jail over the meals served, so apparently the sheriff's office manages to provide satisfactory fare at the modest cost allowed.

It strikes us that the number of prisoner meals served in a year might represent a rather good measure of the efficiency of law enforcement in a county. If criminals are caught, convicted and jailed, they must be fed. We cannot believe that crime is so much more rampant in Wright county than in Humboldt or Kossuth as the respective jail board bills would suggest. The better explanation, we would guess, is that the law is simply enforced more effectively in this county than in the two with which Mr. Newkirk compares it.

Extravagance in any public office is to be deplored. On the other hand, economy for economy's sake is not desireable; and certainly in such an office as the sheriff's, the office-holder should be readily permitted to spend the funds necessary to do his job WELL.

If the sheriff's office under the administration of Bob Blecker had not been doing an exceptionally good job during the past 12 years, we might be inclined to look at the operational costs as a possible justification for criticism. But Bob Blecker has been doing an OUTSTANDING job and the taxpayers have certainly been getting value received.

What would Mr. Newkirk propose to do, if he got in office? Catch 'em and starve 'em? Or just not catch 'em?

Akers caught with his fingers in the jam pot?

Iowa has probably never had a state officer more alert to the shortcomings of his fellow public servants than State Auditor Chet Akers. Sometimes his exposures have been well justified and fell within the proper performance of the duties of his office. At other times there was some reason to suspect that private differences prompted his revelations more than anything else.

He has held his present office for 22 years and, insofar as we know, has fulfilled his responsibilities competently. But — and it's a big one — we can see no conceivable excuse for his tolerance of the "flower fund" which he says he found existing in his office when he took it over and by his own admission has made use of to finance his political campaigns.

The "flower fund," as was widely publicized in the press last weekend, apparently amounted to little more than a levy against his employees to underwrite his campaign expenses.

We believe a thorough investigation of the "flower fund" and its uses would be very much in order. We don't question that its being publicized right now can be blamed on "politics," all right, but Akers has more than once self-righteously put the finger on other statehouse employees for reason of "politics." And we're sure that the cry of "politics" would have elicited no sympathy from him in those instances.

Chet Akers has done a distinct disservice to the Republican party by exposing himself to such a charge as this of which his political opponents are making capital on the eve of an election.

Loveless leapfrogged on school aid

In his campaign against Republican Jack Miller for U. S. Senator, Gov. Loveless has come out squarely for increased federal aid to schools. This is not surprising, since it squares with the Democratic platform and the stand of Senator Kennedy.

But Governor Loveless is having a hard time squaring his stand for more federal school aid with his image in regard to school financing. He is quoted as telling a Poweshiek county audience that increased federal aid, not higher state sales tax, is the way to get more school aid and property tax relief.

THE PICTURE OF GOV. LOVEless suddenly concerned about the schoo load on property taxes is going to take some getting used to. In his two terms he has waged a successful battle against any sales tax increase, and in the process has not shown any great concern over property taxes.

Now he says, "I agree that the property tax is no longer an equitable way to carry the major part of the burden for better schools." But the remedy he proposes — federal aid — is far worse than a sales tax increase would be, it seems to us.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, FEDERal dollars come from the same pockets as sales tax or property tax dollars, and anybody who thinks differently is only kidding himself.

In the second place, and worse yet, the state of Iowa would likely get back fewer dollars than its people pay in for federal school aid, even after discounting for the shrinkage their money would undergo just by the natural erosion processes of flowing into Washington and back out to Des Moines and thence to individual school districts.

THE PRIME CONCERN IS TO have the best schools possible. The people of Iowa for the most part have shown an admirable willingness to get good schools by voting on themselves at the local level the costs of improved education. They have also shown a reluctance to pass the buck to the state, as witness Governor Loveless' success in this realm in the last four years.

To be consistent, the people should not send to the United States senate a man who has leapfrogged over his own position and now proposes that the people delude themselves into thinking federal school aid is some solution to Iowa's problems of school financing. It would be anything but that.

BRONCO SPORT FINANCES —

At the Gridiron club's last regular meeting of the season on Monday night of last week, Athletic Director Jack Steinberg presented a picture of Belmond High school athletic finances that was an eye-opener to the club's members.

For one thing, he reported that the over all sports program at BHS last school year cost the rather sizeable amount of $6,883.32.

Before any tax-paying reader lets his hackles rise over this large an expenditure for athletics, we'll hurry to state that receipts covered all but about $375 of this amount — which, we're sure, was a surprise to the Gridironers.

Major source of income was, of course, admissions to the various Broncos athletic events. This was supplemented by insurance fees, payments for some items of equipment (shoes, particularly) that the boys buy for themselves, and miscellaneous sources.

Altogether, the athletic receipts came to $6,506.10. Mr. Steinberg admits that it didn't hurt a bit that Belmond High was enjoying what was unquestionably the most successful year in its history, athletically speaking.

BASKETBALL BIG DRAW —

It's basketball that pays the bulk of the freight, largely making up for deficits created by football and track.

In 1959-60, basketball receipts came to $3,323.16 and disbursements amounted to only $1,709.81.

The picture in football was, probably, not representative for two reasons. Bad weather prevailed on game nights during most of the season; and purchases of equipment were short in 1958-59, making it necessary to make nearly two years' purchases in preparation for the '59 season.

These factors produced receipts of only $2,631.73 compared to expenditures totalling $4,146.25.

Excellence of last spring's track talent prompted the entry of Bronco performers in more meets than in any previous season. Correspondingly, the Broncos harvested an unmatched crop of honors — including two state team championships. Track disbursements came to $1,027.26 and receipts (including $308 for admissions, entry fees and concession proceeds at the Bronco Relays) amounted to $551.21.

SAFETY COMES FIRST—

With thorough approval of the school administration, the BHS athletic department insures the Bronco football players' maximum safety by buying equipment of excellent grade. Mr. Steinberg told the Gridiron members that it costs about $126 per boy to equip the varsity gridders. He and Coach Rich Koolbeck believe that this practice pays off well in reducing injuries to the barest minimum.

Good equipment, plus the fact that the high school and junior high squads this fall numbered more than 110 candidates, brought disbursements for the gridiron season just ended to $3,329.99 — of which $1,569.26 was spent on equipment.

The fact that visiting teams brought relatively small followings to bolster the gate receipts of games here was a factor in reducing receipts for the 1960 season to $2,130.40. That made the football deficit for the past season amount to $1,199.59 compared to $1,514.52 a year ago, in spite of the heavier purchase of equipment in preparation for the '59 season.

It was emphasized by Mr. Steinberg that the athletic department MUST come close to balancing its accounts each year, for the bulk of its exspenditures must — by law — be met out of its own income. Only such items as can be utilized in the physical training as well as the athletic program can be bought with general school funds, and the amount involved is not large.

Mr. Steinberg added that the athletic budgets of a majority of the other North Iowa conference schools do not match Belmond's for two reasons — there is not as wide participation in high school and junior high sports, and in some cases equipment of lower quality is issued.

THEY LOVE BELMOND —

While our conference opponents may not always welcome the visits of Belmond teams due to the likelihood of taking a whipping, they dearly love the money that the large crowd of Bronco fans almost invariably deposit at the at gate. Coach Steinberg observed that if visiting teams brought as many paying customers with them as the Bronco teams customarily have accompanying them, balancing the athletic budget would be much less of a problem.

NIC arrangements call for the home school to keep all receipts. In football, especially, this usually gives the Broncos' foes a decided financial advantage.

For example, less than a dozen Northwood fans saw the Vikings play here this fall. It would probably be a conservative guess that 200 to 300 followed the Broncs to Northwood a year ago.

It's been suggested that the visiting school might be permitted to keep proceeds from advance sales. Such a practice would certainly constitute a big boost to BHS athletic finances. But it's most doubtful that a majority of the member schools, not so blessed with faithful fans, would want any part of such an arrangement.

Know your businessmen—

"Free coffee" one key to Chapman's success

Looking back over 13 years of business on Highway 69, John Chapman, Jr., can put his finger on several factors that have been instrumental in making Chapman's Truck Stop "a pretty good sized operation." And pretty good sized it is, considering that this year it will dispense more than a million gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel to its patrons.

From the outset, when Chapman Oil company (the parent business is operated at Eagle Grove by John's father and a cousin, Willis "Bill" Chapman) acquired the station here, John did everything he could to accommodate the trucking trade. That was one factor.

Another was free coffee for any trucker who wished to enjoy Chapman's hospitality. John estimates that, today, the tab for free coffee — along with cream, sugar and a moderate amount of breakage — runs to some $5,000 or $6,000 a year!

And by no means the least factor was the hiring of Verneda Thomas as bookkeeper for the enterprise. John says that since Chapman Oil company went into business here in August of 1947 he can recall just ONE bookkeeping error.

That has gone a long way toward keeping happy the host of charge customers that season in and season out, week in and week out, stop at the Truck Stop with orders to "fill 'er up."

Verneda says with a laugh that in those earliest days, the sale of a couple of packages of cigarets was a transaction that earned notice in the course of a day.

Now, her end of the business has to do with keeping track of business done with 50 credit card customers who do business from border to border (even up into Canada) and coast to coast; 63 non-local concerns that Chapman's does business with on a charge account basis and which operate in some 20 states (about two dozen of these are large outfits whose drivers Chapman's serves on contract); and a host of local charge customers.

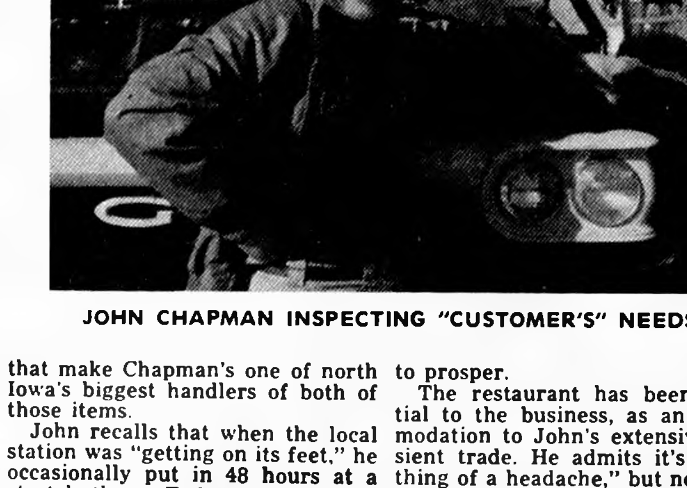
Verneda adds that the Truck Stop's patronage also includes probably more than 75 non-local customers who stop with regularity — and pay cash.

When Chapman's bought the station from Sam Crabtree in '47, it had a 64-foot frontage. That has since been expanded to 215 feet in order to provide the large rigs that so many of the Truck Stop's customers drive with always ample parking space.

Correspondingly, the station's underground storage capacity has had to be enlarged from 6,500 gallons to nearly 20,000 gallons — and the Chapman transport has to deposit about 18,000 gallons weekly in the tanks to keep a sufficient supply of gas and diesel fuel on hand.

John says that never a year has passed but what the station's business was larger than the one before. He admits, though, in view of the certainty that the volume will exceed a million gallons in 1960, that the time was when the dream of a half-million-a-year volume seemed an impossible one.

The Chapman Oil company's station operation here represent's about a third of the over-all volume; and John admits with a grin that on Sept. 1 the two stations were running about 365,000 gallons ahead of the same eight-month period in '59. He added, incidentally, that the Eagle Grove business also covers home freezers and tire sales that make Chapman's one of north Iowa's biggest handlers of both of those items.



JOHN CHAPMAN INSPECTING "CUSTOMER'S" NEEDS

John recalls that when the local station was "getting on its feet," he occasionally put in 48 hours at a stretch there. Today, here and at Eagle Grove, Chapman Oil company has 21 full-time employees (including "the bosses") and John finds more time to indulge in his favorite pastimes of hunting, fishing and — in recent years — golf.

Chapman's Truck Stop doesn't so much as have a sign along the highway to advertise its presence; and John confesses that the station and attached restaurant don't exactly constitute a "show place." But unceasing good service, plus word-of-mouth advertising regarding same, have enabled Chapman's to prosper.

The restaurant has been essential to the business, as an accommodation to John's extensive transient trade. He admits it's "something of a headache," but nevertheless takes pride in its reputation for good food.

For the first eight years, neither station nor restaurant was closed down for so much as a day. Lately, there's been an occasional close-down over a Christmas, New Year's Day or Thanksgiving for purposes of clean-up and repair. Even at those times, station service is continued.

The station has been locked up only very infrequently for a funeral. And John warns, "For MY funeral, it'd better not be closed for more than three hours!"

VOL. 42 NO. 6 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, NOV. 10, 1960 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Since the days when a fire bell sounded the alarm and a hand-drawn hose cart was the major piece of equipment, Belmond's volunteer fire department has been providing this community fire protection. Without financial reward and sometimes at the price of great personal danger, our firemen have dropped their personal business and responded at a sprint whenever an alarm was sounded.

For more than four score years, this pattern has been followed. And the only support the firemen have ever asked, outside of public financing of major equipment, has been purchase by citizens of the town of a pair of tickets to the smoke-eaters' annual Firemen's Ball.

Saturday night, the 80th in the unbroken series of firemen's dances will be held at Veterans' Memorial hall. This is the one chance for an appreciative community to show its gratitude to those men who sacrifice their time and risk frequent physical danger for our safety. Untold thousands of dollars in property value have been saved by their dedicated efforts. Spare a few bucks for a couple of tickets, won't you?

Women of the Congregational church have announced that they plan a bake sale for an unusually worthy purpose, which will be of interest to a good many Belmondites. Dr. Robert McGowan, who is a nephew of Dr. S. P. Leinbach and has for some years served as a medical missionary in Africa, has advised his friends in this country that his mission station could make extensive use of an all-purpose power unit of the type that John Deere makes at its Waverly plant. It's a diesel powered outfit and sells at $965, including a generator to produce electricity. We urge that the Women's Fellowship's bake sale at the P&G on Nov. 19th be borne in mind. Next week we'll have a complete story on Dr. McGowan, his work — and the machine he could use so well in his "business."

Although having every reason to be proud of her second-place finish in the state Make-It-Yourself-with-Wool contest (senior division) last week at Ames, Mary Alice Studebaker was admittedly envious of the first-place winner. That envy had, however, little to do with the greater glory attached to the higher placing.

It was this way. The home of Mary Alice's fiance, James P. Tarpley, is Denver, Colo. — and all three division winners in the Iowa contest won as part of their prize a free trip to . . . Denver, Colo.!

Mary Alice was philosophical about it, telling herself that since the trip west would have coincided with the week immediately preceding test week at Clarke college (Dubuque), where she's a senior, it would have come at a very awkward time. While visiting her parents last weekend, though, she admitted she'd probably have gone.

A front-page article in the Oct. 24 issue of The Thompson Courier features a picture of Thompson Community school's first junior high football squad. It was organized by Arlo W. Stoltenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Stoltenberg, and was comprised of 17 seventh and eighth-grade hopefuls.

Because of the fancy double and triple reverses which Arlo cooked up for his proteges to spring on their opposition, the former BHS athlete won the nickname "Evy" among his fellow faculty members at Thompson.

The Thompson junior high schedule built up to somewhat of an anti-climax, sad to say. The team had only one game carded — with Burt junior high — and that lone contest was cancelled due to the fatal heart attack suffered by a Burt school bus driver. Undiscouraged, "Evy" says, "Wait till next year!"

Credit the undefeated Britt Eagles for winning some reflected glory for their fellow members of the North Iowa conference. In the final rating of Iowa high school football teams by United Press International published on Tuesday, the Eagles held the highest position any NIC team has ever attained in such a poll.

Coach Steve Everett's outfit was ranked as team No. 18 in the state. Except for Swea City (with 869 population, compared to Britt's 2,000-plus) in in 20th place, all of the rated teams represented schools immensely larger than Britt High school.

In fact, with only isolated exceptions, the rated teams were mainly from Class AA schools. How elevated a position Britt held is indicated by the fact that the team in 17th place was Mason City — and in 19th, Sioux City East. Britt's now won 12 games in a row, the Eagles' last defeat being at Belmond's hands last year.

Because of the nature of the layout on Belmond High's all-conference football players on this page, there was no space to insert a credit line noting that the pictures were provided to us through the courtesy of Mueller Studio at Clarion. That was their source, though, and we appreciate the use of them.

Wright backs GOP slate; Hagie, Blecker win

Riehm edge small; others on ticket carry safely

Wright county helped Iowa reverse the national Democratic sweep in Tuesday's general election by giving solid support to the Republican ticket. Only seven of the 28 precincts in the county failed to give Vice President Richard Nixon a majority vote and not one Democratic candidate emerged as a victor in Wright.

Narrowest margin given any Republican candidate was Curtis Riehm's edge of only 234 votes over the incumbent 6th District Congressman, Merwin Coad. The Garner attorney tallied 4,656 to Coad's 4,422. Riehm was on top in 15 of the 28 precincts but won many of them by very slim margins.

Ray Hagie of Clarion turned back the challenge of young Richard Wilson in the race for state representative, but by only 779 votes. Except for the Riehm-Coad contest, only one other race was closer in Wright county — that in which Jack Miller nosed out Gov. Herschel Loveless in their scrap for the U. S Senate seat by 485 votes.

Hagie polled 4,992 votes to Wilson's 4,203 and Miller gathered 4,912 to 4,427 polled by Loveless.

Above the county level, Nixon's 1,277 edge over Kennedy was the largest advantage held by any Republican candidate. Nixon's vote total was 5,386 and his Democratic rival's 4,109. Norman Erbe held a majority of 922 over Edward McManus, 5,129 to 4,207.

Price has big margin

Threats to the re-election of Sheriff Bob Blecker and Auditor Myron Price failed to materialize as they easily turned back their respective Democratic rivals, Mervin Newkirk of Eagle Grove and Harold Henry of Clarion.

Blecker received 5,549 votes in winning all but four precincts, while Newkirk's total was only 3,872 — a margin of 1,677. Price polled 5,538 to his opponent's 3,588 for an even larger surplus of 1,950 votes.

Except for these two contests, Wright county officers were unopposed in seeking re-election. Top vote-getter was Bessie Johnson, clerk of court, who achieved a total of 6,125; Treasurer Harold Sullivan polled 6,111 votes and Recorder Grace Fletcher, 6,094. Robbert Maddox of Clarion, running for county attorney to succeed Newt Draheim, received 5,868 votes.

Belmond voters turned out in record numbers for this year's election, the total attaining an all-time high of 1,269 ballots cast. There is an estimated 1,480 eligible voters in Belmond — excluding college students and young men in military service. Some of the latter are, of course, eligible to vote by absentee ballot.

If the voter estimate is reasonably accurate, the turn-out to the polls in Belmond would represent approximately 85 per cent of all eligible to cast ballots. In rapidly growing Ward 3, the total of 558 voted; in Ward 1 the number was 372 and in Ward 2, 339. These figures include absentee ballots, of which something over 550 were cast in the county as a whole.

County vote under 1952's

This year's Belmond vote compares to 1,156 in 1956, to 1,126 in 1952 and to 921 in 1958, the latest non-presidential year election.

Wright county did not match Belmond's voting percentage, although the total ballots cast exceeded 1956 by a narrow margin. Largest valid vote in this year's election was 9,495 — cast on the presidential race — compared to 9,378 four years ago. Both of these totals were a fair amount short of the 9,852 votes cast on the 1952 contest for president.

First precinct to report at the auditor's office Tuesday night with its ballot count complete was Belmond Ward 3, at 10:45 o'clock. Last to report — as has been the case over a good many years—was Wall Lake township, whose ballots did not reach the court house until 5:05 a. m. Wednesday.

Christopher wins by three

Closest vote battle of all conducted in Wright county this year was that involving the District 3 supervisorship. Incumbent A. W. Christopher was upset in the Republican primary by fellow townsman Jim Abbott. Christopher, however, ran independently against the GOP nominee and nosed him out by the margin of 1,219 to 1,216.

Christopher carried four of the seven precincts in the district, but large margins for Abbott in two Eagle Grove wards came close to wiping out the veteran supervisor's advantage.

Being crippled didn't stop her—

How pioneer mother voted in '06

(The following article was written by Miss Theo Whiting, 86, who lived in Belmond and is now a resident of the Hollenbeck Home for the Aged at Los Angeles, Calif. She is assistant editor of a small news sheet published by and for the home's residents. Ed's note: if you didn't vote Tuesday we suggest — for your peace of mind — that you NOT read this.)

Election day reminds me of my Mother. She was one of the first followers of Susan B. Anthony. My father agreed that women were entitled to vote, so they both worked for woman's suffrage. Years passed with little progress in Iowa, but in 1906 we moved to North Dakota, where they had no saloons and women were voters.

We, my father and mother and brother and I, lived on a farm 10 miles from town. The weekly newspaper gave notice of election and my mother rejoiced that at long last her dream was to become a reality. For 10 years she had been almost helpless with a poorly set broken hip and arthritis, and was unable to walk.

No one talked politics, hoping that Mother would forget; but election morning she called us to her and said, "I want to vote today. I know the best way to go. You can put my wheelchair in the back of the light wagon and I will be just as comfortable as if I were sitting at home."

Dinner over, she suggested we start. So I dressed her in her best, the men lifted her and her chair into the wagon. Father did not hurry. The landscape stretched on all sides as far as eye could see — fields of wheat, corn, grass. A few homes, one with trees planted as a windbreak.

At last we reached town and found the voting place. Father went in and some time later came out with a stranger who explained that no one could vote outside the poll booth; so he helped Father lift out the chair and we went in.

Mother could not stand in the booth, and neither father nor I were permitted to read names nor check for her. So a man squatted beside her chair and read for her, then checked her choices.

She had no trouble deciding for candidates for state office — they had been discussed in the newspaper; but the long list of local candidates was new and quite confusing. I heard her say, "That name sounds good; vote for him." Or, "I think I will vote for the first" or "the last."

Then they lifted Mother into the wagon and we started home. It was a long ride. Mother was tired, but uttered not a word of complaint. Suddenly she began to sing, and Father added his deeper tones. As the sun dropped lower and lower in a sea of brilliant colors we sang spirituals, hymns, old songs.

The sun had set when we reached home. My brother met us, and he and Father gently lifted Mother from the wagon and wheeled her into the house. Mother put her arms around her son's neck as he lifted her from chair to bed. Clasping him closer, she whispered in his ear, "I guess it was a foolish thing to do."

Brother kissed her and slipped out to his chores. I got supper and we all went to bed early.

Mother had voted, and all was well.

Mary Alice Studebaker awarded 2nd place in Make-It-with-Wool contest

Mary Alice Studebaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Studebaker, Jr., was awarded second place in the senior division of the state Make-It-Yourself-with-Wool contest as district winners were judged last Thursday and Friday at Iowa State college, Ames.

This annual contest, held in conjunction with the convention of the Iowa Wool Growers association, brings together winners from 12 districts in each of three divisions. Those divisions are: junior — for girls age 14 through 17; senior — age 18 through 22; and for adults.

Miss Studebaker had earlier been judged senior division winner in the Waterloo district. She and the other district winners in all divisions personally modelled their wool garments before the state judges at Ames. Mary Alice's entry was a plaid wool coat.

This was the second time that Miss Studebaker has been a state winner in the Make-It-with-Wool contest. When she was a Belmond High school senior she was third-place winner in the junior division.

The garment she entered this time was one which she had made while taking a five-week course in tailoring at Iowa State college this past summer. She was taking the course as a supplement to her home economics studies at Clarke college, Dubuque, where she is a senior.

Her prize as a state runner-up this year was a portable Singer sewing machine.

Car, poultry truck collide—

Mrs. Aigley fatally hurt in crash

Mrs. Harold Aigley, 58, a lifetime resident of this vicinity, suffered fatal injuries about 3:20 p. m. last Thursday in a car-truck collision near Alexander which caused her death about 10:40 a. m. the following day.

Funeral services for Mrs. Aigley were held Monday afternoon at the Methodist church, Rev. M. L. Jones officiating. Fulton Funeral Home was in charge and burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Dana Howell, Tom Hattel, John Pals, Joe McLaughlin, Jack McLaughlin and Martial Holtzbauer.

Mrs. Aigley was driving alone on a gravel road a mile and a half northwest of Alexander, headed west, when she lost control of the wheel as her auto struck some loose gravel.

Approaching from the opposite direction was a poultry truck owned by Zanios Produce of Mason City. Its driver was George Malaktaris of Mason City and he was accompanied by Dean Pruisman of Alexander. They reported to investigating authorities that the Aigley car first veered toward the north ditch, momentarily straightened out, then swerved directly into the path of the truck so abruptly that Malaktaris could do nothing to avoid a collision.

Impact of the crash drove the right side of the car's engine back several inches, with the result that Mrs. Aigley was dealt severe chest injuries by the steering wheel.

She was, nevertheless, conscious when Pruisman and Malaktaris went to her aid and she told them she didn't think she'd been hurt too badly except that she had a pain in her chest. She was still conscious when Fulton Funeral Home's ambulance arrived to take her to Belmond Community hospital.

The truck, loaded with 5,000 pounds of chickens, spun end over end into the south ditch and came to rest headed west, the direction opposite to that which it had been traveling. It was extensively damaged. A number of chickens were killed and considerable time was required to recapture most of the many foul that escaped.

Both the driver of the truck and his companion escaped injury.

Ruth Arbella Aigley was born at Renwick on Sept. 16, 1902, daughter of Henry and Mary Polmateer. She grew to womanhood in the Alexander community and was married on Aug. 12, 1923, to Harold Aigley. Since their marriage, they had made their home in Belmond.

One daughter was born to them, Bernadine (Mrs. Leo) Schwab of Belmond.

In addition to her husband and daughter, Mrs. Aigley is survived by her mother, now living in Mason City, and five grandchildren; also seven brothers and sisters:

Mrs. Lloyd (Hattie) Davis, Northwood; Alvy Polmateer, Shell Rock; Mrs. Merrold (Vivian) Galloway, Mason City; Ella Dresher, Omaha, Neb.; Emil Polmateer, Hampton; George Polmateer, McCredy, Mo.; and Mrs. Carl (Edna) Alberg, Clear Lake.

STORES NOT TO CLOSE

Phyllis Pals, Chamber of Commerce president, wishes it noted that Belmond stores will remain open this Friday, Veterans Day. This decision was made the early part of the year when holiday closings were settled upon by the Chamber directors in reflection of a majority wish of the members.

HELLO WORLD

Lynn Douglas is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Keith Nuehring of Goodell for the 7 lb. 11¼ oz. son born to them Nov. 5.

An 8 lb. 14 oz. baby girl was born Nov. 7 to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Korth of Dows.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Halfpap are parents of a 6 lb. 10½ oz daughter born Nov. 8.

Concerned only with election?

It would appear that most people were so concerned with the election last Tuesday afternoon that relatively few took time to see if they had a Cash Gift Day number that was a prize-winner. At any rate, not one of the 15 numbers that would have been worth awards of either $25 or $50 was turned in. Maybe now that the election is history and the number of shopping days until Christmas is growing alarmingly small (only 37 left, folks), Belmond shoppers will pick up interest in grabbing a bit of easy cash. The CGD award total is being kept at $500 for next Tuesday afternoon, split once again into 10 prizes of $25 apiece for the 2:00 p. m. drawing and five of 50 fat bucks at 3:00 o'clock. Better be on hand with your number.

BHS honor roll lists 70; seven attain average of A

Seventy Belmond High school students earned mention on the honor roll for the first quarter of the 1960-61 school year by achieving grade averages of "B" or better, reports Principal Ernest Doeringsfeld. Seven of that number won the added distinction of having A-averages for the nine-week period.

Four of the "A" students were members of the junior class, which had only 13 students on the honor roll — smallest number of any class. The sophomores, with 20, had the largest number of honor students; and three of those achieved A-averages.

The four juniors who were "A" scholars were Randi Dahlgran, Nancy Halfwassen, Ronnie Heykants and Colleen Jones. With A-averages from the sophomore class were Alta Bohning, Randy Brandmeyer and Nikki Killius.

Juniors with B-averages were: Bob Burk, Judy Gordon, Marcia Hattel, Bill Heinzig, Merrill Kalkwarf, Sheila Musselman, Jane Studebaker, Ruth Swaroff and Barbara Tripp.

Sophomores on the honor roll, in addition to the "A" students, were Loree Baker, Nancy Chirstensen, Kathy Finn, Dennis Fuller, Lorraine Fuller, Dennis Gallagher, Dennis Hauge, Rick Kamm, Judy Kellerman, David Lieberknecht, Janis Mennenga, Janet Merck, Ray Roberts, Lynn Slining, Dennis Stecher, JoAnn Ubben and Mark Whitty.

Nineteen freshmen were listed on the honor roll, as follows: Dudley Bonte, Jeanne Finn, Rochelle Fuller, Helen Goecke, Bruce Haugland, Steven Hinman, Jon Hruska, Jolene Jenison, Karleen Kolpin, Marlys McLaughlin, Cyndy Musselman, Philip Olson, Douglas Pals, Bill Schubert, Carolyn Stecher, Kristine Thompson, Royce Van Gerpen, Sue Wilmarth and Terry Winbigler.

Voters turn down special proposal; fire levy passes

Wright county left no doubt as to its stand on the proposition of holding a state constitutional convention as this special issue was voted on Tuesday. It was rejected by voters of the county, 5,751 to 3,120.

This proposition proved unpopular in rural areas the state over, and was vigorously fought by the Farm Bureau in Wright county and elsewhere.

Only one precinct in the entire country came relatively close to giving the special issue a "yes" majority. In Clarion Ward 2 it was defeated by only seven votes, 136 to 129. All other precincts voted the proposition down by much larger margins.

Fire Levy carries easily

In Belmond, the "no" votes outnumbered the "yes" as follows: Ward 1 — 214 to 128; Ward 2 — 196 to 114; Ward 3 — 283 to 230. Belmond township rejected the proposition 153 to 73; Pleasant township, 137 to 57; and Iowa township 258 to 107.

The only other special issue considered in the election involved Belmond township, only. Voters there were asked to reconsider a special property tax levy of up to 1.5 mills for fire protection. In the primary election they had approved the proposition by a 40-30 vote margin, but 60 per cent approval was required for it to carry.

New fire truck at stake

This time, voters of the township gave the proposal very solid backing, 162 favoring the levy and only 70 voting against it.

Belmond's volunteer fire department had promoted the special issue, with purchase of a new rural fire truck depending on its outcome. Other rural taxing districts around Belmond had already voted approval of a similar levy that would make their residents eligible for fire protection on a tax-levy basis.

Only one student gets "A" average in jr. high here

Candace McClenahan, with a straight-A average, topped 25 Belmond junior high school students who earned mention on the scholastic honor roll for the first quarter of the school year. A 7th grade student, "Candy" was the only one to surpass the "B" average required for a place on the honor roll.

Ten pupils in the 8th grade qualified with an average of "B": Paul Hauge, Mike Granzow, Alan Charlson, John Bonte, Merry Bamford, Gwen Buseman, Bob Whitty, Neal Waddington, Sterling Laaveg and Billie McNutt.

In addition to Miss McClenahan, 14 other 7th-graders made the honor roll: Kathryn Proeger, Darlene Stoffer, Nancy Walrod, Beverly Pickel, Janis Porter, Lynnette Thompson, Donald Hinman, John Hotvet, Lora Howell, Kathryn Jenison, Kristin McNeal, Joan Leinbach, Loretta Buterbaugh and Paul Green.

"Good Turn Day" response here puts Belmond near top

Winnebago Area Council Cub and Boy Scouts recently completed their annual Scout "Good Turn Day" clothing drive for the handicapped men and women at Goodwill Industries. This year the Cub Scouts distributed 22,475 Scout Goodwill bags in 39 cities and towns of the nine-county Winnebago area and the Boy Scouts collected 15,847 filled bags from the homes in the council area, for a return percentage of 70.50.

Materials that have been donated by the thousands of generous contributors and collected by the Scouts will provide training and employment for the handicapped workers through the coming winter months, thus assuring them of full time income.

Ted Leaver, Jr., of Clear Lake, the council activities chairman, stated that this year's drive was very successful in every way. He also noted that the "Good Turn Day" provided a wonderful opportunity for citizens of the area to be "Good Scouts" by helping the Cub and Boy Scouts contribute towards the training and employment of the handicapped men and women at Goodwill industries.

Leading all communities in the council area in percentage of return was St. Ansgar, where the Cub Scouts delivered 250 bags — and 422 filled bags were collected. That represented 168.8 per cent return.

Other towns where more bags were collected than were distributed, and their percentages of return, were: Aplington 139 per cent, Kanawha 137.5. Greene 105.5, Lake Mills 105.25. Joice 104. Corwith hit exactly 100 per cent.

Belmond ranked ninth among the 39 cities and towns where the project was carried on. Here, 600 bags were distributed and 530 filled and returned. The local percentage at 88.33, compared to Kensett's 99.09 in 8th position. Completing the top 10 was Northwood, where 450 bags were distributed and 397 collected for a return percentage of 88.22.

Elsewhere in Wright county, "Good Turn Day" achievements were as follows: Clarion, 800 bags delivered and 679 collected, 84.87 per cent; Eagle Grove, 1,000 and 846, 84.6 per cent; Goldfield, 175 and 145, 82.85 per cent; Dows 250 and 206, 82.4 per cent.

The records of other near-by communities included: Forest City, 700 and 562, 80.28 per cent; Garner, 425 and 325, 76.47 per cent; Meservey 75 and 54, 72 per cent; Hampton, 1,100 and 748, 68 per cent; Mason City, 6,500 and 3,316, 51.1 per cent.

Highlights of Award Night Saturday evening outlined

Included in this year's Wright county 4-H Award Night program will be the election of boys' 4-H county officers, announcement of winners of Chicago trip awards and achievement awards and a style show featuring dress revue winners. There will also be reports by state 4-H camp and trip award winners.

The 4-H Award Night program will be held at the IOOF hall in Clarion this Saturday beginning at 8:00 p.m.

County farm project 4-H officers for the coming year will be elected by two voting delegates from each of the 15 boys 4-H clubs. Nominees were selected by the boys' 4-H county committee.

One of the highlights of the Award Night program will be the presentation of the Chicago Trip winners and their sponsors. Six members of the farm project and home economics 4-H clubs will be awarded trips to Chicago during Thanksgiving vacation.

Achievement awards fo rthe past club year will be presented by Bob Dawson and Mrs. Arthur Homervold, chairman of the boys' and girls' 4-H county committees.

Another feature of this year's 4-H Award Night program will be a style show put on by the county dress revue winners.

Clover awards to 4-H leaders who have had five, ten, and 15 years service will be presented by Olaf Watne, county Farm Bureau president.

Another highlight of the Award Night program will be reports on the experiences at State 4-H camps and tours given by John Rodecap, Lake Leaders; Harvey Hilpipre, Lincoln Leaders, and Joan Mathre, Norway Jolly Joy Makers.

Members of the girls' 4-H County Committee are: Mrs. Art Homervold, chairman, Belmond; Mrs. Roy Crawford, Clarion; Mrs. Marvin Hilpipre, Woolstock; Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Kanawha; Mrs. Phillip Ketchum, Rowan; Mrs. Enfred Pearson, Renwick; Mrs. Melvin Richardson, Clarion; and Mrs. C. C. Woodin, Clarion.

Meetings slated to elect 8 to Extension Council

Eight representatives to the Wright County Extension Council will be elected at township election meetings during the week of Nov. 14-18, inclusive, according to L. B. Oberhauser, chairman of the council.

The townships holding elections this year are: Belmond, Boone, Eagle Grove, Iowa, Liberty, Norway, Troy and Wall Lake. Extension Council members serve for a two-year period and can be re-elected for two consecutive terms. Half of the townships elect council members in alternate years.

The Extension Council is the governing body of the Agricultural Extension Service in Wright county, as provided in the law enacted by the 56th General Assembly in 1955.

The township election meetings are required by law. Eligible voters of the township can and are urged to vote at the election meetings in the townships. Nominating committees have been appointed to select at least two nominees in advance of the election meetings who agree to serve if elected.

Most townships are planning a short program to be held in conjunction with the meeting. Most programs will include some part by 4-H clubs. Other parts of programs include colored slides of beef performance testing in some western states, colored slides on Dutch elm disease control, and a motion picture on "The Color of Health."

The Extension law and the duties and powers of the council will be explained by extension personnel. An election chairman appointed by the Extension Council is in charge of each of the meetings.

The date, time and place of the election meetings in this vicinity are:

Nov. 15—Norway township, Norway Community Center (Center school) at 8:00 p. m.

Nov. 16—Belmond township, L. B. Oberhauser home at 8:00 p. m.

Nov. 18—Iowa township, Legion hall at Rowan at 8:00 p. m.

The nominating committees and election officials for the above township elections are:

Belmond township, nominating committee: Friend Bras, chairman, Everett Anderson and Gerhard Gabrielson; election meeting chairman, Vernon McLaughlin; election meeting secretary, Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser.

Iowa township, nominating committee: Laurence Woodley, chairman, Mrs. Laurence Woodley and Robert Drury; election meeting chairman, Loran Hadley; election meeting secretary, Mrs. Loran Hadley.

Norway township, nominating committee: Adolph Meinders, chairman, Frank Studer and Grant Jergensen; election meeting chairman, Mrs. Helmar Maage; election meeting secretary, Mrs. Herman Christians.

● Belmond Locals

Mrs. Will Boelman received a telephone call Sunday from her son Daryl of Austin, Minn., that his small daughter, Dara Jean, was in the hospital there with pneumonia. That afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Boelman and Stanley and Ruth Boelman took Mrs. Boelman to Austin to assist in the home for a few days.

Mrs. Harrison Miller and Leroy have returned to Mason City after spending some time with her grandmother, Mrs. Amanda Brooks.

NEW AIR FORCE RECRUITER

Sgt. John Rushing of Fort Dodge is now Air Force recruiter for Wright county, which as of Nov. 1 was transferred from the jurisdiction of the Mason City recruiting office to that of the Fort Dodge office. Prospective enlistees can see Sergeant Rushing any Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 2:00 and 4:00 o'clock in the draft board office located in the basement of the Clarion post office.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Anderson attended funeral services Sunday at Clarion for Charles Churchill, brother-in-law of Mr. Anderson.

Last EG circuit conference held3 at Trinity church

Tuesday of this week some 25 ministers and their wives gathered at Trinity Lutheran church for what was the final pastoral conference of what has been the Eagle Grove circuit of the Evangelical Lutheran church.

Besides ELC pastors, ministers of the former American Lutheran and United Evangelical Lutheran churches of the circuit territory were invited to take part in the conference. The three church bodies now comprise The American Lutheran Church.

This was the last circuit conference before the Eagle Grove area's official disbandonment the first of the coming year. Very largely the same territory will then make up the Fort Dodge conference of the newly formed ALC. It extends roughly 100 miles east and west, with Belmond as its east extremity, and about 50 miles north and south.

Morning and afternoon conference sessions were held at the Trinity church. Women of the church served dinner to the guest pastors and their wives at noon.

LON BRANDMEYER ATTENDS SALES MANAGEMENT SCHOOL

Lonny Brandmeyer, district sales manager for Tomco, Inc., on Monday through Friday of last week was in Chicago to attend a Field Sales Management Institute held at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Why Be Handcuffed to a one telephone home?

when an extension provides so much convenience at so small a cost

If you live in a "one phone home" you know that when the telephone rings, you have to leave whatever you're doing. The painting in the basement, the children in the playpen and the dinner on the stove all must go untended while you run up and down to answer the phone. With convenient extensions, this problem is gone forever and you get more done too!

Britt dominates all-conference 'picks"—

Two Broncos make NIC 1st team, three on 2nd

Britt's complete predominance of the North Iowa conference football scene during the 1960 season was reflected in the all-conference player choices made last Friday night at Forest City by sports writers of the newspapers that covered NIC games.

An unprecedented five first-team choices went to Coach Steve Everett's all-conquering Eagles and two more men from the championship outfit were awarded second team berths.

Belmond's second-place Broncos produced two gridders on the 13-man first team and three of Coach Rich Koolbeck's crew wound up on the second team.

Lots of good guards

An abundance of first-class guards, compared to a relative dearth of outstanding tackles, posed a problem for the all-star selectors. They at least partially solved it by putting Belmond's classy Bob Stadtlander at a first team tackle spot and a second fine guard, Kendall Drake of Buffalo Center, on the first team as utility lineman.

Most difficult of the choices to make involved the last two spots in the first team backfield and the selection of the five men for the second team backfield. It was acknowledged by the selectors that some shifting could be done at these positions — even involving men who had to be put on the honorable mention list — without any perceptible weakening of the all-star line-ups.

One junior on 1st team

Britt's first-team assignments went to Tackle Dennis Krull, Guard Keith Sillman, Center Jerry Schrader, Quarterback Bob Nielsen and Halfback Dale Brcka—all seniors except Brcka, whose skill as a blocker and sturdy defensive work supplemented better than average ball-carrying ability to make him the only junior classman accorded first-team honors.

Versatile Bob Nielsen, who was a standout not only in lugging the ball but as a kicker, passer and defensive player, was an unchallenged choice for the first team. The three Eagle linemen brought equally unanimous agreement among the selectors, who saw in Schrader one of the finest centers the NIC has produced in some time and the keystone in the rugged Britt defense.

Anderson scored 53 points

"Buzzy" Walsh, the Eagles' lightweight end who called both offensive and defensive signals a majority of the time, rated a second team wing position. He also was an A 1 secondary defense man. Jim Rasmuson, Britt fullback, was the other second team appointee from the championship team. He actually gained more net yards from scrimmage than all of the Eagles' opponents together, with 548 yards in loop play; and in addition was an excellent linebacker. Walsh is a senior and Rasmuson a junior.

Besides Stadtlander, Belmond had Dennis Anderson on the first team. The fleet Bronco halfback had the best ball-carrying average in the loop with 7.3 yards on 76 trips with the ball for 555 yards. He also caught 11 passes for 149 yards gained and was one of the top NIC scorers — if not THE top — with 53 points on eight touchdowns and five conversions. He also had a 31-yard average on 20 punts.

Hemingson outstanding end

The Broncos' rugged Merrill Kalkwarf was assigned to the second team as a guard. Belmond also placed Bob Finn at a second-team end position and Jerry Jenison made the backfield. Kalkwarf is only a junior.

Other first-team choices, besides those from Britt and Belmond, saw five of the NIC aggregations represented. Only Northwood was omitted.

Osage placed its fine end, Dale Hemingson, a good pass receiver, blocker and defensive wingman. At the other pivot position was Gary Hagen of Lake Mills, a standout player on an outfit that had poor success this year. As already mentioned, Buffalo Center's Kendall Drake was the choice for utility lineman.

Cataldo leading fullback

Garner's big, bruising Don Cataldo, the league's best fullback without much question, was a unanimous choice for the backfield. He carried the ball 98 times for the Cardinals and netted 688 yards for almost seven yards per try.

Forest City's George Hanson was virtually the Indian's entire backfield. His performance of gaining 604 yards on 127 carries behind a weak line and snatching 12 passes for 343 yards — a remarkable 28.6 average — earned him a first-team position.

Second team tackles were Dave Low of Osage and John Roberts of Northwood. A common complaint that the robust Osage star indulged too freely in illegal tactics cost him consideration for a repeat of the first-team spot that he won a year ago.

Viking linemen cited

Roberts, along with Dave Skellenger at guard — also a second-team selection — earned Northwood the respect of its opponents even as the Vikings were taking their lumps during the 1960 campaign. Bob Jass of Garner was the choice for second-team center, sharing with Brede a big share of the credit for the Cardinals' usually tough line play.

Terry Steinmetz of Forest City, another of the bumper crop of excellent guards in NIC play the past season, was honored by assignment to the second team utility spot in the line.

If a sixth man could have gone in the first-team backfield, it unquestionably would have been Glenn Tjaden, Buffalo Center's hard-playing quarterback and sparkplug of the Bison eleven. Steve Halbach, Osage, got the nod over team mate John Van Voorhis in the second-team backfield because he saw more game time and performed cosistently well. Van Voorhis was hampered by injuries, a factor that cost him higher rating.

Four Broncos on honor roll

Halbach averaged 6.3 yards on 55 carries and tossed 63 passes good for 30 completions 592 yards. Belmond's Jenison hurled 75 passes good for 41 completions and 762 yards. On running plays he picked up 147 yards on 34 tries for a 4.3 average. Wally Elling of Garner, completing the second team backfield had a 58 percent completion mark on passes and was field general of the suprisingly tough Garner offense.

Such backs as Charles Bowman of Osage, Vernon Pastour of Belmond and John Oftedahl of Buffalo Center could have been placed in the second-team backfield, the selection panel agreed, without weakening it a whit.

On honorable mention, Belmond had Pastour, Fullback Mike Armour and Tackles Bob Whipple and Bill Heinzig. All of these boys made greater than average contributions to the Broncos' highly successful season.

Britt dominated 1960 opponents by wide margin

Statistics on the Britt Eagles' 1960 football season illustrate the superiority that gave Coach Steve Everett's team the North Iowa conference championship and extended the Eagles' win streak to 12 games — extending back to their loss to Belmond in 1959.

Britt amassed 103 first downs to only 33 for their foes and chalked up 214 points while allowing only 19.

The Eagles gained 2,065 yards rushing, were thrown for losses totalling 152 for a net of 1,913. Their opponents gained 560 yards rushing, were nailed for 275 yards in losses for a net of 285.

Connecting on 24 out of 58 passes added 364 yards to Britt's total, while their rivals hit on 21 out of 61 for 296 yards. The Eagles intercepted 12 passes and had only two snatched by the opposition; and Britt recovered 14 fumbles by their oponents while losing possession on fumbles only six times.

Only 17 times was Britt forced to punt while their foes punted 33 times (in addition to losing the ball 26 times by fumbling or pass interceptions).

The Eagles' aggressiveness produced 302 yards in penalties marched off against them, compared to 158 yards in penalties assessed against their opponents.

Money Bowl title to Mary Gordon

After last Sunday's "Money Bowl" program over KQTV at Fort Dodge, Belmond is fairly well monopolizing the spotlight on this weekly clash for cash on the television screen.

Mary Gordon came through as the women's handicap champion, defeating the defending champ, Carol Groen of Sac City. Duan Thompson is the current scratch champion and has picked up $60 — plus a new bowling ball — on the KQTV program.

Mrs. Gordon earned the right to meet the handicap champion Sunday afternoon by rolling a 155-210-155—520 in the morning, which her handicap brought up to a gross of 570. That 210 game was the best of the qualifying trials and brought the Belmond kegler a new bowling bag. Her victory in the challenge match was worth $30.

She will return to the KQTV screen next Sunday at 5:00 p. m. as the defending champion. The week following, Duan Thompson will make his third monthly appearance as the scratch champion. Both will be shooting for additional $30 checks to go with the prize money they've already won.

This Sunday at 11:30 a. m. district qualifying for the scratch championship program on Nov. 20 will be conducted at Bowl-Mor Lanes, with keglers from Clarion and Eagle Grove as well as Belmond vying for a chance to challenge Thompson.

There will be eight bowlers each from the Bowl-Mor, Hi-Hatt Lanes at Clarion and the Eagle Bowl at Eagle Grove seeking the privilege of advancing to the Nov. 20th qualifying round that will serve to select the men's and women's scratch challengers.

16 upperclassmen now turning out for cage practice

Coach Jack Steinberg reports that 16 senior and junior basketball candidates started drills on Monday of last week in preparation for the Broncos' opening action. This will be at the North Iowa conference cage jamboree at Forest City on Friday of next week.

Nine of the prospects are seniors, including all four of the returning letter winners — Dennis Anderson, Robbie Courson, Bob Finn and Jerry Jenison. The other 12th-graders are Mike Armour, Mike Hunst, Jay Mennenga, Bob O'Connor and Bob Whipple.

Vernon Pastour, who was top scorer for the BHS froshmores last season, heads the list of seven juniors now reporting for practice. Bob Burk and Merrill Kalkwarf were also regulars on the Junior Bronco quintet, while Jerry Pals and Bill Heinzig saw considerable action. Completing the junior roster are Sam Johnson and Harold Dorr.

HERE! EASIER GOING FOR THE DRIVER AND THE LOAD, LONGER LIFE FOR THE TRUCK!

'61 TORSION-SPRING CHEVROLETS

If you don't think scrapping the front axle has made a world of difference, you haven't driven a Chevy in a while. A few minutes behind the wheel and you can feel why drivers are happier and breakable loads are better protected. But the biggest advantage of all, you'll realize, is that the truck itself (sheet metal, tires, chassis components, everything) takes less abuse. With independent front suspension soaking up road shock and vibration, the truck lasts longer, goes extra thousands of miles before trade-in time. Add that to what everybody's always known about Chevy dependability and you find yourself looking at the soundest truck investment you could bet your business on.

and look! NEW REAR-ENGINE CORVAIR 95's

A panel and two pickups that put a thrifty air-cooled engine in the rear, the driver up front and as much as 1,900 pounds of load space in between! That's more capacity than a conventional half-tonner. Yet these Corvair 95's are nearly two feet shorter from bumper to bumper. Highly maneuverable. Built to last and bound to save on a busy schedule!

CORVAN—Side doors open a full 49" wide. Loading height is a low 14"

Wright has 80 students enrolled at Iowa State

AMES (Special) — Belmond has 15 students and Wright County a total of 80 enrolled among the 9,726 in the student body at Iowa State university this fall. Official enrollment tabulations for the university, recently completed by Registrar Arthur M. Gowan, show an increase of 474 from the figure at this time last year.

Every college in the university registered a gain in new undergraduate students (freshmen and transfer students from other institutions) over last year. The number of such students increased approximately 15 per cent for the university, from the 2,492 who entered in 1959 to 2,869 in 1960.

Total enrollment in each area of the university for the fall quarter is:

College of agriculture, 1,641; agricultural engineering (students taking work in both agriculture and engineering), 122; engineering, 2,815; home economics, 1,425; sciences and humanities, 2,169; veterinary medicine, 254; graduate college, 1,300.

Greatest total gains were in engineering, science and humanities and the graduate college.

Students listed from Belmond, 15 in number, are:

Lynn Jenison, freshman in mathematics; Roland Jenison, senior in aeronautical engineering; Richard Kreins, graduate student in chemistry; Keith Madsen, freshman in distributed studies; Mark Mason, freshman in chemical engineering; Marlin Pals, junior in aeronautical engineering; Curtis Trager, freshman in electrical engineering; Tim Trees, junior in agricultural education.

From Wright county in addition to the Belmond students are 25 from Clarion, 23 from Eagle Grove, f e each from Rowan and Goldfield, three each from Dows and Woolstock and one from Galt.

Those from Rowan enrolled at ISU are Carmen and Paul W. Rietz, Cynthia Wolff, Arlene and Ilene Woodley.

Belmond Locals

Mr and Mrs Darrol Mirehouse and Robin of Hannah, N. D., are spending a week visiting in the J. E. Ketchum home.

Mr. and Mrs Keith Dunton of Johnston were Friday callers in the J. E. Ketchum home.

Bradley Hammond and Joan Coons of Iowa City spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Lois Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs Ray Haugland, Bruce and Paul were Sunday visitors at the parental Butler Stene home at Emmons, Minn., and at the Roy Stene home near Leland.

The Myron Benton family of Eagle Grove were dinner guests a week ago Sunday in the Francis Ainger home. In the afternoon, all went to Mason City where they visited their father, Delbert Ainger, at Good Samaritan Home.

Mr and Mrs Bill Swenson attended the reception honoring Mr and Mrs. Marvin Kuhn of Kanawha who recently returned from Germany where he was stationed.

Mrs Dick Groh of Mason City visited Wednesday of last week in the Bill Swenson home. Diana returned home with her mother after a weekend visit in the Swenson home.

Arnold Nodland returned home Friday evening from Rochester, Minn., where he had undergone surgery the previous week.

Put on fertilizer now, recommends college specialist

County Extension Director Aaron Bowman points out that J. A. Stritzel of Iowa State university says fertilizer applied now for next year's corn crop will be as effective as that applied next spring. Applying it now will save time next spring — when time is often more valuable.

However, Wright county's farmers will need to act as quickly as they can on their fall fertilizer programs if they are to complete them before freeze-up, Bowman adds.

Now that soil tempertures have dropped, nitrogen as well as phosphorus and potassium can be applied, Stritzel says. For minimum leaching of the nitrogen portion of the fertilizer, use sources containing primarily ammonium or urea, the ISU specialist suggests.

Dry and liquid mixed fertilizers can be used to equal advantage now because all three of the main crop nutrients can be spread with one trip across the field. Several single-nutrient fertilizers in dry form can be applied in one trip by hooking several spreaders in tandem, or by having the fertilizer spread by bulk trucks.

If the nitrogen source to be used is anhydrous ammonia or the nitrogen solutions, two trips across to apply both the nitrogen and other nutrients to the field will be necessary. However, the lower over-all nutrient cost of this method compared with other methods may justify the two trips. Each farmer should make good use of paper and pencil to see what approach is best for him, Stritzel says.

Belmond Locals

Mr and Mrs. W. L. Muhlenbruch were weekend visitors in the home of Willis Muhlenbruch at Iowa Falls.

Last week, Mr and Mrs. Alre Watts entertained at a family dinner in honor of their son Bob's 15th birthday anniversary.

Belmond Locals

Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Ellis returned a week ago Tuesday from Ohio where they had spent the past month visiting their daughters, and families, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Braun and children at Lima and Mr. and Mrs. George Rostarfer, Jr., and children at Wapakoneta.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn J. Baker, Jr., and sons of Ames spent Saturday with the Glenn Bakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bonte and Dudley spent Sunday in Ames visiting Linda Bonte and also friends.

A REMINDER FROM THE BELMOND FIRE DEPARTMENT

BELMOND, IOWA

Dear Friend:

You have depended on your Belmond Volunteer Fire Department all year—now we are depending on you.

On Saturday, November 12, we firemen are holding our annual Benefit Dance at the Vets' hall, Belmond, Iowa. This is our method of raising necessary money not provided by taxes and company shares.

The tickets you received in the mail are your invitation to the dance. The enclosed self-addressed stamped envelope was for your convenience in returning one dollar for each ticket. If you can't attend send a dollar, two or more to help us protect you and your property.

Remember the night, November 12th—remember the place, Vets' hall, Belmond, Iowa—remember the time 9 o'clock and most of all remember we're depending on you.

Our Sincere thanks,
BELMOND FIRE DEPT.

Seventh and 8th grades: most original — Charles Piel and Susan Hopkey; funniest — Myron Andrews.

8 from Alexander at church parley

The Fort Dodge Churchmanship Institute at Webster City Methodist church Monday evening of last week was well attended. Those from Alexander attending were: Ray Richards, Charles Showalter, Mrs. Nolan Colglazier, Mrs. Wilbert Hansen, Mrs. Ben Peil, Harry Hill, Rex Aldinger and C. Floe Peters. Rev. Richard H. Jackson was ill and could not attend. Only four of the ministers were not present of more than 30 in the district and over 300 laymen and women were present.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley was the speaker, his topic being "The Genius of Methodism."

FB women meet with Mrs. Happel

The Scott Farm Bureau women's October meeting was held at the Paul Happel home with 10 ladies present. Plans were discussed for the Christmas Fair, to be held Nov. 18, from 1:00 to 9:00 p. m. in the armory in Hampton.

Mrs. Kermit Sandersfield gave a citizenship report, and distributed leaflets on reapportionment.

Mrs. Henry Johnson brought several dried bouquets and helped the other women with their dried materials.

A collection was taken for retarded children. Lunch was served by the hostess.

$134 realized from Alexander UNICEF project

Some 200 of Alexander's School district and area children and youth were among more than two million American youngsters who Trick-or-Treated for UNICEF on Halloween, Mrs. Harlan Blewett reports.

They collected $134.79 in pennies, nickels, dimes and bills to help UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, save young lives in over 100 countries and territories.

"The citizens of the Alexander area can be proud," Mrs. Blewett added. "For every dollar they have contributed, 20 children can be cured of yaws, a crippling tropical disease; or five children can be treated for trachoma, an eye illness causing blindness; or 100 children can be protected from tuberculosis."

Mrs. Blewett announced that citizens who might have been by-passed by young Trick or Treaters, but who wish to make a contribution to UNICEF may still do so.

Donations may be mailed or delivered to Mrs. Rex Aldinger, treasurer of the Alexander Parent-Teachers association, sponsors of the UNICEF project

This year about 55 million children and mothers are receiving UNICEF aid, Mrs. Blewett noted, adding, "Our youngsters have greatly contributed to this aid, thanks to the fine spirit shown by our whole community."

"I can buy chicks for less, why pay more for Hy-Line birds?"
Answer:
It always costs more to produce something measurably better. Generally you get what you pay for. And how much ahead are you to pay less for chicks which earn a lot less later on? Hy-Line layers returned from 27¢ to $1.14 more income (an average of 55¢ more per bird) than the 9 next largest-selling layers in 22 official Random Sample Tests ending in 1958 and 1959. Yes, an average of 55¢ extra income after deducting all feed and chick costs! Hy-Line chicks cost a little more, return much more as layers.

Veterans invited by Eimbrink post to dinner Nov. 16

Commander-Elect Lonny Brandmeyer announces that the incoming officers of the American Legion, Eimbrink Post No. 35, are issuing an invitation to all veterans eligible for Legion membership to be guests at a free dinner and social hour planned for next Wednesday night. The event will be at Veterans' Memorial hall, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

This invitation is extended to all ex-servicemen who served during the following periods: April 6, 1917 to Nov. 11, 1918; Dec. 7, 1941 to Sept. 2, 1945; or June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953.

Adjutant Hale Mason says, "No reservation need be made by veterans accepting this invitation. Just be on hand."

Following the social hour and dinner, installation of the 1960-61 officers will be conducted. In charge of the installation will be M. G. "Gus" Schrader of Britt, Iowa Department Vice Commander.

Mr. Schrader is a long-time Legionnaire who has served as post commander and 8th District commander, as well as having served on a number of national committees.

Adjutant Mason says, "Vice Commander Schrader is well qualified to tell the prospective Legion members present what the American Legion can do for them. The incoming officers hope that a large number of eligible ex-servicemen will accept this invitation for a meal and some fun so they can learn something of the benefits the Legion offers its members."

FARMHOUSE FRATERNITY INITIATES LEE ALDRICH

R. E Lee Aldrich III, son of Mr and Mrs. R. E. Lee Aldrich, Jr., of rural Belmond, has been initiated into FarmHouse Fraternity at Iowa State university. FarmHouse, a national social fraternity, has been the scholastic leader at Ames for the past 20 years.

Aldrich is a junior enrolled in agricultural education He is on the Eli Lilly Advanced Curriculum Program and is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, scholastic honorary.

The members of FarmHouse are presently living in a home management house on campus since their house was destroyed by fire last Feb 4 Present plans call for remodeling and expansion of the old house in time for occupancy next fall

BOB LERDAL NOW ABOARD DESTROYER USS NICHOLAS

WESTERN PACIFIC (FHTNC)— Robert L. Lerdal, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Lerdal of Belmond, Ia., is serving aboard the escort destroyer USS Nicholas operating with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

The ship departed Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Oct. 17, and will operate as part of an anti-submarine hunter-killer group and participate in amphibious and air defense exercises.

The ship is scheduled to visit Hong Kong, Okinawa, Taiwan, the Philippines and Japan during the overseas tour.

State general aid to local schools almost $30,000

Belmond Community School district receives the next-to-largest slice of $149,871.97 in general state aid that has just been received by County Supt. C. W. Sankey for distribution to the school districts of Wright county. The Belmond district's share comes to $29,910.51.

Biggest cut received by a Wright county district was $46,059.61, to Eagle Grove In addition, $14,675.04 went to Eagle Grove Junior college.

General aid is given on the basis of 17 cents per day per elementary pupil (in actual attendance), 20 cents per day on average daily attendance in high school and $1.00 per day for each junior college student carrying 12 or more semester hours of college work.

This year there are 614 high school districts and 1,086 districts without high schools that were eligible for general state aid. Total claims came to $17,433,891.86 compared to the year's appropriation of $15,500,000, so claims had to be settled on a pro rata basis of 88 9 cents on the dollar.

Other high school districts in Wright county, besides Eagle Grove and Belmond, are receiving the following amounts in general aid: Clarion $18,033.01, Dows $13,481.35, Goldfield $9,256.47 and Rowan $4,114.61.

Districts without high schools will receive general aid as follows: Wall Lake township $2,904.60, Grant $2,764.26, Dayton $2,015.61, Galt Independent $703.83.

Lincoln township No. 1 $601.25, No. 4 $598 68, No. 2 $476.90, No. 9 $449.69, No. 6 $380.88, No. 5 $357.19, No. 7 $211.25; Vernon township No. 3 $581.72, No. 9 $391.12; Woolstock township $464.09, Blaine $372 88

Auxiliary to hold quarterly meeting

Quarterly meeting of the Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary will be held at 2:00 p. m. next Wednesday at the library basement. A feature of the meeting will be a demonstration of the hospital's new baby incubator, the Isolette.

Major matter of business at the meeting will be a vote of the members on how the proceeds from last Labor Day's Hospital Appreciation Day should best be spent to the benefit of the hospital. Also, samples of new drapery to be purchased for the hospital will be displayed.

● Belmond Locals

Myrtle Godtland has returned to the home of her mother, Mrs. Amanda Brooks, after having surgery at Mercy hospital at Mason City.

Ronald Brooks of Mason City spent a few days with his grandmother, Mrs. Amanda Brooks, while his mother, Mrs. Roger Brooks was in the hospital.

ECONOMY

It's economical to save the U.S. Savings Bond way! Here are three reasons why: higher interest on new bonds; extra interest on old bonds; the privilege of holding any Series E Bond 10 years beyond maturity, with interest being steadily added!

Look Closely...

At a $5.00 bill and you will see the names of 26 states - they are on the facade of the Lincoln Memorial shown on the back of the bill.

Strange Rental -

For over 250 years, William and Mary College of Virginia has paid an annual rent to the governor of that state in the form of two Latin verses!

Wright delegates ready to attend state FB parley

Several Farm Bureau leaders from Wright county will be attending the Iowa Farm Bureau Convention in Des Moines next Monday and Tuesday.

Leo Woodley of Clarion will attend the voting delegate session and join in making the final decision — along with voting delegates from the 99 other counties — on state policy. These delegates will also adopt recommendations on national policy to be presented at the national convention in Denver in December.

Attending the sessions of the women's conference will be Mrs. Leo Woodley of Clarion, county women's chairman

Others to attend the convention will include: Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Watne, Roger Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Max Titus, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shortenhaus and Gerhard Thompson.

A new feature of this year's convention will be the pancake breakfast Tuesday morning, with state officers, state women's committee members and state office staff serving.

Once again, the big day — Tuesday — will be climaxed by a banquet, at which Dr. Kenneth McFarland, educational consultant for General Motors, will be the main speaker.

NORTH AVERY SUNBEAMS

Regular meeting of the North Avery Sunbeams was held at the home of VaLinda and Rosalyn Pearson last Saturday. Margaret Ann Johnson led recreation.

Roll call was answered by 15 members. Two of the girls' mothers were visitors at the meeting and Elsie May Van Wert was also a visitor.

Wendy Doble was chosen to bake a cake to be judged at Leaders' Training School on Wednesday, Nov. 9th.

A discussion on courtesy was lead by the officers. Arlys Arnold was program chairman. The girls decided to have a grab bag at Christmas meeting. Also they are asked to bring two dozen cookies to the next meeting for the county home.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Gwen Butler.

Kramer takes 1st in Iowa AAU race

Larry Kramer, Belmond's two-time state Class A mile champion and now a freshman at the University of Iowa, outraced a field of 40 in the Iowa Open and Midwest Amateur Athletic Union cross-country meet Tuesday at Des Moines to make an impressive debut as a college runner.

He covered the three mile distance over the Waveland golf course in 15 minutes 46.2 seconds. It was only the second competitive cross-country meet Larry has run in. Last fall he placed second in the state Class A high school cross-country meet, being defeated by his arch rival, John Raveling of Saydel.

Raveling, now a Drake university freshman, was in the field Tuesday but this time fell far short of being able to match strides with the Belmond star. He finished in 9th place.

Relatives attend baptismal rites of Classick baby

A number of relatives were present for the baptism of Harold John Classick, infant son of Dr. and Mrs. Les Classick, when that rite was held a week ago Sunday at the Congregational church. It was performed by Rev. Ralph Beebe of Grinnell, a retired minister and a former pastor of Mrs. Classick's home church at Sibley.

The infant's name is the same as was borne by his paternal grandfather, the late Dr. H. J. Classick, and by his uncle, Harold J. Classick, Jr., of Bartlesville, Okla.

Entertained at a dinner at the Blue Bell team room following the baptism ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Classick, Jr., and Teri; Mr and Mrs. Ray Cleveland, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Nic Christensen, Sibley; and Mrs. Paul Watnem and children, Klemme.

ATTENDS PARLEY IN N. J.

Rev. Elmer Vander Ploeg accompanied men from Sioux Center to Atlantic City, N. J., to attend the Men's Convention of the Reformed Church in America last Friday thru Saturday. The group also enjoyed a trip to New York City and the boat tour around Manhattan Island.

EDITORIALS

How long are ye slack to go to possess the land, which the Lord God of your fathers hath given you? — Josh 18:3

Now we will see how astute these editors are

How much do editors REALLY know about the political leanings of the communities their newspapers serve?

A poll conducted by the Publishers' Auxiliary, the most widely read publication in the country for the newspaper trade, will shed considerable light on the answer — now that Tuesday's election is history. The comments here are being written in advance of election day.

Similar polls conducted by the Auxiliary in 1952 and 1956 indicated President Eisenhower as the favored candidate. In the 1960 poll, the nod (through Oct. 24) went to Vice President Nixon — but with several factors present that could effect the poll's significance appreciably.

Ballots had been received up to Oct. 24 from 3,138 weekly papers and 579 dailies. The only question asked on the ballot was, "I think the people of my community favor . . ." and the choice was restricted to the two presidential candidates.

It is noteworthy that the response of the weeklies—reflecting mainly the nation's rural areas—showed Vice President Nixon leading in 36 states with a total of 416 electoral votes; whereas the ballots from the dailies predicted a preference for Nivon in 32 states delivering 379 electorial votes.

This difference suggested that the more metropolitan the area, the stronger the leaning toward Kennedy. In this connection, it is important to note that in the seven key states — Illinois, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and California — only 21 of 217 daily papers returning ballots were in cities of 100,000 population or more. Consequently, the weight of city voting in those states was hardly measured at all by the Auxiliary poll.

Another matter of interest is the fact that the response of the weekly editors showed a 62.3 per cent expected preference for Nixon, 32.2 for Kennedy, and only 5.5 per cent undecided. Oddly enough, while these editors seemed quite certain how their communities were going to vote, only 32.2 per cent of the papers were openly supporting the Nixon-Lodge ticket, 16.4 the Kennedy-Johnson combination — and 51.4 per cent of the editors were ON THE FENCE as to their own, personal preference!

In Illinois, Michigan, New York, Ohio and Pennysylvania, the Auxiliary poll — reflecting preponderantly rural sentiment — showed Nixon well ahead. In the other two pivotal states, Texas and California, the result was about a toss-up.

On the day this was being written (Thursday of last week) the Des Moines Register was predicting that a break in the neck-and-neck race between Nixon and Kennedy had occurred and that Senator Kennedy was more and more appearing to be a cinch. Late polls among the general population prompted this viewpoint.

As suggested, probably not too much certainty could be attached to the Auxiliary poll as a national "straw in the wind" because of its predominantly rural base. However, there was more likelihood of its being a fairly accurate barometer of the election outlook in Iowa.

Of Iowa's 338 weeklies, 149 returned ballots; 79.9 per cent foresaw a majority vote for Nixon, 14.8 looked for a Kennedy victory in their bailiwicks, and only 5.3 found their crystal balls so clouded that they couldn't anticipate the election result.

Forty-three Iowa cities boast daily papers, and only 18 of these filled out ballots. Thirteen of the dailies forecast a pro-Nixon vote among their readers and the other five professed uncertainty. It is highly likely that the dailies responding were among the smaller ones, so the "city vote" could do drastic things to that apparently safe Nixon majority in the state.

That leaves only one thing left to divulge. How did The Independent's editor predict the vote would run among this paper's readers?

Nixon, by golly! (The front page will report how we made out on THAT.)

Judge tells teachers, go ahead and whack 'em

It can be safely assumed that the Iowa district court judge who last week ruled that a teacher has a perfect right to lay a corrective hand on a recalcitrant student won a lot of friends in the teaching profession.

In the Story county court at Nevada, Judge S. E. Prall declared that a teacher has as much right to inflict reasonable punishment on a disobedient child as a parent has.

Cause of the suit was a slap alongside the ear administered by an eighth grade teacher on an unruly boy. The youth's father asked damages of $12,500 on the contention that his child's eardrum had been ruptured by the blow.

Judge Prall observed that more discipline in the homes and schools serves to prevent "such a situation as we have in New York with all of these teen-age gangs." He made apparent his belief that the "seat of learning" could advisedly be considered just underneath the hip pockets.

'Most any teacher will tell you that there is relatively little need for corporal punishment at school if the same is periodically and judicially applied at home. And they'll add that there's a lot more chance of warping the childish ego if it is allowed unrestrained growth, rather than being psychologically pruned from time to time by a fanny-whack.

The offended father is determined to appeal his case to the supreme court. Those justices had better mind their P's and Q's on this one, if they don't want to lose the teacher vote!

When dropped fork meant 'company'

Dropping a fork has always been considered a sure sign, in Maine anyway, that some guest would arrive. My grandmother, who had many such folklorish ideas, used to sit around after she dropped a fork and wonder who it could be. She'd run through the family and friends, guessing which had any reason to arrive, and sometimes would even guess who it might be.

"It would be Alice," she said one time. "Alice hasn't been here in ages, and she'd be the one to come without notice." So, of course, Alice arrived the next day, and Grandmother said, "I knew you were coming—dropped a fork."

I DO REMEMBER ONE TIME Grandmother dropped a fork, and nobody came. After a couple of days went by, she used to go over to the window and look down the road, expectantly. She was positive she'd see a buggy coming, with somebody in it to fulfill the omen.

But nothing happened, and some doubts must have crept into her mind. I remember she seemed preoccupied, and forgot to pour the froth for the cats. But then it happened.

IT WAS A TRAMP. A REAL, old-fashioned tramp of the kind we used to get. The kind who, in the first place, tramped. They came wandering up the road in complete leisure, never in the slightest hurry, willing to be wherever they were when they got there.

They had a respectable philosophy, granting one or two things, and were not resented. Perhaps the times were more agreeable, and the tramp was accepted as some kind of link with the rest of the world.

NOT TOO MANY PEOPLE DID come by. A tramp would clean up a shed, or split some wood. They frequently showed considerable skill in some of their chores. They knew how to handle an ax, anyway, and lacking anything else for them to do a farm always had a woodpile to be manicured.

A tramp knew just about how much wood he ought to split for his supper, and he'd do twice as much again if you let hime bed down in the haymow with the expectation of breakfast. Afterward, they'd move on up the road.

They never stole anything that I knew about, or abused us.

GRANDMOTHER USED TO judge them one from another by the way they washed up. She could not abide a dirty tramp. If one splashed water about a good deal, and used plenty of soap, he attracted her charity accordingly.

Once a tramp asked Grandma for a cake of her homemade soap, saying he meant to wash his clothes at the next brook. She was delighted, and regarded him as a high type of tramp sure to make a place for himself in the world and amount to something.

Anyway, the poor tramp showed up just as Grandmother's dropped fork was about to expire as a reliable augury.

ACCUSTOMED TO SITTING BEneath the trees in the dooryard, and laying his dishes on the back step when he was finished, this tramp was bewildered at the reception he got. Grandma brought him right into the kitchen where she poured hot water for his ablutions and set him a place at the table.

He didn't get any handout on one of the old dishes—he got the full meal, right through to pie.

And when Grandfather came in from the barn and found this disreputable character sitting in state at the family board, as good as one of the family, Grandmother answered his quizzical look by saying, simply, and ending the matter, "I dropped a fork." — John Gould in Christian Science Monitor

Who's to blame for "flower fund"

Citizens who lack enthusiasm for the shortened ballot — and insist that we continue to vote for and elect a whole string of lesser state officers — should ponder Chet Akers' "flower fund." People who insist on electing persons to positions like state auditor are the ones responsible for such sorry situations.

WHAT CAN WE EXPECT?

Here's a man elected to a job for a 22-year period, paid $9,000 or $10,000 per year, and forced to spend sizeable sums every other year to hold his job.

The temptation is pretty great to put the pressure on some of his employees — either for money or for leg work.

IN AKERS' CASE HE APPARently picked up a little extra cash, or at least his lieutenants did. In other cases some of the employees obviously do a little "politicking" around election time — with state cars and on state time.

This isn't the first case, nor will it be the last, as long as we insist on electing people to a bunch of non-policy making, relatively low-paying jobs.

And worse than that, we don't know who we elect anyway. — Iowa Falls Citizen

WITH YE ED

OVER, THANK GOODNESS!—

Never have we seen the end of a political campaign arrive with a deeper sigh of relief than the one just concluded. In between times, you kind of forget all the acrimony — and all the nonsense — that is inspired by democracy's "greatest show on earth" every four years.

Maybe it was because we, personally, were ducking brickbats as never before that this impressed us as a more bitterly fought battle than customary.

Maybe the fact that the Democrats in Wright county no longer regard theirs as a lost cause puts them more on the defensive than once was the case and had something to do with it.

Whatever the explanation, people surely were (well, SOME of 'em were) wrought up over it all. We would like to make it clear that, for our part, we hold a grudge against no one. Politics is a mighty poor basis for grudges. We sincerely hope that the same willing lenience will be shown toward Ye Ed.

A NEWSPAPER'S PART—

The Independent has earned a reputation for its readiness to take a stand on controversial matters—and to stick by its guns. This riles up people on the other side of the fence, from time to time; but, by-and-large, we're convinced that our readers find The Independent more interesting, and more of a force in the community, because we don't make a practice of fence-riding.

We'd bet dollars to doughnuts that if a poll of our readership were taken as to whefher we should continue our present editorial policy, or abandon our editorial column (there's really no middle ground), that a very large majority would urge that we continue to let the chips fall where they may.

Don't think that we always believe our editorial opinions to be right. We know we're as fallible as the next person. But a lively editorial column can be very valuable to a community to induce THINKING on matters of importance. And even if, on occasions, that thinking is to the effect that Ye Ed's as wrong as a picnic in a blizzard one purpose of the editorial has been achieved.

POLITICS PERMITTED—

It clearly offended some of our readers that throughout the campaign The Independent pursued a Republican course in its editorials.

It should be understood that a newspaper has the same right (perhaps it could even be said, the same obligation) to take an active part in politics that an individual has. A newspaper's prerogative of trying to influence public opinion DOES extend, by American tradition, to politics.

We offer no apology for an aggressive political stand in our editorials. On the other hand it WAS our determined intention NOT to play favorites in our news columns. We made a very honest effort NOT to give either party preferred treatment news-wise.

We believe that an unprejudiced perusal of the issues of The Independent published during the campaign would at least confirm the effort — and probably testify that we were reasonably successful in our resolve to provide both parties an equal break on news.

At the tag end of the campaign we had a couple of stories that did not figure to be helpful to candidates running for office; but in each case they were "news," and were treated factually and without editorial slant. It happened that one of them was unfavorable to a Republican; the other to a Democrat.

Had we run one, without the other, we'd have been dead wrong. But that BOTH were printed substantiates, we contend, our intention of playing political news coverage as straight-down-the-line as we could manage.

LOTS OF COMPANY—

The Independent has lots of company in playing editorial politics. A majority of weekly papers, sad to say, do not have editorial columns of any sort. But few that DO have editorial columns fail to favor one candidate or another in a general election.

Of about 3,100 American weeklies casting ballots in the Publishers' Auxiliary poll on presidential preferences (see adjoining editorial) 48.6 per cent were actively supporting one candidate or the other. Of the 51.4 per cent that reported themselves "undecided," it can be assumed that a very large majority have no editorial column — and are invariably "undecided" regardless of what issue is at stake.

HOW ABOUT EXCHANGES?—

Our friend Carl Hamilton, editor of the Iowa Falls newspapers, very eagerly "took" to our idea of an editorial exchange last week — a Republican editorial of ours appearing in The Hardin County Times, and a Democratic effort of his appearing in The Independent.

We feel quite certain that, in another election year, he would be interested in working out such an exchange arrangement to extend over perhaps the last five or six weeks of the campaign.

It would please us to get some comments from our readers as to their reactions to such an arrangement.

And The Iowa Valley Press

TEN YEARS AGO—

Republicans swept the slate in Tuesday's general election, insofar as Wright county was concerned—thereby reflecting the voting trend throughout Iowa. Sheriff Bob Bleecker won over his rival, John Bleeker of Belmond, by the largest margin, 4,902 to 1,879.

—1950—

Rowatt and Murray last week moved into its new building on west Main street, which provides the engineering firm with adequate space for both its administrative offices and drafting and design personnel.

—1950—

Dr. A. M. Larson was elected president of the Gridiron club at the last regular meeting of that organization held Monday evening at Clarmond Country club.

—1950—

A hunt for the mysterious "black panther" seen recently in the Des Moines vicinity — or another animal very similar in appearance — produced a furore in the Alexander-Rowan neighborhood last Sunday.

—1950—

About 200 parents attended the American Education Week program held Monday afternoon by Belmond's teachers. The program served as a medium of discussion regarding Belmond's need for a new elementary school building.

—1950—

Donovan McClure, who attends Iowa State college at Ames, spent the weekend at the parental Roy McClure home.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—

Supervisor Alex Smith of Belmond, candidate for re-election to the county board from District 1, was the only Democrat to be elected to office in Wright county in Tuesday's election. He received 1,006 votes to 731 for J. W. Azeltine.

—1940—

H. H. Rierson, 65, who for most of the last 20 years of his life served Belmond as town marshal, died last Thursday.

—1940—

Roger Tofte, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tofte, will have to spend six weeks in the hospital as the result of breaking his leg Thursday when he was thrown from a swing at the rural school he attends. The accident was caused by a swing bolt breaking.

—1940—

John Halfpap this week brought in to the Independent six samples of what an ambitious turnip can make of itself. Each of the vegetables looked like a young basketball and the largest weighed six pounds.

—1940—

William Meints this weekend is opening his new service station, one block north of his former station on Highway 69.

—1940—

Richard Banning has completed his course at Chanute Field in Illinois and has been assigned to Randolph Field in Texas as a weather observer.

THIRTY YEARS AGO—

Clear Lake pushed over a touchdown in the third quarter to defeat Belmond 6 to 0 last Friday in a game that determined the North Iowa conference football championship for 1930.

—1930—

The Sugar Factory school began its fall session Tuesday with an enrollment of 13 pupils. Miss Evelyn Greenwood is teaching there this year.

—1930—

Congressman Tom Robinson of Hampton was an easy winner in last week's election, drawing 26,708 votes to Beecher's 15,817. In Wright county Robinson had a large majority, 2,706 to 598.

—1930—

One of the largest closing out sales to be held in this vicinity in some time will be that of W. D. Schleiffarth, which will be held on two days, Thursday and Friday of next week.

—1930—

It is reported that Ellis Burke in his anxiety to get his limit of pheasants Wednesday lost about two inches off his gun barrel. Finder please return and receive reward.

—1930—

The Ed Morton family was quarantined for scarlet fever a week ago Tuesday when Mr. Morton came down with the disease. This was the first case of scarlet fever reported here this year.

FORTY YEARS AGO—

The steel tower for the new electric siren fire alarm which is being given to Belmond by Emil Bock has been erected the past two days and the new alarm shortly will be in working order.

—1920—

The ladies of Wright county who voted in the election this week will now take their chances with the men on serving on the juries which settle the legal difference of Wright county litigants.

—1920—

Clarion High school has a winning football team this year, not having lost a game to date.

—1920—

The annual migration to California ports will no doubt soon start in Belmond. Local persons who plan to spend the coming winter in the sunshine state are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Church, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Klemme and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cameron and daughter and Mrs J. B. Robbins.

—1920—

The rains the first of the week and last Saturday very materially interferred with corn-picking in this vicinity, and with shredding as well. Ward Martin, with 1,500 bushels in the crib, is about as far ahead as most farmers in picking corn.

—1920—

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jensen moved last week from Buffalo Center to Belmond. He is the new attorney.

FIFTY YEARS AGO—

Magdalene Liscum is assisting Mrs. Henry Eastman of the Luni neighborhood with her housework this week.

—1910—

The west elevator of the Farmers' Elevator Co. near the I. C. depot caught fire at about 10:30 this morning and was entirely burned down. The fire company was promptly on the scene, but due to lack of water nothing could be done to save the building.

—1910—

D. L. Cuppett has rented the Sorenson basement and has installed a cement tile machine. He is making a fine lot of tile for his farm.

—1910—

Know your businessmen—

Ready-Mix volume here has grown steadily

Lewis Formanek, manager of the Belmond Ready-Mix plant, happily reports that this year will see another rise in the volume of business — a state of affairs that has prevailed every year since Lew has been responsible for the plant's operation.

He doesn't claim to be responsible for this circumstance; but there can be little doubt that he has had a definite hand in it. Lew points out that there has been a great amount of construction in the Belmond vicinity in the past half dozen years. But it might be additionally pointed out to Lew's credit that someone had to sell those doing the building — (1) on using ready-mix concrete; and (2) buying it from Belmond Ready-Mix.

Ronald Yohn of Garner is owner of the establishment here, the parent plant at Garner, and a third plant at Forest City. He's very happy about the Belmond location; for while there's been a definite drop-off of business at Garner and Forest City this year compared to last, Belmond volume has shown another satisfying gain.

It was the building of General Mills' Larro feed mill here in 1954 that prompted the location of a production plant here by Garner Ready-Mix. Mr. Formanek, who'd farmed with his father near Garner before seeing two years of Army service during the Korean unpleasantness, joined the local staff in April of 1955. About a month later he was promoted to manager — which suggests that he caught onto the business in pretty rapid fashion.

When Lew first took charge of the operation here, the plant had only one 2.75 cu. yd truck-mounted mixer for deliveries. That fall, another of the same size was added. Meanwhile, sales have increased to the point that a six cu. yd. mixer and another of 4.25 cu. yd. are required to keep up with deliveries. It is likely that the smaller mixer will be replaced with another six-yarder next season.

Along with truck weight and a full load, a six-yard mixer tips the beam at 22 tons — which is the maximum weight allowed on Iowa's highways.

Ready-Mix's batcher, adjacent to the M. & St. L. tracks, is comprised of four bins: one for sand, one for cement, and two for differing sizes of gravel. An elevator raises the various materials to the top of chutes that gravity-feed them into the weigh hopper. From this hopper they go into one of the mixers for delivery to the job.

A cement silo on the plant grounds holds a carload of cement, the equivalent of about 3,000 bags. Sand and gravel — the latter in two sizes, three-quarter inch and 1½ inch — are provided by Oscar Nelson's gravel pit, just across the road from Ready-Mix.

Ready-mix cement from the Belmond plant is delivered over a radius of 20 miles around Belmond, with occasional deliveries being farther away than that. It is essential, Lew says, that a load be dumped within two hours of the time it goes into the mixer.

Several factors have contributed to the steady expansion of the local plant's business, its manager believes. For one thing, the mixers are kept as nearly spotless as possible to serve as a constant advertisement of the care and efficiency that go into making the product that those trucks deliver. About a half hour each morning is devoted to wiping off the mixer-trucks to get them looking clean and spraying them with a fluid that prevents concrete from clinging to them. All equipment is kept in A-1 mechanical condition, also.

Belmond Ready-Mix also endeavors to give its customers the best delivery service possible, timing deliveries closely to the hour wanted. The fullest cooperation is given the customer at the delivery site, also, to make his job of laying the concrete as simple and quick as circumstances permit.

Mr. Formanek says that more and more cold weather construction is being done in this area, which helps to spread Ready-Mix's business over most of the year.

Only the Garner plant is winterized for year-around deliveries, so all winter production is at that one plant. In January it will be delivering on the Belmond school job the concrete needed for the floor slabs in the new high school. Flooring in the community center part of the project won't be laid until next summer. This one job — about 2,000 cubic yard deal — a very nice plum for Belmond Ready-Mix.

Lew gives part credit to his two assistants for the success the ready-mix business has been enjoying. He says Richard Showalter, who drives the second mixer (Lew drives one, himself) has been a very valuable employee. The other member of the staff is a newcomer, hired only a few months ago. It's his job to keep the bins full and to tend the plant and office in the manager's absence.

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Main Street isn't going to seem quite the same without Rev. William Hill spreading his friendly greetings around. An energetic "youngster" of 72 when he came to Belmond two years ago, the kindly pastor probably made more friends in the intervening period of time than any other person who has called Belmond "home."

He took great delight in mixing with Main Street's coffee drinkers, calling these klatches the "Saints and the Sinner" — always quickly explaining that the latter sobriquet was assumed by himself.

Community activities of every type caught his interest — whether a drive for some charitable purpose, a worthy project of one nature or another, or a high school athletic contest. He was a real sports enthusiast and never missed a home contest while his health allowed his presence. Mr. Hill will be sincerely missed.

Louise Johnson, The Independent's bookkeeper, society editor and chief factotum, on Tuesday of this week rounded out 12 years in the employ of the Belmond Publishing company. Since she's stood us this long, it is the Mainstreeters' devout hope that she'll make the NEXT dozen years as pleasant for us as she has the last. It has well equipped her crown with jewels, working around the newspaper gang!

Some rather strange hi-jinks have been going on in Mixed League bowling the past couple of weeks that will be of interest to local keglers (you who don't bowl may look out the window for a moment). A couple of Saturdays ago, "Swede" Smith produced an exceedingly rare phenomenon, which made him stare in disbelief and then turn for sympathy with a look on his face of a man just stabbed between the shoulder blades by his best friend.

Attempting to convert a "baby split" consisting of the No. 3 and No. 10 pin, "Swede" succeeding in rolling his ball BETWEEN the two pins without so much as wobbling either one of them! A master mathematician perhaps could prove the stunt impossible — but "Swede" did it!

This past Saturday, Don Nielsen contributed an oddity in the way of a game that included eight strikes — but failed to hit a 200 total! A "turkey" in the 10th frame (three strikes in a row) gave him only a 197 for the line. However, Don had a 211 opening game and wound up with a 206 so he had a 614 series — the first "600" of his bowling career. This was better than he did at the season's start when he strung 10 straight strikes for an opening 287 game.

While making a semi-sports column out of this portion of Main Street, we might mention that only three football teams out of 44 in the wide north Iowa area covered by the Mason City Globe-Gazette had better marks for the 1960 season than Belmond's own Broncos. In addition to Britt, Swea City and Webster City were 8-0 for the campaign just ended.

With Belmond at 7-1 were Cedar Falls and St. Ansgar. All of the other 38 teams had poorer records than the Broncos. Since Belmond wasn't particularly expected to be a "power" when the season started, credit Coaches Rich Koolbeck and Jack Steinberg with a mighty fine job.

It's been suggested that a bit of credit might be given those ever-loyal cheerleaders for seeing that the Broncos got good, loud support both at home and on the road in all their games this past season. These gals do a fine job and get little enough notice for their efforts. And Maurice Fahrney's band performed very capably at home when weather permitted.

Ye Ed's brains were making too many rpm's when he wrote the speed of those juke box records in the editorial page article on "Gov" Howell's music machine business. Those platters are 45 rpm — not 48. (We never heard of 48's before either.)

If any of you deer hunters want to know how best to avoid being mistaken for a deer during the three-day open season Dec. 17-19, the state conservation commission offers you a bit of advice.

Army experts have discovered that fluorescent "blaze orange" is the most positively distinguished through brush as NOT being a white-tailed deer.

Other recommended colors in order of their acceptability are: neon red, fire orange, arc yellow, "old glory" red, bright yellow — the last two being the standard colors. . . . We'll just stay home!

$30 more goes to Mary Gordon

Mary Gordon retained her KQTV "Money Bowl" handicap bowling championship last Sunday, but confesses she "stumbled in" to win her second, consecutive $30 prize check.

She engaged in a give-away tussle with Mamie Paulson of Sac City, during which both bowlers performed well under par. Mrs. Gordon had only 63 pins through the [illegible] frame, but then struck in the 9th and 10th to wind up with [illegible] total.

Her opponent was having even more troubles. She had a scratch [illegible] of only 120, to which she was entitled to add a 16-pin handicap—which proved insufficient.

This Sunday, Duan Thompson will make his second defense of his [illegible] championship on the "Money Bowl" telecast, scheduled for [illegible]. Ed Albers advanced to [illegible] morning qualifying test at Fort Dodge by rolling a fine 673 last Sunday.

Bake sale will help buy generator for Dr. McGowan's mission hospital

Proceeds from the bake sale being conducted Saturday at 1:00 p. m. at the P&G Grocery by the Congregational Women's Fellowship will go into a fund intended to lessen a dilemma regularly faced by Dr. Robert McGowan, medical missionary to Angola in central Africa.

Dr. McGowan, who is a nephew of Dr. S. P. Leinbach, has informed his friends here that the generator serving his station hospital has such a limited capacity that if the x-ray machine is to be used, all lights and electrical appliances in the hospital must be turned off.

Otherwise, there is not enough power to make the x-ray machine perform. Similarly, if the bright lights in the operating room are needed for surgery, all of the hospital's other lights have to be off.

To reduce the problems stemming from this power shortage, Dr. McGowan is desirous of obtaining a John Deere all-purpose power unit, manufactured at Waverly. Cost of the basic unit is $965. In addition, the missionary would apreciate having a welder as an accessory, as it would be very useful at the missionary station. Its costs is $118.50.

The Women's Fellowship has been accumulating a fund for Dr. McGowan's benefit, to which the bake sale's proceeds will be added. If any women not of the Congregational church would like to donate baked items to the sale's worthy purpose, such contributions will be gratefully accepted.

Mrs. Dale Kessler, president of the Fellowship, adds that the organization will also receive cash donations toward the McGowan project from any of the doctor's many local friends and acquaintances who might like to have a part in outfitting his hospital with the needed generating unit.

Spillman, Gobeli given sentences

Ten-year terms have been given both Larry Dean Spillman of Clear Lake and James Lee Gobeli of Alexander, his half-brother, for auto theft that occurred during a criminal spree in which the two young men indulged in mid-September. Both pleaded guilty in district court at Mason City before Judge Tom Boynton.

Spillman, 20, was sentenced last Thursday to serve his term at Fort Madison state penitentiary and Gobeli was sentenced to serve his time at the state reformatory for men at Anamosa.

Theft on Sept. 16 of a car owned by Art Grattidge of Clear Lake was the count to which Spillman pleaded guilty and Gobeli confessed to having been an accomplice in that crime.

Spillman also admitted armed robbery of the Cozy Corner grocery store at Dows and numerous other break-ins and thefts in this area and admitted having served an 18-month prison term in California.

Franklin county authorities plan to try Spillman as soon as possible on a charge of armed robbery.

Road work late; firm penalized

Penalties amounting to $2,000 were assessed last week against Morgan Construction company of Fort Dodge by the Wright county supervisors for failure to complete two road-surfacing jobs by the contracted deadline.

On Project T-197 (10), on County K north of Clarion, the contractor was charged for 14 days at $50 per day or $700. The penalty was for 26 days on Project T11219 (10), the road north of Woolstock, coming to 1,300.

An allowance of six days was granted the Fort Dodge firm on delinquent completion of the County K job, due to bad weather that held up work last spring.

GUILD BAKE SALE SATURDAY

Ladies Mission Guild of Immanuel Reformed church is holding a bake sale Saturday morning at Hattel's Super Valu. Selling will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

Hallelulah! $75 "went"

Cash Gift Day prizes totalling $75 were finally pried loose Tuesday afternoon from the $500 bundle that has been offered in awards for the past several weeks. The CGD committee was delighted by this turn of events — and its members hope that the lucky winners scurried right out to get an early start on their Christmas shopping. Those who received $25 prizes at 2:00 o'clock were Mrs. Will Boelman and Mrs. Marvin Suntken of Belmond and Mrs. Elmer Hopkey of Alexander. Now that the pile has been loosened up, the CGD sponsors hope that some more greenbacks will be peeled off next Tuesday. They are keeping the award total at $500, to permit posting of 10 $25 prize numbers at 2:00 p. m. and five $50's at 3:00 o'clock.

ONE OF THE TEN Homecoming Queen finalists selected at St. Ambrose college, Davenport, was Donna Nolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Nolan. Her Highness was elected from the group last week to reign during the Homecoming weekend, last Friday through Sunday. Donna is a junior at Marycrest college, Davenport.

E. G. initial foe of Bronc cagers

Coach Jack Steinberg's Bronco basketeers will open their regular season's campaign here next Tuesday night with Eagle Grove as their opponent. In the Belmond opener between the same opponents last year, the Broncos emerged as 50-48 winners in overtime.

Eagle Grove has a new coach — and six returning lettermen. However, the Eagle veterans are mainly reserves from the 1959-60 team, so the visitors are not expected to hold a very appreciable edge in experience.

Vernon Pastour, suffering from an ankle sprain suffered while playing football and later aggravated by a stumble on the school stairs, may possibly see little or no action Tuesday. He was slated as a starting guard.

If the speedy junior is not available, Coach Steinberg will pair Bob Finn with Jerry Jenison in the back court and put Bob Burk at a forward post opposite Dennis Anderson. Robbie Courson will be the starting center.

Kenneth Whitten, 50, who farms northwest of Rowan, lost all the fingers on his left hand Thursday afternoon when his hand was caught in his corn picker as he endeavored to clear the snapping rollers of an obstruction.

He left the dismembered fingers in the rollers by jerking his hand free to save himself from still more serious injury and then drove the tractor to his farm home. He had been working in the field by himself. He was rushed to Belmond Community hospital, where he is making a satisfactory recovery.

Because a considerable amount of flesh was also lost from the hand when Mr. Whitten pulled it free, necessary skin grafting will extend his period of hospitalization.

Thirty-one friends and neighbors of the injured man assembled at the Whitten farm Saturday morning with six pickers and completed the job of harvesting Kenneth's corn. He had about 45 out of 80 acres picked when the accident occured.

Women of the neighborhood served lunch to the workers, who had the job completed by noon.

Application deadline Dec. 6th—

Announce exam for postmastership

An examination for Belmond postmaster, a position paying $6,255 a year, will be open for acceptance of applications until Dec. 6, the U. S. Civil Service Commission announced this week.

Competitors for the postmaster vacancy in this city must have at least two years of experience showing that they have the ability to conduct and manage the community's postal business efficiently and to supervise employees so that customers are satisfied with the service.

Competitors must show that they can deal with the public agreeably and effectively and that they are reliable citizens who would command the respect and confidence of patrons of the post office.

Written exam required

Applicants must take a written test. Those who pass will be assigned final ratings on the basis of this test and on their experience, and fitness for the position. They must have resided within the delivery of the office for one year immediately preceding the closing date of the examination. In addition, they must have reached their 18th birthday on the closing date for acceptance of applications. Persons over 70 years of age cannot be appointed.

P. O. has information

Complete information about the examination requirements and instructions for filing applications may be obtained at the local post office. Application forms must be filed with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., and must be received or postmarked not later than the Dec. 6 closing date.

T. A. Townsan is acting postmaster at present, having succeeded George Jenison on Sept. 22, when the latter resigned to become a rural carrier out of the post office here.

Tax List printed in today's issue

Attention is called to the delinquent lists of real estate and personal property taxes that appear in this issue of The Independent. Publication of over-due real estate taxes has been a long-established practice in Iowa, but listing of personal taxes was only recently added.

Next week, the list will be re-run with names of property-owners who have since cleared the delinquencies deleted.

Deadline for paying these over-due taxes without penalty is Dec. 4. On Monday, Dec. 5, a five per cent penalty goes into effect on personal taxes and an additional four per cent penalty is added onto the amounts due on real estate taxes.

County Treasurer Harold Sullivan says that the list of real property delinquents is a bit shorter this year than last, but that the over-due personal taxes are somewhat more numerous than a year ago.

On Dec. 5, all real estate on the delinquent list will be offered for public sale. Anyone may buy any of the properties listed. Those on the scavenger list, however, must be purchased by the county if there are no other bidders.

STOLTENBERG ON CARRIER

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a bake sale Saturday morning at the P&G Grocery. Selling will begin at 9:00 o'clock.

MR. AND MRS. BENJAMIN H. FETROW

Ben Fetrows planning to celebrate their 50th anniversary on Nov. 23

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Fetrow next Wednesday, Nov. 23, will observe their Golden Wedding anniversary. Because of Mrs. Fetrow's failing health there will be no open house; but a family reunion is planned, and all of the Fetrows' five children will be present.

Nina Reese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reese, and Benjamin H. Fetrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fetrow, were wed Nov. 23, 1910, at the Reese home by Rev. John Kettle. Mrs. Fetrow's mother having previously died, the newlyweds took up housekeeping in the Reese family residence and it has been their home throughout their 50 years of married life.

The five children who were born to them are: Robert of Compton, Calif., George of Omaha, Neb., Herbert of Buffalo Center, Mrs. Ernest (Adele) Johnson of Belmond and Mrs. Paul (Jean) McNulty of Des Moines.

Ben was in the grocery business here for a number of years and operated the F&F Food Market in partnership with his brother Albert. Later he worked in the clothing store of Thompsen and Keleher. He is now retired.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fetrow are long-time members of the Sands Memorial Congregational church. They also have for many years been members of the Masonic lodge and Order of Eastern Star, respectively, Mr. Fetrow having served the former as Worshipful Master and Mrs. Fetrow the latter as Worthy Matron.

Mrs. Fetrow has also been a member of the Progress and Kensington clubs.

In addition to their five children, the Fetrows take pride in having 11 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

3rd Pals-Gabrielson grocery—

New P&G at Kanawha opens today

P&G Kanawha, a new super market owned by Phyllis Pals and Ed Gabrielson is opening its doors for the first time today. It will occupy the two business locations that formerly housed the Kanawha Reporter and the City Meat Market.

It will be the third grocery under the ownership of Mrs. Pals and Mr. Gabrielson. In addition to the parent store, the local P&G, the partners have owned and operated the Ideal Grocery here for about the past four years.

Manager of the P&G Kanawha will be Arlen Pals, who lately has been employed by Tomco, Inc., but has had a number of years' experience in the grocery business. He and his family plant to move to Kanawha on Dec. 1.

Virgil Gordon, formerly of Clarion, will be in charge of the meat department. The new store will have a truck to pick up animals for processing from the homes of farm customers. Only butchering, cutting and freezing of meat will be done; there will be no locker service.

Mr. Gordon says that in addition to the processing service to rural customers, his department will offer for sale the highest quality meat obtainable.

Correlated with the preparation of the Kanawha store for its grand opening has been the complete re-equipping of the local P&G with new shelving and display cases. All of the replaced shelving and cases have been installed in the new store.

The P&G here now has a new four-deck produce case, 44-foot case for frozen foods and ice cream, a four-deck case for dairy foods and another of similar size for meat service, exclusive of the entirely new shelving throughout the store. In addition, the interior has been completely redecorated.

The change-over has provided P&G Kanawha with a 28-foot produce case, 48-foot frozen food-ice cream case, 20-foot dairy display, and eight-foot service counter for the meat department adjoined by a 12-foot self-service case for cold meats and bacon.

Partitioning between the two buildings comprising the new P&G Kanawha was torn out to provide a selling area 46 feet wide and 75 feet long. Entire depth of the combined buildings, as remodeled for their new use, is 110 feet.

MRS. ALDERSON DIES

Mrs. Myron Alderson of Algona, former Belmond resident, died Sunday morning at St. Ann hospital, Algona. She had been in failing health for some time. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at McCullough Funeral Home at Algona, followed by burial at Fenton. The Alderson family left Belmond four years ago last spring. While here they conducted the cafe now known as the Town House.

HELLO WORLD

Bradd Joel is the name of the 7 lb. 5½ oz. son born Nov. 12 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Provorse of Kanawha.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiemann of Thornton are parents of an 8 lb. 2½ oz. baby girl born Nov. 14.

An 8 lb. 1¼ oz. daughter was born Nov. 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Hanson of Goodell.

Grade work done before surfacing Alexander road

Some preliminary grading work has been done the past two weeks on the Alexander road, three miles south of town, in preparation for the black-topping of that road next year.

Dows Construction company has been doing the dirt work and Merle Hilpipre of Clarion the tiling that has accompanied reconstruction of several sections of the road. Total cost of the current project will run about $4,000.

Haydn Jones of the county engineer's staff says that the approach to Highway 69 has been regraded to diminish the arc of the curves leading south and, particularly, to the north in order to reduce the safety hazard to cars driving off the gravel road onto the highway.

In addition to this work on the approach, digging has been done to the end of eliminating several frost boils that have created an unstable road surface above them. These spots are being tiled so the excess moisture will drain away.

The work was set ahead to this fall so the success of the effort to eliminate the frost boils can be ascertained next spring before the blacktopping project is launched.

WILL MARK ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Thompson will observe their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Nov. 27, by holding open house at their farm home from 2:00 to 5:00 and from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Christmas seals mailed out today

Christmas seals that are the medium of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association's annual fund-raising campaign will go into the mail locally today.

Mrs. Merle Bonte, chairman of the project, says that the Culture Study club is once again sponsor of the Belmond Christmas seal drive.

"Belmond has, from year to year, given this humanitarian project generous suport without fail," Mrs. Bonte noted.

"We who are conducting the campaign here are confident that the same generosity will be shown this year. We only urge," she added, "that you place the money for purchase of your seals in the return envelope promptly while the intention to do so is fresh in your mind."

Ballot count speeded greatly—

Voting machines liked in Hancock

After having cast their ballots by voting machine last week for the first time in a general election, you will find very few Hancock countians otherwise than highly pleased with this method of voting, Auditor Arthur A. Ross told The Independent this week.

The Independent has for several years been urging the introduction of machine voting in Wright county. After the experience of their next-door-neighbor to the north, this newspaper suspects that the Wright board of supervisors may be more inclined than before to give serious thought to adopting voting machines for future elections.

Aspects of the new voting method that particularly appeal to the citizens who used them in Hancock county include, according to Auditor Ross: (1) the simplicity of machine voting; (2) the reduced expense; (3) the promptitude with which election results are known.

Although some voters — particularly those of more advanced years — experienced some misgivings that voting by machine might prove confusing, they found this by no means the case. Ample opportunity was given all voters to learn the machine method well in advance of the election, with the result that few persons entered the voting booth lacking confidence in how to cast their ballots.

Cost of the election, while not fully ascertained yet, will run a good deal less than that of previous general elections. For one thing, the number of persons serving on the election boards was reduced from 175 to only 60. Auditor Ross expresses the opinion that the cost of the machines will — by means of savings — be fully defrayed within 10 election years.

Franklin county still has in use voting machines first bought there in 1908 and finds them as serviceable as when first purchased. These machines have been remarkably exempt from mechanical difficulties and long-lived. Auditor Ross confidently expects Hancock county's present machines to be in use a number of decades from now.

Whereas former years found the Hancock county auditor's office adding votes until 2:00 a. m. following election day, all totals had been figured last week by 10:35 o'clock on election night. The first precinct had reported its count in full by 8:35 p. m. Tuesday — about two hours before the first precinct report was received in Wright county.

Mr. Ross says the Hancock countians "scratched" ballots freely in the '60 election, showing no more — if as much — reluctance as in prior years to jump columns for fear of spoiling their ballots. In spite of the extensive amount of "scratching," a very large number cranked the straight-ticket handle before doing their jumping, with a result that vote totals ran high for candidates who would have been listed toward the bottom of the conventional ballot.

Voting on the special constitutional convention issue ran heavier in Wright than in Hancock. Compared to 9,495 presidential votes, 8,871 in Wright cast their ballots on the special proposition. In comparison, only 4,674 voted in Hancock on the constitutional convention as to 6,936 voting for a presidential candidate.

Auditor Ross offered the opinion, though, that it was simply the indifference of a great many Hancock countians toward the special issue that prompted them to cast no vote on the matter. He did not regard that uncertainty as to how to vote on the proposition produced the relatively small total vote.

Mr. Ross said that only three machine service calls came to his office on election day, and these were prompted by human uncertainties rather than any mechanical failures of the machines themselves.

He confessed, "It's about three times as much work for the auditor to set up the machines in preparation for the election than it was to simply erect voting booths; but that hasn't reduced my personal enthusiasm for the machines one iota."

Myron Price, Wright county auditor, has been rather indifferent toward the prospect of introducing voting machines in Wright county. His attitude veered abruptly in the opposite direction on Tuesday of last week, though, as a steady series of phone calls kept him hopping through much of the day.

On Tuesday morning, as he concluded answering the fifth question from an election official in about as many minutes, "Mike" looked toward The Independent's editor and with a grimace declared, "You have just made a convert. I'm more than ready to see Wright county go over to voting machines!"

DO-IT-YOURSELF instruction on operation of the voting machine is being given below by Anson Avery, election board member, to Mrs. Carl Green, who was a checker a week ago Tuesday at the Goodell poll.

410 visit school classes; 3rd graders win contest

Pupils in the 1st grade class of Mrs. Paul Buck won the visitation contest sponsored last week in the local elementary grades as a feature of American Education week. Their class was visited by 30 persons representing 22 of the 27 children in the class for an 81 per cent response.

Second place was earned by the 3rd grade class of Shirley Pals, 23 of whose 30 pupils were represented by 24 visitors, for a 76.6 per cent response. Each of the two winning classrooms was to receive as a prize a $4.00 book purchased by the Belmond Woman's club.

Mrs. Pals' class barely nosed out that of Mrs. Nettie Watermiller. The visitors in that room represented 25 of the 33 students, figuring 75.8 per cent.

Altogether, 410 visitors were attracted to the elementary grade and kindergarten classes by the contest. They represented 344 of the 577 children enrolled in kindergarten through 6th grade in the Belmond schools.

Response in the other classes was as follows: Barbara Landcaster's 2nd grade, 24 visitors representing 17 out of 25 pupils for 68 per cent; Gena Bratrud's 4th grade, 25 representing 18 out of 27 for 66 per cent; morning kindergarten class, 40 representing 31 out of 49 for 63 per cent; Marlene Anderson's 2nd grade, 15 representing 15 out of 25, and Gladys Kline's 3rd grade, 22 representing 18 out of 30 for 60 per cent each.

Karen Lee's 3rd grade, 23 representing 16 out of 27 for 59 per cent; Ardis Flanagan's 6th grade, 18 representing 17 out of 29 for 58 per cent; Beverly Thoreson's 1st grade, 15 representing 15 out of 26 for 57 per cent; Mary Johnson's 4th grade, 17 representing 15 out of 26 for 57 per cent.

Janice Sorenson's 6th grade, 23 representing 17 out of 30 for 56 per cent; Nannette Hildebrand's 1st grade and Viva Parker's 4th grade, each 16 representing 15 out of 28 for 53 per cent; afternoon kindergarten, 29 representing 26 out of 50 for 52 per cent; Beryl Tjaden's 2nd grade, 15 representing 12 out of 23 for 52 per cent.

Helen McCoun's 5th grade, 20 representing 14 out of 34 for 44 per cent; and Arba Selgelid's 6th grade, 12 representing 12 out of 30 for 40 per cent.

Served church here two years—

Rev. Wm. Hill dies at age of 74

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Congregational church for Rev. William H. Hill, 74, who had been pastor of that church since the first Sunday in December of 1958. He had been in poor health for some months, but his condition had not been regarded as especially critical when he entered Belmond Community hospital on Oct. 30. On Thursday afternoon of last week his condition took a serious turn for the worse and he died late Friday afternoon.

Dr. Judson E. Fiebiger of Grinnel, superintendent of the Iowa Conference of Congregational Christian Churches officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Preston Hindircks of Iowa Falls, Rev. Julius Brandt and Rev. M. L. Jones. Johnston Funeral Home was in charge and interment was to be in the cemetery at Rutherfordton, N. C., a former home of Mr. and Mrs. Hill.

Pallbearers were Ellis Elliott, Luin Cox, Lowell Trafford, R. B. Thompson, Steven Hinman and Dwight Tyrrell. Organist for the services was Mrs. Selma Griesy.

William H. Hill was born in London, England, on April 27, 1886, and he received his early education in that country. He later continued his education in Canada, where he emigrated as a young man, and finally in the United States. He was ordained in the ministry at Gaylord, Minn., in 1913.

REV. WILLIAM H. HILL

At the time of World War I, he returned to Canada and served overseas in the Canadian Army. Following his discharge from military duty, he was wed to J. Ella Barber at Regina, Saskatchewan, and then undertook advanced study in his chosen profession at the Chicago Theological seminary. Mr. and Mrs. Hill observed their 40th wedding anniversary on Jan. 28 of this year.

His death concluded a ministerial career that extended over 47 years. Among those he served as pastor were churches at Lemburg, Sasketchewan, Canada; Pecatonica, Mazon, Oak Park and Dundee in Illinois; and Dubuque, Gilbert and Winthrop in Iowa, in addition to Belmond.

Surviving in addition to his wife are two daughters, Mrs. Lionel (Lorna) Putnam of Rutherfordton, N. C., and Mrs. Gerald (Doris Jean) Wallace of Dubuque; also seven grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Mell Smith in England and Mrs. Claude Tuttle, living in Montreal, Canada.

In addition to his parents, Mr. Hill was preceded in death by one brother, Harry.

1960-61 NIC cage outlook—

Vikings, Cards, Bison head title prospects

SPORTS

Lack of height seems to be the prevailing complaint among North Iowa conference cage coaches as they prepare their charges for the 1960-61 basketball season. That, perhaps, is a tip-off as to why Northwood may be regarded as "the team to beat" when the loop campaign gets underway on Dec 2.

After winning back-to-back championships in 1958 and '59, Maynard Midtgard's Vikings slipped to a bottom place 2-12 mark in the conference last season. But the Northwood freshman-sophomore team tied with Garner at 11 13 for froshmore honors, indicating the availability of some promising junior recruits.

Northwood will be one of the few teams in the league this season with a starting line-up that generously exceeds 6-feet in average. Four boys who apparently have cinched starting positions are: John Lee and John Roberts, seniors, who are 6-3 and 6-1; Phil Johnson and Mike Lein, juniors, who measure 6-3 and 6-even. Battling it out for the other first-string spot are Albert Adams, a senior and Larry Holstad another junior.

Garner, third place last year with an 8-6 record and Buffalo Center, tied with Lake Mills for fifth at 6-8, both appear likely to be appreciably stronger.

Coach Duane Garman has no less than eight returning lettermen at Garner, plus some reserves and a helping of junior talent from that strong froshmore crew. Cardinal lettermen are Don Cataldo, Keith Christensen, Dick Rockwood, Wally Elling, Roger Hayungs, Bob Brade, Tom Kemp and Don Kester. Other candidates are Allen Stroh, Paul Nedved, Daryl Rockow, Chuck Edelen and Mark Boehnke, the latter being the outstanding graduate from last season's froshmore ranks.

The Cardinals will have at least good average height, plus the heft to be assertive under the boards. They won't, however, have altitude to match Buffalo Center's. The Bison should be nearly on a par with Northwood in this department, headed by 6-8 Dave Friesenborg. Glenn Tjaden is 6-1½ and Dennis Bosma 6-4. Bob Hassenbrock is "tall enough" and the fifth letterman, John Oftedahl, compensates for relatively short stature with better than average speed.

Coach Chuck Schuman has another promising prospect in Lonnie Gray, a transfer student, while Kendall Drake, Arlyn Olson and Steve Calhoun all saw varsity action a year ago.

Belmond's Rich Koolbeck expects to have an unusually fast team — but the only prospective regular who measures six feet is 6-1 Robbie Courson. He has a pair of watch charm guards in Jerry Jenison and Vernon Pastour, leading froshmore scorer last season. Bob Finn and Dennis Anderson at forwards are 5-9 and 5-10 and the probable No. 1 reserve, Bob Burk, another junior, is about a six footer.

With this as the nucleus of his aggregation Coach Koolbeck sees little likelihood of the Broncos very closely approaching the 12-2 mark that gave them the 1960 championship. Coach Ray Patterson's Osage Green Devils, who were runners-up at 11-3 last season, also are expected to be less strong this year. Patterson has only three lettermen back: John Van Voorhis, 6-0; Dave Low, 6-1; and Dale Hemingsen, 5-10.

With an eye to the future Patterson is considering two sophomores as varsity starters. They are Jim Treseman, 6-1 center; and Mike Hoeven, a guard. From last season's reserves only Charles Bowman and Jerry Pager are back. Most promising of the Imps' junior candidates are Lawrence Norby, John Christianson and Gary Lack.

Coach Fred Jaspers of Britt is another who has a height problem. Jerry Schrader, 6-1, will possibly be the only six-foot starter. Bob Nielsen and Ray Walsh are a pair of shorties, but fast. Nielsen and Lee Vaughn, another letter veteran, will both be handicapped for several weeks by leg injuries sustained in football.

Britt has only three other seniors on its 17-man squad, Jim Jacobson, who is 6-2, John Lang and Bill Storck. Jaspers will get some help from several promising juniors who helped the Britt Eaglets finish third in last season's froshmore standings with an 8-5 record.

Dick Peterson at Lake Mills is also singing the low-altitude blues but has a clutch of recruits from last season's Joice squad via school reorganization who may bolster the Bulldogs' chances. Gary Hagen, 5-9, is the only regular back from Lake Mills' 6-won, 8-lost aggregation of a year ago. Other returnees who lettered in reserve roles are Ron Olson, a senior, "Butch" Pederson and Al Holstad, juniors.

Arlen Stensrud, ex-Joice cager, at 6-1 will be Peterson's tallest man. With him came Dennis Brunsvold, a senior guard; John Elwood, senior forward, Rick Hrubetz, John Bang, Roger Dahlby and Russ Lura. Among the likely prospects from last season's froshmore team are Paul Charlson, Lynn Haugo, Rick Holt, Mike Skogerboe and Carroll Kaduce.

Peterson is resigned that his boys will have to out-run 'em and out-shoot 'em in the traditional Lake Mills manner to stay with their conference opposition.

Coach Dick Tillou at Forest City is the worst off of all where experience is concerned. Only Jerry Stadt is back from the crew that split in loop play 7-7 last season. He foresees a faster club than last year's and one of average height. Among the top candidates for starting jobs along with Stadt are George Hanson, Allen Green, Jim Donohue, Bill Dunbar, Baird Hibbs and Dennis Severson.

All in all the NIC outlook shines the spotlight on Northwood and Garner as the probably top challengers for the 1961 cage crown, with Buffalo Center in the darkhorse category. But there should be some interesting jockeying for position on the other rungs of the loop ladder.

27 underclassmen out for basketball

A bumper crop of 27 candidates reported last week to coach Rich Koolbeck for freshman-sophomore basketball drills. Eight of the sophomore players saw varying amounts of action in Junior Bronco games last season.

They are Dennis Hauge, Tom Downs, Ray Roberts, Dennis Gallagher, John Kaduce, Marlo Luick, Dennis Fuller and Randy Brandmeyer.

Other sophomore prospects who reported this year are: Dave Lieberknecht, Dallas Hopkey, Roger Meyer, Tom Stevens, Mike Luick, Tom Lerdal, and John Van Gerpen.

Freshman who responded to the call for candidates were Doug Pals, Jerry Soma, Jim Pasquariello, Larry Ackerman, Royce Van Gerpen, Tim Courson, Bob Flanagan, Dennis McNulty, Doug Stoffer, Gary Moore and Daryl Suntken.

League jamboree at Forest City tomorrow night

North Iowa conference basketball teams will get their first taste of action tomorrow night at Forest City as the annual NIC cage jamboree lifts the lid on the 1960-61 season. Starting time will be 7:30 o'clock.

As usual, the teams will be devided into North and South squads, according to geographic location. Belmond and Buffalo Center are paired in the first clash. Each set of teams will tangle in two regulation quarters of play.

Other foes in the jamboree will be Garner vs. Osage; Britt vs. Lake Mills; and Forest City vs. Northwood.

Because coaches make a practice of giving new squad personnel a chance to operate under game conditions, the outcome of jamboree matches is often misleading. But the affair nevertheless provides rival mentors a chance to see what the other schools have in the way of material.

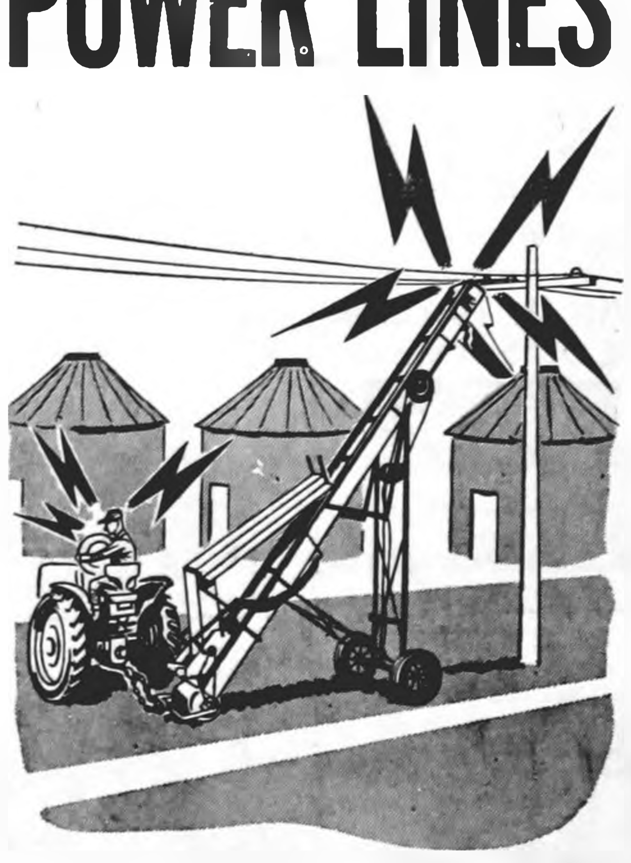
DANGER

KEEP AWAY FROM ALL POWER LINES



DON'T LET TOOLS OR EQUIPMENT come within 6 feet of power lines! This is a "must" for your own safety! Avoid such situations as: running your elevator near spots where you could tangle with high voltage lines . . . using a construction scaffold or tower near these lines . . . running your tree sprayer beneath lines . . . operating pile driving rig or crane too close to lines . . . moving house and catching top in high voltage lines.

Seldom does an accident occur which is not preventable and could have been avoided by the use of proper precautions. You cannot take "short cuts" safely when you are working close to high voltage lines.

Electricity . . . in fatal amounts . . . will flow through any metal or other conducting material that touches high-voltage lines. Sometimes it will even flow through wood.

The best way to prevent accidents is to follow precautions to the letter. Accidents are costly. They are preventable. They are unnecessary. Protect yourself and your property against them.

PEOPLE MAKE IOWA GREAT

. . . the corn grower

Iowa is certainly a state of champions. But, none has done more for our reputation and prosperity than the corn grower.

For years, Iowa has been the champion corn-producing area of the world. Today, we raise 17% of all the corn produced in this country . . . a steady and continuing source of new wealth flowing into our state.

In sustaining this steady income, one of the nation's top buyers of corn is the brewing industry. Last year the industry purchased over $250,000,000.00 worth of farm products for use in making beer. And, more corn was bought than any other grain, except barley.

For Iowa's corn growers, and for so many others of us, too, there's just no question . . .

This '61 is built on the principle that the place you want space is inside. We put it there, too. Actually trimmed the outer size to give you extra inches of clearance for parking and maneuvering, and still worked wonders with inner space. Door openings are as much as 6" wider. Seats as much as 14% higher. We've thought of everything. Increased rear foot room by slenderizing the driveshaft tunnel. Worked in sensible new ideas all the way back through that huge bin of a baggage compartment. See how thoughtful this one is? Full of good new things. Coad over Riehm by 9,597 votes

Congressman Merwin Coad end-up with a margin of 9,597 votes over Curtis Riehm of Garner in last week's general election, achieving a total of 70,437 to his opponent's 60,840

Riehm ran a slightly stronger race against the Boone minister than Robert Wagoner did in 1958. He carried six counties, whereas Wagoner captured only one of the 6th District's 15 counties in losing to Coad 49,391 to 41,177.

In addition, Riehm's percentage of the total Congressional vote came to 46.3 per cent, compared to 45.4 that was cast for Wagoner

Riehm's strength lay largely in his home county of Hancock and those near-by. Hancock gave him the biggest edge over his Democratic rival, 879 votes. Winnebago — the only county to favor Wagoner in '58 — gave Riehm a majority of 819.

Wright, Humboldt, Hamilton and Emmet were the other counties in the Republican candidate's column.

Following is the vote by counties in the Congressional contest

	Riehm	Coad
Boone	5,016	6,706
Calhoun	3,454	3,657
Carroll	3,567	7,217
Crawford	3,020	4,223
Emmet	3,421	2,990
Greene	3,117	3,242
Hamilton	4,381	4,285
Hancock	3,823	2,944
Humboldt	3,207	2,861
Kossuth	5,030	6,430
Palo Alto	2,826	3,954
Pocahontas	2,784	3,649
Webster	9,009	11,157

Rodecap selected delegate to 4-H dairy conference

John Rodecap, a member of the Lake Leaders 4-H club, will be one of eight Iowa 4-H'ers attending the 6th annual 4-H Dairy Conference in Chicago, Dec. 1-3. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rodecap, Clarion, was awarded the trip on the basis of his outstanding record and interest in dairying.

Funds to pay the expenses of the Iowa 4-H members have been provided by the Portland Cement association, Des Moines.

The 4-H Dairy Conference, with headquarters at the Conrad Hilton hotel, is held each year in conjunction with the International Dairy Show. Harlan Geiger, Extension 4-H leader, will accompany the Iowa delegation to Chicago.

Special meals, speakers, tours and visits to the International Dairy Show are scheduled for the 3-day event.

16 from Wright at annual parley of Farm Bureau

A contingent of 16 Farm Bureau leaders and employees from Wright county attended the annual meeting in Des Moines on Tuesday of this week.

The meeting was highlighted by attendance at the "biggest banquet in Iowa" held at the Veterans Memorial auditorium in Des Moines. Over 2,000 Farm Bureau members attended to hear noted speaker Dr. Kenneth McFarlin of Kansas.

Barbara and Priscilla Shortenhaus, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shortenhaus of Eagle Grove, represented Farm Bureau district 2 in the state finals of the Rural Amateur Talent Event. They had previously won the district contest at Garner.

Attending from Wright county were Gerhard Thompson, Leo and Mrs. Woodley, Olaf Watne, the Shortenhaus family, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Titus, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Olson, Mrs. Arliene Henry, R. G. Nolte, Robert Provorst and Roger Brown.

The group attended the all day session on Tuesday which began with a pancake and sausage breakfast served by the administrative board of the IFBF. They also attended the amateur talent finals, general sessions and afternoon conference.

Film Highlights
—from—
COMING ATTRACTIONS

Maybe you can't envision the King of Siam or King Solomon of the Israelites as a cowboy; but in "The Magnificent Seven" you'll find their portrayer — Yul Brynner — wielding a six-shooter like a veteran.

He confesses that mastering a gun wasn't nearly so difficult as learning to hand-roll a cigaret cowboy-style.

"The Magnificent Seven," playing Thursday throug Saturday, is an epic tale of seven professional gunmen hired by the citizens of a small Mexican village as protection against a marauding gang of outlaws.

Winner of Parents magazine's "Medal of Special Merit," Sunday through Wednesday's feature film is a Western in the tradition of "High Noon" and "Shane." Burt Lancaster and Audrey Hepburn (starring in her first outdoor spectacle) head the outstanding cast that was assembled for "The Unforgiven." This frontier drama was directed by John Huston, who has so many outstanding hits to his credit that his name on the list of film credits has become a virtual guarantee of first-class entertainment.

● Belmond Locals

Kevin McHale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McHale of Clarion, spent a few days last week visiting his grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Kaufman.

Gloria Rogalla of Sioux City spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rogalla, and sang at the Gabrielson-Loats wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Olson and family of Lake Mills visited Friday in the Russell Lonnevik home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Piper of Marshalltown spent Thursday and Friday in the Roy McClure home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Basener and Mrs. Zella Russell were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mrs. Millie Schulte in Clarion.

SOUTH AVERY SUNBEAMS

Regular meeting of the South Avery Sunbeams 4-H club was held at the home of Sonja Ahlstrom on Nov. 5. Doris Avery was program chairman.

Nancy Pals gave a talk on "Good Habits are Formed While We're Young." Barbara Ahlstrom and Elaine Lacey gave a demonstration on "Setting the Table Quickly and Easily."

Mrs. Lacey and Mrs. Koelher gave a talk "Better Breakfasts." The leaders checked and found that many of the members do not eat a good breakfast.

All members are to bring two dozen cookies, old jewelry and a 25c toy to the next meeting to send to the children at Woodward State hospital.

Names were drawn for the Christmas party next month. The December meeting will be held at the home of Janet Ruiter.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Award Night was at Corwith on Saturday evening, Nov. 5. All eight Sunbeam members were present.

Janet Ruiter received a pin for gardening. Barbara Ahlstrom received the club charter certificate.

Sonja Ahlstrom,

Two AIB honors go to Jon Green

Something new was introduced at the American Institute of Business at Des Moines when six students were acknowledged at a student assembly last week as the faculty choices for "Students Most Likely To Succeed." Selection was made on the basis of grades, personal attitude and attendance.

Chosen as one of the students was Jon Green, Goodell. Last week, Jon also was accepted for membership and initiated into Phi Theta Pi international commerce fraternity, at the Des Moines school.

Friday, Ila Mae Anderson's two roommates, Beverly Phillips and Marjorie Morr, arrived from Denver, Colo., and spent the weekend with with her and her parents. Sunday, the three girls left for Denver where they are employed.

Cards of Thanks

I'd like to thank the doctors, nurses and nurses' aides for the wonderful care they gave me while at the Belmond Community hospital. I also thank my friends and relatives for the lovely cards and letters. They were very much appreciated. Sidney Harris. 7t1*

In the shadow of sorrow that has fallen upon us we are grateful to our friends and neighbors for the food, memorials and sympathy in memory of our mother and sister, Jane Riekens Albright. We are thankful for the kind words. The children and Mrs. Ella Wessels, Mr. and Mrs. John Mienders, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mienders, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Riekens, Henry Riekens, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Faulhaber, Mr and Mrs. Ray Leebrick. 7t1*

We wish to take this opportunity to express our great appreciation and heartfelt thanks to relatives, friends and the people of our community for their prayers, kind deeds, words of encouragement, cards, flowers and gifts during my long stay at the hospital and Dale's accident and since we have returned home. A special "Thank-you" to Rev. Albertson for his visits, to those who filled our silos and helped with the meals for the men, and to the blood donors. Words cannot express our appreciation. May God bless each and everyone of you. Dale and Leona Brede 7t1*

My sincere thanks to all who remembered me while at Belmond hospital with cards, gifts, good wishes and prayers and to Dr. Leinbach, nurses and entire hospital staff for the wonderful care. Mrs. Otis Tendall. 7t1*

I wish to thank all those who remembered me with cards and visits while I was a patient at Belmond Community hospital. A special thanks to the blood donors, the doctors, nurses an dnurses' aides. Johanna Albers. 7t1

CLOTHING, CLOTH NEEDED BY GOODWILL INDUSTRIES

Any kind of clothing or cloth stand at the top of the list of materials needed by the Goodwill Industries to provide steady employment for Goodwill's handicapped workers, according to Mrs. Clyde Jennings, local representative.

Unwanted clothing, whether repairable or worn out, and just plain pieces of cloth will be welcomed when the Goodwill truck pays its next visit to Belmond on Dec. 8. Persons having articles or materials to give may phone Mrs. Jennings regarding pick-up.

LIONS CLUB SPONSORING DALE CARNEGIE COURSE

Belmond's Lions club is planning an evening meeting on Wednesday, Nov 30, at which an explanation will be presented regarding the Dale Carnegie course in effective speaking, leadership skills and human relations.

Since attendance at the the meeting will entail no obligation, President Lloyd Lerdal anticipates that a considerable number of people will want to hear the course described — and consequently urges that the date be kept clear of other public meetings insofar as possible.

Mrs. Myers, E.G., March of Dimes county chairman

Mrs Bryden Myers of Eagle Grove had been named director of the 1961 New March of Dimes for Wright county

The appointment was announced by Robert D. Ray, Iowa state chairman of The National Foundation Campaign dates are January 2-31

"The New March of Dimes already has made a substantial beginning in its expanded program of seeking to prevent birth defects and arthritis in addition to continuing to seek total control of paralytic polio" the new campaign director declared

"The people of Wright county, through their splendid support of the March of Dimes for more than 20 years, have contributed substantially to a great health program that resulted in the Salk vaccine.

"The 1961 New March of Dimes offers opportunity for all of us to be a part of work aimed at prevention of still more of the great cripplers that afflict so many millions of Americans today," she said.

Nations "school problem" is being met quite well

About 10 years ago a huge cry went up about the "school problem"—shortage of classrooms, low teacher pay and too few teachers, especially in science and mathematics.

With typical American urgency, American communities went to work. The results are amazing.

Ten years ago hardly one-fifth of students entering college would consider teaching. Today nearly one-third of all college graduates are choosing teaching careers.

From 1949 to 1959, school instructional staffs increased 51 per cent, compared with an increase in the entire civilian labor force of 12 per cent. The number of graduates qualified to teach mathematics and science doubled in the short span of five years from 1954 to 1959.

In constant dollars, the pay of public school teachers increased 45 per cent in the 10 years, while that of all employed persons went up only 29 per cent. Teacher salaries have more than doubled since 1946, averaging around $5,000 last year.

During the decade 567,000 classrooms were completed — 200,000 replacements and 367,000 additional ones. The U. S. Office of Education estimates 610,000 classrooms will be needed by 1969. In the last five years, we have built an average of 67,380 classrooms per year—a rate 10 per cent greater than will be required to meet estimated needs in coming years.

Over all, it's quite a record of accomplishment. The school situation seems to be changing from a "problem" to a point-with-pride proposition — despite the emphasis given by a number of candidates in the late election campaign on the "dire" need for an outpouring of federal aid in copious quantities.

There is no indication Osage is "too big" for NIC

It may be unknown to a majority of local sports followers, but some unfortunate dimension has broken out in the North Iowa conference ranks that should receive passing inspection. Garner — at least in the person of its newspaper editor, "Chubb" Elling — has been complaining about Osage's admission to the NIC ever since the 1959 football season. It is the contention of Elling that Osage is "too large" for the other conference schools and should be replaced (his suggestion has been "some school like Algona").

In the first place, we question if the Garner school officials share this attitude. We're quite certain it is not shared by the Belmond and Britt school administrators — or coaches — and don't believe that the other NIC schools are dissatisfied to the extent of wishing Osage "out" of the conference after so short a trial.

This matter of school size can very largely be compensated for by spirit and coaching, unless there is TOO large a discrepancy. But let's take a look at the actual facts.

There are two bases for measuring school "size" — actual enrollment and average daily attendance (ADA) over a five-year period. In these days of reorganization, the latter may be quite abruptly outmoded by consolidations that boost enrollment appreciably from one year to the next.

On an ADA basis, figures for the NIC schools are as follows: Osage 277.67, Lake Mills 287.24, Forest City 286.80, Northwood 285.55, Belmond 265.26, Britt 229.17 and Buffalo Center 159.14. On the basis of actual enrollment figures for 1960-61, the high school student bodies number: Osage 405, Forest City-Leland 304, Lake Mills 294, Belmond 287, Northwood-Kensett 284, Garner-Hayfield 242, Britt 234 and Buffalo Center 168. This, perhaps, suggests there is a legitimate question as to whether the conference has "out grown" Buffalo Center — but that is a question that probably should concern the Buffalo Center school officials more than the other school administrations.

Football is the one sport in which student body size is most apt to produce a wide discrepancy in talent — and if the NIC has been "dominated" on the gridiron by any one school in the past decade, that school would be Britt (with four championships). This introduces a serious question as to the legitimacy of Elling's complaint against Osage.

Probably no conference in Iowa has been more completely dominated on the gridiron than the North Central by Webster City. Here the latter's size probably DOES give a decisive clue to the explanation. Look at the present enrollments: Webster City 717, Iowa Falls 440, Clear Lake 432, Eagle Grove 422, Humboldt 422, Algona 374, Clarion 318 and Hampton 300.

On the other hand, Ames has almost as completely (perhaps equally so) dominated the Central Iowa conference in football. But the following enrollment figures suggest that tradition and coaching have been greater factors in this state of affairs than student numbers: Marshalltown 1,131, Newton 1,129, Ames 1,059, Oskaloosa 859, Boone 719 and Grinnell 509.

Osage has been active in the NIC since the 1958-59 basketball season. The Imps have had a shot at six conference championships. They won the 1959 track title and shared the 1959 football championship with Belmond and Britt. Does that look like domination?

. . . We would say one other thing regarding NIC sports before dropping the subject. It has been the policy of the newspapermen making all-conference selections to take into consideration not only the ability of candidates but their cooperation with their fellow team members, sportsmanship, and observance of training rules.

This year, one player was dropped from 1st to 2nd team on the recommendation of his own school's representative because his attitude could have been a serious detriment to the team. Another was given no 1st team consideration because of complaints from several rivals that he needlessly indulged in free use of his fists. Still another was disregarded as a 2nd team candidate because of known and flagrant training violations.

Jack Baty, editor of the Osage paper, editorially discounted the action against the fist-swinger by saying he "was relegated to a second team post at the order of several coaches whose teams were beaten by Osage." Fact of the matter is, Britt and Belmond mentors joined with Garner's coach in sharp criticism of the boy's tactics, and probably no one knows better than the player himself that the penalty was justified.

It should perhaps be borne in mind by coaches, players, writers and fans alike, that — while victory is the frosting on the cake — "the game's the thing" in athletic competition. Taken with TOO MUCH seriousness, sports rivalry loses much of its enjoyment.

The North Iowa conference is a GOOD conference and it's an IMPROVING conference. Actions should be directed toward keeping it that way.

Legislators face big tax problem

One of the serious problems confronting the next session of the legislature will be what to do about taxes. Despite all the chatter of the recent political campaign there is a serious tax problem involving state aids and the skyrocketing property tax.

Governor Loveless took some pride in the fact no taxes had been raised during his administration. This was in error because the corporation tax was boosted 50 percent and another cent of sales tax was placed on cigarets.

WHAT WAS NOT MENTIONED is that property taxes have boomed at an alarming rate, from a total in the state of $280,571,353 in '57 to an estimated $385,229,110 for 1961. In the ten years 1951 to 1961 the increase in local property taxes has been 103.87 per cent or a dollar increase of $196,274,667.

The property taxes for the last 10 years follows:

1951	$188,954,443
1952	210,085,480
1953	227,778,512
1954	240,085,181
1955	240,858,831
1956	265,388,315
1957	280,571,355
1958	300,142,410
1959	335,675,817
1960	358,447,333
1961 (Est.)	385,229,110

Dollar Increase
'51	'61	$196,274,667
Per Cent Increase
'51	'61	103.87%

THE BIG QUESTION IS WHETHer the state is shirking its share of state aid so politicians can claim no advance in taxation by the state itself. This means that the increases in money needed by schools, counties and cities must be raised from property.

Taxation by the state is unpopular because it gets widespread publicity. The experience of Bill Murray running for governor is indicative of the reaction of people to state taxes. While Murray was realistic about the problem the people preferred to be unrealistic and follow Loveless who promised no tax increase.

The result has been that during the four years of the Loveless administration property tax jumped from $284,785,000 to $358,999,000 (including the soldiers bonus not in the figures in the table above.) The increase in property tax is $74,214,000.

State aids brought in $27,000,000 in homestead credits and $10,500,000 in agricultural land tax credits, a small amount considering the total property tax of $358,999,000.

THE BIG QUESTION THE LEGislators must face up to is whether to increase state aids for schools which take now 55.3 per cent of the property tax.

If the answer is that more state aids must be granted then the question of where to get the money becomes a major headache for the politicians.

A state property tax levy would be out of the question. Increases in income taxes run into the fact the federal government takes such a big whack that there isn't much left for the state to latch on to.

THIS LEAVES THE SALES TAX, a political bombshell because of attitudes of big labor unions against a sales tax as well as merchants on Iowa borders next to states not having a sales tax.

If legislators refuse to vote the taxes needed to pay more in state aids then the burden falls on property for more money must be raised.

The sources for these figures is the Iowa Taxpayers Assn. which in its September publication presented an exhaustive survey of the property tax situation. — Algona Advance

LAYIN' THE LILY—

This column will serve to lay a lily on the chest of the 1960 general election, insofar as the Independent is concerned. There are a few comments we wish to get off OUR chest — then we'll most willingly consign the doin's of Nov. 8 to history.

We'd first of all like to call to the attention of our readers how the voting went in Hardin county . . . and in Wright county.

After exchanging editorials with Carl Hamilton, Iowa Falls editor, week before last (remember, he wrote a Democratic editorial for us and we wrote a Republican one for his Hardin County Times?) we were eager to see what effect our respective spoutings had.

Well, we'll have you know that Hardin county went for Nixon (6,438 to 3,888) for Miller (5,739 to 4,194) and for Erbe (5,879 to 4,036). That's just what we told 'em to do!

On the other hand, after exposing OUR readers to the blandishments of Mr. Hamilton, OUR bailiwick helped Wright county keep in the Republican column, ALSO, on those major contests.

In fact, the city of Belmond, plus the townships of Belmond, Pleasant and Iowa — the heart of The Independent's circulation territory — supported the Republican cause somewhat more staunchly than did Wright county as a whole.

The three Belmond precincts, plus the three townships, gave Nixon a majority of 1,493 to 806, Miller and edge of 1,159 to 905, and Erbe an advantage of 1,199 to 806. Since Miller's edge in the entire county was only 485, the 254 extra votes he received in the northeast corner constituted over half of his victory margin in Wright, and the 333 advantage given Erbe in the Belmond area represented over one-third of his 922 total margin in the county.

Actually, we don't kid ourself that The Independent wields any significant influence over the votes of its readers. But it gives some satisfaction to know that this newspaper acts as a voice for a sizeable majority of its readers.

Poor Carl, down there at Iowa Falls, after devotedly beating the Democratic drum throughout the campaign, he has to view 62 per cent of the marchers parading in the opposite direction!

Of course, the stinker is no doubt finding a good deal of solace in the outcome of the presidential vote nationally . . . Well, we'll just lie here in the hills, boys, and make ready for the next uprising!

'TWAS ONLY A LANDSLIP—

It sticks in our mind that one irate Democratic reader of our editorial column warned that we were about to witness the biggest Democratic landslide ever.

As matters turned out, this prognostication was a bit over-optimistic. We got a kick out of the way Fletcher Knebel, the Des Moines Register wit, put it. He observed: "You might say Jack Kennedy won by a landslip."

DUBIOUS DISTINCTION—

Last county in Iowa to report its precinct results in full to the D.M. Register was Wright. This dubious distinction was bestowed upon us by the election board of Wall Lake township. Election after election this precinct is the last in the county to complete its work by a matter of several hours.

True it is one of only three precincts in the county that has only a five-man board. The rest have 10. BUT with a similar board and about 65 more ballots (30 per cent more) to count, Belmond township had all its counting done before midnight and the ballots delivered to the courthouse not too much later. Wall Lake came dawdling in at 5:05 a.m.

Supervisor Walter Wiedemann would be doing a good turn to a good-sized handful of people who must stand the election night watch if he'd investigate WHY Wall Lake does such a miserable job . . . and see that the offenders do NOT serve on that precinct board in another election.

Ward 2 at Clarion is nearly in the same category. It traditionally is next-to-last to finish its count — although of the 11 city wards (four each in Clarion and Eagle Grove and three in Belmond) there is only one smaller. Ward 2 reported in the count on its approximate 300 ballots HOURS after Eagle Grove Ward 4 which had between 825 and 850 to count!

Or maybe the time is at last at hand for Wright county to get voting machines?

TEN YEARS AGO—

Aileen Kalkwarf, candidate of the Belmond marching band, was elected last Friday at Garner's "Freedom Flame Day" to reign over the occasion as "Freedom Flame Queen."

—1950—

Ceabern Squires, Belmond High school principal, has been called to active duty with the U. S. Air Force and is to report for duty Dec. 7 at Chanute Field, Ill.

—1950—

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLaughlin on Nov. 21 will give a dinner at Veterans' Memorial hall for their immediate relatives and other guests in observance of their Golden Wedding anniversary.

—1950—

Marlyn Watermiller and Dick Simpson, as honorary captains for the football season lately concluded, headed a group of 18 BHS players who received Honor B's Monday at the Gridiron club's annual dinner for the players.

—1950—

Goodell High school's basketball teams last week opened their season not too auspiciously by dropping double-headers to the boys and girls from both Alexander and Meservey.

—1950—

Eldean Matheson of Lake Mills was the only junior to be awarded a 1st team berth as North Iowa coaches last week made their annual pick of all-conference players.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—

As compared with reports of thousands of turkeys lost in other parts of the state, Alice Hedges lost only two birds from her flock of over 600 in Monday's terrific Armistice Day blizzard.

—1940—

Between 3,200 and 3,500 people thronged to the Ben Franklin store's opening last Saturday, despite the bad weather. Clerks who worked in the store on that day were Irene Thayer, Norma Jean Packard, Arlene Eide, Jean Soma, Marietta Miller and Joyce Wenzel.

—1940—

Larry Miller, former owner-publisher of The Independent and for the past two years advertising manager for the Forest City Summit, has purchased part interest in a daily newspaper at Murfreesboro, Tenn.

—1940—

Monday's blizzard played havoc with mail service to Belmond, the trains and star route trucks coming in hours late or not at all. The CGW train that was due in at 1:57 a.m. did not arrive until 5:20 a.m.

—1940—

Belmond High's basketball team will open its 1940-41 season with five consecutive games at home. Coach John Prasch has a nucleus of five lettermen: D. Banning, Merle Bonte, Loats, Townsan and Dorr.

THIRTY YEARS AGO—

Last week somebody started the rumor about town that we were to lose our hospital and that Dr. George Steele planned to locate in the east. Dr. Steele informs The Independent that these rumors are false and that he has no intention of leaving Belmond.

—1930—

Madame Gray Lehvinne and her son Laddie Boy will play in the high school auditorium Friday morning before an assembly of the entire student body. Mme Lehvinne is a violinist of note and her nine-year-old son is a gifted pianist.

—1930—

Seven new members were accepted into the Lions club at its meeting Monday noon at Case Hotel. They were: Dr. A.M. Larson, H.L. Schultz, Con Nissen, George Brady, E.F. Bailey, J.C. Erlander and Rev. Buthman.

—1930—

Cholmondeley Houghton of Goodell recently received high honor on an article he had written for the Marshalltown Junior college newspaper. It was among 14,000 entries from 700 schools in a journalism contest and was judged one of the 50 best in the competition.

—1930—

Presley Griggs of Ventura and "Cyclone" Anthony, an evangelist from Chicago, have been holding meetings at the Avery Center schoolhouse near Goodell the past week.

FORTY YEARS AGO—

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dillon was quarantined last week Wednesday on account of scarlet fever, their little girl being ill with the disease.

—1920—

The CGW put into effect a new time card through Belmond last Sunday, arranged for the purpose of hauling through passenger traffic to the Pacific coast. On certain days the afternoon train carries a sleeper, which goes to California.

—1920—

Mrs. Max Mayer told the local ladies attending the citizenship school here to vote against the constitutional convention. The Farm Bureau told the farmers to vote for it. Evidently the Farm Bureau had the most influence, for the proposition carried.

—1920—

During the past week 25,000 fish were received at Cornelia from the government, the shipment including black bass, bluegills, perch and crappies. Last winter the fish in this lake froze in such large numbers that fishing there during the summer amounted to almost nothing.

—1920—

H.I. Christ is planning on leaving sometime the first of next month for the balmy climate of Hawaii. Wonder if Uncle Heinie has a ukelele to take along?

—1920—

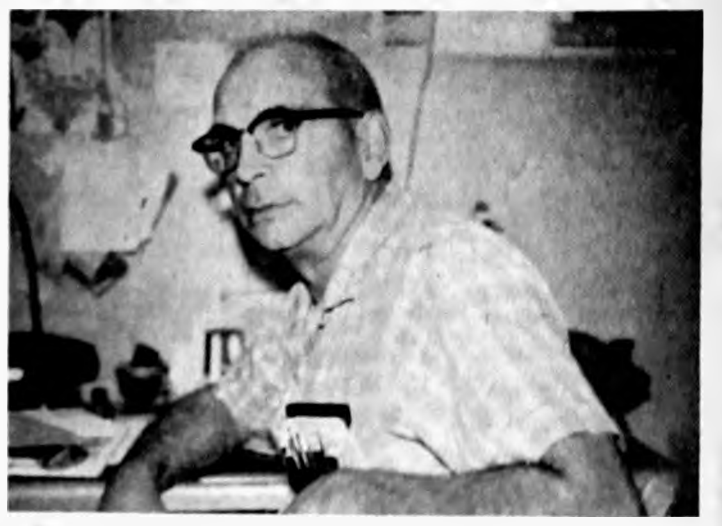
Know your businessmen—

Music "going 'round" means money for "Gov"



"GOV" HOWELL IN OFFICE (HE'S NOT THERE OFTEN)

If you don't see very much of Dana "Gov" Howell around his place of business — the Mello Maid Ice Cream shop — the explanation is that "Gov" has a second business that keeps him occupied about 40 hours a week. That is his string of juke boxes (70 of 'em) and coin-operated game machines (about 60) that he has spread around a considerable north Iowa territory.

"Gov" has had this sideline ever since he came to Belmond 20 years ago last spring and opened the Mello Maid. After graduating from Iowa State university at Ames, he ran a creamery at Fargo, N.D., for 2½ years and then was in the creamery business with a brother at Hampton for about the same length of time before launching his business here.

He got his start in the juke box trade with several 12-record machines after coming to Belmond. Not too long afterward Wurlitzer came out with 24-record machines that played 78 rpm's horizontally. Now most juke boxes hold 100 or 200 records (48 rpm) . . . or double that number of tunes . . . which play vertically.

According to "Gov" about 90 per cent of the play on an average machine is confined to the 10 top tunes of the day, with the other 190 tunes in a machine sharing the other 10 percent. Even so, a regular check is made to determine what records may be entirely idle and those are replaced that aren't paying their way.

Unless a machine is netting $5 per week over all upkeep cost — supplying it with records, travel for servicing it and other overhead items — it is not giving the owner a profit over machine depreciation, "Gov" says. He services each machine every two weeks, emptying the coin box and replacing what records aren't getting sufficient play. He says he puts five to eight new records on a machine each time he services it.

Disc jockey programs on radio stations KIOA, Des Moines, and KWMT, Fort Dodge, give him his leads as to what popular tunes are currently on top or coming up. "Standards" played by such long-time favorites as Artie Shaw, Glenn Miller, Russ Morgan, Harry James and the like are always good, as are polkas and familiar waltzes.

Pop tunes, country-style music and western tunes see their popularity pass in relatively short order and must be replaced by newcomers to the "hit" class.

Of his present crop of machines, "Gov" says the oldest was bought eight years ago. Wheras his earliest machines cost about $200, today's multi-record marvels run about $1,400 . . . so the Howell Music company has a tidy amount wrapped up in juke boxes.

Similarly, records of 20 years ago wholesaled at 21 cents. Today's vinilite 48 rpm's cost the juke box operator 65 cents apiece, but they will play almost indefinitly without wearing out. In due course of time, "Gov" sells about 80 per cent of his used records at 25 cents each. His best outlets for the used records are cafes and taverns.

"Gov" says that some of the records on Mello Maid's own juke box have been in use for seven or eight years. He uses diamond needles on his dozen stereo machines and sapphire needles on the rest. The diamond needles cost about three times as much . . . but last a good eight times as long.

Mr. Howell says he has about $2,000 to $3,000 invested in his revolving inventory of records and that he buys about 600 to 700 new ones each month.

An important adjunct of his juke box business is the coin-operated game machine. He owns about 60 such devices, most of them located in spots where he also has a music machine.

These games cost him from $400 to $1,200 — but he says you can invest as much as $3,000 in one if you've got the money to spare and a good enough location for it to make it pay off.

"Gov" has his money invested mainly in four different types of machines — bowlers of one type or another, five-ball pin machines, gun and moving-target outfits and skill machines which the operator manipulates (soccer game is one example).

He says that the clientele of a business location usually tires of a given game in three or four months and it has to be replaced by another of a different type. He adds that the modern pin-ball machine is an exceedingly delicate electronic mechanism, but that with experience he's learned to trouble-shoot 'em without much difficulty.

Although he tires of the driving involved in servicing his juke boxes and game machines — he puts a good 50,000 miles per year on his car in business trips — "Gov" says the other aspects of the business are constantly changing and always interesting. He leaves little doubt that he's much happier doing what he's doing than he would be "tending shop" at the Mello Maid.

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Whether due to the inspiration of father Dick McFarlin's efficiency or what, young Mike McFarlin was the very first Belmond tad to get a letter written to Santa Claus. (Kinda seems as if maybe he got the draw on "the crowd" last year, too.) Anyway, last week — even before the announcement of the Letters-to-Santa contest — Mike's missive was delivered to The Independent office, en route to the North Pole. . . . Nothing like getting an early bid in before the stuff's picked over!

Credit the Gridiron club's banquet program committee with scoring a "scoop" in obtaining a speaker for this year's feast for the BHS and junior high football players. They signed up (some time ago) Jerry Burns of the University of Iowa coaching staff as orator of the evening.

Now, of course, Jerry is the announced successor to Forest Evashevski as the Hawkeye's head coach.

Wonder how much Jerry's fee for speaking engagements will be going up, in view of his new eminence? We'll bet one thing — that the Gridiron club's getting him for a more reasonable sum than they'll ever again obtain the No. 1 man of the Hawks' coaching staff.

A service willingly performed over a decade of time to the benefit of people less fortunate than herself is to bring Mrs. C. H. Jennings a Certificate of Merit from Goodwill Industries of Sioux City. For 10 years she has been in charge of local publicity and of assembling wanted materials so they'll be ready for pick-up by a Goodwill truck when it makes one of its periodical calls in Belmond. We'd guess that all Main Street readers will agree that this is a bit of recognition well deserved.

John Greenlander recently became the seventh member of King Solomon lodge to be honored as a [illegible]-year Mason — quite a remarkable circumstance for a lodge in a community of Belmond's size.

Suitable recognition was given Mr. Greenlander at a dinner held a couple of weeks ago at the Congregational church. Special guests of the evening, in addition to Mr. Greenlander, were King Solomon's other five 50-year members and its one 60-year member.

Those with five decades of membership to their credit are Chris Groen, George Elder, Jim Adams and C. I. Williams. The one with [illegible] years of Masonry behind him is Hugh Whitten of Rowan.

Thera Fitts' operatives inform her that the son-in-law of a former Belmondite, Clara Band (now Mrs. Sidney Mason of Fargo, N. D.,) is the new governor of North Dakota. Her daughter's husband is William Guy of Bismark. Thera received a piece of Mr. Guy's campaign literature from a classmate, Maye Tracy of Clarion, who in turn received it from a sister living at Jamestown, N. D. The latter noted that Mr. Guy is "a mighty fine guy" — of which he clearly convinced a majority of North Dakota's voters.

HELLO WORLD

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen received a message from their son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Emory Van Gerpen in Jos, Nigeria, Africa, that they became parents Nov. 16 of an 8 lb. 12 oz. son. They have named him Seth Allen.

Mrs. Otto Hosick received word Saturday of the birth of a 6 lb. 7 oz. baby boy to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hosick of Kent, Wash. He was born Nov. 18 and has been named Stevie Dale.

3 Christmas Gift prizes given out

Only three of the six prizes that were to be given last Friday on the first Christmas Gift Day of the Chamber of Commerce trade promotion found claimants.

Mrs. Paul Steenblock was winner of the lady's wardrobe case, Mrs. Tina Cook received the Life-Lite flashlight and William Dickerson took home the toy dump truck.

Both Mrs. Steenblock and Mrs. Cook qualified for the bonus prize, a $5 due bill good at any local service station, by presenting their winning numbers before 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Another six prizes are to be given away tomorrow, if claimed, plus the three carried over from last week. They are listed in the C-of-C advertisement in this issue.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM J. McLAUGHLIN

60th wedding anniversary marked by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLaughlin

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLaughlin on Monday of this week enjoyed the privilege of celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. Rev. R. A Ormsby sang High Mass in their honor at St. Francis Catholic church in the morning. At noon, the honored couple were joined by 50 relatives and friends in enjoying a turkey dinner at the library basement.

Their grandson, Jerry McLaughlin, served as master-of-ceremonies for a brief program that included two songs by Father Ormsby. Tables for the anniversary dinner were decorated with bouquets of white mums and pompons. Many lovely gifts were received by the honorees.

Catherine Isabel Deheck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Deheck, and William Joseph McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McLaughlin, were wed in the Church of the Assumption at Churchville in Warren county on Nov. 21, 1900. The marriage was performed by Rev. Dan Molyneau.

After farming near Churchville for 20 years, the McLaughlins purchased a farm southwest of Belmond and lived there for 25 years before retiring in 1945 and moving to Belmond.

Eleven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin: William, of Swaledale; Michael, John, Eugene. Edward and Vernon of Belmond: Mary Elizabeth, who died at the age of 10; Mrs. Winston (Kathryn) Weber of Odessa, Wash.; Mrs. Donald (Loyola) Hocraffer, Clarion; James, of Belmond; and Mrs. Lawrence (Margaret) Uthe of Thornton.

In addition to their children, Mr. and Mrs McLaughlin have 45 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

Over the years of their residence near and in Belmond, Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin have been faithful members of St. Francis church. Mrs. McLaughlin is a member of the Rosary Society and of the Catholic Daughters of America; and Mr. McLaughlin has belonged to the Order of Foresters for 49 years.

In 1953, Mrs. McLaughlin was honored as Belmond's "Mother of the Year." Mr. McLaughlin was a member of the Belmond township school board for many years and for a time served as its president.

View organizing of WWI veterans at meeting here

William E. Miller of Fort Dodge, who is Deputy Chief of Staff for the Iowa department of Veterans of World War I, has arranged a meeting for Sunday at the library basement to which all World War I veterans and their wives or widows are invited to attend. It is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. and both district and department officers of the organization will be present to explain its purposes.

According to Mr. Miller, "The first objective of this organization is to obtain benefits for World War I veterans that are long overdue."

Veterans of World War I, Iowa department, was formed in 1957 and is one of the fastest growing departments in the nation, says Mr. Miller. The national organization operates under a charter that was granted by Congress in 1958.

District Auxiliary officers will explain to the wives and widows how they can assist the proposed Belmond Barracks of VWWI to obtain veterans' benefits.

Mr. Miller urges those eligible, "Come out to this meeting and enjoy a visit with old buddies; and perhaps we can work out an arrangement that will be of mutual benefit to all of us."

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH LOOKING FOR NEW PASTOR

An eight-member pulpit committee has been appointed by the Congregational church board of trustees to obtain a new minister to succeed the late Rev. William H. Hill. The latter died on Nov. 11 at the age of 74, after having served the church for just short of two years.

Arnold Mennenga, chairman of the board of trustees, will also serve as chairman of the pulpit committee. Its other members are Mrs. J. R. Gallagher, Mrs. Gunnar Ahlstrom, Mrs. Alonzo Brandmeyer, Dwight Tyrrell, Steven Hinman, Mrs. Harley Henn and Jeff Hruska.

Letters-to-Santa contest now open

Ten Belmond business firms, in cooperation with The Belmond Independent and Buyers Guide, in this issue announce the 13th annual Letters-to-Santa contest to be conducted through the medium of this newspaper.

Thirty-five dollars in prizes will be awarded to the six letters judged to be best of all the entries. First prize will be $15, second $7.50, third $5 and fourth through sixth $2.50 each.

Contestants may be of any age up to and including 10 years old. Neatness will be considered by the judges, as well as what the letter says. Letters are not to run more than 100 words. Children too young to write may dictate their letters to an older person.

Deadline for entries is 6:00 p.m. Dec. 19. Letters should be mailed or delivered to the Independent office. Prize winners will be announced in the issue of Dec. 22. An effort will be made to publish all letters, but they should be sent in well ahead of the deadline to assure their appearance in the paper.

Marilyn Johnson to Cedar Rapids

Marilyn Johnson, office manager for Belmond Community hospital for the past six years, has announced her resignation in order to accept a position at St. Luke's hospital, Cedar Rapids.

There she will be in the accounting department, which is headed by the former administrator of Belmond's hospital, Stuart Kutz. She will take up her new duties Dec. 16.

Miss Johnson joined the staff here on Sept. 1, 1954. The Cedar Rapids hospital is among the state's largest and Miss Johnson's new position there represents a fine advancement in her chosen field.

THANKSGIVING GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Aage Carlsen of St. Paul, Minn., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ejnar Carlsen of Capron, Ill., will be Thanksgiving Day guests in the Clarence Kirkendall home.

10-year increase, 377; represents 15.5% gain

Hey, Mr. Mayor. Get those signs fixed!

We mean those signs at either side of town on Highway 69 that speak of '2,499 Friendly People" greeting passers-through. That figure was based on the preliminary report.

According to the final and official 1960 census figures released by the Census Bureau on Tuesday of this week, Belmond fell heir to seven misplaced persons whose noses raised the local population count to the much more satisfying total of 2,506.

That 337 gain over 1950's figure of 2,169 represented a percentage increase of 15.5 — one of the largest that can be claimed by any town in this vicinity.

Garner outdid us a bit percentagewise. The Hancock county seat added 294 souls between 1950 and 1960 to boost its total population by 17.3 per cent — from 1.696 to 1,990.

More impressive yet was the achievement of Humboldt. Our neighbor to the west zoomed from 3,219 to 4,031 — a gain of 25 5 per cent.

But leaving out those two exceptions, Belmond can compare population increase with just about any comparable town around and come out best.

Here are some of the figures for near-by communities. Eagle Grove's population increased from 4,176 to 4,381, up 205; Clarion's from 3,150 to 3,232, up only 82; Forest City's from 2,766 to 2,930, up 164; Britt's from 1,908 to 2,042, up 134; and Hampton's from 4,432 to 4,501, up just 69.

Figures for other North Iowa conference towns, in which Belmond has interest due to athletic competition, are (in addition to Garner, Britt and Forest City): Lake Mills, from 1.560 to 1.758, up 198; Osage, from 3.436 to 3.753, up 317; Buffalo Center, from 1,087 to 1,140, up 53; and Northwood, from 1,767 to 1.768 — you figure it.

Wright county suffered a population loss of 205, dropping from 19,652 to 19.447 Hamilton county, which among all in Iowa was closest to Wright's population after the 1950 count, gained 372 in advancing from 1.960 to 20,032. Franklin slipped by a matter of 796 from 16,268 to 15,472; Hancock dropped 473 below its 15,077 figure of 10 years ago to 14,604; and Humboldt stayed nearly the same, its new count of 13,156 being 39 more than the 13,117 of 1950.

The Independent will announce next week the winner of its contest to determine who could guess closest to what Belmond's official population count for 1960 would be. Suffice it to say at this point that we've thumbed through the entries in preliminary fashion — and there were some corkers!

Mrs. Lewis Hauge dies at hospital

Mrs. Lewis Hauge died Tuesday afternoon at Belmond Community hospital a brief time after being admitted following a heart attack. She had been in relatively poor health, but the suddenness of her death nevertheless came as a shock to her family and friends.

At The Independent's press time, funeral arrangements were still pending. Johnston Funeral Home will be in charge and information regarding the time and place of the rites can be obtained there. A complete obituary will appear in the next issue.

Chicken supper, bazaar planned

Women of the Methodist church will conduct a family-style chicken supper, combined with a bazaar, Thursday of next week. Serving will start at 5:00 p. m., with new groups being admitted at 45-minute intervals.

The bazaar, featuring handmade items, baked goods, candy and "attic treasures" will open at the church at 1:00 p. m. Members having "attic treasures" to donate are asked to bring them to the church or phone 6612 before the day of the bazaar.

Tickets for the chicken supper will be available at the door.

HELLO WORLD

A 6 lb. 15½ oz. baby boy, Mark Eugene, was born Nov. 16 to Mr. and Mrs. Engelhard Steenhard of Meservey.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chapman are parents of a 7 lb. 4½ oz. daughter born Nov. 21. They have named her Yvonne Michelle.

James Dennis is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. James Staley of Alexander for the 6 lb. 8¼ oz. son born to them Nov. 21.

Only one CGD prize taken

Mrs. Roman Johnson of Alexander was the only person to pick up a free supply of Christmas shopping money Tuesday afternoon in the form of a Cash Gift Day prize. She was present on Main street at 2:00 o'clock with a number that was worth $25. All of the other $475 in cash awards that could have been won just as easily — by 14 number-holders being in the right place at the right time — went "down the drain." Still determined to cut some shopping cash adrift, the CGD committee is replacing the $25 claimed this week to return the cash award total to $500 for next Tuesday. This amount will once again be divided into 10 prizes of $25 each at 2:00 p. m. and five of $50 apiece at 3:00 o'clock.

Last rites held for George Pals

Funeral services were held last Saturday at th Immanuel Reformed church for George D. Pals, who died the preceding Wednesday at Mercy hospital in Mason City. He had been in failing health for 18 months, but had been in the hospital for only four days at the time of his death.

Rev. Julius Brandt officiated over the final rites, Fulton Funeral Home being in charge. Burial was in the Immanuel Reformed cemetery Pallbearers were Bert Pals, Fred Wenzel, Herman Kaduce, Harry Mennenga, Herman Kuhlers and William Meints.

Mr. Pals was born May 31, 1871, at Bunderhamerich, Germany, son of Dick and Meta Pals. He was baptized and confirmed in his home church before his emigration to the United States in 1889.

He was married on Jan. 30, 1902 to Carrie Albers. Five children were born to them, four sons dying in infancy. Mr. Pals worked and farmed in this vicinity until his retirement in 1942, when he and Mrs. Pals moved to Belmond.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Pals leaves a daughter, Mrs. Edd (Jennie) Piel of Meservey; an adopted son, Raymond Pals of Kanawha; a sister, Mrs. Peter Boss of Port Arthur, Tex.; one granddaughter, Mrs. Harvey (Beverly) Kuhlers of Meservey; and five great grandchildren.

Three brothers and two sisters preceded Mr. Pals in death.

New corn sealing practice for '60

It was announced this week by the Wright county ASC office at Clarion that a new policy will be followed when sealing of the 1960-crop corn is started on Monday of next week.

Instead of producers requesting a sealer to appear at their farm to obtain the information required for sealing, they will be asked to contact the county ASC office either in person or by phone.

Through that contact, all information necessary to complete the sealer's worksheet will be gathered and then placed in the sealer's hands before he visits the farm.

Moisture content for the 1960 crop may be no higher than 21 per cent for ear corn or 14 per cent for shelled corn Shelled corn, the ASC office advises, must have been in the bin for 30 days before it may be sealed.

Farmers are also reminded that Wright county is in the eight-foot bin area, meaning that a bin may not be over eight feet in width for its contents to be eligible for the maximum moisture limit. For each foot over eight in width, corn in the bin must be one per cent lower in moisture content.

Under this provision, for example, corn in a nine-foot crib must be no higher than 20 per cent in moisture content.

JACOBSONS MOVE TO E. G.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jacobson have moved to Eagle Grove, where Mrs. Jacobson is now manager of the Wright county convalescent home. She was appointed to that position by the county board of supervisors. Mr. Jacobson is presently employed on a farm north of Clarion.

BHS scholars honored—

Honor Society inducts 9

Seven new members were named Monday afternoon to Chester P. Luick chapter of the National Honor Society, plus advancement of three others from probationary to full-memberships status. In addition, two Belmond High school sophomores were accepted as probationary members.

Installed as active members after election last spring as probationary members were Randi Dahlgran, Judy Gordon and Nancy Halfwassen, who are now juniors.

Seniors added as active members were Kirk Cunningham, Bob Finn and Richard Henn. Juniors initiated, in addition to the former probationary members, were Bill Heinzig, Ronnie Heykants, Colleen Jones and Merrill Kalkwarf.

Initiated as probationary members were Sophomores Dennis Gallagher and Nikki Killius.

At the student assembly before which the initiation was conducted, the following charter members of Chester P. Luick chapter spoke on the four factors on which membership is based: Kay Stecher, scholarship; Dennis Anderson, leadership; Diane Fetrow, service; and Barbara Musselman, character.

Luin Cox of the school board spoke briefly on the importance of giving recognition to excellence in scholarship. Sharon Christensen explained the significance of the National Honor Society emblem, and Jerry Jenison related how members of the organization are selected.

Paul Thompson, chapter president, served as master-of-ceremonies for the program.

Chester P. Luick chapter of the National Honor Society was founded at BHS last spring. At that time, nine seniors and seven junior were elected to active membership and three students, as sophomores, were awarded probationary membership.

Chest drive still short by $1,600

Returns up to Tuesday of this week from the Belmond Community Chest drive launched two weeks ago Monday showed $2,722.75 in contributions as compared to the goal of $4,320.

"This amount indicates some extra effort is going to be needed on the part of all workers to see that their assignments are thoroughly completed," says Luin Cox, campaign chairman.

"After successful drives the past two years, we would not like to see this year's campaign miss its objective — despite the late start that was gotten in organizing the drive," Mr. Cox added.

He said that several downtown solicitors have not reported in yet and urged that they complete their calls at the earliest opportunity and turn the contributions in at the First State bank.

Any persons who have not yet been contacted by a solicitor, but were prepared to make a donation, are asked by Mr. Cox to turn their contributions in at the bank as an "assist" to the volunteer workers.

Staley announces 10-week night class in agriculture

Plans have been completed for the annual adult night school in agriculture, conducted under auspices of the Belmond High school vocational agriculture department. Darrell Staley, instructor in "voc. ag." and director of the adult class, says the first of 10 weekly class meetings will be held at the shop building on Monday, Dec. 5.

He adds, "I feel we have a very interesting and educational program lined up for this winter, which should be of value to any farmer who enrolls."

Lunch is to be served at the close of each of the evening meetings.

Mr. Staley outlines the subjects of the meetings as follows:

Dec. 5 — "How to Save Money on Your Income Tax."

Dec. 12 — "The 1961 Farm Outlook."

Jan. 9 — "Applying the Right Fertilizer at the Right Time."

Jan. 16 — "Safety on the Farm."

Jan. 23 — "Raise Disease-Free Pigs."

Jan. 30 — "What the Packer is Looking for in Cattle and Hogs."

Feb. 6 — "Do You Have a Will?"

Feb. 13, 20 and 27—"Learn to Weld."

In addition, the class will tour the John Deere and Rath Packing plants at Waterloo sometime in February.

As a special feature of the Dec. 12th meeting on "Farm Outlook," says Mr. Staley, a contest will be conducted in guessing the market prices for various products that will prevail on Feb. 27 and Dec. 3 of next year.

Local merchants have donated several attractive prizes that will be awarded at the final meeting of this year's farm class and the opening meeting of the 1961-62 class to those farmers who prove the best prophets.

"This night school class," Mr. Staley states, "is for anyone living in the Belmond Community School district. An enrollment fee of one dollar is charged — which all who register should manage to get back in coffee and doughnuts.

"I am looking forward to a very successful night school. Bring your friends. Remember the first meeting will be a week from next Monday, Dec. 5, at 7:30 p. m. at the agriculture-shop building."

Mrs. Trager, 73 fatally stricken

Funeral services will be held at 1 00 p. m Saturday at the Methodist church for Mrs. Myrtle Trager, 73, who was fatally stricken by a heart attack Tuesday afternoon.

She was walking to her home from the Ideal grocery when she collapsed at the corner opposite the high school and was dead on arrival at the Belmond Community hospital.

Rev. M. L. Jones will officiate over the final rites and Johnston Funeral Home is in charge. A complete obituary will appear next week.

30 Legionnaires, record turn-out, at post meeting

In contrast to the customary attendance of a small handful of members, 30 Legionnaires were present for the regular meeting of Eimbrink Post No. 35 of the American Legion held Wednesday evening of last week at Veterans' Memorial hall. A dinner for all veterans eligible for membership in the post preceded the meeting.

Orville Mayfield of Iowa Falls, 3rd District commander, was in charge of the meeting. "Gus" Schrader of Britt, state vice commander, as speaker told the Legionnaires of the state department's legislative program and of its importance to war veterans.

Among the matters on the legislative agenda for the next state general assembly, Mr. Schrader said, is a move to have military tax exemptions on real estate reduced. The Legion, he explained defends the serviceman's interests when such legislation is proposed.

During the business meeting, Eimbrink Post accepted an invitation from the Legion Auxiliary to join with its members in putting on a Christmas party on Dec. 20.

The December meeting of the Legion will be moved up from its usual third-Wednesday date because of the holidays and is to be held on Dec. 14, instead.

Among those present for last week's meeting was Corri Fitts, a charter member of the post and one of the veterans most responsible for its establishment.

Independent will publish series telling "why" of public notices

Public notices and other types of advertising appear in this and other newspapers regularly, as provided under the laws of all of the states. These notices are a part of the basic right of the pople to know what their government does with tax money under the American system.

To help our readers better understand this right, a series of "Little Chats on Public Notices" will appear on the editorial page of this newspaper each week, starting with this issue.

They are written by James E. Pollard, director of the School of Journalism, Ohio State university 1934-58, who is a student of newspaper law. He also has been a news and editorial writer for newspapers.

Pollard has done much research and writing on this particular subject over a long period. In 1938 his pamphlet on "Public Notice or Service by Publication in History, Law and Procedure" was published. An initial series of "Little Chats" appeared in 1941, and a second series in 1943. Both series were published by newspapers in Ohio and many other states.

The "Little Chats" tell interesting facts about the importance of public notices, which public officials are required by law to publish in order to fully inform the public of acts, ordinances, rules, sale bids, expenditures, official reports and other acts of government that involve the spending of taxpayers' money in one way or another.

They also reveal some of the inside workings of government in a democracy like the United States where freedom is everybody's business. The Independent recommends reading of Mr. Pollard's brief articles for a better understanding of how and why a considerable amount of their money is spent yearly to keep them informed as citizens and taxpayers.

At public meeting Monday night—

Bowman will discuss elm disease

How real the threat of Dutch elm disease to trees in this area is becoming will be the subject of a talk which Aaron R. Bowman, Wright county extension director, will present on Monday of next week at the high school auditorium. His remarks will be made at a public meeting scheduled for [illegible]:00 p. m. under sponsorship of the Progress club.

Members of all other women's [illegible] in town have been specifically invited to be present with their [illegible] and anyone else who [illegible] be interested in the evening's topic. And the Progress club [illegible] that the general public is [illegible] invited.

[illegible] to Mr. Bowman, a [illegible]wide control program [illegible] 95 per cent or more of [illegible] at about one-fourth the dollar cost that would be inflicted if no program is followed.

However, action should be started very soon — probably this winter — and an effective program will require the cooperation of both residents and the city administration. Even a promptly launched program could possibly be too late, Mr. Bowman admits.

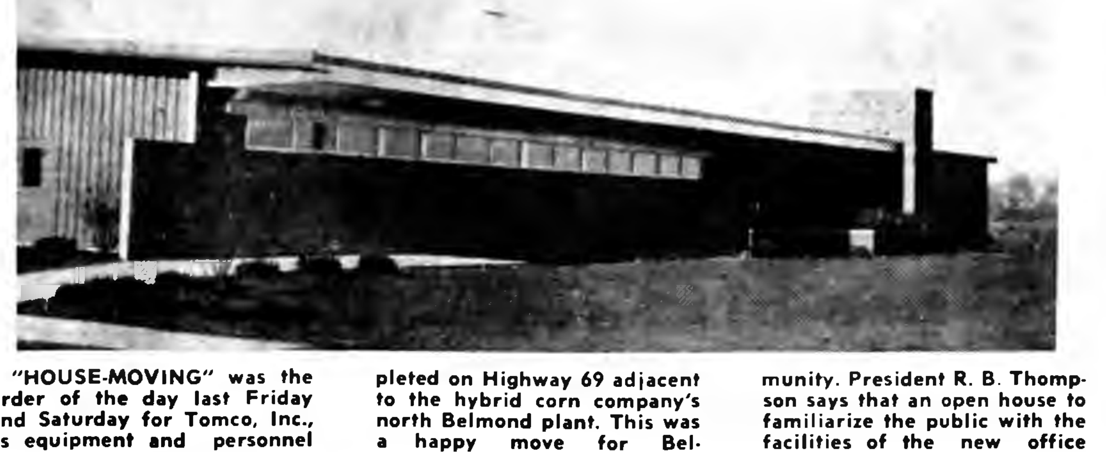
"People should come and hear what is necessary to protect the many beautiful elms Belmond has, if they have pride in the appearance of their community," Mr. Bowman says.

He will offer his remarks Monday night in three divisions:

1. A presentation of the problem and any community faces with Dutch elm disease; this will include a brief summary of a recent tree survey at Clarion.
2. Colored slides emphasizing the value of trees; also the cause of Dutch elm disease, how it is spread, and what controls are necessary for prevention — since there is no cure.
3. A question-and-answer period, during which mimeographed material will be distributed that may be of help in community planning of a program of Dutch elm disease control.

SALE PLANNED FOR DEC. 5

Walter Schubert, who has been farming northwest of Belmond, has reserved the date of Monday, Dec. 5, for a complete closing out sale of all his farm machinery, equipment and livestock. His offerings will also include a quantity of household furnishings. The sale will be advertised next week



"HOUSE-MOVING" was the order of the day last Friday and Saturday for Tomco, Inc., as equipment and personnel were transferred from the former office headquarters over Anthony's department store to the handsome, new office building (above) lately completed on Highway 69 adjacent to the hybrid corn company's north Belmond plant. This was a happy move for Belmond, for the time was — several years ago — when serious thought was given to moving the firm's headquarters entirely away from this community. President R. B. Thompson says that an open house to familiarize the public with the facilities of the new office building will be delayed until the corn harvest season is well past. However, such an event is definitely planned for the early part of next year.

DELINQUENT PROPERTY TAXES

STATE OF IOWA, WRIGHT COUNTY, SS

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern:

That I will on Monday, the fifth day of December, 1960, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. offer for sale the lands and town lots hereafter described for taxes, interest and costs that may be due on the same for 1959 and previous years, on the date above mentioned, in compliance with the provisions of the existing laws of the state of Iowa.

Given under my hand at Clarion, Wright County, Iowa the 9th day of November A. D. 1960.

H. E. SULLIVAN, County Treasurer

NOTE: Asterisk (*) before a description indicates that more than one year's taxes are delinquent.

Broncs hold favored Bison to tie—

Cage jamboree shows NIC talent quite even

This year's North Iowa conference cage jamboree, held last Friday night at Forest City, was distinctive for a couple of reasons.

In the first place, competition between the North and South teams was remarkably close. Not one of the two-quarter contests was a run-away as the North combination chalked up a 92-85 victory.

Secondly, this was the last in the series of jamborees that was started in the late 'forties. Next year the NIC members' conference schedules will start two weeks after the final football game in order that a large majority of the loop games may be played on Friday nights. It is the aim of the league officials to reduce to a minimum the number of games carded for Tuesday nights, effective with the 1961-62 schedule.

Although the Belmond Broncos were playing without two of their key men — both Jerry Jenison and Vernon Pastour were sidelined by ankle injuries — local cage fans had some reason to take hope from the performance of the BHS outfit.

Playing the Buffalo Center Bison in the opening set-to, the Broncos showed excellent poise for so early in the season as they tied Coach Chuck Schuman's highly favored team 18-18. Belmond raced to a 14-5 lead in the first quarter, with Dennis Anderson and Bob Burk at forward, Robbie Courson at center, Bob Finn and Mike Armour at guard.

When Coach Jack Steinberg experimented with Bob Whipple and Bill Heinzig at center in the second quarter, Buffalo Center gradually took up the slack and finally tied the count at 14-all with three minutes to go. Belmond led 18-16 with only seconds remaining, but a bad pass in from out-of-bounds gave the Bison a chance to knot the score at the buzzer, John Oftedahl netting the two-pointer.

Belmond did some fine rebounding against their taller foes and handled the ball well a good share of the time. Courson notched eight points, Burk looked good in adding seven, and all the other starters performed capably. Oftedahl tallied six for the Bison, 6-8 Dave Friesenborg and Glenn Tjaden adding five each.

The Broncos' lack of depth was apparent from the fact that only Belmond failed to "platoon" its players.

Osage showed a bit more ability than expected and Garner a little less than anticipated as the Imps trimmed the Cardinals 29 to 23. It was largely freethrows that beat the Cards, though, as they converted only one of 13 chances while Osage was a mite better with seven of 16 tries made good.

John Van Voorhis and Dave Low each contributed eight points to the Imps' victory, while Dale Hemingson and Jim Treseman — the latter, a sophomore — hit for four apiece. Don Cataldo and Keith Christensen, netting six and five respectively, looked best for Garner. Both coaches substituted very freely.

Although Britt edged Lake Mills by only a 24-22 count, the Eagles showed the most talent. Coach Dick Peterson's Bulldogs demonstrated a lack of depth similar to Belmond's, with pretty poor pickin's after the first five or six men. In contrast, Coach Fred Jasper was able to shift his line-up around without too much of a drop in quality being noticeable.

Jerry Schrader, Ray Walsh and Jim Rasmuson looked particularly good for Britt, while Dennis Brunsvold, former Joice player, Gary Hagen and Paul Charlson played particularly well for Lake Mills.

Maynard Mitgaard's Northwood Vikings to a large extent lived up to advance notice in their 23-20 conquest of Forest City. At the same time, the Indians gave notice that they won't be as weak as suspected from the presence of only one letterman (Jerry Stadt) on the roster.

Northwood's rangy crew was especially impressive on defense, the Vikings' snappy zone forcing the Indians to take most of their shots from well out on the court.

On the other hand, seven Vikings contributed to the Northwood scoring, indicating a well balanced offense, also. John Lee, Phil Johnson and Mike Lein each pitched in five points. Elliott Hibbs paced the Indians with eight points and Jerry Stadt was good for five.

Broncos to meet potent Franklin tomorrow night

Belmond's pocket-sized Broncos will travel to Franklin Consolidated tomorrow (Friday) night for a test that will demonstrate to what degree the Broncs can counteract a distinct height disadvantage.

Franklin figures to have one of north Iowa's better teams this season, paced by 6-6 George Kraft, a four-year veteran, and Colin Halfwassen, a 6-ft. 4-in. newcomer to the varsity ranks.

Coach Gary Boeyink, a Sioux Center alumnus in his first year at the Latimer-Coulter school, has three other starters from last season in addition to Kraft. The Cardinals emphasize the fast break this year and have posted wins over LuVerne (57-45) and Clarion (65-43).

For the past two seasons, Franklin has been disappointed in high hopes of tripping up the Broncos and will be especially determined to rack up the Blue-and-White this time.

Coach Jack Steinberg is hopeful of having Jerry Jenison and Vernon Pastour ready for service against the Cardinals, after an absence from action in the NIC jamboree due to ankle injuries. He was pleased with the work of both Bob Burk and Mike Armour at Forest City, but needs the speed provided by the pair of watch-charm guards.

After their appearance at Franklin, the Broncos will be idle until their loop opener here against Osage on Friday of next week.

Ed Albers downs Thompson in TV pin match Sunday

Duan Thompson bowed out Sunday as scratch champion on the KQTV "Money Bowl" television program at Fort Dodge, but at least was permitted the satisfaction that he was being replaced by a fellow Belmond bowler.

Ed Albers ousted Thompson in a match that saw both of the pin stars performing well under par. Albers' winning game total was a 171, far under his league averages and Thompson was able to come through with only a 165.

Duan marked for the first six frames, then had a single-pin miss in the 7th and a split in the 8th; his only strike of the game came on his final ball in the 10th.

Albers marked for seven, straight frames but then had splits in the 8th and 10th. He chalked up only three strikes during the game. He will return to KQTV to defend his championship on Dec. 18.

New ball didn't arrive; Mosiman rolls 702 series

Cecil Mosiman tied the individual high series of the current season's league bowling at Bowl-Mor Lanes and added another to the handful of 700's posted here in sanctioned competition by rolling a 702 last Thursday night.

Competing as a member of the Mello Maid team in the Boardsplitters league, "Cec" opened with a 236 game, followed with a 201 and then wound up with a 265.

A factor in his big series was picking up a 4-7-9 split in the 10th frame of his first game. In his final line he started out with five strikes, filled a nine-pin and then a six-pin spare, and then finished off with five more strikes.

Mosiman's series total matched a 702 put together by Ed Albers earlier this season.

For several days, "Cec" had been expecting delivery of a new ball — one which he'd won as a drawing prize at the "new" Bowl-Mor's grand opening in mid-September and which was in the process of being drilled in St. Paul. He was disapointed when it did not arrive soon enough for use Thursday night.

Now he's somewhat in a dilemma. It strikes him as dubious wisdom to give up his old ball, right on the heels of harvesting a 702 series with it.

North selects 15 from conference for grid mention

Jack North's all-state selections in the Des Moines Sunday Register last weekend gave recognition to 15 football players from the North Iowa conference, two more than a year ago.

All received honorable mention except Jerry Schrader of Britt, who was placed at center on the third team. Last year Larry Hockhaus, also of Britt, was the only "team" choice — winning a guard berth on the 7th team.

Britt's champions and the runner-up Belmond Broncos received the most attention from North. Each placed four men on the honor roll. Belmbnd selections were Bob Finn at end, Bob Whipple at tackle, Bob Stadtlander at guard and Dennis Anderson in the backfield.

Chosen from the Britt team in addition to Schrader were Ray Walsh at end, Keith Sillman at tackle, Dale Brcka and Bob Nielsen as backs.

Garner placed Bob Brede at guard, Tom Kemp at end and Don Cataldo in the backfield; Buffalo Center placed Kendall Drake at tackle and Glenn Tjaden as a back; and Osage's John Van Voorhis was mentioned in the backfield.

10 NIC players honored by IDPA

North Iowa conference gridders did not rate so much attention in the Iowa Daily Press association all-state football selections this season as a year ago. One NIC player rated a team position, compared to two last season; and eight additional men were given honorable mention as to 10 in 1959.

Jerry Schrader, center on the championship Britt eleven, was placed on the 3rd all-state team. Last fall two NIC guards, Larry Hockhaus of Britt and Larry Van Oort of Forest City, earned 2nd and 4th team berths, respectively.

Bob Stadtlander of Belmond was the only conference guard winning notice this year. He was placed on the honor roll.

Honorable mention also went to Dale Brcka and Bob Nielsen in the backfield and Dave Loney at tackle from Britt's title-winning crew. A bit peculiarly, the Britt coaching staff regarded Dennis Krull as the Eagles' best tackle. He was on the NIC 1st team and Loney received only honorable mention in the conference selections.

Third-place Osage had on the IDPA honor roll Dale Hemingson at end, Dave Low at tackle and John Van Voorhis as a back. Don Cataldo, Garner's fine fullback, was also on the honor roll.

Clarion players given honorable mention were Roger Sebert at guard and John Pletcher in the backfield.

Albers, Brothers to bowl in KRIB

Ed Albers and Gary Brothers qualified Sunday night for an appearance next Saturday at 4:00 p. m. on the "Money Bowl" broadcast of KRIB, Mason City. They topped all entries in the qualifying for this doubles competition by combining for a fine 1,347 total.

Bowling scratch, Albers rolled a 687 and Brothers had a gross of 660 on 626 actual pins plus a 34 handicap. They will meet a pair of Mason City stars, Bill French and Fred Schmidt, in Saturday's match. They beat this pair by 10 pins in the qualifying test.

Easy way to do your new-car sampling—

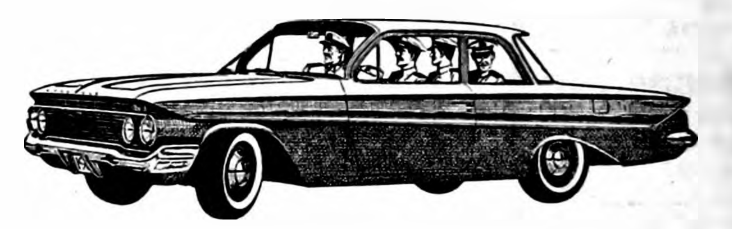
Drive Chevy once around the block at your Chevrolet dealer's one-stop shopping center!

Just drop in and take a drive in one of the 30 spanking new '61 models your Chevy dealer now offers under the same roof. With every drive, your dealer is giving away free Dinah Shore Christmas records while they last. So hurry! And you'll find that here's the easy, one-stop way to shop for the car you want. There's a model to suit almost any taste or need—at a price to suit almost any budget. There's a whole crew of new Chevy Corvairs, including four family-lovin' wagons. New Biscaynes—the lowest priced full-size Chevrolets. Popular Bel Airs. Sumptuous Impalas. And America's only true sports car—the Corvette. Come on in and pick your new car the easy way—on a one-stop shopping tour!

CHEVROLET

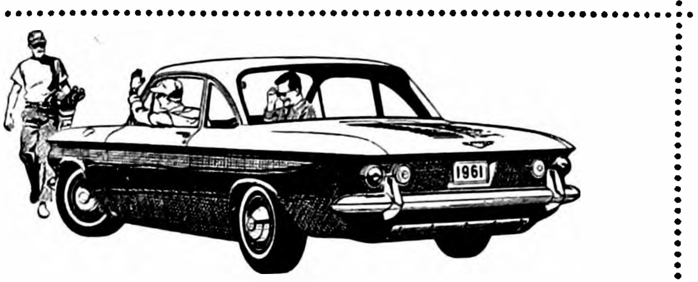
New '61 Chevrolet IMPALA SPORT SEDAN

You'll see five models in the '61 Impala series—the most elegant Chevies of all. They're sensationally sensible from their more parkable out size to their remarkably roomy in size. And note that trim new roof line.



New '61 Chevrolet 2-DOOR BEL AIR SEDAN

These beautiful Bel Airs, priced just above the thriftiest full-size Chevies, bring you newness you can use. Roomier dimensions reach right back to the easier loading trunk that lets you pile baggage 15% higher.

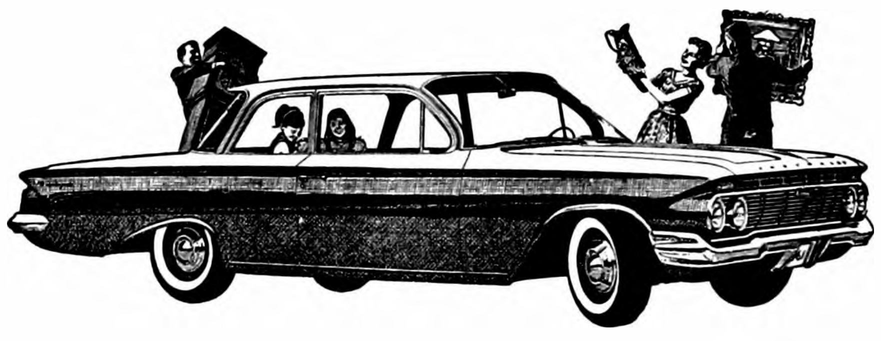


New lower priced '61 CORVAIR 500 CLUB COUPE

See what Corvair's got in store for you in '61! Thriftier sedans and coupes with nearly 12% more room up front for luggage. That rear engine's spunkier, too, with a gas-saving new axle ratio to go with it.

New '61 Corvair 700 LAKEWOOD STATION WAGON

There's room for almost everything but antifreeze in these new one-and-only 6-passenger Lakewoods. And they're the only wagons with lockable trunk under the hood. Be sure to see the new Greenbriers, too.



New '61 Chevrolet 2-DOOR BISCAYNE 6
NOW—Big-Car Comfort at Small-Car Prices

These new Biscayne 6's*—the lowest priced full-size Chevrolets—let you save money in a big way, yet give you a full measure of Chevy's new roominess—such things as higher easy chair seats, larger door openings, more leg room in front, more foot room in the rear.

*Also available as V8 models

Supervisor race could bring about unique situation

An apparently unique situation will be created if J. F. Abbott of Eagle Grove should decide to demand a recount of ballots cast in Nov. 8th's general election which saw him lose to Albert Christopher, incumbent by three votes in a race for District 3 supervisor.

State law provides that the recount board should consist of a person selected by each candidate, plus the chairman of the board of supervisors. The rub is that Mr Christopher is the board chairman.

When the election canvass was conducted Monday of this week by the supervisors, no error was discovered in the poll books of the precincts that figured in the District 3 contest. That left Christopher still the official winner by three votes.

Thirty-six ballots were reported "spoiled" in the seven District 3 precincts. These would be re-checked, as well as all ballots recounted if Abbott should contest the result. A contesting candidate has to post bond in sufficient amount to pay for the recount, if he requests one. If the outcome remains unchanged, the recount cost is assessed against the bond. If the outcome is reversed, the candidate at first declared the winner must foot the bill.

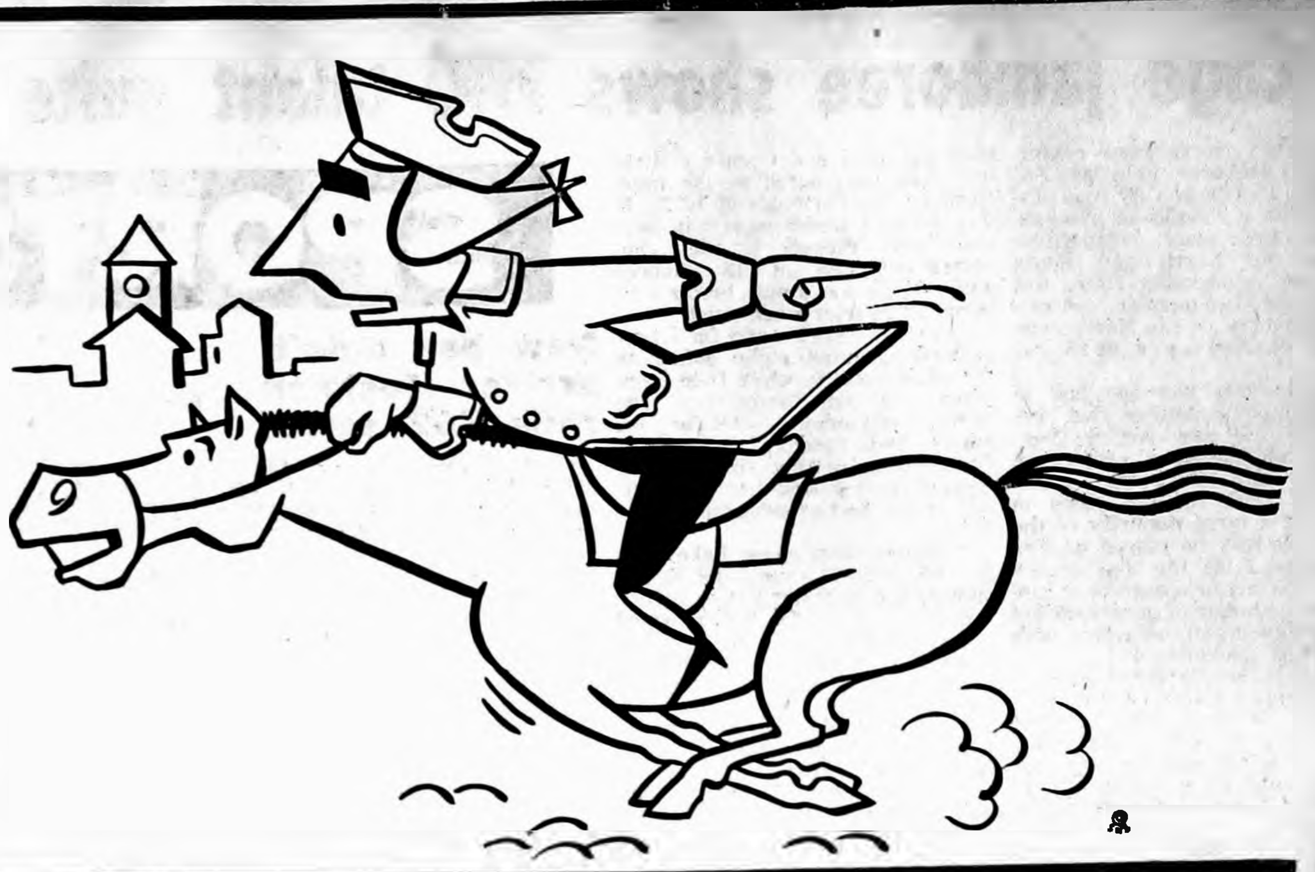
Emergency



What do you do when you can't wait?

WHEN A CRISIS COMES

. . . and you need a prescription filled at midnight

. . . or your plumbing starts leaking

. . . or your car won't start

. . . or you run out of clean shirts

. . . or when the cupboard or the baby is bare

DO YOU saddle up and take a day off to get the matter taken care of in the City, or do you write to a catalog house for help?

OF COURSE NOT. Likely you hardly recognize these and similar predicaments as crises.

Because YOU'VE GOT NEIGHBORS, right here at home . . . with their skill and their money invested in establishments able to take most of your troubles on their own shoulders so quickly that you scarcely notice they are difficulties at all.

But HOW MANY skilled craftsmen, and good business men, and good neighbors, and good workers in civic and church affairs, and good taxpayers . . . how many of these have cut down their stocks, laid off employees, or left the country . . . because all you were buying from them was the things you couldn't wait to get somewhere else . . . and how many will leave in the future to go where your money is going?

It Pays to Buy where You Live

Auxiliary sends Gift Shop items to Vet's facility

Mrs. Beulah Langlitz, president of the Meservey unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, says that selecting items for the state Auxiliary's Christmas "Gift Shops" at Iowa veterans hospitals and mental health institutes has been a recent unit project.

From these "Gift Shops," the disabled men domiciled at the institutions may choose gifts for members of their immediate families at no cost whatever to themselves. Gift wrappings and postage for mailing are also furnished.

Items were provided for the "Gift Shop" at the VA domiciliary at Clinton by the Meservey Auxiliary unit, which sent the following to serve as gifts:

Billfold, towel and washcloth set, mittens, man's tie, hose and a girl's scarf. Similar items of approximately one dollar value are supplied by all of Iowa's 640 Auxiliary units to specified hospitals.

Mrs. Arnold Groen and Diane and Dena Kuhlers were supper guests Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. Genevieve Suntken at Belmond

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Monson and baby of Alden brought Mrs. Elmer Pals home Saturday after she had been with them for a week to help with the baby and housework.

Sunday dinner guests at the Wayne Waddingham home were Mr and Mrs. Charles Waddingham and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Logan. Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pals and Gary and Lewis Dorenkamp and children. They helped Wayne celebrate his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ruiter and Janet and Joe Kaduce went to Iowa City Sunday to see Clarence Wolters at the hospital. They report that he is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Pals were Sunday dinner guests at the Leo Jessen home at Hampton. They all attended the Golden Wedding open house held at the American Lutheran church for Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Latham in the afternoon.

"GOOD NEIGHBORS" HELP

A "good neighbor" deed was performed last week by farmer friends and neighbors of Clarence Wolters, who is a patient at University hospital, Iowa City. Those who did fall plowing on the Wolters farm to help their friend were: Leonard and Clarence Schmidt, Will Vierkant and Edward "Bud" Kuhlers.

Local postmaster and clerk attend postmaster meetings

Mrs. Sylvia Raecker, local postmaster, and Mrs. Shirley Clemons, clerk, drove to Fort Dodge Saturday afternoon where they attended a postmasters meeting and evening dinner at the Hotel Warden. Field Officer A. R. Kane of Sioux City and Postal Inspector Lutgee of Des Moines were present and appeared on the program.

A week ago Wednesday evening, Mrs. Raecker and Mrs. Clemons attended the North Iowa Postmasters meeting at the Gold Room of the Hampton cafe in Hampton. There were 18 from the area in attendance. The two ladies were accompanied by Postmaster Hilda Blau and Clerk Etta Westaby of Alexander

GRIMES GOLDEN GALS

November meeting of the Grimes Golden Gals 4-H club was held at the Meservey schoolhouse, with six members present. Kathy Kuhlers gave a talk on the subject, "A Guide to Good Eating;" and Donna Sorenson led a discusion on "Who Am I?"

Recreation was led by Barbara Williams. Plans were made for a Christmas party. Lunch was served by Karen Sprau and Shirley Stadtlander.

Officers of the Golden Gals club who were elected at the October meeting are: Donna Sorenson, president; Patty Koenen, vice president; Kathy Kuhlers, secretary-treasurer; Barbara Williams, historian; Shirley Stadtlander, reporter.

Committee chairmen named for the year were: Carolyn Pals, music; Carolyn Pals, flags; Karen Sprau, pictures; Patty Koenen, program. Mrs. Kuhlers and Mrs. Williams were named as assistant leaders.

Mrs. Dunton and daughter left Saturday for Hawaii

Mrs. Gary Dunton and daughter Julie left the parental George Kuhlers home Saturday to fly to Hawaii where they will join her husband with the United States Navy. They formerly lived in Hawaii while Gary was based there and prior to his sea duty.

Third grade presented program at PTA meeting

The Parent-Teachers met Monday evening at the school auditorium. Following the regular business meeting, the third grade under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Roger Johnson, presented the evening program.

Two events planned by Helping Hand society

Helping Hand Society of the E.U.B. church met last Thursday afternoon in the church parlors with Agnes Lage presiding.

Plans were completed for the annual ham supper. Following the business meeting, lunch was served by Mmes. James Faaborg, John Brown and Moody Quandt. The next meeting will be the Christmas party with a grab bag gift exchange and all ladies of the church are invited.

EUB Youth Fellowship met at Shickell home

The Youth Fellowship of the E.U.B. church met in the home of Rev. and Mrs. V. E. Shickell Monday evening with Vice-President JoAnn Nordman presiding. Each member received an Appreciation Box for their offering emphasis of the quarter. Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held at the church. Lunch was served by Mrs. Shickell.

NEW BELMOND Film Highlights —from— COMING ATTRACTIONS

"Hercules Unchained," playing Thursday through Saturday, is another in the series of spectaculars that have put the spotlight on the brawny physique of Steve Reeves.

If it strikes you that you've seen few muscular builds to match that of the robust Mr. Reeves, you're 100 per cent right — for pre-Hollywood honors that his manly development won him included the titles of "Mr. America," "Mr. World" and "Mr. Universe."

Sports fans of a generation ago may spot a familiar face in the cast that surprises them. It's none other than gigantic Primo Canera, one-time heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

Edna Ferber's best-selling novel of the same name provides the plot of "Ice Palace," a story that tells of the taming of Alaska and the struggle of this great North American wilderness to become the 49th state. Its gifted cast includes Robert Ryan, Richard Burton, Jim Backus, Carolyn Jones and Martha Hyer. This will be the New Belmond feature Sunday through Wednesday.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD PALS

Ronald Pals, Shirley Duryee Wed at Baptist church of Marble Rock

Miss Shirley Duryee, daughter of Mr and Mrs Dale Duryee of Marble Rock, and Ronald Pals, son of Mr and Mrs Harm Pals of Belmond, were united in marriage Friday evening, Oct 28, at 8 00 o clock in Faith Baptist church at Marble Rock. Rev Vern Prugh performed the double-ring ceremony. The chancel decorations were two candelabra and two baskets of white and yellow pompons.

Theatta Bunjer, pianist, played appropriate nuptial music and accompanied Mrs Eldon Pals of La Crosse, Wis, sister-in-law of the groom, as she sang Because and Wedding Prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length dress of white satin having full-length sleeves and a white flocked nylon overskirt. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was caught to a floating coronet of seed pearls with iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible topped with white pompons and yellow roses. The Bible was a gift of the groom.

Maid of honor was Mrs Theodore Tegland of Mound, Minn, cousin of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Priscilla Thompson of Mason City, classmate of the bride. Both were attired in beige nylon taffeta ballerina-length dresses with brown cummerbunds. Their headpieces were of net with small brown bows. They carried bouquets of small bronze mums centered with a large pompon.

Best man was Rev Eldon Pals of LaCrosse, Wis, brother of the groom, and the groomsman was Robert Boeckholt of Algona. Ushers were Murlyn Duryee, brother of the bride, and Allen Mennenga of Meservey, cousin of the groom. The men were all attired in dark blue suits with maroon ties and wore white carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a dress of dark printed taffeta with lavender accent. Her accessories were black. The groom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with black and white accessories. Both wore white pompon corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors which were decorated in the bride's chosen colors of beige and brown together with white and golden yellow. The wedding cake was cut by Mrs Gaylord Scandrett of Ames. Coffee was poured by Shirley Van Every of Iowa City and Roselyn Shutt of Mason City helped with refreshments. Mrs Robert Boeckholt of Algona was in charge of the guest book. Mrs Donald Decker of McIntyre, Charlotte Ott and Gloria Nash of Marble Rock took care of the gifts.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph Mercy School of Nursing at Mason City and has been working in the University hospital at Iowa City. The groom is employed in Iowa City. Following a short wedding trip they are at home at 804 Dubuque street, Iowa City.

Literary Round Table discusses education

Literary Round Table met Wednesday of last week in the home of Mrs Daisy Green with Mrs Rex Elphic as co-hostess. Cecilia Holtzbauer, chairman, presided and appointed Mrs Green as chaplin to replace Mrs Hill. Famous quotations were given at roll call.

Plans were made to hold a bake sale on Dec 17th and to prepare a Christmas box for the Cherokee hospital. The gifts are to be brought to the next meeting.

The lesson leaders were Mrs Agnes Robbins and Mrs DuWayne Kalkwarf. Mrs Robbins gave a book report "The Devil's Advocate" by Swift and also presented books that children might like as Christmas gifts. Mrs Kalkwarf's topic was "Education" which she presented from material gleaned from World Book. There was also a discussion of the history of education from ancient times until the present.

Eagle cagers nip Broncs in opening game, 43-42

Handicapped by a distinct height disadvantage and, in the first half particularly, their own ragged play, the Belmond High basketeers opened their season here Tuesday night by dropping a 43-42 thriller to Eagle Grove.

In spite of the obvious evidence that they'll be losing some more games as the campaign progresses, the Broncos made it clear that they are going to be an interesting team to watch. They have a lot of scrap and as they pick up a bit more experience they are going to give any opponent a good stiff battle.

Eagle Grove jumped into an early 8-2 lead and was in charge most of the first half. The Broncos caught up in the second stanza at 20-all and once led 25-22, but at the intermission the Eagles sported a 31-25 advantage.

Holding the visitors to only four points in the third quarter, Belmond shortened the deficit to 35-33 and throughout the final period the Broncos were continually threatening. Not once, however were they able to draw even with the Eagles.

With about three minutes to go the count stood at 43-41. Three times in the waning moments of the game a Bronco went to the freethrow line with the one and one in effect but the three opportunities netted only one point.

A second or two before the final buzzer Robbie Courson came out of a scramble under the Belmond basket and dropped the ball through the hoop for what could have been the winning points. But in the din that accompanied the frenzied action on the floor a whistle calling for a held ball had not been heard and time ran out before play could be resumed.

Coach Jack Steinberg used only six men. All contributed to the scoring. Bob Finn led the Broncos with 11 points. Jerry Jenison was good for 10, Courson for seven, Vernon Pastour six, Bob Burk five and Dennis Anderson three.

The Belmond froshmores completely dominated the visiting Eaglets in the curtain raiser. Halftime found the Junior Broncos ahead 17 to 4 and only when Coach Rich Koolbeck swept the bench did the EG underclassmen make much scoring headway. The final tally was 41-20 favoring Belmond.

The Junior Broncs' scoring was well distributed. Dennis Hauge slipped in 10 points. Dennis Fuller and Ray Roberts seven apiece. Tom Downs and Dennis Gallagher five each. Sharing honors for Eagle Grove was a former Belmondite, Chuck Strait, with five points.

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank all those who remembered me with cards, letters and prayers while I was a patient at Memorial hospital, Clarion, and St Mary's hospital, Rochester. Arnold Nodland. 8t1*

We would like to express our thanks to the hospital staff and doctors, and to the many friends and relatives who showed their sympathy in so many ways at the time of our recent bereavement. The family of Mrs. Harold Aigley. g8t1*

I wish to thank friends and relatives who were so kind and helpful during my recent sorrow. My heartfelt thanks to friends and relatives for floral offerings and other kindnesses. I am deeply grateful. Andrew Heggen, Kanawha.

In shadow of sorrow that has fallen upon us we are grateful to our relatives, friends and neighbors for the flowers, memorials and sympathy in memory of our husband, father, grandfather and great grandfather, George D. Pals.

We are thankful for the kind words spoken by Rev. Brandt, Mrs. George D. Pals, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Pell, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pals, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kuhlers and family.

My sincere thanks to all who remembered me while at Belmond hospital with flowers, gifts and cards, good wishes and prayers, and to Dr. Leinbach, nurses and entire hospital staff for the wonderful care. Mrs. Archie Lee. 8t1*

I would like to thank all the nurses, nurses' aides and doctors that helped me with such good care while I was at the Belmond hospital. I also thank all the good friends, lodge members and church members that sent me cards, flowers and gifts. They were very much appreciated. Mrs. Ruby Morris. 8t1*

ROBERT LATHAM

Latham selected as Iowa delegate to 4-H Congress

Robert Latham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Latham, last week was announced as one of the 29 official delegates chosen from Iowa to attend the National 4-H Club Congress to be held in Chicago the latter part of this month.

A graduate of Alexander High school last spring, Robert headed the Class of '60 scholastically. On the strength of his scholarship record, he was among 191 first-year students enrolling at Iowa State university, Ames, to be awarded a Merit Scholarship. More than 900 students applied for these scholarships.

As an AHS student, Robert twice served as president of his class. He played in the band and also participated in baseball and basketball.

He was active in 4-H livestock and crop judging and was a member of the Franklin county team that won the national 4-H livestock judging contest held last year in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. He ranked fifth highest in individual judging in that contest.

Other honors that have come to Robert include his selection last summer as one of 10 Iowa boys to take the Iowa Farm Youth Tour; also his selection as one of Franklin county's two best groomed boys.

As a freshman curerntly at Iowa State university, Robert was elected as vice president of the Intrafraternity Pledge Council.

ALEXANDER BLUEBIRDS

Regular meeting of the Alexander Bluebirds 4-H club was held at the home of Delorus Hopkey on the evening of Nov. 14th. Roll call was answered by 10 members.

Diana Myers gave a talk on "A Nutritious Meal." Delorus Hopkey gave a demonstration on "Delicious Egg Dishes." Mrs. Hopkey and Mrs. Myers showed how to make ornaments for the Christmas tree at the Christmas Fair at Hampton.

Each of the girls and mothers made a decoration out of circles of blue and silver foil.

Six mothers were present. Lunch was served by Mrs. Hopkey and Delorus.

Cemetery society to meet next Thursday at 1:30 p. m.

Cemetery society will meet next Thursday afternoon with Mrs Eilert Modderman and Mrs. Don Hensel as hostesses. There is to be a 50c gift exchange.

This meeting is to start promptly at 1:30 o'clock as a benefit of the ladies of the WSCS who have been invited to a tea at Rowan the same afternoon.

Mr and Mrs. Gaehart Hopkey and Barbara were Monday evening guests in the Bruce Banwell home at Clarion in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Banwell.

Mr and Mrs. John Hill with the John Hill family of Adams, Minn., were dinner guests and Sunday visitors in the Leroy Miller home at Kenyon, Minn.

Mr and Mrs Curtis Peters and family of Waterloo and Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Correll and daughters of Des Moines were pre-Thanksgiving dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mrs. Floe Peters, mother of Mr. Peters and Mrs. Carroll.

Mr and Mrs. Glenn Hunst and family of Rose Creek, Minn., were dinner guests Sunday in the Hero Frohling home. Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs Leroy Green and family of Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dooley and Patti of New Providence were Sunday visitors in the Charles Campbell home.

Mr and Mrs. A. L. Hayden of Fort Dodge were supper guests Saturday evening in the George Blau home.

Cecil Rodemeyer and Bill Scofield of Mason City, Allen Rodemeyer and Ron Emmons of Tipton were dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mrs Bertha Rodemeyer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Aldinger were Sunday afternoon and supper guests in the Gorge Paullus home at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Erickson and David were Saturday and Sunday visitors in the Tom Erickson home at Huxley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perkins and Dan of Benson, Minn., were visitors Wednesday and Thursday of last week in the Charles Campbell home.

Mr and Mrs. Donald Markham and family of Kanawha were guests Wednesday evening of last week in the Gaehart Hopkey home.

T. O. Markwardt moved last week to the home he recently purchased in Latimer.

A HOST OF FRIENDS and relatives joined with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Latham of Hampton last Sunday in celebrating their Golden Wedding anniversary. Open house was held by the Lathams at St. Paul's American Lutheran church, Hampton, from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m. A brief program was presented at 3:00 o'clock. Hosts for the occasion were the honorees' two sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Latham of Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Latham of Fort Dodge. Besides their two children, the Lathams take pride in eight grandchildren. Mamie Meyer and Jessie L. Latham were wed at the home of the bride's parents west of Latimer on Nov. 24, 1910. They farmed in the Alexander vicinity for 34 years, before retiring from the farm in 1944 and moving to Hampton. (Engraving courtesy of Hampton Chronicle)

County officers for '60-61 named—

John Hanson, Troy Toppers, heads 4-H boys

John Hanson of the Troy Toppers 4-H club was elected Wright county farm project 4-H president at the 4-H Award Night which was held Monday of last week at the IOOF hall in Clarion.

Other officers elected were: Mark Hill, Grant Growers, vice president; Gene Mosher, Wall Lake Beavers, secretary-treasurer; and Doug Frohling, Woolstock Jr. Stockmen, historian.

The new officers were installed in a candlelight ceremony by the 4-H girls' county officers: Joan Mathre, Norway Jolly Joy Makers, president; Jane Studebaker, Belmond Busy Bees, vice president; Judy Moellering, Woolstock Willing Workers, secretary; and Carolyn O'Neel, Lake Leading Ladies, historian.

Awards were given to farm project and home economics 4-H members who had done outstanding jobs on their projects and record books.

Farm project 4-H achievement award winners were: Beef Producers' Award — Ubbo Agena, Blaine Livewires; Swine Producers' Award — Danny Nesheim, Liberty Pathfinders; Lamb Producers' Award — Bill Hanson, Troy Toppers; Dairy award — LaVerne Hadley, Iowa Hawkeyes.

Leadership Award—Melvin Bosworth, Liberty Pathfinders; Achievement Award — John Rodecap, Lake Leaders; Ten-year Award — Jim Weld, Lincoln Leaders; Holstein Award — Bob Drury, Iowa Hawkeyes; and Brown Swiss Bell — John Rodecap, Lake Leaders.

Award winners for home economics achievements were: Achievement Awards — Katherine Vroman, Blaine Blue Ribbon Winners, and Wendy Duitscher, Lake Leading Ladies; Clothing Awards — Martha Trask, Belles of Boone, Jerilyn Johnson, Lake Leading Ladies, and Faye Homervold, Belmond Busy Bees; Garden Award—Glenda Collins, Up-and-Coming Vernonites.

Home Economics Awards — Carolyn O'Neel, Lake Leading Ladies, Janice Johnson, Norway Jolly Joy Makers, Janet Martin, Belles of Boone, and Joan Mathre, Norway Jolly Joy Makers; Leadership Award — Lynne Arends, Iowa U-Go-I-Go; and Bank Awards — Janet Martin for yearly record book, Janice Johnson for long-time expense book, Barbara Lewellyn for yearly expense book, and Lynne Arends for long-time record book.

Presenting the Achievement Awards at Award Night this year were Bob Dawson and Mrs. Arthur Homervold, chairmen of the boys' and girls' 4-H county committees, respectively.

Clover Awards to 4-H leaders were presented by Lyle Lewellyn, vice president of the Wright County Farm Bureau: silver clover awards for five years' service — Clifford Bosworth, Goldfield; Mrs. Lloyd Drury, Rowan; Mrs. Jim White, Dows; Mrs Dean Maxon, Clarion, Mrs. Glenn Schutt, Woolstock; and Mrs. Verne Lewellyn, Clarion.

Gold clover awards for 10 year's service — Grant Jergenson, Kanawha, Mrs. Enfred Pearson, Renwick; and Mrs. C. C. Woodin, Clarion; pearl clover award for 15 years' service — Craig Nelson, Goldfield.

State 4-H Health Camp reports were given by John Rodecap, Lake Leaders, and Joan Mathre, Norway Jolly Joy Makers. State 4-H Leadership report was given by Harvey Hilpipre, Lincoln Leaders; and a report on the State Farm Youth Tour was given by John Rodecap, Lake Leaders.

Chicago Award Trip winners and their sponsors were announced by Aaron R Bowman, County Extension Director.

A style show of the dress revue winners was presented by Mrs. Mervin Hilpipre, a member of the girls' 4-H committee.

Presiding at 4-H Award Night was Melvin Bosworth, Liberty Pathfinders, 1959-1960 boys' 4-H county president, and Joan Mathre, 1960-61 girls' president.

4-H award trip winners chosen

Winners of the 4-H Chicago Award Trips were announced at last weeks' county 4-H Award Night held at Clarion. Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, explained that award trips are based on the members' record books, 4-H achievements, 4-H activities, offices held, and project work.

Winners of Chicago Award Trips from farm project 4-H clubs were: Danny Nesheim, Liberty Pathfinders; Gary Patterson, Blaine Livewires; John Rodecap, Lake Leaders; Jerry Mosher, Wall Lake Beavers; Raymond Houck, Blaine Livewires; and Bob Drury, Iowa Hawkeyes.

Winners of home economics Award Trips were: Wendy Duitscher, Lake Leading Ladies; Joan Mathre, Norway Jolly Joy Makers; Martha Trask and Bonita Engstrom, Belles of Boone; Roberta Stover, Blaine Blue Ribbon Winners; and Janice Rietema, Norway Jolly Joy Makers.

Tomco, Inc., of Belmond and Rowan Lumber and Grain company are among the firms who are paying transportation and lodging costs for a 4-H award trip winner this year.

Sample ag. survey slated in Wright by census bureau

The 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will be conducted in this county during the next several weeks, it was announced last week by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce.

The 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will collect information on ownership and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, and livestock production and inventories.

Information will be collected also on farm equipment, farm income, construction of new farm buildings, farm contracts, and farm operator debts. This survey will supplement information collected in the 1959 Census of Agriculture.

Farms in the county which will be covered in the 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture were selected at random under the Census Bureau's scientific sampling program to provide a representative cross-section of all farms in the country.

Information collected locally will be combined with that collected in other areas of the country to provide national estimates. Local interviews for the 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will be conducted by Mrs. Lillian Jorgensen.

Faye Homervold, Rochelle Fuller among 4-H girls getting honors

4-H girls clubs in Wright county were presented with County Awards by Geraldine Steele, county home economist, at last week's Award Night at Clarion. All 16 Home Economics clubs received the Standard Club Certificate. This certificate is awarded for meeting outlined requirements.

Since all clubs received the Standard Award, each received an Achievement Seal to be placed on its club charter for 1960.

Along with these awards, health certificates were given to the Woolstick Willing Workers, Lake Leading Ladies and Belles of Boone for the outstanding work in health.

Out of 325 girls enrolled in 4-H club work this past year, 125 of them received book mark awards for reading six books from the approved reading list.

Gerald Anderson, county extension associate, recognized those clubs which had turned in the largest number of record books, the largest percentage of record books, the 4-H club members whose record books scored over 90, and the club secretary-treasurers who received a blue award.

The club with the largest number of record books turned in for scoring was the Liberty Pathfinders with 21 books scored, 15 of those above 90.

The club with the largest percentage of record books scored was the Lake Leaders with 83 per cent six out of the 10 scored were 90 or above.

Following are the 4-H club secretary-treasurers whose club record books won a blue award: Marilyn Conover, Blaine Livewires; Sharon Loux, Dayton Dynamiters; John Rodecap and Mitchell O'Neel, Lake Leaders; Danny Nesheim, Liberty Pathfinders; and Bill Appelgate, Wall Lake Beavers.

Every clothing project year, girls compete in dress revue, the girls making their own dresses and choosing appropriate accessories to complete their outfits. Five girls chosen from the intermediate and senior divisions received the dress revue award for their excellent work.

These girls modeled their outfits at 4-H Award Night. Those girls receiving dress award pins from Mrs. Marvin Hilpipre, county 4-H committeewoman, were: Elyse Schutt, Woolstock Willing Workers; Faye Homervold, Belmond Busy Bees; Janet Martin, Belles of Boone; Mary Swanson, Wall Lake Wee Women; and Rochelle Fuller, Belmond Busy Bees.

WHEN IS A LAXATIVE DANGEROUS?

Appendicitis is one of our worst killers and only because of neglecting to get medical attention in time. Most fatal cases develop when taking a laxative or cathartic to relieve stomach or abdominal pains, one of the symptoms.

That is why a laxative or any home remedy should only be secured from a pharmacist. We can caution you against unsafe use and tell you when a physician's advice is preferable.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces . . . — Isa. 25:8

Long distance patrons wailing again over service

Sometime last year, fed to the teeth with the kind of long distance service provided Belmond phone patrons by Northwestern Bell through its Clarion switchboard, we emitted an editorial yowl that attracted the attention of a district Bell official at Fort Dodge.

This is a frank, second attempt for succor. We are joined by practically every frequent user of long distance service that we know of in declaring that the service now provided is L-O-U-S-Y!

We've formed the habit of glancing at our wrist watch every time we seek to place a long distance call, curious as to how long we're going to be left hanging on the limb. By actual observance of the second hand, we've lately had waits of 90 seconds and an even two minutes.

W're told that anything over a 10-second wait is considered by Northwestern Bell as a "slow call." We haven't yet started keeping track of the percentage of slow calls of which we're the victim, but it would run pretty high, we're sure.

With our calls, a matter of inconvenience is mainly involved. On the other hand, some of Belmond's businesses that place large numbers of commercial calls could conceivably suffer monetary losses by the waits now involved — not in getting calls through, so much as simply getting the operator's attention.

When a grain buyer wants to reach a market, he wants it NOW. It does not stretch the imagination much to conceive the lapse of two or three minutes involving a two or three-cent change in a grain price when an upward trend's been hit.

Consultation with several of the most extensive users of long distance service in Belmond has brought us the unanimous response that the service is poor beyond all excuse.

Northwestern Bell's got a problem at that Clarion switchboard. We suspect it's as much, if not more, mechanical rather than a problem of personnel (although the latter undoubtedly enters in at times). Surely in this technical age, it's NOT a problem beyond solution. If it costs some money — well, the last we knew, AT&T (of which Northwestern Bell is a subsidiary) was something short of facing bankruptcy.

The phone company's disgusted patrons are completely familiar with all the explanations of WHY the long distance service is far below par. What they are interested in is some service that won't make explanations necessary.

Where was "City" support for that special issue?

In last week's Scanning column we declared our intention of reviewing no further the outcome of Nov. 8th's election from a partisan viewpoint. There are, though, several observations that might well be made that have nothing to do with party politics.

One is that the voters of Belmond are deserving of a pat on the back for turning out at the polls in the numbers that they did. We haven't figured the percentage of county voters that exercised their franchise, but we're confident it fell appreciably below the 85 per cent that voted in Belmond. And the local figure ran well ahead of the percentages for both state and nation.

Another thing that is noteworthy is the per cent of voters who expressed their opinion on the constitutional convention question. (We hope that not too many of the votes were cast in the manner of a couple we heard about. One lady emerged from the poll both waving her yellow, special issue ballot and inquiring of a waiting friend, "What's this?" . . . Replied the friend, "Oh, you know it's that constitutional dealie. If you don't know how to vote, just do like I did and guess.")

We presume that most of the 93 per cent of the voters in Wright county who cast ballots on the question "knew how to vote" and did so from conviction. The constitutional convention was very solidly voted down in this county, as it was in all predominantly rural counties.

The noteworthy thing in this regard is that the implication was that the special question was pushed to the forefront by the overwhelming demand of Iowa's urban areas that "something be done" about reapportionment. From this it would have been properly assumed that the city vote on the constitutional convention would run tremendously high, as the agitated city folk demanded their right to proportionate representation.

But take a look. Compared to Wright county's 93 per cent use of the special ballot, only 68 per cent of those who voted for president in Polk county troubled to vote on the constitutional convention; and in Black Hawk (Waterloo), another highly urbanized county, just 73 per cent of those casting presidential votes expressed their opinions on the special question.

So it would appear that the sponsors of the constitutional convention OVER-estimated the aggravation of the average city voter on the matter of reapportionment — and under-estimated the determination of the rural voter to defend his geographical representation.

. . . One other important impression should certainly have been left by the 1960 election, viewed nationally. After the vital importance a relatively handful of votes attained in so many key states, few eligible voters should in another election year resort to the lazy citizen's excuse that "one vote can make no difference."

The DIFFERENCE that a vote here and there CAN make should be manifest as never before. But rest assured, the old excuse will still be used by millions of voters who hold in too light regard the rights — and obligations — of American citizenship.

Free enterprise — it's hard to beat

Free enterprise works if we let it.

As proof of this fact let's imagine the world population, now nearly three billion, is a town of 1,000. Of the 1,000 only 60 are Americans, yet this 60 receives half of the town's income.

That proof enough? If not look at the life expectancy. The Americans have a life expectancy of 70 years, the other 940 persons have a life expectancy of only 40 years.

COULD SOCIALIZED MEDICINE increase this? We doubt it.

There is good reason to believe that free enterprise and the ingenuity of Americans, when allowed to flourish, would enable us to live longer, better and at the same time give more aid to the rest of the world.

For some more figures on the town of 1,000 here is an analogy made by Dr. Henry S. Lieper of the World Council of Churches:

OF THE 1,000 ABOUT 330 would be Christians. Eighty people would be communists and 370 more dominated by communists There would be 300 white people and 700 non-whites

In this picture it is not hard to find yourself. To find out the value of yourself means taking advantage of the freedoms you have, and doing your best to insure that government encroachment on them stops now — Newton Daily News

Baked from "Scratch"

Apparently the long-established practice of having a "brand X" product used as a whipping boy in TV comparison tests has provoked a rash of new products proudly labeled Brand X.

Among these are a window cleaner, a popcorn, and a prospective detergent to be emblazoned with the name "WON'T."

THIS IS ALL VERY SUDSY, but it is likely to be self-defeating. As a result of this flurry of opportunism (based on the knowledge that many TV viewers habitually favor the underdog, even if it is a soap powder) Brand X-type advertising is rapidly becoming ex-.

Producers of "superior" brands won't risk mentioning even an inferior brand, if it can be bought. So free Brand X advertising may be at an end.

THEREFORE WE WOULD SUGGEST to the two firms that have incorporated under the Brand X name that they switch to an idea proposed by a housewife we know.

This is that somebody start producing packaged mixes under the brand-name SCRATCH. Then every hostess can proudly tell her dinner guests their cake was made from scratch. Even superior brands would be inferior to that — Christian Science Monitor

WITH YE ED

PILGRIMS HAD IT TOUGH—

The Pilgrim homemaker boiled and toiled for days to prepare for the first Thanksgiving dinner in 1621. But, thanks to methods of food preservation she never dreamed of, her modern sister can put a similar feast on the table in a matter of hours.

It was almost 200 years after Governor William Bradford decreed a day of thanksgiving that canning was invented. A French candymaker named Nicolas Appert published the report of his invention in 1810, after collecting the prize of 12,000 francs that his government had offered for a method of preserving food for its troops.

Now the housewife can simply open a can of mincemeat, pumpkin, or cranberry sauce — or any of the other foods that bring the yearly retail value of canned foods to approximately $4.5 billion.

Or, she can roast a frozen turkey and open a package of frozen corn, part of the $2 billion worth of frozen food that is produced annually, according to World Book Encyclopedia. The Pilgrims probably kept some foods on ice, but it was the mechanical refrigeration developed in the late 1800's and the quick-freezing process of Clarence Birdseye developed in the 1920's that made freezing an important means of food preservation.

FREEZE-DRYING NEXT?—

In Thanksgiving dinners yet to come, the housewife may serve a freeze-dried turkey, one that has been quick-frozen and the moisture removed. Freeze-drying was used in the days of the Pilgrims but only for preserving biological specimens in the laboratory. Just a few decades ago, scientists began to apply this method to food.

A shipment of freeze-dried food currently is nourishing the World Book's Scientific Expedition to the Himalaya, led by Sir Edmond Hillary.

Recently scientists have been experimenting with irradiation as a method of preserving food. If further experiments are successful, tomorrow's turkey dinner may be chock full of gamma rays.

FREEDOM TO WORSHIP—

Coming right prior to Thanksgiving time, as it did, a piece of mail received last weekend by The Independent boosted our blood temperature by quite a number of degrees. For it was pursuit of religious freedom that sent the pilgrims to our shores (regretfully, there were times following when those early forebears of ours were something less than liberal, themselves, in allowing their neighbors to worship — or NOT worship — as they pleased).

From an address in Texas, we received a signed check — amount undesignated — to pay for an advertisement publicizing an anti-Catholic book. It (the advertisement) and the check were deposited in our wastebasket with dispatch; and we had an inclination to go and wash our hands.

One of the things that inevitably impresses newcomers to Belmond is the remarkable absence of religious clannishness. We express it that way, in preference to crediting our community with religious "tolerance," because to us that term seems to imply some degree of INtolerance in itself.

Why should a person feel any reason for pride in being "tolerant" towards individuals of other faiths? Unless acceptance of the other fellow's right to his own beliefs is natural, unhesitating and COMPLETE, more toleration than tolerance is involved.

So you'll not find in The Independent an invitation to purchase anti-Catholic literature — NOR anti-Methodist, anti-Lutheran, anti-Congregational or anti-anything else.

SUPERVISORS EXEMPT —

We erred last week in placing some of the blame for Wall Lake township's biennial liesurely counting of election ballots on supervisor-appointed election officials. In our ignorance, we did not know that the township trustees and clerk have the option of serving on the election board if they choose.

In Wall Lake township (remember, they got their ballot count in to the county auditor's office at 5:05 a. m. on Wednesday, the morning after the election?) all but one trustee exercised this prerogative.

An old-timer on the board of trustees, W. L. Meyer of Blairsburg, has regularly served on the election board — but will no more, UNLESS by appointment. He was defeated for re-election as a trustee. There are those who suspect his absence from future election boards may have an expediting effect on the ballot count. . . . Maybe the Wall Lakers were getting tired of their "always last" reputation?

Know your businessmen—

Farmers Grain has expanded under L. Hayes

LeRoy Hayes, who on Jan. 1 will be completing four years as manager of Farmers Grain company, is a complete believer in the business philosophy that a firm must "either keep on growing, or get run over."

Considering what has happened at Farmers Grain in the past four years leaves small room for fear that this particular business is in any danger of "getting run over."

When LeRoy took over the reins at the start of 1956, the locally owned elevator had just 70,000-bushel storage capacity. In these days when vast quantities of stored grain are a seemingly permanent fixture of the nation's economy, that figure was something less than impressive.

The new manager urged the stockholders to launch a program of systematic expansion and his arguments were clearly persuasive. In '56, an additional 130,000 bushels of bin space was constructed. In 1958, the capacity was boosted by another 130,000 bushels; last year, 110,000 bushels of storage space went up; and this year 160,000 more was added. That puts the company's own storage space today at 600,000 bushels.

In addition, Farmers Grain has under its supervision government bins holding some 400,000 bushels of corn. Since its own bins are all completely filled, that makes better than a milion bushels of corn that the firm is responsible for.

Practically since Mr. Hayes moved into the Farmers Grain office, the company's purse strings have rarely remained drawn for very long at one time. Cost of improvements in the past 46 months have come to $220,000; and another $65,000 has been spent on necessary maintenance and repairs.

Besides all the new bins, the company has built a new office, installed new scales, erected a modern feed mill and added three new trucks.

LeRoy says, "This expansion has been for the purpose of continually serving this farm community better and better. And we're by no means done yet. The officers of Farmers Grain company realize that further opportunities for service remain. That is why plans to meet some of them are right now on the drawing board."

Feed business, alone, has come close to doubling in the past four years. Other operations have helped to raise the company's volume of business from approximately $856,000 in 1956 to $1,065,000 last year; and Manager Hayes confidently expects the million-dollar figure to be surpassed a comfortable margin again in 1960.

About 10 per cent of this business volume is subject to retail sales tax, indicating that the elevator has had a definite hand in the surge in retail sales Belmond has experienced in the past five years.

Not only has it been productive of retail sales tax, but it has become an increasingly important contributor of property tax for the support of the municipal and county governments and of our local schools. Farmers Grain will probably pay close to $6,000 in property tax in 1961, an increase of almost 500 per cent over what it was paying a mere five years ago.

Farmers Grain was established in the fall of 1922. Its manager for 30 years was George Elder. It has always been a corporation owned by local stockholders exclusively. At present, it possesses 36 individual stockholders. They and the company's officers would be highly pleased if this number were appreciably increased.

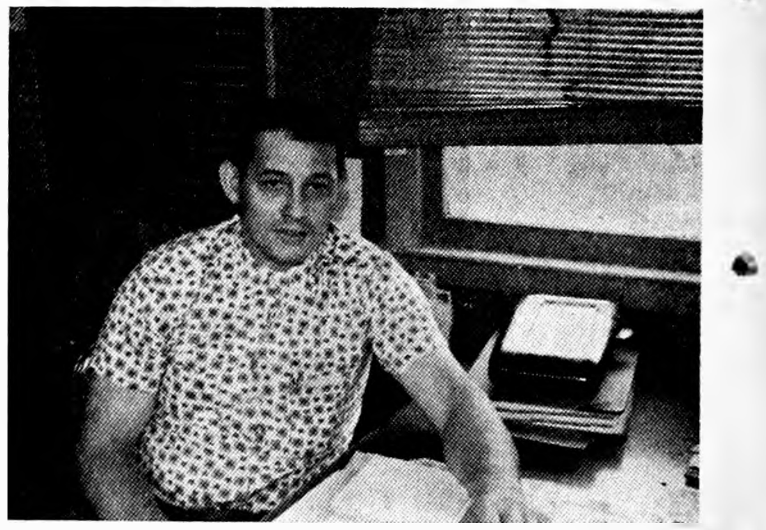
There is treasury stock currently available, and Manager Hayes or any of the officers would be most happy to discuss sale of some of those shares with any producing farmer interested in acquiring stock in Farmers Grain.

W. P. Tyrrell is current president of the company. His son Dwight is secretary-treasurer and the other directors are William Sheriff, Sr., Garfield Halverson, Jr., and Jim Payne.

When LeRoy Hayes came here to assume management of the elevator, he brought with him six years' experience in the business. All of that time was spent with the Highview Co-op Elevator, located west of Webster City, where he had advanced to the position of assistant manager by the time of his departure to run the business here.

George Waddington is the senior member of Farmers Grain's six-man staff. He's been an employee of the firm for 23 years. His daughter Carol is bookkeeper. Other full time employees are Ralph Wendel, Bob Modderman and Rex Elphic. During its busiest seasons, the elevator has a couple of more men on its payroll.

LeRoy does not say what the company's next step forward is to be. But reviewing the progrss of the past four years, it can very much be taken for granted that he has another iron or two in the fire that will be leaving their brand on Farmers Grain in the imminent future.



LEROY HAYES SAYS, "BUSINESS MUST GROW, OR ELSE . . ."

Little Chats On Public Notice

TO BE PUT ON NOTICE
(No. 1 in a Series)

Sometimes after a thing has been done an interested party complains, "But they didn't tell me." If his complaint is justified it may or may not be too late to remedy the matter. In effect, however, the trouble was that he was not given due notice.

In the truly democratic countries an important legal principal is involved in the fundamental right "to be put on notice." This is true, for the individual, as well as for business and other interests and for the community at large. Only the dictator countries restrict or deny this basic right to be put on notice.

The purpose of being put on notice is two-fold: (1) To inform the individual or others concerned as to some contemplated action that concerns their rights, and or (2) to enable them to take whatever steps they deem necessary to protect those rights.

As is pretty well known there are various ways of being put on notice. One is by personal service or direct notice. Another is by posting in a public place, and a third is by actual publication. This last is usually done in a bona fide local newspaper of paid general circulation.

With the rapid growth of population and the complexity of modern living, personal service is not always feasible or is too costly where numbers of people are concerned. In such circumstances the bona fide newspaper is an effective medium. It is no accident that in thousands of situations, the law provides specifically for this method of giving notice.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Waddington spent the weekend at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mima Waddington. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waddington and Neal and Mrs. Mima Waddington plan to spend Thanksgiving Day with the Ray Waddingtons.

Betty Gander of Perry and Duane Tingwald of Woodward were Sunday guests at the parental Carrol Gander home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Martin and family of Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Leber and family of Guthrie Center spent Sunday at the Gaylord Martin home. Dale is a son and Mrs. Leber a daughter of Mr. Martin.

Mrs. John Reynen, her daughter, Mrs. Arndt Mondaal, and her two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Bill Reynen and Mrs. Al Reynen, all of Hollandale, Minn., and Mrs. Jake Pals of Meservey spent Wednesday of last week with Mrs. Genevieve Suntken and her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Wilkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quigley were guests Sunday in the home of Pat and Grace Quigley at Fort Dodge.

LIVESTOCK AUCTION SALE

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25 AT 1:00 P. M.

Special Dairy Sale will be held in conjunction with our regular Friday auction. Ernest Buss, Clear Lake, will sell his entire herd of outstanding Holstein cattle including:

3—3 year old cows; 2—4 year old cows; 1—5 year old cow; 2—6 year old cows; 1—2 year old close-up springer.

The above cows include 2 milking, the balance are springing. 6 yearling heifers, open; 3 heifers, 10 months old; 1 heifer, 4 months old.

These cattle are all Artificial breeding, some 5th and 6th generation band and TB tested. A very outstanding herd.

Fred Caffrey of Clear Lake will sell 26 Holstein heifers, weight 800 pounds, open and calfhood vaccinated — come from Wisconsin as calves and are very choice quality. These Dairy cattle will be sold starting at 2 o'clock. If you have dairy cattle to sell, consign them to this sale. Special buyers will be in attendance.

Winfred Salisbury of Clear Lake will sell his herd of Hereford cows and calves. The calves are black whiteface, very nice quality. Suitable for club work.

800 to 1,000 Western Stockers

400 Hereford and Angus steers and heifer calves, weight 350 to 450 lbs.; 150 Hereford yearling steers, weight 650 to 625 pounds; 25 Angus steers, weight 575 pounds; 65 Hereford yearling heifers, weight 600 to 700 pounds; 150 Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn heifers, weight 550 to 650 pounds, from North Dakota; 34 Shorthorn steer calves, weight 475 pounds; 30 Shorthorn heifer calves, weight 425 pounds; and many more not listed. The above cattle are from Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and North and South Dakota. The quality will please you. Good runs are being received and sold at Clear Lake every Friday and selling well worth the money compared to other markets. Come early and look the stock over.

Also a good run of native stockers and butcher cows. All native consignments are sold before the Westerns. All consignments are appreciated and sorted and sold to the best advantage. Plan to attend this auction.

FAT CATTLE AUCTION

Monday's auction was very active with prices strong to 25 higher. There are many packers and order buyers attending the fat cattle auctions with buying power to handle much larger receipts. Some of the sales this week:

24 Whiteface heifers, 980 pounds at $24.00; 30 Whiteface heifers, weight 897 at $24.10; 30 Whiteface heifers, 900 pounds at $23.90; 18 Whiteface steers, weight 1,190 at $24.40; 16 black steers 1,220 pounds at $24.75; 29 Mixed Steers, weight 1,210 at $23.45; 4 Shorthorn heifers, 1,105 pounds at $23.95; 14 Shorthorn Steers, weight 1,060 at $25.10. And many more.

To receive full benefits of an active market as we have at the present time, sell your cattle at the Clear Lake Auction where they are sold to the highest bidder.

VOL. 42 NO. 9 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, DEC. 1, 1960 11/28/85 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Only a meager handful of concerned citizens turned out Monday night for Aaron Bowman's talk at the high school on the threat of Dutch elm disease in this community. What this blight could mean to Belmond's appearance is suggested by a tree survey recently conducted at Clarion. If the count there is "typical" for towns in this vicinity, the number of shade trees roughly duplicates the population; and elms represent about 31.5 per cent of the total.

Clarion has 3,346 trees (compared to its population of 3,222) of which 1,053 are elms. This formula would suggest Belmond's tree count as being around 2,600, with approximately 820 being elms. This is a fairly broad assumption — but it might turn out to be quite close to fact.

We don't propose to go into Mr Bowman's remarks to any extent in this brief item, leaving that to a later time. But we do believe it's time for Belmond propertyowners to give serious thought to the tragedy that Dutch elm disease could cause here. If it is NOT combatted, an infected community stands almost certainly to lose 90 to 95 per cent of its elms. If you can conceive such a loss, you'll appreciate the importance of DOING something.

Arthur C. Dorr of Orange, Calif., was here visiting his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Dorr, from Wednesday of last week until yesterday. He's a subscriber to The Independent, and therein lies our tale. His wife noticed an Elliott Hardware "special" on turkey platters and wrote to Ellis to see that her husband returned home with one. The platter was duly delivered to Arthur — and yesterday was winging its way to the coast via jet airliner! Advertising pays, huh?

Through a misunderstanding, last week's Main Street item on the Masons' 50-year dinner for John Greenlander credited King Solomon lodge with a 60-year member it does not possess and omitted the name of one of the lodge's 50-year members. Clyde Jennings was not mentioned in this category and Hugh Whitten of Rowan, another 50-year Mason, was credited with 60 years of membership. Present from Dows was Carl Weber, who is a 60-year Mason — but not a member of the local lodge.

These Jaycees did a record-breaking job of getting the Main street Christmas decorations up Sunday afternoon (must have taken less than three hours). Unfortunately, Monday and Tuesday's wind did an equally record-breaking job of tearing the purties down. . . . Just because Old Man Winter delayed his arrival as he did was no durned excuse for being so NASTY when he DID get here. Wonder who we could write about IT Benson?

Confidence in the Mainstreeters' cat-finding service brought us a letter all the way from San Antonio, Tex., last week. Mrs. Albert Chosed wrote to advise us that the fluffy-tailed, pure white cat belonging to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ell, disappeared a month ago and they would very much like to get "Fluffy" back. He belonged to the Choseds' children, but had been left with Grandpa and Grandma Ell when the Chosed family visited them in June. "Fluffy" was just a kitten then; is about seven months old now. If you know anything of a cat meeting this description, let the Mainstreeters or Mr. and Mrs. Ell know, would you please?

Postmaster Ted Townsan gave us an article to run on early mailing of Christmas cards and packages which, we regret to say, we just didn't have room for. One thing emphasized, though, was the posting of cards in bundles clearly identified as "All for Local Delivery" or "All for Out of Town Delivery."

These bundle labels will be delivered to all local boxholders. YOU are the one who'll benefit IF you use 'em . . . so USE 'em.

Also bear in mind that if a friend's worth buying a greeting card for, it should be worth the price of first class mail to be sure the card GETS there. (This permits a personal message, too, as well as the privilege of return to you if the address has been changed.) Above all — mail early; cards AND packages!

FFA awards ten Greenhand degree

Ten first-year vocational agriculture students at Belmond High school were awarded the Greenhand degree by Friendly Service chapter of Future Farmers of America at a recent candlelight ceremony performed in the presence of parents of the FFA members. Allan Payne, chapter president, was in charge of the program.

Those receiving the Greenhand degree were: Harold Hill, Stephen Hinman, Michael McLaughlin, Dennis McNulty, Jon Oberhauser, Phillip Olson, Douglas Pals, Daryl Suntken, Randall Thayer and Merlin Wenzel.

An additional 12 FFA members were elevated to the rank of Chapter Farmer. They were Steve Schroeder, Lynn Slining, Lynn Ru[illegible], Dennis Hauge, Dennis Fuller, Dwight Hinman, Rick and Dick [illegible], David Wolters, Gary Pals, [illegible] Boeman and Leroy Goeman.

Two good friends look at themselves in LOOK magazine

● ● ● ● ● ● ● ● ●

Article features Negro teacher—

LOOK tells story of Rick Adams

LOOK magazine devotes five pages of its current (Dec 6th) issue to the story of Richard "Rick" Adams Wright county speech therapist, who is the only Negro living in the county. Two of those pages are devoted to pictures of Mr Adams and one of his Belmond proteges, eight year old Debbie Chapman, daughter of Mr and Mrs John Chapman.

Commented LOOK, regarding "Rick's" acceptance in this all-Caucasion locale:

"When Richard Adams, 29, of Baltimore completed his training as a speech therapist at the State University of Iowa he started looking for a job in county schools in Iowa. Few Negroes live in the rural areas of the state, but prejudice still exists. Three Iowa counties turned Adams down.

"Finally, Claude W Sankey, superintendent of Wright county schools, at Clarion, hired him. 'We needed a speech therapist for our county schools,' he says. 'Besides, our county is all-white, and most of our children had never talked to a Negro. Now they can know one.'

"Adams has 110 child patients. One of the prettiest is 8-year-old Debbie Chapman of Belmond. Because Debbie's hearing is impaired, she has never learned to speak properly. Adams is teaching her lip reading.

He disconnects her hearing aid and makes her imitate sounds by letting her feel his throat while he says, 'K-k-k-k.' Then he says, 'Now feel my face while I say, "Pah pah pah." ' To Debbie, he is not a Negro but 'my best teacher.'

"Rick Adams is heartened by his friendly reception in Clarion. A doctor's widow rented him the upper floor of her big house. She recalls, 'When I saw his picture in the paper I said, "Why, this man is a Negro and he's going to need the help of God and Man, coming into this all-white county." '

"A shoe repairman loaned him a kitchen table. A druggist invited him over for dinner. A barber not only was willing to cut his hair, but gave him gifts of meat.

"Adams has worked hard to make friends. He speaks before scores of civic groups. He runs a public-speaking class for the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He plays baseball with seventh-graders performs on the bongo drums and sings calypso songs for teenagers.

"'Almost everybody seems to like me,' he says, 'but of course there will always be others. Some day, maybe I'll be accepted just as a man.'

"Occasionally, Adams has been lonely, but recently he married a girl he met at the university. Also a Negro, she is a social worker in Wright county."

Mr Adams thinks the LOOK writer who gathered the story material and the photographer who took the pictures did a fine job. He also approves of the editorial treatment given "his story." He is now in his second year as Wright county speech therapist, is keenly enthusiastic over his work and believes it is progressing most satisfactorily.

Chamber reports Christmas plans

Completed plans of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce for the pre-Christmas holiday season were made public this week by Len Collier, Chamber secretary. Starting this week, local retail stores will be open until 9:00 o'clock every Friday evening until Christmas as an accommodation to Belmond shoppers.

Opening hours for the week immediately prior to Christmas will extend to 9:00 o'clock each evening, Monday through Friday. The customary Saturday closing hours will be followed through the week ends preceding Christmas.

Free movie programs have been arranged for the children for each Saturday afternoon from Dec 3 through 24. The first three programs are being presented through the courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce and the one on Dec 24 is being provided by the New Belmond theater, where all the 1:30 o'clock matinees will be shown.

An advertisement inserted in this issue by the Chamber gives the attractions for the various matinees.

Santa Claus will make his traditional pre-Christmas visit to Belmond on Saturday, Dec 17 at 1:00 p m. He will help to distribute free treats to all the kiddies, at the city fire hall.

STRAW PILE CATCHES FIRE

A blazing pile of baled straw brought the Belmond Fire department to the farm operated by Lloyd Halfpop about seven miles northwest of town late Monday afternoon. Gusts of wind had toppled some of the straw onto an electric fence, causing the fire.

WCARC PLANS YULE PARTY

The Wright County Association for Retarded Children will hold its next meeting on Wednesday of next week at 7:30 p m in the Lincoln school at Eagle Grove. There will be a special Christmas party for all retarded children.

Two prizes won by Bud Boelman; 4 others claimed

Santa Claus really came early for Bud Boelman this year. He was winner of two of the nine Christmas Gift Days prizes that were represented by numbers posted last Friday.

He did himself a disfavor, however, by not checking the numbers in time to qualify for $10 worth of merchandise or services at a local filling station by turning in his winning tickets before 5:30 p m Friday. His prizes were an assortment of toys and Flashmite camera kit.

Fred Stadtlander of Rowan, who won a table lamp, also failed to qualify for the $5 bonus due bill. All the other three winners, however, picked up service station chits as well as their prizes.

Stella Negrete won a step stool, a hassock went to Ira Studebaker, Jr and Joe Ziller won himself an ironing board.

With three prizes held over from last week, nine winning numbers will be posted tomorrow (Friday) noon, including a wristwatch. Prizes are listed elsewhere in the Christmas Gift Days advertisement.

HELLO WORLD

Mr and Mrs Richard Floy of Mesa, Ariz, announce the birth of a baby daughter, Kristie Ann, on Nov 24. She weighed 4 lbs 11 oz. Mrs. Floy was formerly Karen Dannewitz.

A 4 lb 8 oz baby girl, Lorraine Marie, was born Nov 25 to Mr and Mrs Eugene Sankey.

A baby girl, weighing 8 lbs 1½ oz, was born Nov 25 to Mr and Mrs Vernon Dippel.

Mr and Mrs Robert Greenwood are parents of a 7 lb 3½ oz son born Nov 27. He has been named Mark Douglas.

BERNARD MENNENGA LIVING

The Independent was in error last week in stating that Bernard Mennenga of Santa Monica, Calif, had preceded his wife in death. He is in a nursing home there.

Funeral services conducted Friday for Mary Hauge

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Trinity Lutheran church for Mrs. Mary C. Hauge, 84, a long-time resident of this community. Mrs. Hauge had suffered a heart attack on Tuesday afternoon of last week and died only a brief time after being admitted to Belmond Community hospital.

Rev. Oscar Laaveg officiated over the final rites and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the cemetery of St Olaf Lutheran church, west of town. Pallbearers were R. W Courson, Dale Kessler, Walter Schleiffarth, A P Thompsen, Kermit Johnson and Gerald Swenson.

Born at Mason City

Mary C Norby was born June 1, 1876, at Mason City, the daughter of Andrew and Kjrstie Norby. She was married on March 14, 1900 to Lewis Hauge. They lived on farms near Belmond or the neighboring vicinity until moving to Belmond in 1948.

Eight children were born to Mr and Mrs Hauge, all but one of whom survive. A daughter, Alma Clarette, died at the age of 15 months. The other children are:

Mrs Preston (Gladys) Tyrrell of Belmond, Mrs Adelaide Muyres of Minneapolis, Luella Dickson of Belmond, Alvin Hauge of Detroit, Mich., Galen of Ventura, Wilmer of Goodell and Dale of Belmond.

Mr. Hauge died in 1950

Mr Hauge preceded his wife in death on June 3, 1950. Also preceding Mrs Hauge were three brothers, Anton, William and Edwin Norby.

In addition to the seven children Mrs Hauge is survived by 15 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren; also a brother, Chris Norby, and two sisters, Mrs Cal (Hannah) Thomas and Clara Norby, all the latter of Belmond.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mary Studebaker of Kanawha entered Nov. 25 for surgery.

Philip Buntenbach of Garner entered Nov 25 for surgery.

Bernard Schrader of Kanawha entered Nov 25 as a medical patient.

Louis Perkins entered Nov 28 for surgery.

Meeting here next Wednesday—

Lions sponsoring Carnegie course

Under sponsorship of the Belmond Lions club, a free demonstration meeting to acquaint people of Belmond and vicinity with the Dale Carnegie course is to be held Wednesday of next week at Veterans' Memorial hall. It will start at 7:30 p m and will be presented by R. D Hamnquist of Cherokee, area representative for the Dale Carnegie course.

This initial meeting will, according to Lions President Lloyd Lerdal, serve to introduce a 14-week course in effective speaking, leadership skills and human relations soon to be launched here.

Each of the 14 evening sessions extends over two hours. Enrollment is limited to a maximum of 40 students. The class will be taught by an authorized Dale Carnegie instructor.

Dale Carnegie courses are an outgrowth of the famous author's introduction of a unique system for building self-confidence, gaining poise in public speaking and conquering fear and worry that made a publishing sensation of his book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People." This book, since 1936, has sold five million copies and is used as a textbook in conjunction with the Dale Carnegie course.

Mr Hamnquist emphasizes that no obligation is entailed in attendance at next Wednesday's demonstration meeting. He says the purpose of the meeting is to acquaint those present with the reasons why 700,000 men and women have taken the Carnegie course in more than 1,100 cities. Anyone with curiosity about the course will be most welcome to attend.

Persons not only from Belmond but from neighboring communities as well are most cordially invited.

B S DEGREE TO NELSON

Gary Nelson, son of Mr and Mrs Marion Nelson, received his Bachelor of Science degree from Iowa State university at commencement exercises held Wednesday morning of last week at Ames. He majored in industrial administration and has accepted a position with the Bankers Life Insurance company at Des Moines. He will start his work next Monday. He came to Belmond to enjoy the Thanksgiving holiday with his parents and family.

To benefit of Belmond hospital—

Auxiliary has spent over $5,000

50 bucks to shop with

We suspect there'll be ONE shopper getting her Christmas shopping well underway this weekend — thanks to a $50 windfall that came her way Tuesday afternoon in the form of a Cash Gift Day prize. This week's lone winner was Mrs. Harold Watkins, who found the "right" number posted at 3:00 o'clock. Of course, there were 14 other number-holders whose hearts could have been gladdened $25 or $50 worth — IF they had just troubled to check this week's lucky numbers. Grimly determined to get a load of cash in circulation while the Christmas shopping season is on, the CGD committee is keeping next week's award total at $500. That'll allow for 10 awards of $25 each again at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, and five of $50 apiece at 3:00 o'clock.

ON ACTIVE ARMY DUTY

2nd Lt Robert E McLaughlin left Satuday for Fort Sill, Okla., to report for six months of active duty with the U. S Army. Lieutenant McLaughlin was commissioned at Iowa State university, Ames, where he was attached to the campus ROTC unit. He was graduated from ISU last June.

With the projected expenditure of $1,100 in funds for the further benefit of Belmond Community hospital, the Hospital Auxiliary will soon be able to point with pride to more than $5,000 in financial assistance that it has given the hospital during the six years of the auxiliary's existence.

Included in the sum mentioned is $2,000 being held in escrow to be applied on the cost of installing air-conditioning in the hospital next year. This particular project was importantly aided by the gift of $3,500 from O T Jacobson, announced several months ago.

Not taken into account is the money value of an extensive amount of sewing and mending that has been done for the hospital by auxiliary members. More work along this line will be done by these women in the course of providing the hospital with new drapes for all patients rooms except the Rowen Room and pediatrics room, where replacements are not needed at this time.

All of the new drapes will be made by the auxiliary with the exception of those for the waiting room, which will be professionally made. The cost of the drapery material, an estimated $400, will be a part of the $1,100 in expenditures approved at the auxiliary's quarterly meeting held recently.

Purchases approved at that time, in addition to the new drapes, were as follows: heartpacer, $365; cardiac monitor, $172; treatment cabinet for x-ray room, $137; and awnings for the reception room, approximately $171.

With the $400 for drapes, these figures add up to $1,245; but the sum is reduced to $1,100 by the $145 trade-in value of a used cardiac monitor that Steele Memorial Clinic donated toward the purchasing of the items named.

Underwrote engineering survey

Mrs. R. H. Gowdy, auxiliary president, summarizes $2,048.27 in prior expenditures under the following headings: suction machine, $412.18; oxygen tent, $750; engineering survey by Leland Jenison to draft efficient plans for air-conditioning, $250, material and paint for redecorating nurses' lounge, $44.58.

Furniture and draperies for Rowen Room, $236.71; Christmas decorations for hospital, $16.55; Christmas stockings (and contents) for hospital patients during past four years, $59.68; "Get Well" color books for children patients, $22; tulip bulbs for hospital grounds, $5.00; material to make bibs for new babies, $44.57; "In Quest of Health" educational material for local schools, recommended by hospital administrator, $207.

New equipment explained

Administrator Hugh Witham explains that the new heartpacer will be used to restore normal rhythm to a heart not performing properly due to shock or other reason. This is achieved through automatic electrical surges applied externally to the heart.

The cardiac monitor is a device that indicates the cardiac rate and rhythm of a patient undergoing surgery.

Notes volunteer services

Mrs. Gowdy notes that in addition to the various auxiliary services to the hospital already mentioned, another important one is the volunteer hostess service that makes possible the enforcement of hospital regulations during visiting hours.

"All told, the auxiliary has benefited the hospital in ways that challenge the expenditures of money in importance," Mrs. Gowdy observes, "although the outlay of more than $5,000 in cash may sound the more impressive."

Trager last rites held on Saturday, Methodist church

Final rites for Mrs Myrtle Trager, 73, were held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church, Rev. M L Jones officiating and Johnston Funeral Home in charge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery and pallbearers were Donald Bell, Fred Trager, Elmer Waltzing, Carl Trager, Glen Slining and Allen Farrell. Mr. Bell and Mr. Farrell, both nephews of the deceased, are from Norwalk and Northwood, respectively.

Mrs. Trager was a Belmond resident most of her lifetime. She died of a heart atttack Tuesday morning of last week as she was returning to her home in northeast Belmond after doing some shopping at the Ideal grocery.

Born near Belmond

Myrtle Reed Trager was born near Belmond on March 27, 1887, the daughter of Edwin and Clara Boughton Reed. She attended the Belmond schools and later studied at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls. She taught country school in the Belmond vicinity for three years.

On March 11, 1908, she was married to Herman Trager. They farmed near Belmond and Goodell for a time and later farmed in Mitchell county. They retired in 1943 and the following year moved back to Belmond. Mr. Trager died in 1944.

Three children survive

Three children were born to the Tragers, all of whom survive: Edwin of Crystal Lake, Arthur of Belmond and Zelma (Mrs. Roy) Bachman of Goodell. Also surviving are five grandchildren and three brothers and five sisters of Mrs Trager.

The latter are Verner Reed of Port Orchard, Wash., Reuben Reed of Belmond, Elmer Reed of Santa Rosa, Calif., Grace Reed and Mrs. Harry Slining of Belmond, Mrs. Roy Guest of Bay City, Mich., Mrs. Burdette Bell of Woolstock and Mrs Leona Farrell of Northwood.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Trager was preceded in death by a brother, Howard B Reed of St. Paul, Minn.

Friends do field work for Nodland

Thirty two friends and neighbors of Arnold Nodland assembled last Friday afternoon and Saturday to do plowing and discing for the latter who has been incapacitated for some time by ill health. Bill Meints of the Phillips "66" Service station contributed to the occasion in the way of 100 gallons of gasoline for the "good neighbors'" tractors.

Participating in the friendly gesture were the following: Gerhard Gabrielson, Sanford Severson, Elmer Gabrielson, Arthur Stockseth, Earl Hinman, Steve Hinman, Earl Swenson, Gerald Swenson, Raymond Ellingston, Herbert Hill, Gilman Soma, Charles Soma, Olaf Eliason.

Also Gary Gabrielson, Leslie Tripp, Jerry Tripp, Archie Stockseth, Cleo Wilson, Merlin Stockseth, Jon Rokke, Ernest Johnson, C A Didio, Kermit Johnson, Lar r Severson, Bob Provorse, Eldon Eliason, Art Lonning, Billy Eliason, Craig Toftey, Chet Hill, Russell Lonnevik and the firm of Helland and Long.

Former resident, J. Lillebo, dies

Funeral services were held last Friday at Zion Lutheran church, Thompson, for John R Lillebo, a one-time Belmond resident and father of Mrs. Lois Hammond. Burial was in Rose Hill cemetery at Thompson.

He died on Tuesday of last week at the Buffalo Center hospital at the age of 78. He had been bedfast for nearly a year.

In addition to his daughter here and his widow, Mr Lillebo is survived by two sons, Emory and Raynold, both of Thompson, and two other daughters, Mrs. Berge (Avis) Endreland and LaVae Lillebo, also of Thompson.

Resuscitator given credit for saving farmer's life

A piece of equipment which the Belmond Fire department had obtained only a week earlier is credited with saving the life of Morse Hunst, Belmond farmer, after he was overcome by carbon monoxide on Thursday, Nov. 17. It is a mouth-to-mouth resuscitator, which allows this new method of life saving to be performed without actual mouth-to-mouth contact with an asphyxiation victim.

Mr Hunst was overcome while driving his tractor. Its exhaust pipe had rusted through and a heat houser on the tractor allowed the deadly gas to gather in a dangerous concentration around the driver.

The mishap occurred right at supper time. Mr Hunst had managed to drive the tractor to the farm lot, but there he lost consciousness while still at the wheel and with the engine still running.

A member of the Hunst family summoned the fire department and its emergency truck was rushed to the scene. Mr. Hunst had no perceptible pulse when a neighbor, Gayle Thayer, arrived after also having been called — or when the firemen arrived moments later.

R G. "Bud" Packard rushed the mouth-to-mouth resuscitator into use and after breathing into the unconscious man's lungs a half dozen or so times a heartbeat was first noticeable. Mr. Hunst was then given oxygen by means of a tank and mask carried in the emergency truck and resumption of breathing followed.

Fulton Funeral Home's ambulance rushed Mr. Hunst to Belmond Community hospital as soon as his breathing appeared fully reinstated and his recovery was complete enough by Saturday morning to permit his release. He is more or less back to normal, now, except for being subject to severe headaches.

The firemen were so impressed by the life-saving job done by the new resuscitator that they are considering adding one to the equipment of each of the fire trucks.

Seven applicants indicate interest in postmastership

As of Tuesday afternoon of this week, seven persons had obtained applications to take the civil service examination on which selection of Belmond's new postmaster will be based. Deadline for mailing applications to the Civil Service commission at Washington, D. C., is Tuesday of next week. The examination will be given at Mason City on a date not yet announced.

Those who have indicated their intention to file for the examination are: Jim Mariga, Irvin Soma, Pat Quigley, Ed Albers, Roland Pals, Hale Mason and Steve McLaughlin.

This examination consists of two parts. One includes questions on general abilities, such as reading comprehension and vocabulary. The other includes questions on post office business management and arithmetic.

To be eligible for consideration, competitors taking the test must attain a rating of at least 70 — excluding credit for veteran preference — on both subjects of the examination, (1) the written test, and (2) experience and fitness requirements.

Numerical ratings are given those who meet the requirements on test score. Preference benefits based on honorable separation from the Armed Forces are given under certain conditions, to applicants otherwise qualified. War time service gives such an applicant a bonus of five points; and an additional 10 is awarded a disabled veteran, or one who has been awarded the Purple Heart.

Engineering work on paving project to Rowat-Murray

By action of the city council Monday evening, Rowat-Murray, Engineers, was retained to do the engineering work on the proposed street surfacing project of next summer that is scheduled to involve nearly 50 blocks of paving.

The former Belmond firm, now located at Fort Dodge, is to have its field survey and other preliminary work done within the next six to eight weeks. At that time it is to present a report, including preliminary plat and schedules.

This project tentatively includes Sunset Drive, First street NE and Clarann avenue in Kirkendall addition and an additional 42 blocks on Belmond's most heavily traveled streets.

It is recognized by the council, says City Clerk Lois Hammond, that some blocks will have to be excluded from this project that might possess a heavy majority of propertyowners interested in having their street paved.

However, the 1960 work is intended as something of a pilot project and if well received, the city fathers anticipate that it will lead to further paving being done in Belmond in succeeding years.

SCHUBERT SALE MONDAY

One of the largest public farm sales to be conducted in this vicinity this season will be that of Walter Schubert, scheduled for 12:30 p m. Monday. An unusually large amount of farm machinery, livestock and household items will be offered. Herm Brummond and Cliff Howlett will be the auctioneers.

C-of-C announces lighting contest

An invitation to Belmond residents to decorate their homes for the Yule season and — perhaps — get paid for their trouble is extended by the Chamber of Commerce in announcing its annual home-decorating contest.

First prize will be a hospitality yard lamp contributed by the Iowa Electric Light and Power company. This electrically illuminated lamp retails at about $35.

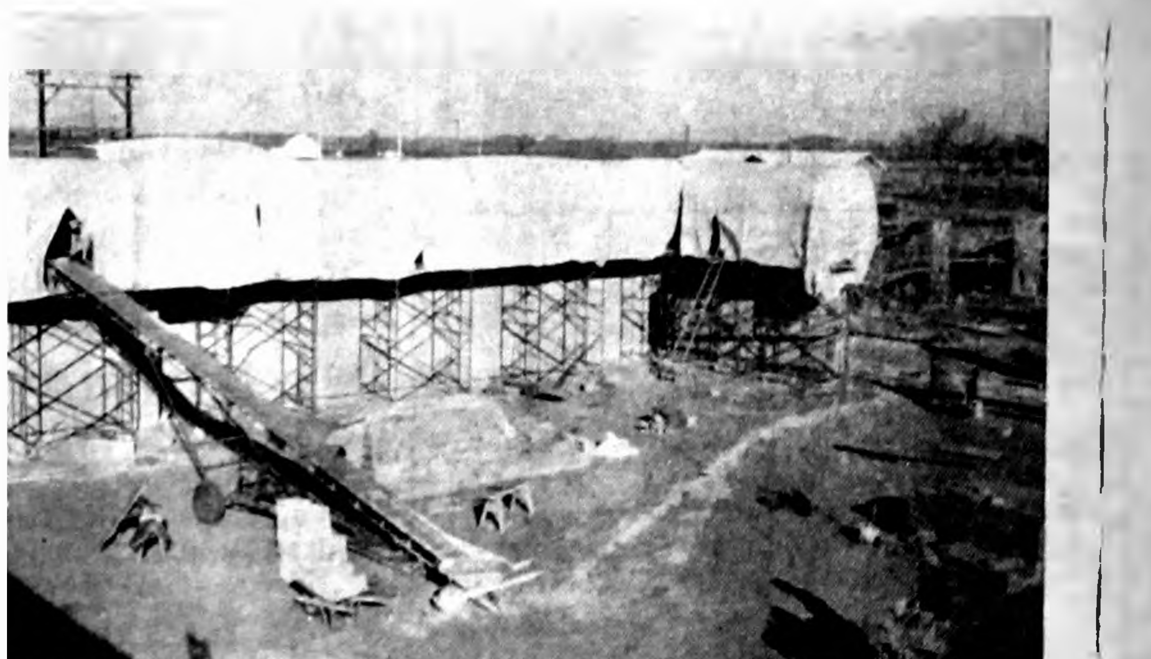
Three cash prizes will be awarded by the Chamber to winners of the next three places, totalling $30. Second place will be worth $15, third $10 and fourth $5.

Decorations may be of any type, beautifying yards, windows, porches or roofs. They will be judged just prior to Christmas.

Len Collier, C-of-C secretary, says, "It is the Chamber's hope that there will be a good response to the contest, so that Belmond will take on a really gala appearance for the Yuletide."

LENA DIETRICK DIES

Graveside rites will be held this afternoon at Belmond cemetery for Mrs. Lena Dietrick of Minneapolis, Minn., a one-time resident of this community. She died at Minneapolis on Sunday. Johnston Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements and the body was to lie in state there from 10:00 o'clock this morning until time for the service at the cemetery at 2:30 p. m.



School building ahead of schedule

That long autumn enjoyed by north Iowa this year enabled work on the new high school building and Luick Community Center to progress at a much more rapid gait than had been expected. As a result, Peterson Construction company of Clear Lake, general contractor on the job, estimates it is three and a half to four weeks ahead of normal schedule.

Pictured above is the canvas canopy under which work on the north wall of the gymnasium was being done last Friday. About mid-morning on Monday, dropping temperature and an increasingly gusty wind forced discontinuation of block-laying work for the day and the crew was idle all day Tuesday due to cold and wind.

Before this week, the builders had lost just a day and a half since work was commenced the second week in August.

Supt Don Faris notes that the original locations of the gymnasium and the second community building wing which contains the auditorium, music and rehearsal rooms, have been switched.

This was because of the necessity of having a public entrance to the east wing, adjoining the parking lot — which the lay-out of the gymnasium did not permit. Consequently, the gymnasium will comprise the west wing, rather than the east.

Roofing of the academic building was scheduled to start Wednesday of this week, with the expectation that the building would be wholly enclosed by mid-December. It can then be heated so interior work can be continued in comfort throughout the winter.

It may be spring before the roofs go on the gymnasium and auditorium wings, depending upon how steadily the mason work can be continued through the more severe weather to come.

Laying of block has to be stopped when the temperature drops below the mid-twenties; and as demonstrated this week, a strong wind will be a more frequent hindrance to work during the next several months, also.

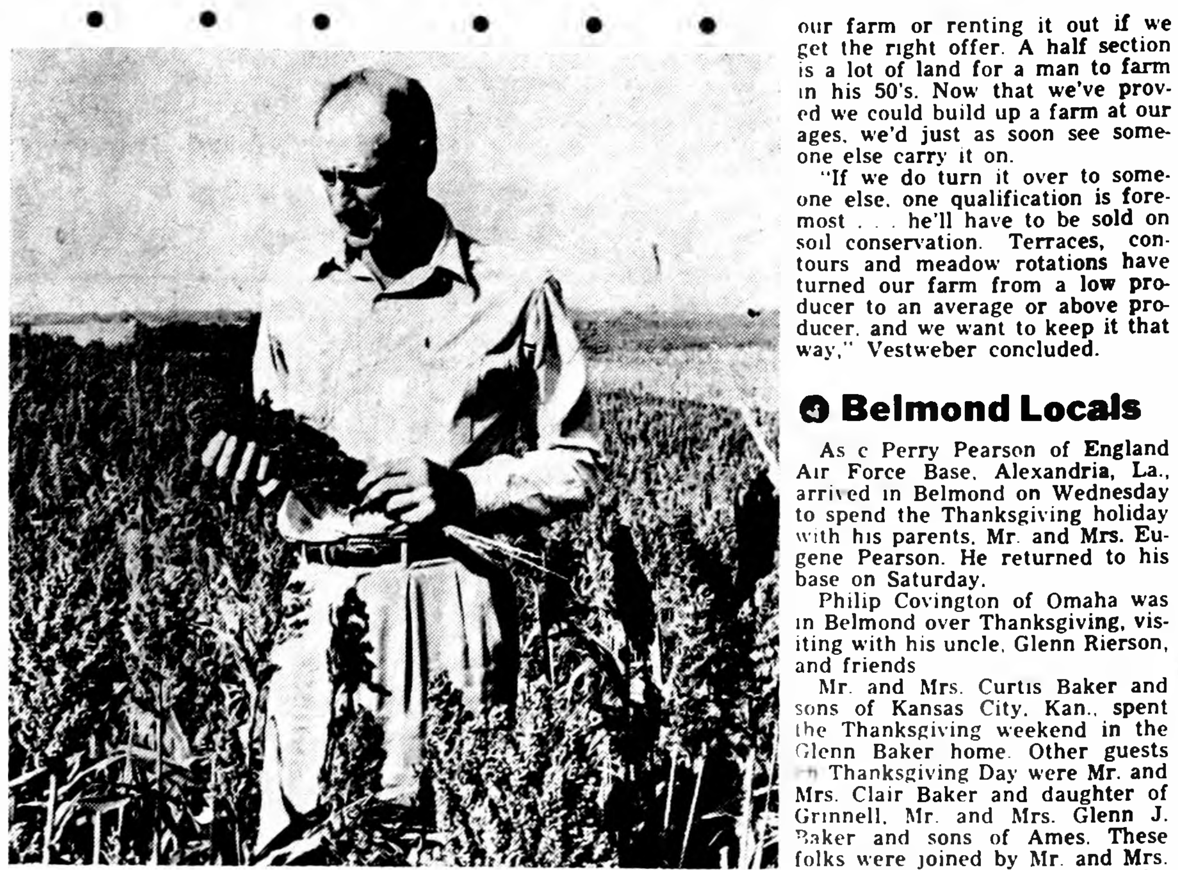
Building up "new" farm pays off—

Conservation honors earned by Vestwebers

(Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vestweber, former residents of this community, will find of interest the following story on this popular farm couple that appeared recently in the Fort Dodge Messenger.)



GRAIN SORGHUM, says Fred Vestweber, is a good cash crop for high ground on which it is difficult to raise corn. He finds that grain sorghum does well in sandy soils and can be as profitable as corn. (Messenger photo)

Six years ago, at an age when most couples are planning their retirement, the Fred Vestwebers made a big decision. After 15 years on the same rented farm near Belmond, they decided to buy their own farm.

The farm they chose to buy was a 320-acre "conservation challenge" located just southwest of Bradgate (in western Humboldt county).

"We wanted a farm which we could build up. We felt there was more of an opportunity in cheaper land we could improve ourselves rather than buying a place already built up," Vestweber said.

Now 54 years old Vestweber has brought about these changes in the past six years

1—Established 20 acres of terraces.

2—Put all the tillable soil in contour rows.

3—Established nearly eight acres of waterways.

4—Brought seven gullies under control which were slowly knifing the farm into a miniature Grand Canyon.

5—Remodeled their two-story house and a hired man's house.

6—Increased corn potential from 2,500 bushels to 10,000 bushels annually.

In recognition of these accomplishments, the Vestwebers have received four state and regional awards honoring them for their soil conservation program. This year, they have also been nominated for the Goodyear soil conservation award.

Vestweber operates his farm under a four-year rotation of corn, corn, oats and meadow He is working towards a five-year rotation of corn, corn, oats, meadow and meadow on recommendation of the Pocahontas soil conservation office.

He hopes to build up a beef herd but at present his livestock program is limited to 50 sheep, 50 hogs and 600 laying hens.

As to their long-range plans, Vestweber said:

"We're thinking about selling our farm or renting it out if we get the right offer. A half section is a lot of land for a man to farm in his 50's. Now that we've proved we could build up a farm at our ages, we'd just as soon see someone else carry it on.

"If we do turn it over to someone else, one qualification is foremost . . . he'll have to be sold on soil conservation. Terraces, contours and meadow rotations have turned our farm from a low producer to an average or above producer, and we want to keep it that way," Vestweber concluded.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

An all-for-fun program will occupy the New Belmond screen Thursday through Saturday. If you've not had the pleasure of visiting famed Disneyland, you'll get the same thrill out of witnessing, "Gala Day in Disneyland," in Technicolor. Paired with this feature is a comedy riot of the wild and wooly west, "Gold Raiders," starring the Three Stooges. A Donald Duck featurette completes the fun fest.

"From the Terrace," showing through Wednesday, is the third film in which Mr. and Mrs. (Joanne Woodward) Paul Newman have played roles opposite each other as a mismatched man and wife.

They declare that their bickering on the screen actually is a help in making their real married life happier.

It is based on the John O'Hara novel of the same name. His novels have also provided such screen fare as "Ten North Frederick," "Butterfield 8" and "Pal Joey." Popular Myrna Loy makes a return to the screen in "Terrace."

Franklin Cards too tall; Broncos whipped 62-43

Friday night at Franklin Consolidated, Jack (played by the BHS Broncos) took on the Beanstalk (personified by 6-6 George Kraft and 6-4½ Colin Halfwassen). It was a mismatch.

It was a particulariy uneven battle because Kraft and Halfwassen were supported by a pair of clever, eagle-eyed guards by the names of Don Hemmes and Carl Markwardt, plus a second capable forward, Roger Faber.

The only one of the five who showed anything like pity for the out-manned Belmond team was Hemmes. He opened the final quarter by looping in a two-pointer for Belmond in a moment of confusion; and before the host Cardinals got squared away, Vernon Pastour was given an unopposed basket.

Those four points saved the Broncos from a 20-point defeat — barely. The final count was Franklin 62, Belmond 43.

Actually, it was not height disadvantage alone that hurt the Broncos. They made far too many mistakes, also. But despite the shellacking they took and the raggedness of their play, they still left their followers good reason to hope that once they're wholly converted from football to basketball they will chalk up some victories. They keep scrapping; and some seasoning still figures to make them a pretty fair ball club.

In the opening minutes of the game. Belmond once enjoyed a 5-all tie with the Cardinals. At the end of the quarter, though, the Broncs still had their five points while Franklin had padded its total to 13. The Cardinals were still better than 2-to-1 over the Broncos at halftime, 33-16.

With the tally 49 to 27 at the end of the third period, Coach Gary Boeyink showed a little mercy and stuck in three reserves while Kraft and Halfwassen took a breather. Thanks to Hemmes's help the Broncos cut the deficit to 17 points briefly, 49-32; but over-eagerness on the losers part led to ball-handling errors that prevented a further reduction of the margin.

Kraft ended up with 18 points, Hemmes with 15 (not counting his gift basket), Markwardt 14 and Faber eight. Halfwassen tallied only five points, but nevertheless was a fly in the ointment.

Jerry Jenison, Belmond's only starter from a year ago, paced the Broncos with 16 points. Pastour and Robbie Courson got six apiece, Dennis Anderson five and Bob Burk four. Bob Finn and Mike Armour notched two each to complete Belmond's scoring.

The froshmore game was a more pleasing spectacle for the Belmond fans. The Junior Broncs led 10-5 at the quarter, 20-5 at the half and then went on to a 39-15 victory. Coach Rick Koolbeck was able to clear the bench without the Cardinal Chicks making appreciable inroads on the Belmond lead.

Tom Downs racked up 14 points in the Junior Broncs' runaway and Larry Ackerman contributed six.

Albers, Brothers "burn up alleys" on pin broadcast

Ed Albers and Gary Brothers put on a couple of spectacular bowling exhibitions last Saturday to take top money on the KSMN, Mason City, weekly bowling broadcast and assure themselves of a repeat appearance this Saturday at 4:00 p.m.

Rolling against Bill French and Fred Schmidt of Mason City, Albers and Brothers harvested 1,301 pins on last week's broadcast to win by 30 pins. Albers had a scratch 707 and Brothers contributed a 564, to which he was able to add 30 handicap pins.

Albers and his partner trailed at the end of two games, but a finishing 266 by Eddie wiped out the deficit and provided the winning margin. French had a 632 and Schmidt a 627-12—639.

In their qualifying for next week, Albers and Brothers posted a 660 and 708-30—738 for a 1,398 total. They will meet French and Bob Salier, also of Mason City, this week. Their victory last week was worth about $40 apiece to Albers and Brothers.

Mary Gordon wins on "Money Bowl"

After "lucking out" a victory on the KQTV "Money Bowl" program the week before, Mary Gordon turned in a sparkling 203 game Sunday on the Fort Dodge telecast to easily defend her handicap pin title.

She had to give a 12-pin handicap to her opponent, Edna Waddier of Sac City, and when both she and her opponent opened their games with strikes it appeared the Belmond kegler might be in for a strenuous challenge.

However, Mary's foe had an open frame in the second and after Mrs. Gordon picked up a spare she followed with two consecutive strikes to grab a lead that was never threatened. Miss Waddier finished with gross score of 158 with the help of her dozen-pin handicap.

This was Mrs. Gordon's second successful defense of her KQTV championship and gave her a total of $90 in prize money, including the initial $30 she won for ousting the defending titleist.

Broncs to tackle Osage Imps here Friday evening

Friday night will see the Belmond Broncos opening their conference basketball campaign against Osage in the local gym. Neither the Broncs nor the Green Devils, who finished one-two in the North Iowa standings a year ago, are looked upon as serious title contenders this season; but both figure to have moderately strong teams, measured against the general strength prevailing in the loop.

Like Belmond, Osage has played a pair of games to date. Prior to the jamboree they trimmed St. Ansgar 63-53 and then had the boom lowered on them Tuesday of last week by Charles City, 80 to 39.

Coach Ray Patterson regards himself so short on veteran talent that he has included a couple of sophomores on his varsity squad. One of them, Jim Treseman, is the starting center and Mike Hoeven is seeing extensive use at a guard position

Imp lettermen from a year ago are John Van Voorhis, Dave Low, Dale Hemingson and Chuck Bowman Osage is about as short on depth as the Broncos are, which could mean that conditioning might play an important part in the later stages of Friday's game here.

Coach Jack Steinberg has not been entirely satisfied with the Broncos' progress to date, but makes allowance for the fact that only Jerry Jenison has had a great deal of first-string experience. He still expects the Blue and White basketeers to develop into a smooth-passing outfit as the campaign moves along, and to make better use of their speed than they have in their early starts.

Vernie Pastour slightly re-injured his bad ankle late in the Franklin game, but should be ready to go tomorrow night barring further mishap during this week's practice.

Iowa track coach "high" on Kramer as "outstanding" distance prospect

Although only a freshman at the University of Iowa and still looking forward to his first collegiate varsity competition, Larry Kramer is already tabbed by SUI Track Coach Francis Cretzmeyer as one of the most promising cross-country and distance runners he has ever had.

This puts "Butch" in a distinctly select class. Cretzmeyer numbers among his proteges since he's been Hawkeye track coach: Ted Wheeler, an Olympic qualifier in 1956; "Deacon" Jones, a member of the 1960 U. S. Olympic team in the 3,000-meter steeplechase; Rich Ferguson, Big 10 cross-country champion; and Jim Tucker of Hampton, for two consecutive years named to the All-American Cross-Country squad.

A letter to The Independent from Bud Suter, SUI sports publicitor, says that Kramer already "runs right along with Jim Tucker," who was Big 10 cross-country 2nd-place winner this fall and winner of 9th place in the national intercollegiate cross-country meet. Tucker measures about 6-2 to Larry's 5-7 and weighs 180 or better to the former BHS star's 120 pounds.

In his only taste of actual competition this autumn, Larry last month was winner of the state and Midwest AAU cross-country race at Des Moines.

Mr. Suter stated, "We're looking for a very successful career for Larry here at Iowa." He then added that Kramer has lost the "Butch" nickname that he bore while wearing the colors of BHS. Bud reported, "The boys on the Iowa track squad call Larry 'Pony'," because of his diminutive size.

Library workshop held last week

Belmond city library played host to a library workshop on Tuesday of last week that was conducted by two representatives of the Iowa State Traveling Library staff. They were Christine Coffey, assistant director and head of extension, and Mrs. Hilda Womack, children's and young people's specialist.

Emphasis during the day-long workshop was placed on references and the prompt location of requested materials in the local library's stacks.

Librarian Fay Colby, Mrs. Richard Woodin and Cecelia Holtzbauer of the Belmond staff took part in the workshop, as did librarians from Britt, Clarion, Eagle Grove, Kanawha and Woden.

Cards of Thanks

Words cannot adequately express our deep appreciation for the many kind and sympathetic acts that came to us at the time of our recent bereavement. For the floral offerings, memorials and gifts of food, we are deeply grateful. A special thanks to Doctors Pitcher and Leinbach, to the nurses at Belmond Community hospital and to Rev. Laaveg for their kindness. The family of Mrs. Lewis Hauge. 9t1

We wish to thank the Belmond Fire Dept. and our neighbors for putting out the fire at our farm Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Halfpop. 9t1*

Many thanks to the hospital staff, doctors, funeral home, friends, neighbors and all her loved one for acts of kindness and help in many ways in the tragic death of Mrs. Harold Aigley. Her mother, Mary Polmateer, brothers and sisters. 9t1*

I am indeed grateful to all our relatives, friends and neighbors for all the beautiful cards, gifts and visits while at the hospital. Thanks also to Rev. Forrest Lay and Rev. P. E. Miller for their visits and prayers. Sincerely, Mrs. Robert J. Roths. 9t1

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy in cards, floral tributes and memorials during the recent loss of our mother. Special thanks to the woman's circle of the church for serving the dinner and the VFW Auxiliary for serving lunch. To each and all our heartfelt thanks. The children of Mrs. Myrtle Trager. 9t1*

We wish to thank our many friends, neighbors and relatives for the many cards, gifts and floral pieces we received on our 50th wedding anniversary. Nina and Ben Fetrow. 9t1*

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the many friends and neighbors for the acts of kindness, cards and floral offerings received during the illness and passing of our dear husband and father, the Rev. Wm. H. Hill. We would like especially to thank Dr. Pitcher, Dr Hruska and Dr. Leinbach and the nurses at the Belmond Community hospital who so faithfully ministered to his needs. Words cannot express our gratitude to you all Mrs. Wm. H. Hill and daughters — Mrs. Lionel Putnam and Mrs. Gerald Wallace 9t1

I wish to thank the Belmond Fire department for its prompt response and the many friends and neighbors for their thoughtfulness on the occasion of my recent, near-fatal mishap; also my thanks to the doctors and nurses for their care. Morse Hunst. 9t1*

Connie Gabrielson, Fred Loats wed in rites performed November 12th

Miss Connie Gabrielson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gabrielson, and Fred Loats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Loats of Mason City, were married Saturday evening, Nov. 12, at 7:30 o'clock at the Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. O. Laaveg performed the double-ring ceremony. Baskets and sprays of yellow and bronze mums and pompons decorated the altar and candelabra.

Mrs. Paul Jenison, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Gloria Rogalla as she sang "Oh, Perfect Love," "Walk Hand in Hand with God" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of lustrous satin. The bouffant skirt was appliqued with delicate lace medallions and had a bustle bow in the back. The pointed, fitted bodice had a round neckline, also appliqued with lace medallions trimmed with iridescent sequins. The fitted, pointed sleeves were long. The bride's finger-tip silk illusion veil was attached to a crown of aurora borealis crystals and she carried a crescent consisting of a white orchid and yellow roses.

Maid of honor was Mrs. James Riggins of Eldora, sister of the groom, and the bridesmaids were Vicki Smith, half-sister of the bride, and Marjorie Gabrielson of Mason City, cousin of the bride.

All were attired in ballerina-length gowns of chestnut brown taffeta. Their dresses had flared skirts and fitted bodices with sweetheart necklines. They wore matching hairbraid crowns with circular veils. They carried rattan baskets of bronze and yellow mums and pompons, accented by talisman satin ribbon

Best man was Ken Loats, brother of the groom, home on Army leave from San Antonio, Tex. The groomsmen were James Riggins, brother-in-law of the groom, and Alvin Halfpap. The men were all attired in dark suits and wore white carnations boutonnieres.

Kathy Riggins, niece of the groom, was flower girl She wore a floor-length dress of sheer organdy with an overskirt having a scalloped embroidered edge. She carried a miniature replica of the bridesmaids' baskets. Her crown of white Fuji pompons had fall satin ribbon bows and streamers. The ring-bearer was Keith Boller, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a dress of beige satin with fitted brown velveteen bodice and long sleeves. Her accessories were brown and gold. Her corsage was of chartreuse cymbidium orchids tied with brown satin ribbon. The groom's mother wore a dress of taupe lace with beige accessories Her corsage was of cinnamon cymbidium orchids tied with avocado satin ribbon.

Candle-lighters were Ted Gabrielson, brother, and Jerry Smith, half-brother of the bride. Ushers were Gary Gabrielson, cousin of the bride, and Lawrence Ziller.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 300 guests in the church parlors. Decorations were in the bride's colors.

The wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Ray Pals. Coffee was poured by Hope Hackett of Marshalltown and Mrs. Sharon Kreitlow of Ames. Punch was served by Mrs. Dave Long. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pals served as host and hostess of the dining room and Jessie Loats as hostess at the serving table.

Mrs. Roy Hanson was in charge of the guest book. Carol Ann Waddington, Mary Jane Waddington, Sandra Hildman and Mrs. Larry Mennenga took charge of the gifts. Waitresses were Pam Gabrielson, Gayle Gabrielson, Debra Boller and Valerie Larson, the latter of Hampton.

The bride chose an olive green checked suit, with matching accessories, as her going away outfit. The bride is a graduate of Belmond High school and is employed as receptionist at the General Mills office. The groom, also a graduate of BHS, is employed by the CGW railroad.

After a wedding trip through the Ozarks and to San Antonio, Tex., the couple is at home at 715½ E. Main street in Belmond.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY WAYNE ULRICH

Shirlene Busick and Larry Ulrich wed at Methodist church Nov. 20th

Miss Shirlene Marie Busick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale G. Busick, became the bride of Larry Wayne Ulrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Ulrich of Klemme, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, at 2:00 o'clock at the Methodist church at Belmond. Rev. M. L. Jones read the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with two vases of white and pink chrystnthemums.

Mrs. Paul Jenison, organist, provided the nuptial busic and accompanied Mrs. Marvin Lemke of Klemme as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown styled of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over shimmering white taffeta. The molded bodice was fashioned with long, lilypoint sleeves and a modified Queen Anne collar dotted with pearls and sequins. The very bouffant skirt of tulle featured a short, scalloped overskirt. Her fingertip veil of imported all silk illusion fell from a clip hat styled of tiers of ruffled lace with pearl and sequin accents.

Only jewelry of the bride was a pair of pearl earrings. She carried a bouquet of red roses, surrounded by white streamers with pink lily of the valley on a white Bible, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Don Busick, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Patricia Ulrich of Klemme, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The attendants were attired in street-length gowns of leaf green taffeta, contrasted with emerald green styled with fitted bodices fashioned with modified scoop necklines and brief sleeves.

Their very full circular skirts fell from pleated hipline sashes with bonbon roses and floating panels at the back. Their matching headpieces were nosetip veils which fell from clip crowns, styled of horsehair braid and pearls.

The attendants' rhinestone necklaces and matching earrings were gifts of the bride. They carried cascade bouquets of pink chrysanthemums surrounded by white miniature carnations, decorated with pink lily of the valley and white net.

Ronald Ulrich of Mason City, uncle of the groom, was best man. The groomsman was Don Busick, brother of the bride. They were attired in black trousers with white dinner jackets and mint-green carnation boutonnieres.

Lark Ulrich of Mason City, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta. The very full skirt, poised over a hoop, was gathered into a long sash which fell from a cluster of emerald green rosettes. She also wore a headpiece of white lace with matching green rosettes and white gloves.

Douglas Busick, brother of the bride, was ring-bearer. He wore black trousers and white dinner jacket with a mint-green carnation boutonniere, and carried the rings on a white satin, heart-shaped pillow edged with white lace and decorated with white satin streamers.

The mother of the bride wore a deep lavender suit with black accessories. The groom's mother wore a brown and white sheath dress with black accessories. The corsage of each was of miniature red roses and white split carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for about 200 guests. Donna Ulrich of Klemme, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book. The gifts were arranged by Gladys Steenblock, Veloice Henn, Mary Kay Shahan and Susan Watne, the later of Goodell, all classmates of the bride. They all wore corsages of pink and white split carnations, gifts of the bride.

Mrs. Ann Christians of Klemme, great aunt of the groom, cut and served the four-tiered white wedding cake decorated with yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Merlyn Ulrich of Mason City, aunt of the groom, served the punch. Mrs. Harley Thayer, aunt of the bride, poured coffee.

The waitresses were Mrs. Roger Olson of Klemme, Diane Haugland of Belmond, and Sharyl Stille of Goodell, all classmates of the bride. All the women wore aprons of white organdy with green trimming, gifts of the bride.

For going away, the bride wore a black and white pleated skirt of orlon with matching jacket and black accessories. Her corsage was of miniature red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Belmond High school. The groom is a graduate of Klemme High school. The couple is at home in Klemme, where the groom is employed at the Klemme Co-op Grain company.

Census shows that most small towns in this vicinity aren't "dwindling"

Population figures based on the 1960 census, released last week by the Census Bureau, indicate that the rate of decline for the smaller communities in Wright county and close by slowed down considerably in the past decade.

A dozen towns fit into this geographical category. Between 1940 and 1950 they lost 225 population, in the aggregate. During the decade ending last year their composite population loss was only 55.

This would seem to indicate that this vicinity's small towns, by and large, are not being so seriously hit by migration to the cities as is true of similar communities the state over. It would also seem to speak well for the aggressiveness of this area's towns in meeting the competition of larger communities near-by.

Meservey and Thornton are the only two towns among the 12 that have shown population increases both in 1950 and 1960. Meservey had 282 population in 1940, it went up to 297 in 1950 and now stands at 331, an over-all gain of 49. A gain from 398 to 441 (43) was shown by Thornton during 1940-50 and the 1960 count put its population at 449, up another eight — or 51 over the two decades.

Corwith and Renwick are the only other two of the dozen that are larger today than in 1940 — and in each case the gain is an extremely small one. Between 1940 and '50, Corwith dropped from 481 to 480; but an increase to 448 was shown this year. Renwick, similarly, dropped from 474 to 470 during the 'forties but was up to 477 according to the '60 count.

Most drastic decline was experienced at Galt, which has dropped to less than half its 1940 population of 156. In 1950 it was down to 117 and this year fell off to 75, a reduction of 81 over the two decades.

Dows, which went up from 945 to 948 during 1940-50, has a 1960 population of only 882 — 66 less than 1950 and 63 less than 1940. Rowan has lost 43 in population since 1940, its last three census counts being 316, 304 and 273. Kanawha has declined only slightly, percentagewise, but experienced a drop in both 1950 and '60. Its three latest census figures have been 767, 742 and 735.

Goodell and Woolstock have virtually "held their own" in the past 20 years. Goodell picked up six, from 236 to 242, between 1940 and '50 but lost nine in the past decade to stand now at 231. Woolstock declined by 16, from 271 to 255, during 1940-50, but gained 14 during the 'fifties to go back to 269.

Both Alexander and Goldfield showed serious losses during 1940-50 but recouped some in the past 10 years. From 324 in 1940, Alexander dropped by a total of 46 to 278 in 1950. This year's count, though, was up by 16 — to 294. Goldfield declined by 50, from 715 to 665, during 1940-50; but the 1960 census showed a gain of 17 to 682.

Guthrie county squabble poses Wright problem

A front page story in last Friday's Des Moines Register pointed up a problem that will inevitably be facing Wright county before many more years have passed. It is, consequently, a problem that Wright countians could well be giving some tentative consideration. In fact, it might make a challenging topic for the extension service's annual series of public affairs forums, which is presently in the program-planning stage.

We refer to the recent vote in Guthrie county on a proposed bond issue of $417,000 to finance the construction of a new courthouse. The special question on Nov. 8 was voted down — for the fifth time.

According to the Register story, intra-county jealousies were apparently a decisive factor in the defeat of the bond issue. Communities near the borders of Guthrie county recalled that nine years ago a county hospital was built at Guthrie Center, the county seat, and were disinclined to see county money go into the construction of another elaborate structure there.

But leaving jealousies entirely out of consideration, another factor influenced the vote that is pertinent to Wright county as well as to Guthrie — and to many another Iowa county, as well.

One thoughtful voter explained his opposing vote in this way: "I think our legislature is on the verge of passing a law allowing counties to merge with adjoining counties. We have four neighboring counties with good courthouses. We don't need a new one.

"The county has lost 2,000 residents in 10 years, so we ought to use our heads and save money by merging with other counties."

This is a remarkably realistic viewpoint. Whether we like it or not, the steadily rising costs of local government — plus elimination of the transportation factor that required a minimum amount of travel from all parts of the county to the county seat — are sooner or later bound to bring about county consolidation. We'd best be doing some thinking in those terms.

Humboldt county has a fine, new courthouse at Dakota City. Some day, that is very likely to be a decisive consideration in locating the county seat that will serve Humboldt and one or more adjoining counties.

Guthrie county's courthouse was build 78 years ago — 10 years before the one at Clarion. But its present state of serious deterioration suggests that the dilemma Guthrie faces today may well confront we Wright countians in another decade or not much longer.

Right now, the courthouse at Clarion does not serve its purpose ideally, by a long shot. And its obsolescence can, in coming years, require steadily growing maintenance costs that will be "money down a rat hole" from the standpoint of giving us a serviceable center for county government.

What are we to do, then? That's a question more asily put than answered. Hancock and Franklin — counties with which, like Humboldt, Wright might one day logically be consolidated — have courthouses about as ancient as our own. It defies imagination that Hampton residents would ever consent to doing county business at Clarion.

More likely is a merger that would combine Wright and Hancock, or Wright and Humboldt — or even, conceivably, three such counties.

A host of problems involved in such a consolidation merit study. Should a county endeavor to "move first" in supplanting its inadequate courthouse in the hope that that might keep the seat of government nearer at hand when county consolidations begin to sweep the state? Should such building be delayed, until the site of a new, centrally located county seat is later determined and the expense then shared by all the property-owners involved in the consolidation-to-come?

Just as Guthrie countians are reading the handwriting on the wall, we in Wright are going to have to acknowledge its presence in due time — perhaps much sooner than most of us think.

Medicos face stiff problem in care for elderly

That the medical profession has a long way to go in convincing the public that socialized medicine is to be avoided at all costs was made very clear by a survey of Iowans over the age of 60 recently conducted by the Iowa Commission for Senior Citizens.

Dr. Woodrow W. Morris, whose State University of Iowa Institute of Gerontology analyzed the survey results, found a majority of all groups questioned were in favor of the proposal that the federal social security program be expanded to provide medical insurance.

The survey was conducted by age brackets: 60-64, 65-69, 70-74 and 75 and over. It was noted by Dr. Morris that these elderly people are "not concerned about a raise in the social security tax" for such a purpose, as "most would pay the increased tax only five years."

While 71 per cent of those surveyed in metropolitan areas favored the addition of medical insurance to social security coverage, and 51 per cent of those in non-metropolitan areas, only 30 per cent declared that they would not be able to afford a $1,000 emergency medical bill.

This made it evident that, regardless of ability to pay, most of the old folks regarded it would be preferable to pay briefly for government medical protection than to run the personal risk of a heavy medical bill.

Probably it should come as no surprise that persons in the age brackets questioned should be little concerned with the long-range costs of putting old age medical protection under the social security program.

On the other hand, unless coverage were to be in some manner selective so that NEED is in some degree a governing factor, it would have to be taken for granted that the program's cost would prove tremendous. At the same time, it would most certainly represent a shoe in the door for socialized medicine.

The medical profession probably has never faced a bigger problem than confronts it in this matter of medical protection for the elderly who require it.

Reapportionment stand condemned

As was expected the Iowa Farm Bureau came out officially with what it had advocated all along on reapportionment of the legislature. Heretofore the organization has denied it had a plan — but its resolutions last week made official what was known last session to every legislator.

The Farm Bureau wants every county to have a representative — no matter what size in area nor what size in population. Dickinson county with 382 square miles would have the same representation as Kossuth with 979 square miles. Adams county (426 square miles) in southern Iowa with fewer than 8,000 people would have the same representation as Kossuth with 25,000!

THE REASON IS READILY APparent when the structure of the state Farm Bureau federation is studied. It is government by an unicameral house of delegates — with one delegate per county no matter how many Farm Bureau members that county has.

Naturally the small counties control this house of delegates, and with a majority of counties small in southern Iowa that means southern Iowa controls the Farm Bureau. This control these southern counties want to continue in the legislature.

The reason goes beyond county pride. It goes to the heart of the financial problem of the state. Southern Iowa has lost tremendously in population — thus it demands and gets on a "need" basis more state aids than it is entitled to on either population or area.

THEY LIKE IT THAT WAY, and well they might for it means we in northern Iowa and the people in the cities are carrying the tax load on schools, highways, welfare, etc.

The Farm Bureau is in a position to force its wishes on the next legislature for it controls the house of representatives completely and many state senators.

This of course will be denied, but anyone who has been in Iowa politics knows it to be a fact. It's an odds-on cinch that the Farm Bureau bill will be passed — not because it is right — but because that organization has the power.

WHAT THIS BILL DOES IS make a senate out of the house of representatives and turns the senate over to a population formula — a complete reversal of the congressional pattern some advocates profess they are following.

It places confirmation power in the population senate. As Iowa grows, more and more population must center in the cities. The cities will decide the governorship. The cities will elect the senators who confirm the governor's appointments.

This turns the entire state machinery over to popular control — for the state highway commissioners, welfare board members, school administrators, etc., are carried on by people appointed by the governor!

THERE WOULD BE ABSOLUTEly no check other than legislation (which must pass both houses) by an area house on the confirmation of all of these people who do the actual work of the state — if the Farm Bureau proposal carries. They could spend all the state money in cities!

It's regrettable the Farm Bureau does not live up to the high principles it espouses and work for a really fair reapportionment based on the federal congressional pattern — instead of being dog-in-the-mangerish about the sanctity of some small counties, some of which cannot raise enough property tax to pay the county bills! — Algona Advance

Optomistic approach

According to a news item, the auto washing industry wants the Weather Bureau to change the wording in its forecast when the outlook is "Partly Cloudy." Fear of rain hurts that particular business on those days, and the plea to the bureau is to say "Partly Sunny" instead.

THERE IS AMPLE EVIDENCE that it might make a difference. I heard once of a newspaper which had headlines: "Half the State Legislature Is Dishonest!"

When the politicians roared in protest, the paper retracted with another headline. This one said: "Half the State Legislature Is Honest!" and everybody seemed satisfied. — Batesville (Ark.) Guard.

HOW CLARION CAME TO BE—

The adjacent editorial regarding Wright county's courthouse might serve to prompt a bit of delving into the history of the county's early day seats of government.

It was in 1863 that the first action was taken in the direction of establishing the Wright county seat on a quarter section of land near the geographical center of the county. A petition to this end was introduced before the board of supervisors at is April session of that year.

At the same session, it might be noted, another petition was submitted asking that the northern tier of townships — now Pleasant, Belmond, Norway and Boone — be set off from Wright county and attached to Hancock. This petition, however, had an insufficient number of signers to carry much weight with the supervisors.

But the petition of E. P. Purcell of Vernon county for purchase of 80 acres of land at the present site of Clarion was approved at the October 1863 board meeting and the transcation was carried through. In a countywide election just a year later a proposal to transfer the county seat from Liberty to the center of the county was carried, 70 to 45.

FIRST "COURTHOUSE"—

Wright county's first "courthouse" was a log cabin owned by S. B. Hewett, Sr., located just west of the present city of Eagle Grove. At least, this is where the county was organized in August of 1855. Actually, this was the private property of Mr. Hewett.

Upon organization, the seat of justice was located at the village plat of Liberty (now part of Goldfield). At the time Liberty, like the earlier site, a "paper town" styled "Eagleville" and another similar community called Ontario, existed solely in the minds of land promoters. This prompted a poet of the day to comment:

And Eagleville and Liberty,
Ontario and so on,
Were county-seated just enough
For paper men to blow on.

The election of April, 1858, determined that the county seat should be at Liberty and in June of that year the county obtained a deed to its first courthouse site. The courthouse was erected that same summer, a two-story frame structure.

This building served until 1866, when the county seat was changed to Clarion, which at the time was called Grant.

PRESENT ONE BUILT IN '92—

When "Grant" became the county seat, a two-story frame building was erected there as the new courthouse. It served until the present edifice — a grand architectural achievement at the time — was completed in 1892, after being started the year before.

In September of 1890, the supervisors drafted a proposition that a new courthouse and jail be built at a cost not to exceed $40,000. The courthouse, in actuality, cost closer to $50,000.

When the special proposal was submitted to the voters in the fall of '90, the issue passed by a margin of 295 votes. Eagle Grove township was so unenthusiastic over the matter that they voted against it 550 to one!

Hon. B. P. Birdsall, Wright county's historian, recalled: "When it was known that the new courthouse measure had carried there was great glee in the central part of the county, especially at Clarion, where a jollification meeting was held and no little excitement and merriment prevailed. The town's calaboose was saturated with oil and set on fire by the over-zealous citizens and onlookers."

Wright county's property valuation at the time was $3 million. The bonds to pay for the courthouse and jail were to draw five per cent interest and to run for 10 years. A two-mill tax was to be levied each year until the bonds were retired.

The steel work and cells for the county jail (which was razed several years ago when the new jail was built) cost the county $3,500.

Today, although there is interior space to burn (perhaps that is an inadvisable figure of speech to use), the county offices are hard-pressed to find sufficient, safe storage in the courthouse for the accumulated records. The county officers know — probably better than the citizens at large — that Wright county already has a "courthouse problem" of rather serious dimensions. It is due to become a lot more serious in the imminent future.

Know your business people—

Hill Motel has developed excellent trade

Mrs. Edith Hill, who for the past 11 years has been proprietor of Hill Motel, will match seniority with just about anyone in business up and down Belmond's Main stret. She has had a part in the community's business life ever since she began keeping books for the Ford agency of her late husband, Art Hill, after their marriage in 1916.

It is certain, though, that Mrs. Hill could not find a more natural niche to fill than the one she currently occupies. Friendly, gracious, and thoughtful of her guests, she makes the perfect hostess. And her motel trade over the years has been successful in direct proportion to her possession of these qualities.

During the years that her husband was active in business (he died in 1951), Edith assisted him in operation of the Ford and later an Overland dealership; in the manufacture of door awnings for automobiles in the 'twenties, and in conducting a furniture business.

The motel was built in 1949, after the Hills had sold their furniture store, and opened with six units on June 1 of that year. It was subsequently enlarged to 13 units, which are filled with quite satisfying regularity.

It happened that Thanksgiving night of last week was the biggest Hill Motel has seen. By virtue of five late arrivals coinciding with an eqaul number of early departures (by auto transport drivers), she had 18 room rentals on her register for the single night.

For nine years, Hill Motel has been an official rest stop for drivers employed by Auto Transport, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., who make regular runs to Minneapolis. Edith not only enjoys the company of the drivers, but it's a fine piece of business because she has only to bill the firm once a month for the number of nights' lodging she has provided the men.

Mrs. Hill says that Auto Transport has provided her as many as 450 to 500 one-night rentals in a single month. Not so many of the transport drivers pass through Belmond now as used to, but the motel still averages 150 nights' lodging or more per month. At her standard price of $4.00 for a "single," this gives Edith a very nice start on each month's business, it is plain to see.

All of this started with four or five transport drivers stopping "on their own" about 10 years ago, and finding the hospitality of Hill Motel much to their liking. They arranged for the company to approve the motel as a charge stop.

That the drivers think a lot of Edith is indicated by the lavish gifts they regularly present her at Christmas. These have included a 100-piece set of silver, a five-piece coffee service, a film projector, the money for her to buy a beautiful Governor Winthrop secretary for her living quarters, and other items.

She tried to discourage "the boys" from like "extravagance" this year; but when she remonstrated to one of them he told her with a grin, "You're too late. The board's already met."

Besides the transport drivers, Hill Motel enjoys the regular trade of a good many commercial men who have been faithful patrons over a number of years. Typical is Warren "Little Duke" Warren, a drug salesman from Fort Dodge, who has been stopping at the motel faithfully for 10 years. Edith reports with a twinkle in her eye, "He calls me 'Duchess'."

EDITH HILL WITH GIFTS FROM TRANSPORT DRIVERS

A considerable number of traveling men have been making Hill Motel a regular stop for as long as seven years. Another important source of business is the stream of company personnel brought to Belmond by General Mills, Inc., by Tomco, Inc., and in the last several years by Ris-Van.

Less important but nevertheless welcome trade is provided by other persons who pass through Belmond less often, but with seasonal regularity, who make it a practice to stop at the motel whenever circumstances permit.

When Hill Motel opened, it was the only real motel (as opposed to cabin camps) on Highway 69 between Albert Lea and Ames. Now competition is keener, but the motel does a remarkable job of retaining its patronage. A factor, no doubt, is its reasonable rates.

These remain $4.00 per night for singles and $6.00 for doubles. Mrs. Hill says, "Maybe I'm just old-fashioned to keep rates at this level when most motels charge more. But I do all right at those figures and like to 'do right' by my customers."

Hill Motel not only keeps its customers, once it gets them; but Edith has found her help just as loyal. Emma Friesleben has been working for her for 11 years and Jessie Loats for nine.

THE PEOPLE'S RIGHT
(No. 2 in a Series)

One of the important books of the 1950's was "The People's Right to Know." It was written by the late Dr. Harold L. Cross, a leading attorney and for some years on the staff of the Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University. As its foreword pointed out, the book was in reality a report to the American Society of Newspaper Editors which sponsored the study.

This 400-page book has to do with the status of legal access to the public records and proceedings in the United States. It deals with various aspects of what the book calls "the never-won struggle for a maximum of basic freedoms in a free society." Concerted attention has been focused upon this problem in recent years by a number of agencies, both state an national.

In wartime and under the security conditions necessary even during the cold war, there has been a tendency to go beyond necessity in withholding information from the public. Some of this has resulted from overzealousness on the part of the armed services. Some has grown out of the tendency of bureaucracy to protect itself and, in so doing, to make its own ground rules. But as a result of the efforts of Dr. Cross and others, some progress has been made in breaking down the fences errected around legitimate information.

Public notice, or legal advertising, is another aspect of the people's right to know. It is for the protection of their rights both personal and collective. Whether it has to do with tax rates, a special election, or settling an estate, the principal is the same. The newspaper, in turn, performs a public service in publishing public notices. They are part of the legal machinery of helping to insure the people's right to know.

"Can I really buy Hy-Line chicks with the same breeding as the ones that win official tests?"

Answer:

The Hy-Line chicks you buy this year will actually have better breeding than those that gave superior performance in official Random Sample Tests. In official tests ending in 1958 and 1959, Hy-Line 934 Series layers averaged 55¢ more income per bird than the average of the 9 next largest-selling layers. And that's income over feed and chick costs. By crossing highly inbred lines, Hy-Line geneticists are able to produce millions of birds of practically identical breeding. Make your next brood Hy-Line chicks.

VOL. 42 NO .10 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, DEC. 8, 1960 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER 14 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

It is reported by the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational church that the support given their recent bake sale to the benefit of Dr. Robert McGowan, missionary to Africa, was generous beyond all expectations. It will be recalled that the purpose of the bake sale was to raise funds to be applied on the purchase of a John Deere power unit to be used at the doctor's mission hospital as a generator.

While not too heavy a dent was made in the approximate $1,075 cost of the equipment the medical missionary (Dr. S. P. Leinbach's nephew) needs, the sale proceeds definitely helped.

Not only did members of the Fellowship, itself, contribute baked goods but a very considerable number of women belonging to other churches also donated goodies to boost the proceeds of the sale. Then quite a few additional persons helped out with cash donations. When the ladies added up the day's "take," it came to $190.76. The Fellowship tossed in another $25 from its treasury to make the total over $215.

H. O. "Sandy" Sandberg keeps himself (AND the press and public over this entire area) well informed on the outcome of franchise elections involving his ever-lovin' Iowa Electric Light and Power company. He has most lately advised us that in a recent election, Ames voted IEL&P a 25-year gas franchise by a margin of 1,153 to 123. . . . H-m-m-m! Over ten per cent "no" votes! Isn't that kinda just squeakin' through, Sandy?

Trappers, hear ye! Game Warden Bill Ayers says that the Ventura marsh is to be opened to trapping tomorrow, Dec. 9th. He also hints that it should produce muskrat hides bounteously. The dike and control structure at the Ventura grade are to undergo repair which will necessitate lowering the marsh water radically.

That means that when a hard freeze comes, the muskrats will be imprisoned in their houses — unless trappers relieve them of this fate by catching them before hand.

If you want permission to trap at the marsh, it can be obtained (must be, in fact) from Guy Krall of Lake Mills, unit manager for the conservation commission. Warden Ayers warns that trapping at Eagle Lake, East Twin and Big Wall Wall lake is closed to keep a good seed stock of rats for trapping a-seed stock of rats for better trapping anon. Got it straight, now?

In case you read the North Iowa basketball results from last Friday night in the M. C. Globe-Gazette and were a bit flabbergasted at the reported last-half rally of Alexander against Meservey (boys' game), let us advise you it wasn't so startling as the report made it. According to the G-G, Alexander trailed at the half 21 to 7 and came roaring back to win 55 to 47. The 48-point half credited to Alex' WOULD have been quite a record-breaker. Actually, the winners trailed 21-17 at halftime. Still and all, it WAS quite a scoring surge!

We promised the Jaycees to give 'em a plug on their sale of Christmas trees. They have them available in the vacant store building adjacent to Kinseth's Plumbing and Heating — all sizes. Profits from this annual Jaycee project go toward the Junior Chamber's youth activities. . . . 'Nuff said?

L. B. Oberhauser "bagged" a deer Wednesday night of last week but found it a costly achievement. His "weapon" was the family car, and the 280-pound buck dealt the vehicle about $150 damage when "Obie" collided head-on with the hefty chunk of venison north of Tyrrell's bridge on No. 69.

Informed by the Highway Patrol of the mishap, Game Warden Bill Ayers went looking for the deer the following morning. After gathering its resources, the buck had leaped over the fence east of the highway and disappeared from sight.

Bill suspected from the damage done to the car that the deer likely didn't go too far. He found the buck a couple of hundred yards from where it had been hit, concealed in some weeds on the Alice Hedges farm. It had been too long dead to salvage its venison, so it went to the rendering works. Sad end!

TURN COFFEE CAN STRIPS IN NOW, AUXILIARY URGES

All members of the American Legion Auxiliary and any interested persons are reminded to take the Butternut coffee can strips to the P&G or Hattel's Super Valu stores, where receptacles have been placed.

"These strips are to be mailed by Dec. 15," said Mrs. Helmar Svendsen, Auxiliary president, "so it is important that they are collected and sent by the deadline or the organization will not receive credit."

SKATING RINK TO REOPEN

Bob Summers has leased from Louie Pals the former Roll-Away Skating Rink and will reopen the recreation spot this Friday under the name "Skateland." Mr. Summers plans to have the rink open Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. and on Sunday afternoons from 2:00 to 4:30 o'clock.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR FRIDAY

Christmas decorations, centerpieces, gift packaging, tallies, candies and cookies will be among the items offered for sale at a Christmas bazaar to be held Friday at the library basement. This event is sponsord by the craft division of the Belmond Women's club and will start at 1:00 p. m. Coffee and cookies will be served.

Abandoned water tower being razed this week

A Belmond landmark that has stood for nearly 65 years was disappearing from the scene this week as Larson Tank company of Hopkins, Minn., razed the city water tower. Rugged working conditions were provided by wind and cold as the adjoining picture was taken Monday afternoon.

According to existing records, the old water tower was erected in 18°6 to distribute to the village of Belmond the flow from a 500-foot well. That same season, five miles of water main were laid in the community to accommodate its residents.

While the tank, itself, was replaced a time or two during the long life of the tower, the standard holding the tank is understood to be the original one.

The old tank went out of use when the gleaming new one on "the hill" was put into operation in late May of this year. The new tower not only serves former water patrons better, but will for the first time make city water available to the residents of west Belmond.

Ernest Stadtlander is the only "hill" property-owner whose home has already been hooked up with the city water supply. A number of other connections in west Belmond await the return of warm weather next spring.

Applications filed by 17 for PM job

It was reported Tuesday afternoon by Acting Postmaster Ted Townsan that by the deadline for obtaining applications for appointment as postmaster of the Belmond post office the number asking to take the required examination had grown to 17. This number included only persons who had obtained application forms from the post office here. Others may have written direct to the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C.

Last week, The Independent reported the names of seven persons who had obtained application forms: Jim Mariga, Irvin Soma, Pat Quigley, Ed Albers, Roland Pals, Hale Mason and Steve McLaughlin.

In the intervening week, the following 10 additional names joined the list: Leslie Tripp, Bob Brooks, Merle Bonte, Ervin Smith, Don Nielsen, Maynard Holmgaard, Marin Pals, Roger Kinseth, Carroll Bamford and Jack Lobdell.

Date of the examination to be administered to the applicants at Mason City has not yet been announced.

Ginapp survives cage squad cuts

Fourteen players have survived squad cuts to become members of the Iowa State Teachers college freshman basketball roster, including Roger Ginapp of Belmond. Roger was a North Iowa all-conference 1st team choice last season on the strength of his play with the championship Bronco team.

Police car bought by liquor profits

Delivery of the police department's new patrol car was officially accepted by the city of Belmond on Monday of last week. It was supplied by Sheldon Chevrolet on the basis of competitive bid.

Sheldon's offered a price of $728.91 plus the old police car; and Belmond Motor's price was $750.83, plus trade-in.

City Clerk Lois Hammond notes that the money to replace the police car came from state liquor store profits, rather than tax funds.

A new two-way-radio has been ordered for the police car. It is a General Electric and has 60-watt power, compared to the old set's 30-watt.

Because police department mobile radio units are losing the privilege of direct intercommunication with the state police radio system soon, during day-time hours, it was regarded advisable that the police car have a two-way set with greater range than possessed by the old 30-watt transmitter-receiver.

Abbott objects to opponent's role—

Supervisor recount set Dec. 23rd

J. F. Abbott, who on Nov. 25 filed a request for a recount of votes cast in the District 3 county supervisor contest, on Monday of this week entered a demand that A. W. Christopher disqualify himself as a member of the re-count board.

On Tuesday of this week, Mr. Christopher — as chairman of the contest court — set the date of Friday, Dec. 23, for the re-count board to meet and inspect the ballots, starting at 9:00 a. m.

State law provides that the re-count board consist of a representative named by each of the candidates for the disputed office plus the chairman of the board of supervisors.

Mr. Abbott, like Mr. Christopher a resident of Eagle Grove, defeated the latter for the District 3 Republican nomination in June; but the incumbent ran as an independent candidate last month and ostensibly retained the supervisorship by a three-vote margin.

Closeness of the contest prompted Mr. Abbott to contest the election outcome. There were 36 ballots ruled "spoiled," which would come under examination of the re-count board. A survey of all ballots would, of course, be conducted.

In his letter to Chairman Christopher and the board of supervisors on Monday, Mr. Abbot said: "The undersigned objects to the said Albert Christopher sitting and acting as a member of and presiding officer of the contest court, by virtue of his holding the office of chairman of the board of supervisors . . . for the reason of the interest, bias and prejudice in the outcome of the contest . . . "

The letter claimed that such action is contrary to law and particularly contrary to the provisions of section 605.17 of the Code of Iowa and contrary to public policy.

The cited code section provides that "a judge or justice is disqualified from acting as such in any case wherein he is a party or interested . . . "

Continuing, the letter said: "The undersigned requests the said Albert Christopher to disqualify himself to sit and preside in said contest court and for the board of supervisors of Wright county to elect a chairman pro tem or on a temporary basis to act as chairman of the board of supervisors in all matters in connection with the election contest."

Mr. Abbott further asked that if Mr. Christopher would not voluntarily disqualify himself that the board of supervisors on their own motion should declare the present chairman disqualified and elect a temporary chairman to sit as a member of and preside over the contest court.

Up to Wednesday morning of this week, the incumbent board chairman had not declared himself disqualified to sit on the recount board.

Mr. Christopher was elected chairman of the county board at its first meeting of 1960 and, according to prevailing tradition, would continue in that position until election of a new chairman at the first board meeting in 1961.

$100 went out to winners

A $100 chunk of Christmas cheer was spread by Tuesday's Cash Gift Day drawings, bringing wide smiles to the CGD committee. At 2:00 p.m. Gerald Burk of Klemme and Roy Pals each cashed in a number worth $25; and at 3:00 o'clock, Mrs. Don Friesleben picked up $50 worth of shopping money. Encouraged by this pleasing raid on the Cash Gift Day coffers, the committee is keeping next week's prize total still at $500 in hope of getting some more greenbacks in circulation. They'll again be divided into 10 prizes of $25 each at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday and five of $50 apiece at 3:00 o'clock.

"Outlook" topic for farm class

Farmers will be given a glimpse at "The 1961 Farm Outlook" at the second meeting of the adult night school class in agriculture next Monday evening at the "voc. ag." building. Speaker for the 7:30 o'clock meeting will be Bill Turner of Spencer, district economist for the state extension service.

An added highlight of the meeting will be a guessing contest on the prices of various products raised in this area. A number of attractive prizes have been donated to be awarded to the best guessers.

Thirty-one persons attended the first class meeting on Monday night of this week.

FOLLOWWILLS BEFORE TAKE-OFF FOR HAWAII

Followwills leave on award trip; spending 10 days under Hawaii sun

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Followwill left Saturday via Des Moines and Omaha for San Francisco, where on Sunday they continued on by plane to Hawaii. This winter outing was a reward to Followwill Implement company for meeting a specified sales quota on Case farm machinery during the 12-month period that ended Oct. 31.

Only four Case implement dealers in Iowa attained the required sales volume to qualify for the prize trip. The other three dealers also planned to take advantage of the winter holiday, Pete said. The Iowans were to be joined by winners from other states and some officials of the Case company in a large-scale airlift to the islands.

According to Pete, the trip represented a $2,000 to $2,500 "bonus" for the local implement firm's sales achievement.

The Followwills' schedule called for their departure from Des Moines at 7:30 a. m. Saturday for Omaha, and air departure from there about noon for San Francisco. Saturday night and Sunday morning, the Case party was to be entertained with sight-seeing before leaving for Hawaii.

Ten days of fun was planned in Hawaii, including the day of arrival and the day of return to the mainland, with visits slated to a number of islands in the group. Mr. and Mrs. Followwill expected to be back in Belmond on Wednesday of next week.

Myrtle Hawley's final rites held; interment here

Funeral services were held at 10:00 a. m. Wednesday at the Methodist church in Stuart for Myrtle Hawley, 59, who died Monday at the Guthrie Center hospital. Her death followed a cerebral hemorrhage, which she suffered 5½ weeks ago. She never regained consciousness.

Rev. M. L. Jones officiated at the graveside service at 3:00 p. m. at the Belmond cemetery.

Myrtle Hawley, the daughter of Hugh and Mae Hawley, was born at Garrison. She moved to Belmond with her parents and attended the Belmond school, graduating in 1920. She graduated from Morningside college, Sioux City, in 1924.

Miss Hawley taught home economics at Holly, Colo., Ewing, Neb., Castlewood, S. D., Garden Grove and Stuart. She has been a faculty member at Stuart for the past 16 years.

At Stuart she was a member of the Methodist church, of the Order of Eastern Star, and was a Sunday school teacher. The rites of the Order of Eastern Star were conducted at the funeral services at Stuart.

She leaves four brothers: Ray of Ottawa, Ill., Lyle of San Francisco, Calif., Merle of Long Beach, Calif., and Rex of Belmond; also six nephews, one niece and three great nieces.

TOM HATTEL NOW A FIREMAN

Tom Hattel was approved as a member of the Belmond Fire department at Monday night's meeting of the city council. He will take a place on the department's roster left vacant by the resignation of Ed Gabrielson.

8 Christmas gift prizes awarded

Eight prizes, plus $40 worth of service or merchandise at local service stations, found winners as the third weekly Christmas Gift Days drawing was conducted last Friday noon. Every one of the lucky number-holders claimed his or her prize by the 5:30 p. m. deadline to earn a $5 service station due bill in addition.

Only the last number posted, which was good for a desk lamp, went unclaimed. It will be added to this week's list of prizes, making seven to be drawn for tomorrow noon. These prizes are named in the Christmas Gift Days ad.

Mrs. W. L. Muhlenbruch took home the Bulova wristwatch that was last week's top prize. Chester Johnson was a double winner, having numbers good for a coaster wagon and a bed spread.

Other winners were: Lyle Sorenson, train case; Ardell [illegible], thermos set; H. B. Sandman, toy cement mixer truck; Roland Pals, child's tricycle; and Mrs. Ray [illegible], electric shaver.

Gallagher rites held Wednesday

Funeral services were held Wednesday at St. Francis Catholic church for William Gallagher, who would have been 89 years old next Jan. 28, having been born in 1872. Rev. R. A. Ormsby officiated over the rites and Fulton Funeral Home was in charge.

Burial was in St. Francis cemetery. Pallbearers were Adolph Dorr, Robert Finn, Adolph Hunt, James W. Barry, Jack McLaughlin and Mike McLaughlin.

Mr. Gallagher farmed most of his life, following this occupation in Minnesota, South Dakota and Idaho. He returned to Belmond three years ago to make his home with his sister, Maggie, and brother, Tom Gallagher, at their farm east of town. Mr. Gallagher had never married.

He had been bedfast for the past two years and died last Sunday.

Linda Bonte will sing in ISU event

AMES (Special) — The fifth annual Christmas Festival of Music will be presented by the department of music at Iowa State University this Sunday.

Among the ISU students who will take part as singers are: Linda Bonte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bonte of Belmond.

While sheriff's away, trouble brews—

Drinking spree brings bootlegging charge

A drinking party at the sheriff's quarters adjoining the Wright county jail at Clarion on Monday of last week produced as direct result a charge of bootlegging against a Belmond woman and a charge of intoxication against a jail trusty.

Named in the bootlegging charge was Etta Marie Hill, who appeared Thursday evening in the court of Mayor E F Bisbey at Clarion. She waived a plea at that time and was bound over to the grand jury.

Yet to appear before Mayor Bisbey on the intoxication charge is Floyd Woolsey, 30, of Centerville, who is serving a year's sentence in the Wright county jail after conviction on a breaking and entering count last October in Hancock county. The latter having no jail, expense of incarcerating him at Clarion is borne by the convicting county.

Sheriff Blecker was absent from Clarion attending the state convention of the Iowa Sheriffs association at Des Moines when the situation at the jail and adjoining living quarters developed.

A friend of the Bleckers had stopped at the sheriff's quarters about 8:00 p. m. Monday and after discovering Woolsey drunk in the cell block of the jail summoned Deputy Dale Walrod. The latter found Woolsey in no condition to be questioned, but queried him on Tuesday morning to learn what had transpired the day before.

In a signed statement recorded after the questioning, Woolsey attested that approximately the following had occurred on Monday.

He and another trusty had been released from jail at 10:30 a. m. Monday to do assigned work in the sheriff's quarters. Mrs. Hill was visiting Mrs. Blecker and the former ostensibly went downtown and returned with two pints of vodka. This liquor was consumed by him and the two women and as the day wore on, Mrs. Hill was induced to make another trip to the liquor store.

(Mrs. Hill's liquor book, according to Deputy Walrod, showed the purchase of two pints of vodka on Saturday, Nov. 26, and four more the following Monday.)

Woolsey said he took three dollars from an envelope in the sheriff's desk that contained his private belongings and another $5.00 from the envelope of possessions belonging to the other trusty, Ralph Baer. He instructed Mrs. Hill to buy him two bottles of vodka with the money and she shortly returned with four pints.

He retired to the cell block and began consuming his liquor. When Deputy Walrod was called to the jail he hunted down the bottles, one was empty and a start had been made on the second. Mrs. Hill's liquor book was later found in the pocket of Woolsey's overalls.

The deputy sheriff that same evening filed information against the Belmond woman. When she returned to Clarion on Thursday to appear before Mayor Bisbey, she filed $300 appearance bond and was released after the hearing.

During the meeting of the Wright county board of supervisors on Monday of this week, Deputy Walrod was twice called before the board to report on what he knew regarding the drinking episode. Reference was made to the prisoner's intoxication in the minutes of the meeting, but there was no other comment.

Queried by a representative of the press on Tuesday evening of this week, Chairman A. W. Christopher said the supervisors hope that a grand jury investigation of the drinking spree and general conduct of the jail will be held when the grand jury convenes immediately after the first of the year.

When asked directly if the board intended to call for such an investigation, Mr. Christopher said that such was not the intention of the supervisors' as indicated at this week's meeting. Rather, it was the board members' expectation that when the bootlegging case is presented to the grand jury that it will see fit to extend its inquiry into the whole jail episode of Nov. 28.

FOUR FARM SALES SLATED

Four closing out farm sales are advertised in this issue of The Independent. This Saturday, Dec. 10, Alvin Halfpap will dispose of his farm machinery starting at 1:00 p. m., "Coonie" Smith doing the auctioneering; and Wednesday of next week Harry Slining will sell his farm machinery and a quantity of livestock, beginning at 1:00 p. m. The latter sale will have Cliff Howlett and Leonard Wiemann as auctioneers. James Chodur of Clarion has a sale slated for next Tuesday and Stanley Nedved of Britt will hold one Monday.

Broncos surprise Garner with 67-64 win Tuesday

With only the second round of play completed in the current North Iowa conference basketball campaign, Belmond after Tuesday night's 67-64 win over Garner found itself in a two-way tie with Buffalo Center for the loop lead. Each team had won both its first two NIC starts.

The Bison on Tuesday evening surprised the favored Northwood Vikings on their home court 63-56 while the Broncos also pulled somewhat of an upset with their victory over the Cardinals.

Broncos lead 13 to 27

Belmond grabbed a 13-2 lead in the first quarter and staved off every effort of Garner to catch up thereafter. The Cards slashed the deficit to 18-14 early in the second quarter, but trailed 33-23 at halftime. They never got closer than four points until Dick Rockwood hit on one of two freethrow tries with three seconds left in the game to fix the final score at 67-64.

Garner drew a bumper crop of 28 fouls that enabled the Broncos to stack up 29 points on 45 attempts at the freethrow lane. Garner, thanks mainly to the hot shooting of Rockwood that brought him 30 points for the evening, surpassed Belmond on field goals 26 to 19.

Courson totals 19 points

But where Rockwood was the visitors only real scoring threat except for Don Cataldo, who pushed in 11 points, and Keith Christensen with eight, five out of the six players Coach Jack Steinberg used collected eight or more points.

Robbie Courson corralled 19 points before fouling out in the closing moments; Jerry Jenison, with the help of 10 gift conversions, tallied 16; Dennis Anderson contributed 12, Bob Burk nine and Vernon Pastour eight. Bob Finn got the remaining three.

Froshmores win thriller

In the curtain-raiser, Belmond's froshmores won a scorcher 35 to 34. They held a 19-13 advantage at the half but found themselves trailing by a point a couple of times in the later stages of the game.

Dennis Gallagher paced the Junior Broncs in scoring with 12 points. The rest of the scoring was evenly distributed, Tom Downs posting six points, Dennis Hauge five, Ray Roberts, Dennis Fuller and John Kaduce four each.

JAN. 25 DATE CLAIMED

Clarence Olson has claimed the date of Wednesday, Jan. 25, for holding a closing out farm sale. It will be auctioneered by "Coonie" Smith and Andy Miller.

ED ELL AND "FLUFFY" RENEW ACQUAINTANCE

Column item brings "Fluffy" home

This is to report that within a few hours after last week's issue of The Independent had been delivered to its subscribers, the Ed Ells' white cat, "Fluffy," was back home. It will be recalled that "Fluffy's" abrupt disappearance from home on Halloween night was reported in the Main Street column.

Mr and Mrs. Ell's daughter in San Antonio, Tex., Mrs. Albert Chosed, had written the Mainstreeters and asked if they would endeavor to learn the whereabouts of the lost pet.

When Mrs. Alta Gabrielson read the Main Street item, she immediately suspected that a white cat that had been living with the Gabrielsons for a month previous was undoubtedly "Fluffy." A phone call was made to the Ells, and soon "Fluffy" was back home.

The Gabrielson children have a pet cat, "Pizen," who is as coal black as "Fluffy" is snow white. They dearly loved to rumpus together and according to Mrs. Gabrielson, made a striking pair.

It remains a mystery how "Fluffy" got so far from home. The Ell and Gabrielson residences are more than a mile apart—the former at 1007 East Main and the latter at 711 Third avenue NE. At any rate, that 711 proved a lucky number for the Ells; and "Fluffy" seems to be happy to be back at her old abode.

Chest now "over the top"

Campaign Chairman Luin Cox reported to The Independent on Tuesday afternoon that solicitors' returns up to that time had pushed the 1960 Belmond Community Chest campaign past its goal by a margin of $128.30. The year's budget called for $4,320 and $4,448.30 in contributions and pledges have been received. Mr. Cox expressed the keen gratitude of himself, as director of the campaign, and of members of the Community Chest Council for the cooperation of workers that made a successful campaign possible after serious consideration had been given to cancelling this year's drive entirely.

Truck, scale house destroyed—

Blaze strikes coal firm's office

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the office-scale house and the delivery truck of the Roberts Coal company shortly after noon last Saturday.

Milo Roberts, proprietor of the business, says that besides the building and truck he lost most of his business records and a large part of a load of coal he had on the truck ready for delivery east of Alexander immediately after lunch.

The building was owned by Mr. Roberts' brother, Ralph Roberts, from whom he acquired the business in 1947. They planned to rebuild the office and scale house on the same site this week.

Employees of the near-by Farmers Grain company, which like the coal company lies adjacent to the M. and St. L. tracks, saw the Roberts building ablaze and turned in a fire alarm about 12:15 or a little later. But so much headway had been gained by the blaze that the fire company could do little but safeguard a coal shed close by and pour water on the office and its flaming contents.

Mr. Roberts says that defective wiring either in the building or in the truck must have been the cause of the fire. He believed that a hydraulic hoist used for loading the truck and the scale and its platform were not seriously damaged, although the weighing beam of the scale that extended into the scale house was burned up.

There was no insurance to cover the loss of either the building or its contents.

Roberts Coal company does an extensive business in the Belmond countryside and adjoining towns.

"Hy-Line layers win official tests... what does that mean to me?"

Answer:

How layers perform in official tests is actually your second-best way to compare various brands. The best way would be to try them all yourself. But you can't possibly do that. So test results are your most practical guide. For example, 22 official tests ending in 1958 and 1959 show that Hy-Line layers outperformed the 9 next largest-selling birds by 55¢ more income over feed and chick cost . . . $550 extra per thousand birds. Such winning performance is why one of every eight layers in the U. S. this year is a Hy-Line bird.

Jerry Burns speaks Wednesday—

Gridders to hear new Iowa coach

SPORTS

Members of the Belmond High school varsity and freshman-sophomore football squads and the junior high gridders will be given a special treat at this year's banquet tendered by the Gridiron club. Since the hosts engaged Jerry Burns as speaker a number of weeks ago, he has been elevated to head coach at the University of Iowa — and as such has come into great demand for speaking appearances.

At only 33, Burns is one of the youngest coaches in the nation to hold a position of such responsibility. But despite his relative youth, he was enthusiastically recommended for his new post by retiring Coach Forest Evashevski. That recommendation understandably carried enough weight that the board of athletic control looked no further, when a replacement for "Evy" had to be obtained.

Not only will those attending the Gridiron banquet next Wednesday have the privilege of hearing a genuine "personage," but one who has earned an enviable reputation as a speaker. His dry wit and keen sense of humor had established him as a banquet orator well in advance of his recent promotion.

In high school, Burns was a 125-pound halfback. His diminuitive stature (he still weighed only 150 in college, after a hitch in the Navy) limited him to football participation with the lightweight squad at the University of Michigan except for the briefest sort of appearance in Michigan's Rose Bowl game in 1951.

Burns' first coaching job was at the University of Hawaii as an assistant to Archie Kodros, now also of the Iowa football staff. In '52, Jerry applied for a job at Iowa but was turned down. He was only 25 at the time, and Evashevski preferred someone with more experience — though even then, Kodros give his young aide an excellent recommendation.

When Kodros left Hawaii, Burns became coach at Whittier (Calif.) college, where he produced an 8-2 record. He then went to St. Mary's High school at Redford, O., in the Detroit area, and was voted "coach of the year" on the strength of a 7-1 season. Jerry then made his second attempt for a spot on the Hawkeye staff and this time was accepted.

While it is customary for newcomers to the Iowa staff to serve scouting assignments during the season, Burns scouted only two games before "Evy" decided Jerry was too valuable to have absent from the Hawkeyes' scene of action. He has been used by Evashevski as a defensive specialist, and opposing coaches have been generous in the praise of the extraordinary job he has done in this assignment.

2 dozen Broncos awarded grid B's

Twenty-four BHS football letter-winners will be given recognition at next Wednesday night's Gridiron banquet for their parts in putting together during the 1960 season a won-and-lost record never surpassed by a Belmond High gridiron team.

Only six of those players who helped the Broncos compile a seven-won, one-lost mark had previously lettered. Dennis Anderson picked up his third varsity football monogram; Jerry Jenison, Mike Armour, Bob Stadtlander, Bob Whipple and Bob Finn, all seniors, each earned their second as did Vernon Pastour, a junior.

Other seniors besides the six mentioned who were awarded B's for the 1960 campaign, were: Robbie Courson, Miran Kling, Jay Menenga, Bob Lee, Kirk Cunningham, Roger Meyer, Robert Sheriff, Ronnie Schroeder, Rich Henn and John Dannewitz.

Coach Rich Koolbeck will have a slightly larger nucleus of letter veterans around whom to build his 1961 Bronco aggregation — four juniors and four sophomores.

Juniors, besides Pastour, earning monograms were Merrill Kalkwarf, Larry Hawley and Bill Heinzig. The sophomores were Dennis Fuller, Dennis Hauge, Raymond Roberts and John Kaduce.

Because of the late date upon which the Gridiron banquet had to be scheduled in order to get a "name" speaker, the Honor B's were awarded at the end of the season instead of being distributed at the banquet.

Jenison qualifies as aerial artist

Statistics published last week by Brad Wilson in his Des Moines Register "Prep Parade" column showed Jerry Jenison to be one of the top passes in Class I Iowa high school football during the 1960 season.

Although the 75 attempts made by Belmond's diminuitive quarterback were exceeded by some of the other aerial artists in the state's top 20, Jerry's total of 762 yards gained ranked 10th.

In percentage of completions, Jenison's .517 mark was 8th best among the Class I schools. Jerry connected on 41 of his 75 throws, had only three intercepted and accounted for eight touchdowns through the air.

Broncs post 1st victory; drub Osage Imps, 59-33

Belmond's Broncos broke into the victory column for the first time this season by opening their North Iowa conference basketball card last Friday night with a 59-33 win over Osage. The easy decision suggested the Osage Imps may have a long, hard row ahead of them — though a large share of their difficulty here was a simple inability to hit the basket.

At the game's outset, the Broncos' followers were given a nervous moment when the Green Devils broke into a 6-0 lead. That finished their scoring for the quarter, however, and Belmond was in front 11-6 as the period ended. By halftime the Broncos had padded their advantage to 27-13.

During the first two quarters, Osage found the net on only six of 32 attempts from the floor. In the second half, their percentage must have been no better for they ended up with only 11 field goals for the game.

After leading 48-17 as the fourth quarter of play started, Belmond twice held margins of 36 points — the last time at 55-19 — before Coach Jack Steinberg began to send his reserves into the game. When the Bronco bench was finally cleared, Osage outscored the Broncos 10 to 3 in the last three minutes or so. Even in this flurry eight of the Imps' points came on freethrows rather than baskets.

The Broncos made many of the mistakes they were guilty of in their first two starts of the season, but they showed progress in some departments. For example, they made their fast-break work nicely on several occasions. Bob Finn nailed the points on three of the successful romps.

Osage was called for a total of 27 fouls during the game, but Belmond did a poor job of capitalizing on opportunities from the free-throw line. The Broncs converted on only 15 out of 32 attempts and several times lost either points or the ball due to infringement on the foul lane. The Imps weren't a lot better on charity tries, making good on just half of their 22 gift shots.

Coach Steinberg had good reason to be pleased with scoring balance his boys showed. Finn and Robbie Courson each tallied 13 points, Jerry Jenison 12, Bob Burk 10 and Vernie Pastour seven. Three by Mike Armour and one by Dennis Anderson completed the Belmond total. John Van Voorhis hit 10 for the visitors before fouling out in the third stanza.

The Belmond froshmores racked up their third easy win, trimming the Osage underclassmen 40 to 23 after holding a 28-11 bulge at the half. Good balance was shown by the Junior Broncs, too, as Dennis Hauge tossed in 10 points, Tom Downs eight, Ray Roberts and John Kaduce seven each.

Mary wins again on "Money Bowl"

Mary Gordon made her third successful defense of her women's handicap bowling championship on the KQTV "Money Bowl" television program Sunday, bringing up to $120 her prize "take" for four appearances on the Fort Dodge station. Her opponent Sunday afternoon was Gwen Engle of Algona, who got a six-pin handicap.

It was a close match through the first half dozen frames as both opponents ran into occasional trouble. Beginning with the seventh, however, Mrs. Gordon began to click and a double in the 10th put her far ahead. Her final, winning margin was 179 to 152.

Next Sunday, Mary will have a week off as the scratch champions make their monthly appearance on the "Money Bowl" telecast. Ed Albers is the defending men's titleist in this category.

In district qualifying at the Bowl-Mor Lanes last Sunday, Donna Cockram had to go five extra frames to win a shot at the women's scratch championship in a duel with a sister, Belmond bowler, Carol Waddington. They emerged from the regular qualifying trials tied for the right to go on to Fort Dodge.

Bright and Merry Gift Ideas for Someone you TREASURE Come From . . .

DOUGHERTY'S

Nothing makes this group happier than the opportunity to be of service to you. They know their business and are ready to offer helpful suggestions to make your Christmas shopping easy and pleasant. Come in and see Archie, Alice, Emma and Russ. They'll be waiting to wish you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

You've heard it said "If you don't know your diamonds, know your jeweler!" Here's Russ Dougherty displaying a group of "Princess" diamonds, which he believes are the best diamonds your money can buy. They have "Feature-Lock", they are Registered and Insured. What could make a finer Christmas gift?

JEWELRY, enduring, endearing!

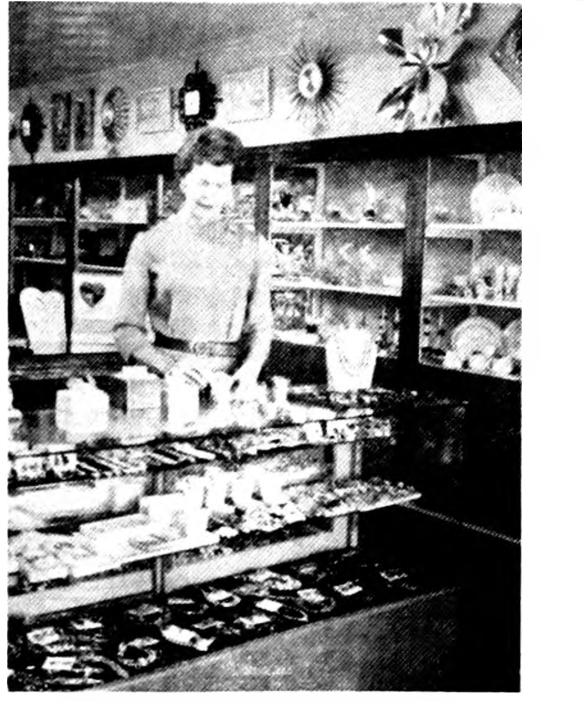
Alice Johnson likes to sell silverware at Dougherty's because she can show just about anything your heart could desire in silver. There's Holmes & Edwards, 1847 Rogers Bros., Community and International Sterling as well as stainless steel.

Archie Allen is an old hand at watches, he knows them inside and out. Here he takes pleasure and pride in showing several from the large selection at Dougherty's. There are Elgin, Wyler, Bulova, Hamilton and Jewel House watches ranging in price from $19.95 to . . . well you name it, Archie has it.



Any bride of one or many years takes pride in her tableware. Here Russ believes that Dougherty's can be helpful because of the many nice patterns in open stock china, pottery, Melmac and stoneware they carry. This picture features several of Continental's Rosenthal china patterns. Certainly an appreciated gift would be adding to her tableware.

Never let it be said that Emma Thompsen never had a smile for her customers, and many of them (male and female) have found her advice on what to wear and give in jewelry most helpful. There are literally thousands of pieces in her collection and discriminating customers are sure to find just what they want.

Wright slightly behind its 1960 U. S. bond quota

Wright county in October fell slightly behind the buying schedule on U. S. savings bonds required to meet its quota for the current year. Purchases in the amount of $78,937 during the month brought the county's total up to $1,064,954, which was 81 per cent of its assigned figure of $1,310,015.

That still left Wright's performance superior to those of the nation and state. Average fullfillment of quota in the nation at the end of 10 months stood at 79 per cent and the state average figured at 76 per cent.

Robert L. Davison of Clarion, Wright county's volunteer chairman for the savings bond program, reported that sales of E and H bonds in Iowa during October came to $8,993,335 to bring the 10-month total up to $116,465,976.

Although lagging somewhat behind quota, Wright's per cent of quota attained surpassed that of most other counties in this north Iowa vicinity. Ten-month sales and per cent of quota reached for other counties in this area stood at the end of October at:

Winnebago, $752,902 for 80 per cent; Humboldt, $690.119 for 73 per cent; Hancock, $780,225 for 72 per cent; Hamilton, $988,265 for 72 per cent; Cerro Gordo, $1,359,797 for 65 per cent; Franklin, $577,648 for 57 per cent; Kossuth, $917,765 for 54 per cent.

NEW BELMOND

Film Highlights

—from—

COMING ATTRACTIONS

If any one person contributed more than all others to setting rock-n-roll up in business, that individual likely was Elvis Presley. And it will no doubt gladden the hearts of rock-n-rollers that that man is back again.

Thursday through Friday he'll be occupying the New Belmond screen in his first picture since his hitch in the Army. As you might suspect from the title, "G. I. Blues" has Elvis right back in uniform.

This is a "new Elvis," minus the sideburns and famous pompadour; but the voice is the same, and the 10 (count 'em — 10!) tunes in "G. I. Blues" give Soldier Presley ample opportunity to demonstrate he's still "got it."

Put Jack Lemmon and Shirley McLaine together in a film and it's BOUND to be entertaining. Their off-beat comedy (which includes a generous touch of pathos) is definitely no exception. Here's a tip, incidentally, for holiday entertaining to impress your friends. United Artists admits that the "champagne" in the picture's New Year's Eve sequence was actually ginger ale given extra fizz with seltzer tablets. Sounds yummy?

IN MAYOR'S COURT

James McVey, Belmond — illegal parking, $5 bond forfeited.

Eugene F. DeLancey, Belmond—striking unattended vehicle, $100 fine plus costs or 30 days in jail. (Fine suspended upon defendent's voluntary agreement to go on city's "Black List' prohibiting his purchase of alcoholic beverages of any nature within the confines of the city of Belmond. Defendant acknowledged the offense to be the second of same nature of which he has been guilty and also acknowledged understanding that succeeding violations will result in maximum penalty being handed down by mayor's court.)

H. Trevor Williams, Belmond — failure to have vehicle under control, fine $10 plus costs. (Defendant delivered himself to chief of police on Dec. 1 and reported accident in which he was involved preceding night; as a consequence, $5 and costs were suspended and defendant was placed on probation.)

LEINBACHS IN WASHINGTON

Purchase of seals slower than usual

Response of the public to the annual Christmas Seal sale in Belmond under sponsorship of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association is lagging considerably behind that of recent years.

Mrs. Merle Bonte, local chairman, says weekend before last found only $272.25 returned in payment for seals whereas by the corresponding date a year ago the amount stood at $377.30.

Last year's total amount in seal purchases here came to $719.40, and the Culture Study club, sponsors of the seal project, hope to ses this amount matched by the current campaign.

The race is not to the swift,

Mental illness costs are regarded "on the house"

Anyone who read the report published last week listing state salaries of $10,000 or more may well have been impressed by the number of specialists in that category who are employed today by Iowa's mental health institutions. The six institutions that more or less fit in this classification are currently paying at the rate of $1,312,800 per year for high-salaried professional people on their staffs.

While we still hear now and then that care and treatment of patients at these institutions falls short of that provided in some states, certainly Iowa has made great progress in this regard. For example, the institutes at Clarinda and at Independence each carries on its staff 17 psychiatrists or psychiatric social workers.

This is a clear demonstration of the fact that the state is no longer satisfied mainly to "care for" mental patients. It is resolved to treat these patients and, wherever possible, to cure them — or effect such improvement that they can return home.

But while much headway has been made in the treatment and care of our mental patients — and the higher expense has been drastically reflected in the cost of maintaining a patient at one of these institutions — there has been NO change in Wright countians' willingness to pay for the services being rendered. It is curious why the cost of treating mental illness is in a vast majority of cases regarded as nothing like the private obligation that the cost of treating a physical illness is.

In Wright county in 1948, it cost $41,070 to pay for the care and keep of residents domiciled in Iowa eleemosynary institutions and the county treasurer recovered only $3,063 of that amount. In 1959, payments of the county to these state institutions came to $121,464, and the amount recovered came to just $11,050.

Auditor Myron Price reports that, as a general rule, payments by the families of patients or inmates of these institutions run in the neighborhood of 10 per cent or less. They have never come to as much as 15 per cent of the county's institutional payments, to the best of his knowledge.

The county is billed for a pro rata share of each quarter's expenses by each institution, based on the number of patients. As a consequence, the amount for patient care varies not only from institution to institution but from quarter to quarter.

For example, the expense of having a patient at Independence for the three months ending Sept. 30 was $539; at Cherokee, $613; at Glenwood, $373; at Woodward, $319.

In any case in which the county regards that a patient's family is in a position to pay all or at least part of the institutional expense, it sends a bill. In a few instances, even when the patient's mental illness in incurable and a lifetime of confinement is certain, the family regularly meets the entire expense.

But in a very large majority of cases, the bill for expense of treatment and care is simply disregarded. And apparently not a great deal of effort is made to collect the amounts due.

It seems logical that in practically all cases the family could at least contribute the equivalent of what the patient's normal living costs at home would add up to; and in a good many instances, the family would find it possible to pay the equivalent of the cost of nursing home care.

Why a family should be exempt of expense because a mental illness rather than a physical illness is involved, is a bit difficult to understand. In the past three years, the county's taxpayers have had to pay $306,732 for patient care at these state institutions, while only $38,538 has been paid by the patients' families.

It's become more or less of an accepted thing that these costs of care and treatment are not a valid obligation unless the family involved chooses to regard it so. For this, there seems little excuse. We cannot help but think that a much larger share of this money COULD be collected than now is, and without working undue hardship on the patients' families.

In these days of steadily rising taxes, it's asking a lot of the average taxpayer to shoulder this burden. This is one potential source of economy that perhaps should be given much closer scrutiny than it has by past practice.

Threat of Dutch elm disease here calls for action

There is a practical aspect that has to be considered along with the aesthetic loss to a community that is seriously afflicted with Dutch elm disease, Extension Director Aaron Bowman pointed out in his talk here last week. Whereas the average per-tree cost of a citywide program to PROTECT elms against this blight customarily runs $15 to $20 or maybe a bit more, the removal of a dead tree can cost a home-owner from $100 up.

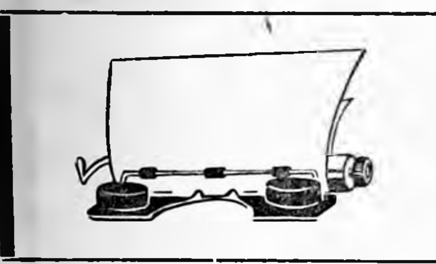
Consequently, it could be regarded a practical economy to devise a plan to protect our elms from this disease that would inevitably kill 90 to 95 per cent of Belmond's elm trees if it is simply allowed to run rampant.

There is no hope, Mr. Bowman assures, that the disease will arbitrarily miss this area. It was first discovered in Iowa in Des Moines (around the state fair grounds) and by this year had spread as far in this direction as Jewell.

Some communities in Illinois (the disease has been heading this way from the east) have been so completely ravaged that hardly an elm tree is unaffected. It takes two to four years for the disease to kill a healthy tree; but once a tree is afflicted, nothing can save it.

It does not require much imagination to envision what Belmond would look like if all its stately elms were to disappear from its yards and parkings. That is what most assuredly is in the cards unless a determined effort is organized to avoid this fate.

And NOW is the time to be getting such an effort underway.



Clipped Comment

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

When "Speaking pieces" was an art

It has long been my contention that Demosthenes, Cato and Cicero, competing in one of our routine speaking contests, would finish in tenth, eleventh and twelfth place, while the contest would be won by a squeaky-voiced young lady who rendered "The Old Violin" in tearful jubilation at the sound of her own voice. Some of this stems from my own firm belief that at times I did about as well as any of them, but that the judges were swayed away from me by some quirk of destiny I could never quite overcome.

I didn't have a heavy voice, but expression was my middle name. I could read lines. Everybody applauded, and said I should have had the prize. But I never got one.

I do think "modern education" is poorer because the speaking period has been dropped in favor of something they call "participation."

THEY TELL ME YOUNGSTERS never memorize a piece any more, and never know the horror of arising to repeat it, with gestures, before a silent classroom that could not care less. Instead, they get out of school to find how ill-equipped they are, then sign up for a charm course, or personality development, where they pay good money to learn how to talk before an audience.

According to present lights, we never really learned anything of consequence in school, in my time, but we did know how to get up and speak a piece.

The closest I ever came to winning a prize was the night I "gave" The Man Without a Country. This was quite long, and it took weeks to commit it.

I LABORED WITH MY LITTLE yaller cow, who was always my best coach, and as the milk strummed into the pail I would pursue the lamentable career of Philip Nolan until my little cow fairly bawled. There was some amazement about the village that a piece of this length should be attempted.

But the evening of the contest came, and the program had it right down there in black and white. When my turn came, I arose and faced the incredible audience. I knew the simple question of being able to do it was more intriguing to them than the matter of how I did it. They stared back.

MY LITTLE COW HAD FAILED me I thought she had coached me well, but this was not true. I stood in front of that audience, with the greatest opportunity to make a fine impression, and I couldn't remember how The Man Without a Country took off. Not a word came to me I'm sure if somebody had just said the first word — the first letter — I'd have rattled the whole thing off without a hitch. But nobody did.

So I found myself saying, "In connection with the war in Cuba, there is one incident that stands out in my mind like Mars at perihelion!" I then went ahead and repeated "A Message to Garcia" (which is naturally pronounced gar-sha) and which I guess is fully as long, and at least a good deal more uninteresting.

YOU MAY WONDER HOW I happened to know "A Message to Garcia," and I can only answer that I have no idea. The switch confounded the audience, it was impossible to believe that a boy who might have forgotten "The Man Without a Country" would cover up such temporary lapse by going through "A Message to Garcia."

But again, the sheer physical prowess involved in this made no impression on the judges. They retired to the anteroom, and after three selections by the orchestra came back to announce that the prizes had been won by (1) "The Old Violin"; (2) "Farewell to Benedict Arnold"; and (3) "The Psalm of Life." At the door, everybody told me I should have won —John Gould in Christian Science Monitor

"Sucker signals"

The number of suckers in this world is amazing: Likewise the number of persons attempting to take advantage of these folks is equally surprising. But how do you tell when the man calls, whether his deal is legitimate or one designed to transfer your savings to his pocket, with nothing return?

If the salesman is operating here in town, you can ask for credentials from the Chamber of Commerce. He should have such if he is legitimate. But in any case, be alert when you hear or see any one of these "six sucker signals."

1. Buy now or lose the chance.
2. You have been specially selected.
3. It's only a legal form.
4. Just a few easy lessons.
5. You can save up to.
6. Yours absolutely free. — Iowa Falls Citizen

SOMETHING "DIFFERENT"—

Don't know how many readers of this column are in Ye Ed's habit of vowing annually to have something "different" in the way of a Christmas greeting — only to find that the time goes so fast before Christmas that the usual "store-boughten" cards are finally resort-to.

Sometimes it's a chatty letter we have in mind (we always enjoy those WE receive from friends too infrequently seen because of distance); or, again, it's a family photo to show how the kids have grown.

Probably, though, if we ever got around to the photo idea it would turn out about like the following experience of a good friend of ours. The author of the following is Don Reid, secretary of the Iowa Press association and editor-publisher of the West Des Moines Express. We sure hope Don sends us one of HIS cards. Of its production, he wrote in a recent issue of The Express:

"I HAVE A FINE IDEA FOR our Christmas cards," I told Dorothy. "Kindly put on your fur coat, mittens, galoshes and head scarf and we will go outside and have our picture taken."

She said she did not need all those things because the sun was shining and the temperature outside was nearly seventy.

I shook my head.

"Warm weather does not blend into the spirit of Christmas," I pointed out. "We are to be photographed in a blinding snowstorm. All we need is a box of corn flakes, which our daughter will sprinkle on us while Bob takes the picture."

MUTTERING TO HERSELF, Dorothy climbed into her blizzard gear while I hunted up my galoshes.

"We will have our little granddaughter in the picture with us," I announced. "Bob, you get in front and take the picture. Junior, you climb up on the ladder and pour the corn flakes."

"Daddy," Junior said, "are you sure you feel all right?"

"Up the ladder, daughter!" I snarled.

SHE SCAMPERED UP. FROM A safe height, she hurled a final bit of defiance. "Okay LAW MAN."

(The family calls me Law Man sometimes when I am throwing my weight around due to the fact that my forelock has turned prematurely white. It contrasts sharply with the rest of my hair, which is merely prematurely gray. Like the chap on TV.)

We tried several pictures. They did not look exactly right. Besides, it was hot and stuffy under our heavy clothing.

WHILE I WAS STUDYING THE Polaroids, our nice neighbor Clare Gannon came over. She was laughing.

"I just HAD to come," she said. "You will hardly believe this but from my window, it looked like Bob was taking your picture and Jo Lee was pouring corn flakes all over you! Isn't that a riot?"

Nobody said anything

"Just what ARE you doing, anyway?" Clare asked.

"Bob is taking our picture," I said stiffly. "And Jo Lee is pouring corn flakes all over us."

CLARE NODDED. "I KNEW IT would be something simple like that. Good heavens! YOU ARE? SHE IS?'"

"She is," I affirmed. "And while we are at it, we need to get a few more corn flakes into the act. If you would be kind enough to take this box and get behind the ladder, we would be grateful."

Clare agreed. She said, "This certainly puts a different twist on my day." She also said it takes all kinds to make a world. But she is nice, so I forgave her.

Clare's dog began to eat the corn flakes.

"GET HIM OUTA HERE!" I howled. "Who ever saw a dog eating a blizzard?"

We got him out.

"Places, everybody!" I snapped. "Sound on film! Contact! Roll 'em."

Dorothy whispered an aside. "He was in a film in Hollywood two weeks ago. Ever since then, he thinks he is the Cecil B. DeMille of our time."

"I think this is more like Alfred Hitchcock," Junior interposed.

IGNORING MY FAMILY, I smiled bravely into our Christmas card while the corn flakes slithered all around . . .

Shayla began blubbering. Her mother had dumped half a box of corn flakes down her neck.

When they took her home and disrobed her, she was all broke out with chicken pox! She still thinks her grandfather's corn flakes did it.

But it will make a beautiful Christmas card. A purist might claim it would be better if we mould get Junior's arm out of the act but you can't have everything.

Ganders learn cafe business has problems

Like a child who doesn't have to get burned more than a time or two on a hot stove to learn its lesson, Carol Gander decided after he'd had two barns burn down in as many years that maybe it was time he got out of farming. That's what brought him to Belmond as proprietor of the Town House cafe.

Before becoming restaurant operators, he and Mrs. Gander had farmed for 23 years. Twenty-two of those years were spent near Panora in Guthrie county. When the barn and cattle shed on the place he rented there burned up — along with 100 head of cattle — he departed from Guthrie county and rented a farm near Swea City.

His very first year in the new location brought him another barn fire (after he'd complained without success about the barn's wiring) and that tore it. He and his wife had been thinking for several years about getting into either the restaurant or motel business, and he decided last February the Town House was what he was looking for. He says he won't be having his first business anniversary for another three years, for he took possession on Feb. 29th.

In the intervening nine months, Carroll has learned a good deal about the restaurant business — and just about as much about cost accounting. He says it's a source of real pleasure to feed the public (he and Mrs. G. both sincerely enjoy dealing with people), but for the sake of permanence, it's just as well to be making a bit of money at it.

One thing the Ganders learned the hard way was that they were virtually serving roast beef "on the house." A new meat slicer recently acquired has corrected this situation. Customers now get ample portions, still — but only what they're paying for. This leaves a modest profit for the ledger; and leaves Carroll a lot happier.

Another bit of penny sleuthing the Ganders indulged in a short while back revealed that they were keeping the restaurant open from 5:30 until 11:00 a.m. for an average gross "take" of 19 dollars per day. With five people at work during those hours, it is clear that that period of the day wasn't even taking care of its share of the overhead.

That brought about a decision last week that the delectible breakfast rolls in which the Town House specializes would HAVE to go up in price from a nickel to a dime. Carroll says they cost between 3½ and four cents to make; and the extra penny and a half just wasn't allowing for a speck of profit.

Ever since he took over the cafe, Carroll has been serving sconds on coffee — and either that practice was going to have to be abandoned or the price of rolls had to go up. The Ganders decided the latter was the lesser of the two evils (from the public's viewpoint); so those rolls are now a dime.

It took the new proprietors quite a while to learn that, at the outset, they were serving too-large portions of practically everything. In their determination to give their customers "their money's worth," they were actually serving more than the average patron wanted to eat. That situation was corrected with no complaints on anybody's part.

(Carroll knows that there's been some mumbling over the boost in breakfast roll prices. But he says with a rueful grin, "The same folks would pay a dime for a couple of toasted slices of bread — which cost a good deal less than the roll — and think nothing of it." He's satisfied that his "regulars" will adjust to the fairer price for rolls before very long.)

GANDERS SHARE DUTIES AT TOWN HOUSE CAFE

Carroll regards two things as his biggest business assets: high quality food, and three good cooks to prepare it. Mrs. Ray Thompson does the morning cooking and helps at noon; Mrs. Merle Obrecht is noon cook and does the morning baking; and Mrs. Gander cooks at the supper hour and from then until 11:00 p.m. closing time.

It's a pretty stern test of a restaurant's fare when hash is able to establish itself as a favorite menu item. Carroll gives Mable Obrecht credit for this situation, which certainly prevails at the Town House. She's also a past master as a vegetable soup maker and has had to produce as much as 15 to 18 gallons in a single week to satisfy the public demand.

That business at the Town House has more than doubled in the nine months the cafe has been under the Ganders' proprietorship is ample evidence that the Ganders ARE "learning."

They look back with no regret on their farming years. Carroll confesses that his restaurant hours are no improvement on those he put in as a farmer — 5:30 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. except Sunday, when the door doesn't open until 6:00 a.m. But both he and Mrs. Gander are thoroughly enjoying themselves; and gradually they're learning to make the business pay them reasonable dividends, too. Which, Carroll observes, is quite essential.

LIMITED ACCESS HEARING
(No. 3 in a Series)

In a large Midwestern city a public hearing was held in city council chambers in connection with the establishment of an important new viaduct as a limited access project. The newspaper story on the hearing said it was "just a formality since it had already been determined that the viaduct would be limited access."

But there was more to it than this. Actually the hearing legally cleared the way for the city to appropriate nearly a score of properties required for the project right of way. At the time, the city was still negotiating for four valuable railroad properties that were necessary to the project.

As of that moment the city and the railroads were nearly $1,000,000 apart on a price for these properties. If negotiations did not lead to agreement the hearing made it possible for the city to proceed to condemn the properties. In time, however, the problem was solved and the city got the neccessary properties without condemnation.

Public hearings on proposed budgets, the letting of contracts and other meetings concerning public business are often poorly attended or get little attention. But this is the fault of the public and not of the law.

As with public notices, or legal advertising, such hearings are part of due process. Both are important to the public as well as to the parties immediately concerned. Their use, as required by law, is a matter of protecting public or individual rights, or both.

Motion by Weidemann, seconded by [illegible] to adopt the foregoing resolution. On roll call the following voted aye: Hill, Kennedy, Nelson, Weidemann, and Christopher. There were no nay votes. Thereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

Resolution for the sale of certain county property. A resolution authorizing the sale of certain real property of the County of Wright, State of Iowa, more particularly described as follows: Lot 5 and the North 14 feet of Lot 6 in Block 2, King's First Addition to the Town of Clarion, Iowa. Whereas, pursuant to the laws of the State of Iowa and the General Powers of the Wright County Board of Supervisors, and: Whereas, said property is deemed not needed for County purposes, and: pursuant to the notices for bids which were published in the Wright County Monitor in the issues of May 19 and May 26, 1960 a written bid of $6,500.00 has been presented by Peter J Paulsen, and the Board of Supervisors has accepted such bid and awarded the sale of said real estate to him; and Whereas, the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors and the Auditor of Wright County, State of Iowa, be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to execute and acknowledge, for and on behalf of said county, under its corporate seal which the County Auditor is directed to affix and attest, a contract of sale for the above described real estate between the County of Wright, State of Iowa, and Peter J. Paulsen and his wife; and, whereas, such contract shall recide a consideration for said real estate in the amount of $6,500.00;

Be it resolved by the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa: 1. That said Board of Supervisors dispose of the title of interest of said real estate in such manner and upon such terms as said Board shall direct, as provided by law.

2. That the Chairman of said Board and the County Auditor be authorized to execute a real estate contract on behalf of Wright County, Iowa.

3. That the Chairman of said Board and the Auditor of Wright County be and they are hereby directed to certify this resolution of approval and authorization.

Passed and approved this 7th day of November A.D., 1960. Myron Price Auditor; Albert W. Christopher, Chairman Board of Supervisors.

It was moved and seconded that the above resolution be adopted. Thereupon the roll was called and the vote resulted as follows: Yeas—Harland Hill, Ed Kennedy, Everett Nelson, and Walter Weidemann. Nays—none.

That the Chairman of said Board of Supervisors this resolution be duly adopted.

Motion by Nelson, seconded by Weidemann to adjourn. Motion carried.

VOL. 42 NO. 11 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, DEC. 15, 1960 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — 14 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Local music lovers who have had the pleasure of hearing the BHS madrigal singers perform will question not the good judgment of radio station WHO, Des Moines, inviting this group to appear (via tape recording) on a special Christmas Eve broadcast of choral music. An invitation to participate in the program was received by Director Kortkamp from Cecil Huntziner, the station's program director.

This group of 34 voices blends beautifully, and under Mr. Kortkamp's skillful direction is an ensemble which Belmond can be distinctly proud to claim.

Only a selected handful of Iowa high school music groups were issued invitations to take part in the Yule broadcast. The Belmond singers will go to Des Moines this Saturday to tape their portion of the program. We trust they will include among their selections "Beautiful Savior," which they do so beautifully and in which Kathy Finn is featured as a soloist. We'll advise of the broadcast time later.

Jim Havens took several hundred hopeful people "to the cleaners" Monday morning when he drew the winner of the pocket transistor radio given away by the First State bank in conjunction with the KGLO-TV "Hometown Banks" annual give-away promotion. The proprietor of Model Cleaners came up with the name of Howard Shahan.

The north Iowa and southern Minnesota banks — 63 in number — who sponsor a KGLO newscast each gave away a radio and this Saturday night will lay a sizeable stack of silver dollars on the line.

As major feature of their "Operation Santa Claus," the banks offered three cash prizes amounting to $500, $200 and $100 in "iron men." All of the 63 local winners will assemble at the KGLO-TV studio Saturday at 10:20 p. m. to participate in the drawing for the three big prizes. We presume that $500 would be welcome at the Shahans'.

Probably it was bound to happen; but we thought the confusion of fact would eminate from some Democratic source — NOT from the staunchly Republican atmosphere of the county auditor's office at Clarion. . . . Anyway, we picked up some county board proceedings this week from the auditor in which the basic law of this fair state was quoted, and what was the citation? . . . "Section 605.17, the Coad of Iowa"!

Eyebrows were raised by some of the applicants who are in the competition for the local postmastership upon learning that one of the contenders has for a considerable period of time received his mail via a Clarion rural carrier.

It is very clearly stated by the U. S. Civil Service Commission that under the residence requirement for eligibility, "applicants must have physically resided for one year next preceding the closing date for this examination within the delivery of the post office where the vacancy exists."

Belmond rural deliveries are made across the road from this applicant's home; but the rules state that residence in a " . . . boundary" is not sufficient if an applicant does not reside within "the actual delivery" of the post office.

"Rick" Adams, Wright county speech therapist whose story in the Dec. 6th issue of LOOK magazine was recently re-printed in The Independent, says a bit of misunderstanding came about from one statement in the magazine article. It mentioned that his wife is now employed as a social welfare worker in this county, and from that quite a few folks jumped to the conclusion that she'd joined the county welfare office staff.

This is not the case; though Mrs. Adams DOES have an office in Clarion.

She is employed by the Iowa Children's Home Society as a field worker, engaged mainly as an adoption consultant. In this capacity she travels over a considerable surrounding area — and also receives adoption inquiries at her office over Crowe's Clothiers south of the courthouse. A native of Goldsboro, N. C., Mrs. Adams obtained her degree in social welfare work at SUI while "Rick" was studying speech therapy there.

One Howard G. Wilson of Webster City, who dropped $10 and costs in mayor's court here last Saturday, could almost be described "an accident going somewhere to happen." Endeavoring to drive through town on Highway 69, he didn't quite make it; he clipped an unattended vehicle but regarded it not worth his while to investigate the damage and continued on his way until hailed down by Chief of Police Ray Thompson.

A request to the state department of public safety for Wilson's driving record brought a reply that tied up the teletype for about a couple of minutes. Also, his record left the suspicion that he must have started out with 50 "points" instead of the standard 10, considering that he still possesses a driver's license.

For one thing, his record showed (between April 4, 1958 and Feb. 21, 1959) involvement in FOUR accidents. In addition, he had paid 10 fines for traffic violations between Sept. 11, 1954 and Nov. 15 of this year. The 10-spot he was tapped for Saturday was the FIFTH fine he'd paid on a traffic violation since the start of the current year! Some of you fellows nursing your last, few points should find out the guy's system!

Sylvia Tyrrell elected to board of Iowa Children's Home Society

Mrs. Dwight Tyrrell of Belmond was elected Friday to the board of directors of the Iowa Children's Home Society at its annual meeting in Des Moines.

She is succeeding Mrs. George Kyseth of Clarion, who is completing a five-year term on the board.

A statewide non-sectarian organization, the society specializes in treatment of children with emotional problems. It believes family surroundings are important for children, and arranges care in private homes for nearly all of the 300 children in its hands.

The Iowa Children's Home Society also has an adoption program, and has been a pioneer in early placement by professional agencies. So far in 1960, infants it has placed for adoption have reached their new parents at an average age of less than one month, it was reported at the annual meeting.

It has been revising its procedures to eliminate long waiting by prospective adoptive couples and now frequently makes placements in homes within a year of the first interview.

Because of its work with disturbed and neglected children from all parts of the state, the Iowa Children's Home Society is supported by more than 160 Community Chests or similar campaigns, including the Belmond Chest and five other Wright county organizations. Its appropriation from the Belmond Chest for 1961 was $450.

Dr. Mark Hale, head of the school of social work at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, spoke at the annual meeting.

He said Iowa leans far more heavily on children's institutions that most states. In the nation as a whole, 70 per cent of the children living outside their own homes are in foster homes, and 30 per cent in institutions. In Iowa that ratio is reversed.

TOO TALL to get entirely in the picture was the 49-inch New Guinea bean held by Lynn Thayer, age six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Thayer. It and the "little one" held by his brother Billy Jo, three, were grown by their mother. These strange vegetables are edible at 1½-foot length when cooked like egg-plant. Mrs. Thayer planted the beans at Lynn's urging. Three vines produced hundreds of blossoms, but only about 10 beans. The boys brought this pair to The Independent office recently so this picture could be taken.

ATTEND COLLEGE CONCERT

Mr. and Mrs. Tory Nodland, Helen and Ann of Kanawha and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Nodland attended the Chirstmas concert at St. Olaf college in Northfield, Minn., Sunday evening. Doug Nodland sings with the St. Olaf choir.

Backs turned on $450

Only one-tenth of the $500 in Cash Gift Day prizes that was to be had for the claiming Tuesday afternoon found takers. At 2:00 p. m., Ed Schimp and Mrs. Harry Diekhuis each presented a number that was worth $25. That meant that the other 13 holders of lucky numbers were unlucky enough to NOT be at the right place at the right time to pick up the other $450. The CGD committee would very much like to see that money converted into Christmas presents — but all they can do is lay it on the line and hope it will be picked up. The prize total will again come to $500 next Tuesday, with 10 chances at $25 at 2:00 p. m. and five $50 awards to be posted at 3:00 o'clock.

BAKE SALE SATURDAY

The Literary Round Table division of the Belmond Federated Women's club will hold a bake sale Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the P&G Grocery. Christmas cookies and other baked goods will be featured.

"Doc" Johnson concludes 14 years as fire chief

Monday night's annual election of the Belmond Fire department saw a new fire chief named for the first time in 15 years. A. W. "Doc" Johnson had declined to be a candidate for the post, after holding it for the past 14 years, and R. G. "Bud" Packard was elected as his successor Mr. Packard was advanced from the position of assistant chief.

Retiring Chief Johnson, who has been a member of the fire company since 1939, was first elected in December of 1946 to serve as chief during the following year.

His period of leadership has seen the department maintained at a high level of efficiency. His departure will find the company the best equipped it has ever been, and with prospect of a new rural fire truck soon to join the new city truck that was purchased this year.

Before his retirement from office, Chief Johnson saw one of the most important projects ever undertaken by the department reach a successful conclusion. This was the effort to induce surrounding townships to approve fire protection levies to finance purchase of the new rural truck, in lieu of underwriting cost of the needed truck by means of subscription.

When Belmond township voters gave their stamp of approval to a fire protection levy in the November election, success of the project was assured.

Another new officer elected by the firemen Monday night was L. C. "Lem" Long as assistant chief, a post he had held for four years prior to "Bud" Packard's election to fill it last year.

Retained in positions they have occupied during the past year were Clair Bonte, secretary, and Russ Porter, treasurer. Elected as board members were Mr. Johnson, Wallace Cramer and Maynard Holmgaard.

Phone 386 only to get policeman

Effective this week, all calls for city police will be made by dialing 386, according to Police Chief Ray Thompson. For some years now, night calls have had to be made to Chapman's Truck Stop and the red lights for police attention were turned on there.

Now a telephone switch has been installed at the city hall that will direct calls for police assistance to the police radio station north of town between the hours of 5:00 p. m. and 8:00 a. m.

The operator at the station will then turn on the red lights that inform the city officer on duty that he is wanted and a phone call by him to the station will supply the particulars.

Belmond residents are urged to make note in their phone books of the fact that 386, only, will hereafter be the police number.

Tally in last 3 sec. does it—

Broncs edge LM Bulldogs, 62-61

To conclude a hair-raising basketball finish that saw the lead change hands four times in approximately 40 seconds, Robbie Courson laid in a two-pointer with three seconds remaining to give Belmond 62-61 decision over Lake Mills here Tuesday night. Figured for the whole evening, the lead was exchanged 14 times and the score was tied on four occasions as the Broncos and Bulldogs gave the fans almost more than they wanted for their money.

It was a typical Dick Peterson-coached team that took the floor for Lake Mills. The Bulldogs shot at virtually every opportunity; and they hit on a pretty fair per cent of their tries. After four conference games, Lake Mills is still looking for its first victory — but Tuesday night the Bulldogs made it very clear that their skein of defeats is not going to extend indefinitely.

After the Broncos had jumped into a 6-2 lead, Lake Mills drew even at 10-all and then pulled ahead to a 16-12 advantage at the end of th quarter.

Belmond fans began to wonder if they were going to see a repeat of the Britt debacle of last Friday when the Bulldogs promptly padded their margin to 21-12 as the second period started. The Broncos gradually took up the slack, however, pulling ahead 28-27 shortly before halftime and then trailing by a point, 29-28, at the intermission.

As play resumed Belmond pulled in front 35-29 before the Bulldogs regained their shooting touch. Lake Mills reclaimed the lead midway in the third stanza at 39-38 and the advantage switched four times before the third quarter buzzer found the visitors ahead 45 to 44.

It looked as if something might be slipping for the Broncos in the final quarter as Lake Mills ran up a 50-46 margin — but a few minutes later it was Belmond in charge, 56 to 52. In the waning minutes, both teams lost a man on fouls. First Dennis Brunsvold, Lake Mills' second-high scorer, went to the bench; and with 49 seconds left, Vernie Pastour departed.

Gary Hagen got a pair of free-throws on Pastour's final foul but made only one, leaving Belmond ahead 58-57. Robbie Courson returned the courtesy by failing on a gift opportunity. Then in the last 30 seconds or so, John Elwood hit to send Lake Mills in front, Bob Burk meshed one to regain the lead for Belmond, Hagen retaliated for the Bulldogs — and then Courson got the clincher.

The visitors called time with three seconds to go, but were unable to set up a decent shot. Courson topped all scorers for the game with 22 points. Jerry Jenison and Elwood accumulated 17 apiece, followed by a pair of Bulldogs — Dennis Brunsvold with 16 and Al Holstad with 12. Belmond's Bob Finn and Lake Mills' Hagen got 10 each. Other Bronco scorers were Dennis Anderson with seven, Burk four and Pastour two.

Coach Rich Koolbeck's froshmores kept their record unblemished with a 33-28 win over the Bullpups. Belmond led 15-12 at the half, but the Junior Broncs had their troubles in the last half before getting a fairly safe lead in the late stages.

Larry Ackerman and Dennis Gallagher paced the winners in scoring with 12 and nine points and Tom Downs netted six. Ray Roberts, in addition to some fine rebounding, contributed four points and John Kaduce added the other two.

Court blocks effort of Christopher to preside over supervisor recount

Supervisor A. W. Christopher of Eagle Grove lost a major engagement this week in his private war with fellow-townsman J. F. Abbott, in which the supervisorship of District 3 may be at stake.

After Mr. Christopher had adamantly refused to disqualify himself as the presiding officer of the contest court responsible for re-counting the ballots cast in the District 3 supervisor race last month, Mr. Abbott appealed to the district court for a writ of mandamus to prohibit the incumbent supervisor from serving on that court.

Mr Abbott's petition in equity was filed Monday of this week; and on the same day, Judge Ed Kelly issued a temporary writ that would seem to resolve the stalemate that had been created by Christopher's double role in the vote contest.

To review the matter, it will be recalled that in the November election the ballot count showed Mr Abbott four votes shy of unseating Mr. Christopher as District 3 supervisor. Because of the slim, three-vote difference in their totals, Mr. Abbott on Nov. 25 filed a petition—accompanied by $1,000 bond—for a re-count.

The state law provides that in such a contest the chairman of the board of supervisors, plus a representative named by each of the candidates concerned, shall comprise the contest court. This would have made Mr. Christopher, himself, along with a spokesman for his interests, both members of the court — which Mr. Abbott regarded as "loading" the court in his rival's favor.

Mr. Abbott asked first that Mr. Christopher voluntarily disqualify himself as presiding officer of the contest court; and secondly, if his opponent refused to comply, asked that the county board disqualify Mr. Christopher and name a temporary chairman to serve in his stead.

Mr. Christopher rejected the disqualification appeal; and the other supervisors refused to take any action, as they could find no authorization for it in the state law. On Tuesday of last week, Mr. Christopher set Dec. 23 at 9:00 a. m. as the time for the contest court to convene — and that brought developments to the point at which they stood Monday of this week when Judge Kelly stepped in.

The temporary writ issued Monday by the 11th Judicial District judge prohibited Mr. Christopher from sitting as presiding officer of the contest court by reason of his interest in the contest.

Hearing set for Jan. 4

It also prohibited the board chairman from convening the contest court on Dec. 23, as scheduled and specified that the court should not convene until such time as a temporary chairman and/or disinterested chairman of the board has been elected as a member of and the presiding officer of such court.

Going still further, the writ prohibited Mr. Christopher from setting ANY date for a trial of the said election contest. Judge Kelly then issued a second court order setting time and place for hearing Mr. Abbott's petition as Wednesday, Jan. 4, at 10:00 a. m. at the court room in Clarion. At that time the judge would theoretically rule as to whether a permanent writ should be issued to prevent Mr. Christopher's serving on the contest court as presiding officer.

New chairman "due"

It is the customary practice of the county board to elect a new chairman each year at its initial meeting of the year. That meeting will be held next month on Tuesday, Jan. 3. If the tradition of electing a new chairman is adhered to, then the district court hearing called for the following day would find Mr. Christopher no longer the ex officio presiding officer of the disputed contest court.

With a new, "disinterested" board chairman in a position to preside over the vote re-count, the matter could be carried through under conditions acceptable to Mr. Abbott.

4 sales scheduled in next few days

Four public sales of general interest are advertised in this issue of The Independent. Farm sales, all to be auctioneered by Cliff Howlett and Leonard Wiemann, are scheduled Friday, Monday and Tuesday.

On Friday, Art Rietema, Sr., of Kanawha will sell his farm equipment and machinery. On Monday, John H. Johnson of Garner will sell in addition to his farm machinery a quantity of beauty shop equipment and numerous household furnishings.

Harlow Helps of Klemme has scheduled his closing-out farm sale for next Tuesday. His offerings will include a full line of machinery and equipment; also livestock.

Saturday will find the household furnishings of the late Myrtle Trager being offered for sale by her estate. "Coonie" Smith will cry this sale.

Union presidency to R. Lowenberg

On Wednesday evening of this week, Local No. 25 of the American Federation of Grain Millers installed its new officers for the year 1961. Assuming the presidency was Raymond Lowenberg, who succeeds Harm "Bud" Meyers as head of the General Mills union.

Kenneth Jenison took office as vice president and Ed Frohling as trustee for a three-year term. Returning to posts they filled during the past year were Robert Greenwood, financial secretary, and Joe Dana, recording secretary.

A new division has been added to the seven at the soybean processing plant, headed Special Products. In the election held Nov. 29-30, Dick Middleton was named as this division's first steward.

One of the other six incumbent stewards at this plant was re-elected, Ed Albers being again chosen to represent the Elevator. Others elected to stewardships were: Francis Ainger, Oil Refinery; Walter Boyd, Meal Warehouse; Merle Obrecht, Safety and Housekeeping; Russell Beenken, Milling and Extract; and Ed Obrecht, Maintenance.

Harold Ainger, Maintenance steward for the Larro feed mill, was returned to that position for another year. Bob Redmond was elected as Larro Production steward.

HELLO WORLD

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Greimann of Lake Park announce the birth of a 5 lb. 13 oz. baby girl on Dec. 2. They have named her Sharree Ann. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Greimann of Klemme and Mr. and Mrs. William Gifford.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hofacre of Alexander are parents of a 7 lb. 2½ oz. baby girl born Dec. 10.

MRS. FRICK "PINS" HUSBAND; MARION JONES LOOKS ON

Frick honored by IEL&P on 25 years of service

Carl Frick, veteran employee of Iowa Electric Light and Power company who for 13 years made his home at Belmond, was honored Wednesday of last week by the utilities firm for 25 years of service. A pin recognizing the achievemen was presented to Mr. Frick by Marion Jones, a personnel assistant from the company's main office at Cedar Rapids.

Honoring of Mr. Frick was a highlight of the annual Christmas party of the Belmond, Garner and Britt divisions of IEL&P. About 150 persons, including company employees and guests, attended the function in the basement of the Methodist church. Arrangements were made by Cecil Carstens, and Mayor L. T. Trafford served as master-of-ceremonies for the accompanying program and entertainment.

After presenting Mr. and Mrs. Frick with a carnation boutonniere and corsage, respectively, Mr. Jones asked Mrs. Frick to attach her husband's 25-year pin to his coat lapel. Mr. Jones spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Frick is held in IEL&P company circles, as did the honoree's fellow division managers, H. O. Sandberg of Garner and Mr. Carstens.

Mr. Frick entered the electricians' trade as a young man and moved to Belmond in 1929 to pursue his chosen occupation. He worked for six years as an electrician, mainly as an employee of C. J. Papousek at the Belmond Electric store, before joining the IEL&P (then Central States) as a gas serviceman on July 22, 1935.

He served both in that capacity and as a lineman until being promoted to the position of local manager here in June of 1942. Just a month later a further advancement came to Mr. Frick when he was elevated to the post of division manager at Britt.

SATURDAY P. O. HOURS

Acting Postmaster Ted Townsan announces that counter service will be provided at the Belmond post office this Saturday until 6:00 p. m., instead of being suspended at 12:00 noon as customary. He again urges that Christmas mailings be gotten out of the way as soon as possible to make certain the pre-Christmas delivery of packages and cards.

Bert Heykants entered Dec. 7 for surgery.

Henry Halfwassen of Meservey entered Dec. 8 as a medical patient.

Jacob E. Pals of Meservey entered Dec. 8 for surgery.

Claire Hildman entered Dec. 8 for surgery.

Mrs. Frieda Schlichting of Meservey entered Dec. 11 for surgery.

Cheryl Johnson of Britt entered Dec. 12 as a medical patient.

Mrs. Claire Hanson entered Dec. 13 as a medical patient.

Nellie McGough of Ackley entered Dec. 13 as a medical patient.

Mrs. Earl Watts entered Dec. 13 as a medical patient.

Ernest Kalkwarf winner of radio

Earnest Kalkwarf was winner of the transistor radio in last Friday's drawing for Christmas Gift Day prizes as five of the seven available found claimants. He also qualified for the $5 due bill good at any Belmond service station as a bonus for promptly turning in his winning number, as did Harley Pringnitz of Kanawha, who won a pen and pencil set.

Other prize-winners, who failed to qualify for the bonus by turning in their tickets before 5:30 p.m. on Friday, were: John [illegible], towel set; Dave Hallowell, sportsman's light; Donald Meints of Meservey, desk lamp. Unclaimed were a bridge set and a set of sheets and pillow cases.

The latter two prizes have been added to the six scheduled for award this Friday. All are listed in the Christmas Gift Days advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

For '60 second quarter here—

Taxable trade up; auto sales slip

Belmond helped Wright county as a whole show a sizeable gain in taxable retail trade during the second quarter of the current year; but sales tax figures released last week by the Iowa tax commission indicated that car dealers of the county had a very disappointing quarter.

Wright county's total retail sales were $282,635 ahead of the same period in 1959, coming to $5,964,350. On the other hand, use tax collected on new vehicle sales showed a drop of 63 in the number of units purchased in Wright county and the sales total of $484,600 was $217,650 under the second quarter of '59. This year's April through June sales came to only 194 units.

At first appearance, Belmond looked to have had second-quarter retail sales of record proportions — $1,505,665. However, taxable sales of Ris-Van, Inc., which consisted mainly of equipment sales to dealers, amounted to $156,500 for the period.

This reduced Belmond's mercantile sales for April through June to $1,349,165. Even so, that amount was $38,615 ahead of the corresponding quarter of 1959.

Clarion and Eagle Grove both showed noteworthy gains over last year's second quarter; but except for those two communities and Belmond, shopping centers in this area showed general losses in trade compared to April-through-June of '59.

A $100,515 retail trade gain at Clarion brought the county seat's total for the second quarter up to $1,762,600. Eagle Grove enjoyed an $83,760 increase in retail sales to put its second-quarter figure at $1,652,400.

Rural Wright county, comprised of all sales outlets except those at Belmond, Clarion and Eagle Grove, experienced a $78,050 drop in retail sales compared to the same quarter a year ago which put its trade total at $1,009,400.

Forest City, with $1,378,580 in taxable sales, was off $80,960 from '59; Garner slipped a matter of $69,490, down to $1,240,200; and Hampton's retail trade was down by $167,430 to $3,109,400.

Neighboring counties, which had not had correspondingly large sales of cars in the second quarter of 1959 as compared with Wright's 257 units, didn't suffer so severe a decline in sales but did all report somewhat of a drop.

Hamilton county's auto sales went down from 226 to 195, Hancock's from 137 to 129, Franklin's from 194 to 182 and Humboldt's from 190 to 140. Statewide, motor vehicle and trailer sales for the second quarter of 1960 ran 4,342 less than in the same three months of 1959; and the revenue from these sales came to $10,473,850 less than from the cars purchased in the second quarter of 1959.

"Meals for Millions" movie will tell of MPF production here

Belmond will before long be receiving nationwide publicity through its connection with "Meals for Millions," the food concentrate produced by General Mills, Inc., for the Meals for Millions Foundation.

On Tuesday of last week, two GMI photographers from Minneapolis spent the day at the soybean processing plant here taking pictures of the production and packaging of "Meals for Millions."

Mike Hosp took several reels of moving pictures and Ray Dungan took still pictures that will be used for publicity purposes.

According to Mr. Hosp, the last portion of the movie was "shot" some months ago in Africa — showing arrival of the canned food at famed Dr. Albert Schweitzer's hospital at Lamborene, Gabon, Africa, and its use in combatting nutritional deficiencies in the natives' diets.

An African photographer filmed this part of the movie when a shipment from General Mills dispatched on July 21 arrived in Africa.

The semi-trailer operated by Belmond Transfer was provided by Jim Peterson to simulate departure of the shipment from Belmond. GMI plant employees who had "roles" in that part of the film showing "Meals for Millions" in process of production were Bob and Tom Greenwood, Ivan Evans, John Kriens and Dick Middleton.

General Mills Multi-Purpose Food, it will be recalled, comprises the main ingredient in the high-protein mixtures that "Meals for Millions" ships to poorly fed people throughout the world.

Three blends are mixed for "Meals for Millions." Blend "A" finds MPF spiced up with a variety of seasonings to make it more palatable; blend "B" consists of unseasoned MPF, such as is purchaseable at local stores; and blend "C" is a fine grind of MPF with added milk powder and is used primarily as a baby food.

Making up the July shipment to Dr. Schweitzer's hospital were 93 cases of Blend "A," 47 cases of Blend "B" and 46 cases of Blend "C." Total weight of the shipment was slightly over 2½ tons. Since MPF provides eight "meals" to the pound, the shipment was the equivalent of very nearly 40,200 "meals" nutritionally speaking.

No information was obtainable through Mr. Hosp or Mr. Dungan as to when the "Meals for Millions" movie will be available. Because of its local connections, there no doubt will be an effort made to arrange some showings here after it is released.

MIKE HOSP SHOOTING MOVIE OF MPF PRODUCTION

Santa coming this Saturday

St. Nick will be on hand this Saturday at 1:00 p. m. at the fire station to pass out the annual treats to youngsters of Belmond and the surrounding trade area. All boys and girls are cordially invited by the Chamber of Commerce, who is sponsoring Santa's appearance, to be on hand. It would be a good idea to get into the line for treats promptly at the 1:00 o'clock hour, as the third free movie program being provided by the Chamber will start its showing at 1:30 o'clock. This weekend's free matinee will take the form of a cartoon carnival.

AFRICAN MISSIONARY WILL SPEAK FRIDAY

Clara Kleiner, R. N., missionary from the Bombay conference of India, will be guest speaker at the W.S.C.S. meeting Friday afternoon at the Methodist church. The meeting will start at 2:00 o'clock.

Miss Kleiner will show slides. A silver tea will follow the meeting. Women of the Methodist churches in Clarion, Rowan, LuVerne, Goldfield, Alexander and Livermore have been invited to attend this special meeting.

Miss Kleiner will be a guest in the home of Mrs. Clark McNeal Friday evening.

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship are invited to bring a covered dish and their own table service and join with them at the supper hour.

Muhlenbruch open-house attended by 150 guests

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Muhlenbruch were congratulated Sunday afternoon by 150 guests at the open house held at the I.O.O.F. hall in celebration of their 35th wedding anniversary.

The program opened with the grandchildren of the Muhlenbruchs' singing. A feature of the program was the repetition of the marriage vows with Rev. Jack Rampelberg of the Rowan Congregational church officiating.

The hostesses were Mrs. Robert Dishman of Hampton, daughter of the honorees, and Mrs. Willis Muhlenbruch of Iowa Falls, their daughter-in-law. Mrs. Vergene Andrews of Alexander, sister of Mrs. Muhlenbruch, cut the cake and Mrs. Andrews' daughter Jerene was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Gerald Ersland and Mrs. Elmer Sheriff, the latter of Sheffield, poured.

Cards, gifts and flowers were received by the honorees, to commemorate the occasion.

KI-YO-TA GROUP

Last month the Ki-Yo-Ta members divided into committees of four. On Nov. 7 one committee planned the menu, bought the groceries, cooked and served a three-course dinner. The guests were the Camp Fire group, the Guardians and their families. On Nov. 21 the other committee did the same.

The girls are now working on their Fire Makers rank and this is one of the requirements. On Dec. 5 the girls made headbands and decorated them with symbols representing the group name.

Christmas buffet party at Literary Round Table

The Literary Round Table division of the Women's Federated Club met last Thursday in the home of Mrs. H. E. Colby for a Christmas buffet party with Katherine Dorr and Grace Reed as cohostesses.

After a short business meeting led by Cecelia Holtzbauer, chairman, the program committee, Mrs. Agnes Robbins and Rhea Campbell, put on a short skit "Christmas As In Iowa" and other Christmas features. A gift exchange was held. Gifts were brought for the Cherokee State hospital.

John Halfpaps observed 43rd wedding anniversary

The children and their families of Mr. and Mrs. John Halfpap gathered at their home Sunday to help them celebrate their 43rd wedding anniversary which is on Dec. 13th.

After a social afternoon, lunch was served. The honorees received a bouquet of flowers from the guests and the members of the family that were not able to be present.

Christmas party held by Lucky Eight card club

The Lucky Eight card club held their Christmas party Sunday evening at the Wayne Pastour home. Other members present were Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ersland, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ersland, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kinseth, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mennenga, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tripp and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ziller.

Beta Sigma Phi sorority held preferential tea

Beta Sigma Phi sorority members held their preferential tea Sunday at the home of Lillian Nelson. This tea honored the following pledges: Sharon Williams, Kay Robeson and Grace Janson.

The table was decorated with yellow mums and a Christmas tree cake. Adele Johnson, Alice Jacomeyer and Shirley Pals were in charge of the tea.

Annual Christmas dinner held by Culture Study club

Culture Study club members met Wednesday evening at the Blue Bell tearoom for the annual Christmas dinner. A committee had charge of contests and carol singing following the dinner hour. Mystery sisters exchanged gifts.

The box of gifts was completed which is to be sent to the Mental Health hospital at Cherokee. Sleighs made at a previous meeting, were filled with cookies and are to be taken to the three nursing homes in town.

ABOUT 125 GIRLS participated Sunday afternoon in the third annual Chirstmas Vespers program presented at the Methodist church by members of the local Camp Fire and Blue Bird organizations. A fair-sized turn out of parents witnessed the program, which included a candle-lighting ceremonial, singing of traditional carols and other features appropriate to the season. Among the participants in the candle-lighting were the fourth-grade group of Blue Birds pictured above (left to right): Mary Kellermann, Linda Pals, Berna Lee Schwab, Linda Trager, Judy Carwell and Linda Svendsen.

JOE ZDENEKS TO OBSERVE 25th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zdenek will observe their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon with an open house at their rural home one and one half miles south of Rose Creek, Minn.

Friends and relatives are invited to call between the hours of 2:00 until 5:00 p.m.

Voral Thayer and Joe Zdenek were married Dec. 17, 1935 at the Little Brown church at Nashua. Mrs. Zdenek is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thayer.

House warming held at E. Ellingston home

Former neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Elling Ellingston gathered at their new home Friday evening for a house warming. A pot luck lunch was served by the guests and a gift of money was presented to the Ellingstons.

G. E. M. club held annual Christmas dinner party

G. E. M. club met at the home of Mrs. "Coonie" Smith last Thursday evening for a pre-Christmas pot luck dinner and the exchange of gifts. Mrs. Ed Frohling received the door prize and at the close of the evening the hostess served dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Jennings observe 55th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary a week ago Tuesday. Friends, whom they meet each winter at Rockport, Tex., came for a pot-luck supper. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Trout of Webster City, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beisner and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Toft of Dows.

East Side Birthday club held Christmas supper party

The East Side Birthday club met last Thursday evening at the Joe Brooks home for a Christmas supper. Twelve families were present.

Singers entertain big crowd Sunday

A near-capacity crowd heard singers of the Belmond High school vocal music department present their annual Christmas concert last Sunday evening at the high school auditorium. Advance publicity on the entertainment had been omitted due to the limited seating capacity of the auditorium, which hardly provides room for the families and relatives of the students participating.

Director Ivan Kortkamp presented in the initial group of numbers four vocalists making their initial appearances as soloists: Donna Griffin, Jeanne Finn, Janet Suntken and Karen Shahan.

As the second portion of the program, the madrigal singers were grouped about a table in the manner of olden times and offered three numbers. Four members of the group also were presented as soloists: Bette Johnson, Ruth Ann Swaroff, Kathy Finn and Velda Mennenga.

One number was sung by the girls' quartet, consisting of Sharon Christenson, Bette Johnson, Kathy Finn and Loree Baker; and the girls' glee club was presented in two selections.

Concluding the program were two groups of numbers featuring the entire a cappella choir, the final group consisting of traditional carols. Bette Johnson was heard as soloist in the finale, "Silent Night."

Although pressure of a tighter school schedule has made some inroads on time available for vocal training, Mr. Kortkamp's soloists and groups reflected as in years past his excellent direction and the crowd made clear its enjoyment of the entire program.

Iowa Heart Fund gets 2 memorial gifts from here

Two recent gifts from Belmond residents to the Heart Memorial Fund are reported by Mrs. Gail Cundall of Clarion, Wright county chairman for the fund. She says these donations were made in the names of John Bellus of Long Island, N. Y., by Mrs. Mary Beck of Belmond; and of Mrs. Mary C. Hauge.

Recent gifts to the fund have also been received in the memory of Mrs. Minnie Boyington Ketchum of Rowan and Earl Waddell of Clarion.

Mrs. Cundall reports that figures recently released by the Iowa Heart association for 1959 show that of 213 deaths that were recorded in that year in this county, 125 were attributed to heart ailments.

That percentage — 58.6 — that prevailed in Wright county was about average for the state, Mrs. Cundall notes.

All gifts received by the Iowa Heart association's Memorial Fund are applied on research into the causes and cures of various kinds of heart ailments. The money is devoted exclusively to research projects being carried on at schools and laboratories in this state.

NEW BELMOND Film Highlights —from— COMING ATTRACTIONS

"My Dog Buddy," which comprises half of Thursday-through-Saturday's double feature, stars the German shepherd, London, who canine fanciers may recall from his big hit in "The Littlest Hobo."

Travis Lemmond is the youngster in this entertaining boy-and-dog epic.

Sharing the screen will be "Walk Like a Dragon." Among such cast names as Nobu McCarthy, Benson Fong and James Shigeta you'll find one somewhat more familiar — Mel Torme, ol' velvet-voice himself.

"Elmer Gantry" caused a considerable stir in the publishing world when this Sinclair Lewis story of a fiery but earthy evangelist came off the presses. And it has created no less of a stir in its film version, showing Sunday through Wednesday. As portrayed by a cast which Bert Lancaster, Jean Simmons and Shirley Jones head, this is adult film fare. Also in the movie is Patti Page, the popular warbler, who depicts a gospel singer.

Members of IOOF Rebekah lodges pick new officers

Both the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges have elected new officers, who will be installed at meetings in January. Ray Leebrick will succeed Pete Bohning as Noble Grand of the IOOF and Mrs. William Swenson was elected to replace Mrs Porter Faulhaber as Noble Grand of th Rebekahs

Also elected to Odd Fellow offices were Arnold Mennenga, Vice Grand; Glenn Morris financial secretary; Paul Ahlstrom recording secretary; and Paul Dieger treasurer Jack Ketchum was named as a trustee

Elected to Rebekah offices were Mrs Paul Trees, Vice Grand; Mrs Earl Hinman, recording secretary; Mrs. Pete Bohning, financial secretary; and Mrs James McMurray, treasurer

The following have been appointed to secondary offices in the Rebekah lodge

Jeanette Schroeder warden, Ethel Ketchum conductor, Mary Smith, flag bearer Jean Thayer, inside guardian; Jean Hattel outside guardian, Marian Smith Minnie Johnson, Anna Helgeland and Carrie Nelson candle-bearers, Ellen Ahlstrom, chaplain Bessie Thompson musician

Mr. Bohning reports that selection of the IOOF appointive officers has not yet been completed.

Audit criticizes Cox serving city in two capacities

An audit of the city's business affairs recently conducted by C. Ward, supervisor operating out of the state auditor's office, expressed praise in most respects for the manner in which the city's business was conducted during the year 1959.

A few very minor errors in the recording of transactions were noted and instructions offered for rectifying them but the most of Mr. Ward's remarks were commendatory

Its most specific criticism had to do with Luin Cox serving both as the city treasurer and as a member of the city library's board of trustees. The supervisor stated that it is "highly irregular" that one individual should serve two independent divisions of the city in this manner and recommended that Mr Cox discontinue serving in one of the two positions

Mr Ward also noted that as library board secretary Mr Cox receives compensation in the amount of $50 per year This stipend had been regarded by other members of the library board as justified because of the more extensive duties and responsibility entailed in Mr Cox's service as accounting officer of the board

However, Mr. Ward observed that the Iowa code specifically prohibits compensation for a municipal library trustee and advised that the remuneration to Mr Cox be discontinued in the future

Masons and OES pick new officers

Dr P. A Rietz was elected Worshipful Master of King Solomon Masonic lodge at the regular meeting on Tuesday of last week. Other officers elected were: Robert Kellermann, Senior Warden, Lloyd Lerdal, Junior Warden; C. C. Benson treasurer; and George Jenison secretary.

Ervin Halverson was elected to the board of trustees for a three-year term Retiring Worshipful Master is George Jenison.

Mrs Elmer Smith as Worthy Matron and Helmer Svendsen as Worthy Patron will head the 1961 roster of officers of Order of Eastern Star elected on Wednesday evening of last week

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Helmer Svendsen Associate Matron, A W Dahlgran, Associate Patron, Mrs Jim Cairns, Conductress; Mrs Gordon Hildebrand, Associate Conductress; Mrs C. N. Hildebrand, secretary, and Rhea Campbell, treasurer

Broncos exempt from sectional tournament play

Belmond High's is one of six North Iowa conference teams that will be exempt from sectional play when the basketball tournament campaign is launched the week of Feb. 20. In all, 192 teams in the state will advance to district competition without participating in sectional tourneys.

Under the new 32-district set-up that will be followed this year in arriving at a state boys' championship the six largest schools in each district start play only after the sectionals have been completd

Only Garner and Northwood from the NIC ranks will be required to play at the sectional level.

In District 8 the teams that like Belmond are in the exempt classification are Iowa Falls, Hampton Clarion, Ackley and Sheffield-Chapin.

Britt will see its first action in the District 6 tournament, as will Buffalo Center. Osage Lake Mills and Forest City are among the "big six" in District 7.

Vets will deliver baskets as usual

Pierce Zeiger Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will again this year deliver well-filled baskets of food to Belmond's less fortunate families just before Christmas. Contrary to past custom, though, the VFW members are not being contacted by mail for contributions toward this project.

Quartermaster Marvin Meinders has a published notice in this issue asking all Veterans to bring their usual donations to him at Ted's Shoe store. This good will project is of such long standing that the VFW officers regard it should be unnecessary to mail letters and return envelopes to the members

"It is very important, though, that Veterans respond with their usual generosity," Mr Meinders says, "so that the baskets can go out at their customary time — heaped high with the makings of a Christmas feast, as always."

MRS. MOODY QUANDT

Annual Christmas luncheon enjoyed by Woman's club

Members of the Meservey Woman's club met Friday at the home of Mrs. Robert Raecker for their annual Christmas luncheon and gift exchange. Mrs. Andrew Boelman had the program and showed slides of the Nativity as depicted by famous artists.

Mrs. Elmer Dorenkamp and Mrs. Andrew Boelman were heard in a piano duet and a musical number was also presented by Mrs. Ralph Schmidt. Each member exchanged gifts with her "secret sister" for the past year and identities were revealed.

Dessert and coffee were served before the meeting concluded at the close of the afternoon. Gifts were brought for the "forgotten" at Iowa mental institutions, as has become an established tradition of the Christmas luncheon.

SINGS IN SUI CONCERT

Among the State University of Iowa students who took part in the Christmas concert presented Wednesday evening was Elizabeth Lemke of Meservey. Mrs. Amaila Lemke, Mrs. Harry Ostendorf and Darlene Ostendorf planned to drive to Iowa City to attend the concert.

GRIMES CLOVER BELLES

Regular meeting of the Grimes Clover Belles 4-H club was held Dec. 5 at the home of Linda Faaborg. Eleven members answered roll call.

Talks were given by Roberta Boelman on "Ice Cream — a Dish So Gay," and Briget Brown on "Today's Health Girl." Demonstrations were given by Bertha Shaw on "It's a Date for a Party," and Betty Vierkant on "Snack Time Hits."

Games were led by Genelle Schlichting, Linda Stadtlander and Diane Mennenga. The girls exchanged gifts and lunch was served by the hostess.

Honor Charlotte Dorenkamp on birthday anniversary

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Lewis Dorenkamp home were Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pals and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Waddingham and Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Logan. They came to help Charlotte celebrate her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Raecker accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming drove to Mason City Sunday afternoon where they visited with their son-in-law, James Hungerford, who has been a patient in the Park Hospital following knee surgery. Mrs. Hungerford and family of Osage were also there.

Mrs. Robert Raecker presented lesson at Camera club meeting

The Meservey Camera Club met Monday evening at the school dining rooms with Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Hafermann and Frank as hostess and hosts.

The lesson, "Contrasts and Causes of Imperfect Snaps" and "Better Baby Shots" was given by Mrs. Robert Raecker who illustrated the lesson with slides shown by Mr. Raecker. Business meeting was conducted by President H. C. Fischer.

Following the meeting, Frank Hafermann showed slides taken while visiting Monaco, Rome, Paris, Nice, etc., when in Europe on tour. Lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Priebe of Klemme were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Ruiter and John Pals were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Ronald Ruiter home at Goldfield.

Captains set up Farm Bureau 1961 membership drive

A long step toward reaching the Wright County Farm Bureau membership goal of 892 for next year was taken last Thursday at a highly successful captains' meeting. Besides the membership captains, it was attended by the membership committee, office personnel and the wives.

After a potluck dinner served in the basement of the First National Bank building in Clarion, Adolph Meinders of Norway township, membership chairman, conducted the meeting. County President Olaf Watne spoke on the importance of Farm Bureau membership and Max Titus, agency manager for Wright county, explained the insurance program.

Roger Brown, area fieldman, discussed material given the captains. He said plans call for 10 to 16 workers from each township to attend worker training meetings between Jan. 3-6. A kick-off dinner will be held Jan. 17 at the St. John's Catholic church, Clarion.

Among those from this part of the county attending the meeting last week as captains were: Doyce Friedow and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meinders, Norway township; Mr. and Mrs. John Watne, Belmond township; and Don Burt, Iowa township.

Letters to Santa Claus

Meservey, Iowa

Dear Santa Claus,

I would like a bike. My big sister would like a typewriter. My little sister would like a doll. I am 7 years old. My big sister is 13. My little sister is 22 mo. I am in second grade. I hope every girl and boy in the world has a happy Christmas. I will put cookies and milk under our Christmas tree for you and hay by the gate for your reindeer.

From
Sandra Schluter

Dear Santa Claus

I am only 22 months old so mommy is writing for me. For Christmas I want a rocking chair, a girl girl outfit and a toy telephone.

Thank you
Lisa Sue Heginger

Meservey, Ia.

Dear Santa,

Would you please bring me a Bike a Black one if you have that color, and a doll, and doll house. Thank you Santa

Judy Van Osten

Dear Santa Claus,

I would like some clothes for my 26-inch doll, also a nice baking set so I can cook in the kitchen with Mother. I would like the game called "Tickle Bee." I would like a set of dishes which I think would be fun. I would like a stuffed dog called "Klinker." There will be cookies and milk in the kitchen.

love
Joan Goecke

Dear Santa Claus,

I guess I'll have an airplane OK? Now I'll have a fanner 50 you put bullets in Tinker Toys too If you look on page 58 you'll see what else I want please. Chinese don't get very much food, so carry food for them to eat I couldn't get a bike ('cause I'm just 5) so I won't write that down. But next year I hope so.

Love
Dennis Kessler

P S Don't forget grandma and grandpa too!

Dear Santa

I want a 8 ball and a little girls bichle And a doll that talks And a Santa Claus bank. And a new school desk make it yellow. And some story books And dear Santa will you visit me Sorry if it costs to much but try to bring half at least And if you can bring me some more toys.

Your dear friend
Bonnie Anne Boyd

Thank you Santa
I am going to be 7 in January '61.

Dear Santa,

How are you and Mrs. Santa? My name is Bobby Carpenter. I would like a electric racer set. Also bring my sister's Carlene and Joyce dolls. Please try not to forget all the other boys and girls. Please bring mommy and daddy something too. Thank you for whatever you bring us. We love you very much.

Love
Bobby

Dear Santa,

All I want for Christmas is a set of dishes and a suitcase. When you get here there will be cookies and milk for you on the kitchen table.

Reduced car sales, boom in compacts creating problem

In this issue is a story on taxable retail sales and auto sales for the second quarter of the current year. One statement in regard to the latter will undoubtedly give readers pause for thought; but even so it is doubtful that its full significance will be realized.

The story refers to the fact that Wright county's sale of new motor vehicles in the period of April through June came to 63 less units than in the same period of 1959. This is close to a 25 per cent drop from the total of 257 cars and trucks sold in the second quarter of 1959.

This is just one phase of a current trend in the automobile picture as a whole which is, for one thing, bound to influence highway, secondary road and street construction plans while it continues to prevail.

Besides the slump in new car and new truck buying (which is doubtless a temporary situation), it seems clear that a part of the drop in tax revenue for road purposes results from the growing popularity of the so-called "compact" car. These smaller cars have a triple effect. Use tax produced by their original purchase is smaller than for the traditional car; in addition, it costs less to license them; and finally, they use less gas and consequently produce less gas tax.

Actually, Wright county auto and truck registrations for the 12 months ending Dec. 1 were slightly higher than for the preceding 12-month period. Auto registrations went up from 7.705 to 7,768 and truck registrations from 2,015 to 2,014. However, the percentage of new vehicles was down considerably.

This is clearly indicated by the fact that use tax on new purchases sent in to the state by Treasurer Harold Sullivan came to only $35.975 for the first 11 months of 1960 compared to $46,876 through November of '59. A smaller drop — but nevertheless a significant one — was shown in gas tax revenue from this county. This year's 11-month yield was $323,342 as to $330,138 for the same period a year ago.

In aggregate, that's a decline in revenue for road funds amounting to more than $17.500 from just this one rural county. Projected to encompass the state as a whole, it can be seen that the state highway commission and county boards of supervisors are quite deeply concerned with the effect of this trend on their road building plans.

Here in Wright county, receipts from the state secondary road fund have in the first 11 months been more than $21.000 under a year ago on a decline from $358.757 to $337.601. This quite closely approximates the cost of a mile of road surfacing. Measured in terms of the entire state, it can be seen that the effect of this revenue loss from vehicle and gas sales figures to add up to an appreciable reduction in road work until the trend is reversed.

Brought close to home, it presents a problem which the county engineer's office and board of supervisors have had to give careful inspection in laying their plans for 1961 road surfacing. And they have a lot of company in wondering how long the situation will continue.

"Jail mess" calls for sober, honest consideration

Some level-headed thinking is called for by what Wright countians have for the past week or two been referring to as "the jail mess." Probably if this were a completely circumspect newspaper, we'd choose to pretend the episode never happened — insofar as editorial comment on it is concerned, at least. But we feel it should be faced frankly; and it should by all means be evaluated honestly and soberly, rather than emotionally.

Involved by intimate association — and at the same time exempt from any involvement by participation — is a public servant who has a distinctly outstanding record of achievement in his field. Likewise involved are other individuals whose frailties (and who of us don't have some?) are of a nature that they probably should prompt as much pity as censure.

In such a situation it is a great temptation to resort to self-righteous indignation and choose a scapegoat to be sacrificed. It salves the public conscience. But the public will be the loser if action in this case is impulsive rather than studied.

The chairman of the board of supervisors says that body is hopeful that the grand jury will see fit to investigate the specific episode under discussion and the general management of the county jail. Certainly some agency should take the responsibility for seeing that there is not a recurrence of "the jail mess." But there are two ways to cure a headache. The cause can be eliminated — or the head itself can be lopped off. Calm deliberation is not apt to invoke the latter drastic step.

It appears highly likely that an inquiry into the circumstances from which "the mess" evolved would indicate that surveillance of the county jail has not been all it should be. If this shortcoming can be corrected without a radical shake-up of what has been a top-flight law enforcement organization, that would be much more to the public interest than performing a decapitation to cure the headache.

We don't mean, by the remarks above, to imply that we regard "the jail mess" as an amusing bit of frivolity to be lightly dismissed. Very determined efforts should be made to prevent its repetition. But this can be done either vindictively or in a spirit of helpfulness.

It is much to be hoped that this whole matter will be treated with tolerance and reasonableness rather than impulse. Not only the persons concerned, but the people of Wright county themselves, will benefit if this is done.

Legislature's headache: new revenue

Governor-Elect Erbe and the new legislature will be faced with a serious fact. During the three years of the Loveless regime property taxes in Iowa have gone up an average of $30,000,000 for each of the three years.

Loveless took a lot of pride in advertising that state taxes had not gone up during his term. Two were raised — corporation income and the sales tax on cigarets. But the big increase came in property tax, which has more than doubled in the last ten years.

State aids are demanded as an "easy" way out of the property tax dilemma by some. Yet the state can get money from only one source — the people of Iowa.

SOME ARE DEMANDING A bigger bite on corporations. Iowa taxes corporate income at three percent — BUT what is NOT realized is that the three percent applies only after the federal government has taken its bite out of corporate gross profits.

The federal tax on corporation gross profits STARTS at 52 per cent and goes upward. There isn't much left for Iowa to tax after the federal government gets through. And if Iowa taxes too much these businesses just up and move out of the state. Minnesota has been finding out that fact of life.

THE SAME IS TRUE OF INcome tax. The federal government "bite" STARTS at 20 percent of a man's taxable income — and goes up to NINETY-TWO percent of an income. Iowa can tax only what's left!

There is only one way the state can get its bite out of an income before the federal government does — and that's by sales tax. Sales taxes are deductible from income for federal tax purposes — thus letting the state in first. Thus the federal government can tax only what's left.

TO GET MORE STATE AID FOR property tax relief the only reasonable source is an increase in the sales tax. Taxation of incomes runs into the law of diminishing returns — the more tax the less there is to tax!

One cent of sales tax will bring in $34,000,000. In order to match that by income tax on persons the rate would have to be doubled! In order to match it in corporation income tax the state would have to increase the tax take from corporations TEN TIMES what is taxed now.

BUT PEOPLE WILL SCREAM about any new state tax that effects everybody like the sales tax does. That's a political fact not unknown to legislators.

It may well be the tax problem will cause more headaches than the reapportionment issue. — Algona Advance

Norberg the "goat"

Democrats treated their recent chairman, Duke Norberg, rather shabbily. They blamed him for the ills of the party when the blame is not his.

Anyone in the political know understands that Loveless ran the party and Duke was told nothing and they wouldn't let him do anything. The democratic candidates ran their campaigns independently.

Norberg didn't handle the campaign nor the money. They made him the fall guy for the big shots who goofed. It's a shame. — Algona Advance

Put it on the front!

"Now, PLEASE put it on the front page where everybody will see it!" How often we newspaper folks hear that.

Why, bless your hearts, gentle readers, if we thought people read only the first page of our paper, we'd print one page every week and quit.

A newspaper is a good deal like a store. The front page corresponds to the show window. Inside you'll find the goods you're after. We publishers know that the backbone of our product is composed of the messages and offerings of our advertisers. Without the ads, a newspaper just wouldn't be worth taking home — if in fact it were printed al all!

AS FOR NEWS — WELL THE most popular features in any newspaper, speaking from the feminine viewpoint to which we cater, are the personals and the social news. Inside also you'll find the sports department, informative letters sent in by our correspondents, classified advertisements, legal publications. Some folks even read the special columns and the editorials!

Of course, the front page of a newspaper is attention compelling — it should be. But never make the mistake of thinking that your newspaper stops there.

Read it each week from kiver to kiver. You'll find every column is well worth your attention! — Storm Lake Pilot-Tribune

WITH YE ED

HOW FAR IS UP?—

We were intrigued recently by an article in the Aramco World that dealt with the fascinating history of measurements.

Have you ever thought what a mess this old would would be in (not but what it's in a mess of a different sort. anyway) if we didn't have any commonly accepted standards of measurement to go by?

It's easily comprehended if we say that a Belmond housewife buys a pound of apples; that in a root beer drinking contest the winner consumed three quarts; that a Boston athlete high-jumped seven feet; or that a man waited in a parked car at the bank corner for 32 minutes for his wife.

But there's room for a lot of misunderstanding if the housewife bought a "hatful" of apples, the boy drank a "jug" of root beer, the athlete jumped "as high as corn grows" — and the man waited as long as it takes to fume.

RULE OF THUMB—

When life was rugged but simple, man's needs were few and he could supply them himself. But as he advanced from lone hunter to agrarian and builder, he exchanged solitary existence for the greater comfort and security of community life and needed to come to agreement with his neighbors on a common system of measurement.

Earliest of those measurements were for length. "Rule of thumb," for example, is not just an idle idiom but referred to the earliest definition of an inch — the width of a man's thumb.

Similar natural "tools" lay behind other units of measurement — a palm, a span of a hand and, obviously, a foot. Through efforts at standardization by ancient tribal leaders and kings, the foot gradually evolved as a measurement of approximately 12 inches.

As late as 1902, though, a legal case in Brooklyn, N. Y., brought to light that city surveys of the time recognized FOUR different measurements — the United States foot, the Bushwick foot, the Williamsburg foot and the foot of the 26th Ward'

Capitalizing on this confusion, the owner of a strip of land convinced the court he could not be taxed for its possession because he could prove by accepted measurements that it didn't "exist."

This nation's system of weights and measures evolved entirely from rude measurements carried down from earlier civilizations. Even the terminology has in numerous instances been retained. The smallest unit of measure in our catalogue of weights, for instance, is the "grain"—which is believed to have been originally the weight of one grain of wheat.

HOWS THE WEATHER?—

It is accepted, today, that meteorological conditions are bound to cause certain inconsequential variations in weights. Corn that weighs a pound on a dry day will weigh more on a humid one.

Moreover, natural shrinkage and minimal variations in production are accepted in most business dealings today as inevitable and small attention is paid to them.

This is a far cry from the attitude of a medieval prince who carefully weighed out to his goldsmith the amount of metal he wished to be fashioned into a goblet — and then reweighed the finished product with the requirement that the weight vary not one grain — at the peril of the goldsmith's life!

CAME THE REVOLUTION—

Out of the French Revolution came the metric system of weights and measures that most scientists — and many hard-headed businessmen — believe the U. S. should long ago have adopted. In dissension-torn France of that day, Prince Talleyrand gave ear to the urging of his nation's scientists for a national system of weights and measures, regarding that it would be at least one small means of creating a new national unity.

Its standard unit, the meter, was derived from a dimension of the earth — one ten-millionth part of a quadrant of the earth's meridian. The official measurement was made between Dunkerque. France and Barcelona, Spain, north and south of the 45th parallel, and a metal bar made from the measurements became ultimately the standard for most of the world.

IT'S GETTING COMPLICATED—

With today's advancement of science, the units of weight and measure have extended to unimagineable dimensions. It has, for example, become essential to WEIGH even the infinitesimal atom — and to measure the vast distances into the universe that have become of importance in this so-called Space Age.

Space distances that once were expressed in foot-long conversions into miles now are measured in time rather than length. The unit of measure is the light-year (the distance light travels in a year at 186,000 miles per second), which figures out to the tidy figure of 5.87 million million miles!

Just between us, we'd say that some envy might be directed back to the day when the length of a handmade brogan had some significance on our speck of dust in the universe.

Know your businessmen—

Ted Zook has built more than 75 new homes

When the late John Zook was a carpenter and contractor in this community more than 40 years ago, a twig was bent in the direction of a similar career for his son. That it has been a distinctly successful career is made apparent by the more than 75 homes in Belmond which the son, Ted Zook, has been responsible for building in the past 20 years.

A contractor in his own right over the past two decades, Ted has put to good use the knowledge he gained first from his father and later as an employee of Hogenson Construction company, which was a large-scale building concern here in Belmond over a period of years.

Ted got his start in carpentry under his father's guidance before enlisting in the Navy at the time of World War I. He worked again with his father for a time after his military career had come to a close — and then put in those valuable, learning years under the tutorship of Ben Hogenson.

Actually, Ted went "on his own" before the World War II years and post-war years that saw Belmond enjoy its greatest period of construction and growth. But during those pre-war years, he built only a meager handful of houses. His work mainly entailed the remodeling of aging homes to make them more comfortable, convenient and up-to-date.

But starting about 1940, after a year in California that served mainly to make him eager to return to his home state, Ted got into housebuilding on a major scale and he's kept at it ever since. His biggest years have seen eight or nine houses erected by Zook crews; but he makes a guess that since 1945 he has averaged very conservatively five new homes a year — and probably a bit more.

Houses have been his special interest. He has done little building on farms and only a small amount of commercial construction. He takes pride in the addition to Steele Memorial Clinic and the Belmond Community hospital's Rowen Room, for which he was responsible. He also enjoyed "straw-bossing" the construction of Luick Memorial Swimming Pool.

However, houses are his specialty — and he gets enough homebuilding jobs to keep him jumping most of the time. During the immediate post-war years he kept two, full crews working most of the time. In recent year's he's limited himself generally to a one-crew volume of work.

His present crew consists of Henry Steenblock. Luther Proeger, Jr., Andrew Bohning and Ben Daniels. All, he says, are good men. Ted takes particular pride in the expert cabinet work that is among the important contributions that Henry Steenblock makes to Zook-built homes.

Ted got well established in homebuilding in the early post-war years when he put up a dozen homes for a syndicate headed by the late George Hake and Clark McNeal. Four of these were rebuilt from older abodes moved into town to help ease the housing shortage.

One large, venerable residence which, as the Elder family homestead, had stood south of the "Sugar factory" (now the General Mills plant) was divided in two and formed the nucleus for what today are the homes of Don Nolan and Larry Dorr on Second avenue NE.

Persons employing Ted Zook as their builder usually can (if they wish) start out about $300 ahead on the cost of their home by avoiding an architect's fee. Ted ordinarily starts out helping to plan a home by getting his customer to pick out the style of roof he wants — and from there, Ted draws the floor plan to suit.

Ted admits with a grin that probably no one but a member of his building crew could read those plans; but his men have learned to interpret them accurately — and Zook customers have been outspokenly approving of the finished results.

While home construction in Belmond during the past five to 10 years has been limited almost exclusively to ranch-style dwellings, Ted says that 1½-story homes are returning to popularity elsewhere. He suspects that the limited size and high cost of lots in heavily populated areas has prompted this new trend in construction. Whether it will "catch on" here or not, he doesn't venture to guess.

Mr. Zook owns five Belmond lots on which he's ready, willing and able to build to suit any interested client. Of course, he isn't going to be stubborn if someone has a lot of his own on which he'd like to have Ted put a house.

Ted wonders a bit if a slow-down in construction is in prospect for Belmond, considering all the building of the past decade. He had a "real good year" in 1960, though; and looks forward to another in '61. So he's not doing much fretting about the future at this stage.

What Is a Newspaper?
(No. 4 in a Series)

There are times when what looks like a newspaper may not qualify as such for legal purposes. In many places there are what are known as "shoppers" or "throwaways." They contain more or less news, they serve a purpose, but their primary purpose is advertising.

Such publications are useful and many of them have been in existence for years. Some of them make a fine appearance. But it is significant that they cannot qualify for second class entry under the postal laws. This is because they do not come within the definition of a bona fide newspaper under the regulations.

Then again there are special interest newspapers which, within their limits, also serve useful purposes. These may be fraternal or religious in nature or may have to do with a specific trade, business, industry or profession.

But in the very great majority of cases the thousands of state laws governing public notices, or legal advertising, specify the use of bona fide newspapers of paid general circulation in the community for such purposes. This is because such newspapers usually give maximum coverage, circulate throughout the community, their main purpose is to publish editorial and news matter, and their paid circulations are undeniable proof of their merit, their influence and their being wanted in the community.

How to grow money on your Christmas tree

In a little more than 7 Christmases U. S. Savings Bonds grow 33⅓%

A Savings Bond gift gets bigger. And the Bonds you give this Christmas are better than ever. They earn 3¾% when held to maturity. That means the gift Bonds you buy now for $18.75 will be worth $25.00 in just 7 years and 9 months.

Give Bonds to all the children on your Christmas list — they'll be money-in-the-bank when it's time for college. Bonds are ideal gifts for people planning for retirement. Held to maturity, they'll be worth ⅓ more than you paid for them. Held ten years longer, they'll return $1.93 for every dollar you put into them.

U. S. Savings Bonds are so easy to buy — just a brief stop at this bank and your shopping is done. Your bonds are all ready to hang on the tree or tuck in a Christmas stocking.

"Why have so many of my neighbors switched to Hy-Line Layers?"

Hy-Line Chicks
Hy-Line Chicks
Chicks

Answer:
Because so many poultrymen have decided that in good times or bad, they can't afford any other brand! They've analyzed results of official Random Sample Tests. They have talked with other poultrymen. They have tried Hy-Line layers in their own laying houses. They have seen firsthand that trim, thrifty, high-producing Hy-Line birds are today's most profitable layers. That is why Hy-Line birds are the world's most popular layers . . . by far.

Contest winners announced—

Best population guess just 5 off

An after thought (she'd put down 2,500 and then marked over the second zero with a "1") made Mrs. Joe Kaduce of Meservey the "champeen" in The Independent's guessing contest based on Belmond's official 1960 population.

Eleven other individuals lacked the imagination to get off of that even figure and consequently tied for second with guesses of exactly 2,500.

They were: Mrs. John Halfpap, Ella Wessels, Mrs. Sam Mickelson, Mrs. E. C. Vander Ploeg, Mrs. Fred Pletsch, Mrs. Martha Riekens, Mrs. Richard Kling, Mrs. Ted Bonte, Mrs. Chris Groen, Mrs. M. B. Dannewitz and Marjorie E. Wolfe.

With 10 one-year subscription to The Independent to be awarded the winners, it was decided that the fairest way to split the prizes would be to present seven of the second-best guesses — along with Mrs. Kaduce — a full year's subscription and the other four a half-year each.

Linda Davenport of the Iowa Electric Light and Power office was called upon to do the drawing and came up with the names of Marjorie Wolf, Mrs. Bonte, Mrs. Pletsch and Mrs. Halfwassen as those to receive six-month subscriptions.

Before the final and official count on Belmond's 1960 population was released, Mrs. Hattie Smith looked like the best guesser. She hit the unofficial total of 2,499 right on the nose.

Guesses covered a wide range. From a low of 1,274, they went as high as 3,900.

One aspect of Belmond's growth which may not be greeted so happily by its residents is brought to The Independent's attention by a local insurance man. National risk tables followed by auto insurance companies call for an increase of about $5.00 per policy in cities from 2,500 to 5,000 population.

If the insurance companies "hew to the line" and effect the rate raise that is called for by the gain of seven that Belmond achieved over its unofficial count of 2,499, car owners of the community may not be so proud of that final 2,506 figure.

Should you note an increase in the auto insurance premium as the 1960 population figures are distributed and digested, the above will provide the explanation.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLaughlin of Des Moines visited over the weekend in the parental Mike McLaughlin home.

BELMOND BUSY BEES

A one o'clock covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by 32 members of the Busy Bees 4-H club and their mothers and one guest a week ago Saturday at the Congregational Youth Center.

Mrs. Geraldine Steele, Wright county home economist, gave a short talk on "Frozen Food Record Books" for senior members.

Other talks given were: "Food Situation in Iowa," Jane Studebaker; and "Safety in the Kitchen," Pam Smith.

Demonstrations: "Correct Way of Serving," Cindy Dickson; and "Let's Do Dishes," Linda Thompson and Lonna Braner.

Skit: "Mind Your Manners," Beverly Buseman, Cindy Dickson, Roberta Kennedy. Music: Faye Homervold, Linda Thompson and Melody Courson.

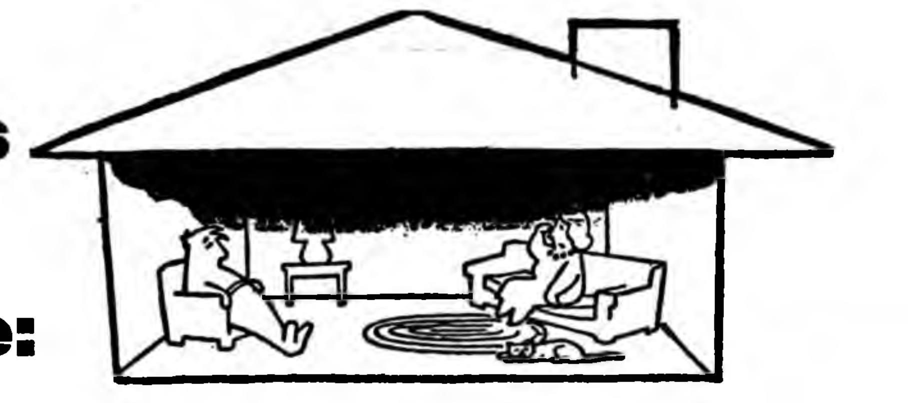
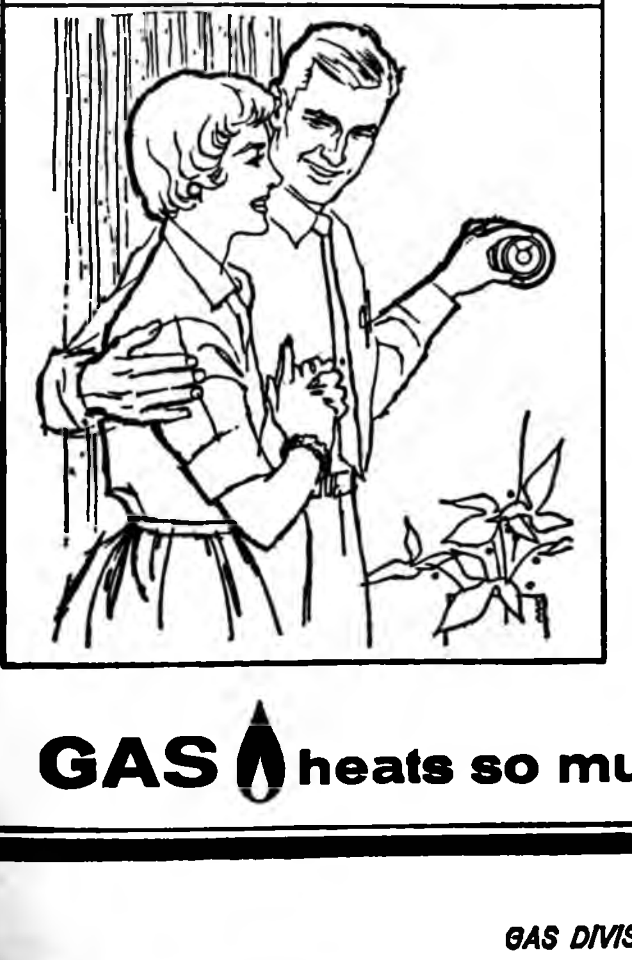
Houses are like people:



You enjoy them more when they're not stuffy!

Talk to your heating contractor now – about installing natural gas or converting your present heating plant.

Prepare now for next winter
Install your new Gas Heating System today!



This Winter-Relax in "Fresh-Air" Warmth through the Miracle of Natural Gas

Live "in springtime" the year-around! Adjust heat as you want – in each room and every room of your house – the pleasant, even heat that gives warmth without extremes.

There's no smoke, grime or dust in natural gas heating – no dusty fuel to be handled or moved. Therefore your house stays clean, when heated by this most convenient of modern fuels. And it's never "stuffy," for the air is constantly kept fresh and clean – with the natural healthful moisture so kind to people – and to fine furniture, as well!

Better talk to your heating contractor now – about your natural gas heating system – or about converting your present heating set-up to natural gas. Your house will never be "stuffy" – but, instead, a "miracle" of comfort!

Poor first half disastrous—

Britt trounces Broncs 75 to 54

SPORTS

Belmond dropped from the undefeated ranks in the North Iowa conference Friday night with a resounding thud as Britt racked up a 75-54 triumph on the Eagles' floor.

After Britt romped into a 10-2 lead in the early moments of the game it was not much of a contest — although the Broncos did fight the Eagles to a stand-off most of the second half.

It was seven baskets by Jerry Schrader, all easy lay-ups from under the hoop, that did Belmond the most damage in the first half. Bob Nielsen contributed to the Broncos' humiliation prior to the intermission with five fielders.

Britt held a 17-8 advantage at the quarter and had run the margin to 33-17 by halftime. Belmond kept the margin at that same 16 points or less most of the third quarter, but five consecutive buckets by Nielsen in the final stanza helped the Eagles to build their lead to 20 points at 68-48 and the Broncos were unable to take up further slack.

Belmond's exhibition in the first half was an inept one. The screens Coach Fred Jasper's players set up for team mates to shoot behind seemed to confuse the Broncos greatly. Their defense in general was poor, and they permitted the Eagles to decisively dominate both boards.

It didn't help the situation any that the Belmond basket seemed to have a lid on it and even when a Bronco got a fair shot at the hoop the ball stubbornly refused to go through a majority of the time.

In the second half, the Blue-and-White cagers performed much commendably. They couldn't cope, though, with Nielsen's phenomenal shooting. The half-pint guard, still favoring an ankle injured in football, collected 11 baskets after the halftime to end up the evening with 32 points. Schrader was held scoreless in the last half and his total stayed at 14.

Dennis Anderson with 12 points and Jerry Jenison with 11 sparked the improved Belmond offense after the intermission. Dennis had been scoreless before that, but Jerry's effort brought his evening's total to 15. Robbie courson came through with 10. Other Bronco scorers were Vernic Pastour with six, Bob Burk five, Bob Finn four, and Bob Whipple two

The Belmond froshmores won their fifth straight victory, 32 to 26, and now are the only unbeaten underclass outfit in the NIC ranks. The Junior Broncs trailed at the half, 15-14, and as late as the middle of the final quarter were behind by a point.

Raymond Roberts played the key role in salvaging the win and wound up with 11 points for the night. Tom Downs came through with six Larry Ackerman and Dennis Gallagher with five each to help clinch the verdict. Marvin DeWaard topped the losers with 13 points.

Broncs play host to Vikings Friday

Coach Jack Steinberg's cagers face a stern test here tomorrow night in the Northwood Vikings, one of the top favorites to take this season's North Iowa conference title. A Bronco victory is a "must" if Belmond is to enter the after-Christmas end of its schedule still among the strong contenders for the championship

Up to last weekend, the Vikings had lost in NIC play only to the highly regarded Buffalo Center team on the Bisons' pint-sized floor Coach Maynard Midtgaard's aggregation boasts the best average height in the loop, with the possible exception of Buffalo Center, so the Broncos will again be contending with a serious handicap in the stature department.

Northwood has four starters measuring six feet or several inches more in John Lee and John Roberts, a pair of senior veterans, plus Phil Johnson and Mike Lein, two capable juniors. Only if the Broncos find a method of defending the boards more effectively than at Britt will they stand much of a chance against the Vikings.

Garner will also be playing a key game Friday night, when the Cardinals play host to Buffalo Center. The Bison weren't overly impressive in trimming the inexperienced Forest City Indians 45-37 last weekend and could need a somewhat better performance tomorrow to whip Duane Garman's Cards on their home court

Partners trap 60-pound beaver

Ron Smith and Richard Brooks, who have been trapping in partnership the past couple of seasons, drew a real prize for their initial efforts as they got their sets out for the first time this year on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Thursday morning they found in a trap they had set a few feet off the bank of the Iowa river north of Cornelia road a 60-pound beaver. This is close to twice the average size for beavers taken in this area It was also the first beaver Smith and Brooks had caught, although last year they had two or three pull out of traps that had nabbed them.

It was a double-spring No. 3 trap that caught the big fellow A nearby No. 2 trap was also sprung, but Smith and Brooks couldn't determine if their oversized catch had been caught in it and jerked free or had snapped the trap in his efforts to get free from the other one.

When the young men ran their trap line, the beaver was trying to hide back in its tunnel. Richard pulled him into the open by the tail and Ronnie dispatched him with a rifle shot.

The partners could only conjecture what the hide might prove to be worth. They said a catalogue in their possession suggested that a blanket pelt of that size might bring as high as $18.

They also got a couple of muskrats during the first night that their traps were out, so they regarded that their trapping season had gotten off to a most satisfactory start.

THEY WORK HARDER BECAUSE THEY RIDE EASIER!

Because they ride easier they last longer, too. They take better care of payloads and they make a long day's work a lot more pleasant for the driver. All that—primarily because of Independent Front Suspension (I.F.S.). If you think it's stretching a point to attribute that many advantages to a suspension system, you haven't driven a new Chevy with I.F.S. Take the wheel and feel its road-leveling ride, its almost total absence of shimmy and wheel fight, its ease of steering even in the big rigs. Spend hours behind the wheel and you're not nearly as tired. You're not and neither is the truck. That independent suspension soaks up the worst shock and vibration—the kind that can twist sheet metal and loosen joints and increase your maintenance costs. That's why Chevy trucks keep on working and saving for extra thousands of miles.

I-beam type front axle. A stiff-beam design that transmits road shock right through the truck.

Chevy Independent Front Suspension. Wheels flex independently, minimize body wear and tear.

VOL. 42 NO. 12 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, DEC. 22, 1960 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | 20 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Ah, the hearts that will be gladdened this merry Yuletide to find Ye Ed's name among those who have paid a two-dollar visit to traffic court! Realizing how much simple pleasure he's brought so MANY people with such a modest out-lay of cash, it will probably cover him with chagrin that he didn't think of it himself (actually, it was Night Officer Marv Miller's idea).

Making a last-minute dash to the Bowl-Mor to keep a league bowling appointment Thursday night of last week, Ye Ed was delighted to spot a parking space vacant about a half block south of the bowling emporium. Switching off the engine and flicking off the lights as the car began to turn in at the awaiting space, the dispenser of traffic, J. P. and mayor's court news beat a rapid departure to the Bowlmor as his vehicle came to rest.

Imagine the dismay that struck this scrivner's heart when, re-entering the car for his trip home, a tug at the light switch revealed that the parking space he'd so happily found unoccupied was (shudder) the entrance to an alley, yet! A quick glance at the windshield wiper confirmed his worst fears. An invitation on pink cardboard was tucked beneath. "RSVP," the durned thing said!

Jerry Burns, the University Iowa's new head football coach, in his talk Wednesday of last week before the Grideiron club and its football-player guests, divulged that he had been a visitor to Belmond on another occasion some 12½ years ago.

In June of '48 he was best man at the wedding of University of Michigan schoolmate, J. W. "Jim" McLeod, and Catherine Erdman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Erdman.

Catherine met her collegian groom-to-be while she was a nurse at St. Joseph's hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich. The McLeods still live at Ann Arbor and have watched with keen interest Jerry's remarkably rapid rise in the coaching profession.

Arrival of Jerry Burns for his speaking engagement was delayed for more than an hour by fan-belt trouble that occurred while he was driving through Ames en route to Belmond. He expressed a suspicion that the break-down was the result of a hex put on him by Iowa State football enthusiasts who continue to hope by some hook or crook to get the Hawkeyes and Cyclones together on the gridiron.

Members of the Lions club will recommend to other male groups (female groups too, for that matter) the program presented to them Tuesday noon of this week. Not only was the educational cartoon film on cancer thought-provoking, but the comely "speaker of of the occasion," Mrs. Shirley Ann Berg of Cedar Falls, gave the occasion an extra fillip.

She is a field representative for the American Cancer Society and would be happy to arrange similar programs for any gathering interested. There is a choice of excellent films to choose from, among them something appropriate for any kind of group.

Cancer is a subject that SHOULD be of concern to all of us. In 1959, a total of 31 lives were taken by cancer in Wright county; more than 4,500 in the state of Iowa; and some 87,000 in the U. S. Medical treatment and care of cancer patients in Iowa ALONE last year came to $34 MILLION! A lot of expense for something that in most cases could be PREVENTED!

From Mildred Nunn at Sacramento, Calif., we receivd a check last week to renew the subscription of her mother, Mrs. John Schultz, whom we assume lives with Mrs. Nunn. Said the daughter, "Mother will be 81 on Dec. 13 and looks forward to receiving The Independent each Monday. She enjoys reading the local news after having been gone from Belmond since 1936."

Another welcome communication came to the Mainstreeters from Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Klemme, now living at Stillwater, Minn. It said: "Thank you very much for reminding us about our subscription. We would miss the paper, even if there are many new names that we do not know. We keep the papers until Harmon comes down (their son, who lives at Little Falls, Minn.) and we enjoy reading them. A Merry Christmas to you all." . . . And a Merry Christmas to YOU, Glenn and Bonnie.

Harty, boilerman second class, USN, of Belmond, Ia., is serving aboard the dock landing ship USS Oak Hill, a unit of Amphibious Squadron Five, operating with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific. The Oak Hill is scheduled to visit Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Okinawa, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

Albers in hefty 769 pin series

Ed Albers last Saturday at Mason City rolled one of the highest bowling series to be reported in Iowa this year in qualifying for an appearance this Saturday on the KSMN "Money Bowl" broadcast.

He posted games of 213-277-279 for a hefty 769 three-game total. His doubles partner, Marvin Gephart of Mason City, pitched in a [illegible] along with 42 handicap pins to give the duo a combined series of 1,394.

Albers and Gephart will be opposed by a former Belmondite, Gary Brothers, and Biv Alvarez of Mason City, who together had a 1,402 series. The two doubles teams will tangle this Saturday at 4:00 [illegible] with KSMN broadcasting.

BY A BLUE LAGOON, just a bit over a week ago, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Followwill were photographed (above) taking their ease in the company of a charming third party whom for want of better identification we will refer to as Sweet Leilani. The Followwills represented Followwill Implement company at what J. I. Case officials chose to describe as "the Hawaii World Premiere and Sales Conference" in Honolulu. The trip to the 50th state was an award for exceptional sales performance and was taken by outstanding Case equipment dealers and company sales people, who headquartered for their 10-day stay in the islands at the Hawaiian Village hotel. Visits to Pearl Harbor, the Dole pineapple plantation, volcanoes and fern forests were among the sightseeing highlights enjoyed by those taking part in the tropical holiday, plus authentic Hawaiian luaus and other native events. Traveling round-trip by air, the Followwills were back in Belmond on Tuesday of last week.

Klemme boy takes first in Santa letter contest

In a contest that attracted fewer distinctively original letters than in some years past, simplicity was the keynote of the Letter-to-Santa that won first prize for little Jimmy Albretson of Klemme.

Monday evening marked the closing deadline of the 13th annual Letters-to-Santa contest conducted by The Indpendent, with 10 additional Belmond firms as co-sponsors. Mrs. Viva Parker filler her customary capacity as judge and Mrs. Gladys Kline was her assistant.

Jimmy Albretson's letter, which brings him a prize of $15, was brief and to the point:

> Dear Santa Claus,
>
> I have been good all year. This Christmas Eve when you come to my house, please drop a dog?
> Jimmy Albretson

Perhaps that might be regarded a $15 question mark — for the judges admitted that the unpresumptuous shyness signified by that punctuation mark went a long way toward influencing their decision.

Second place, good for $7.50, was awarded to Craig Trager; and the $5 third prize was awarded to Susan Kay Pals, both seven years old and from Belmond.

The chatty missive of Vernetta Goodrich, who lives on a Garner rural route, was placed fourth; fifth went to Brenda Schmidt of Klemme; and sixth to Jo Bock, also of Klemme. Each of these earned a prize of $2.50. Checks for all of the prize money may be picked up at the Independent office.

Four of the six winners — young Albretson and the last three mentioned — are members of a Klemme second grade class. Two from the same class were given honorable mention: Elsie Bell and Randy Lee Olsen.

Co-sponsors of the contest, with The Independent, were: First State bank, Silvey implement, Iowa Electric Light and Power company, Belmond Co-op Creamery, Belmond Greenhouse, Len Sheldon Chevrolet, Farmers Grain company, Joe's Skelly Service, R. W. Courson Agency, Meints Produce and North Central Grain company.

County roadwork programmed for '61—

Surfacing of "Alexander road" scheduled

A county road program involving proposed expenditure of $220,000 in secondary road construction funds has been filed by the Wright county engineer's office with the state highway commission for the coming year. This amount excludes, according to Haydn Jones of the engineer's staff, an additional $150,000 as estimated expense of a surfacing project to be done with state and federal farm-to-market funds.

The farm-to-market project is scheduled for the six miles of County C, (the "Alexander road"), extending from Highway 69 east to the Franklin county line. This particular job will be let jointly with a similar project in Franklin county which will involve surfacing with asphaltic concrete of an additional six miles extending on to the east.

All construction planned for the year was scheduled to comply quite closely with the 10-year road-building program that was launched in 1956

Work to be done with county road funds includes: paving with asphaltic concrete (blacktop) of 5½ miles on the Wright-Franklin county line extending north from Dows to Highway 3, the estimated $140,000 cost of which will be shared by the two counties.

Also, grading of 5½ miles of County U road, beginning in Belmond township 3½ miles west of Highway 69 and extending on to the west; plus two miles of grading on the north extension of County K beginning a mile north of the St. Olaf church corner and going north to the Hancock county line, at a total estimated cost of $60.500.

And construction of a new bridge across the Iowa river on the Cornelia road (County C), plus installation of a culvert-bridge across the drainage ditch a short distance west of the river, at an estimated cost of $63,000.

The surfacing of the Dows road will be linked with the surfacing of the Alexander road and its extension into Franklin county so that bids may be lower due to the inclusion of a maximum number of miles. Also to be lumped with the jobs mentioned is approximately eight miles from Dows to Popejoy in Franklin county, which already has a rolled-stone base but is slated for surfacing. This would call for bids to entail the laying of more than 25 miles of blacktop.

It is hoped that combined bids can be received and contract let on the four, grouped projects at state lettings scheduled for Feb. 7.

The two grading jobs linked in Belmond and Norway townships on County U and County K include also installation of culverts and regraveling. Not included in the $60,500 estimated cost of this 7½ miles of work is $16,500 earmarked for purchase of additional right-of-way.

On the Cornelia road job, the estimated expense is broken down as follows: $7,000 for regrading of the bridge approaches (the floor level of the bridge will be five feet higher than that of the present one), $48,000 for the bridge itself and $7,500 for the culvert-bridge over the drainage ditch. Another $500 is allowed for re-graveling of the bridge approaches.

Besides the $220,000 in Wright county secondary road funds — $210,000 estimated expense plus $10,000 contingency reserve — set aside for the three projects to be done with local money (excluding the Alexander road farm-to-market project), another $340,000 is budgeted for 1961. This money will go for maintenance, equipment purchases, engineer's office expense and similar annual expenditures for road purposes.

Pals Benefit assn. pays again!

If relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pals have less than a Merry Christmas this year, the blame can't be placed on the lack of a little extra shopping money. Two weeks ago, Roy picked up a $25 Cash Gift Day prize; and Tuesday of this week, Mrs. Pals dropped in to get HER share — a 2:00 p. m. award of similar amount. Mrs. George C. Johnson was also a 2:00 o'clock winner this week and at 3:00 p. m. Mrs. Joe Kaduce of Meservey hit the jackpot for $50. With $250 having been claimed in the past three weeks, the CGD committee is returning the prize total to $400 next Tuesday. This will still allow for eight $25 numbers to be posted at 2:00 p. m. and four $50's at 3:00 o'clock.

SANFORD SEVERSONS PLAN ANNIVERSARY OPEN HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Severson will observe their 25th wedding anniversary Friday, Dec. 30, with an open house at their farm home.

Friends and relatives are invited to call between the hours of 2:00-5:00 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:00-9:00 o'clock in the evening.

Madrigal singers of Belmond high on air Saturday

Belmond High school's madrigal singers will be one of five outstanding choral groups presented Christmas Eve by radio station WHO, Des Moines, on a special broadcast of Christmas music between 7:05 and 8:00 o'clock.

Also scheduled for participation in the program are the choruses or choirs of Fort Dodge and Grinnell High schools, Grand View Junior college and St. John's Lutheran church of Des Moines.

Director Ivan Kortkanmp says that the BHS group last Saturday sang a number of selections for Dale Huntziner, WHO program director, who chose the following to be tape-recorded for the broadcast: "Beautiful Savior," "Eternal God" and "How Far is It to Bethlehem?"

Kathy Finn will be heard as soloist in the first of the three Belmond numbers.

Last rites held for Mrs. Watts

Funeral services for Mrs. Earl F. Watts, RFD 2, Belmond, were held at the Clarion Church of Christ last Saturday afternoon. Rev. Calvin Milan of the Church of Christ and Mervin Michaelson of the Assembly of God church of Clarion officiated. Burial was in Clarion Evergreen cemetery. Pallbearers were Clark Mechem, Maurice Mechem, Lynn Mechem, Wynn Mechem, Paul Maxheimer and Edward Southard.

Haidee Mechem Watts, daughter of Kate Young Mechem and Alre W. Mechem, was born at Clarion on Jan 16, 1890, and died at the Belmond Community hospital early on Wednesday of last week, at the age of 70 years.

Mrs. Watts was raised in the Clarion community, and graduated from Clarion High school in 1908. Following graduation she attended Ellsworth college, Iowa Falls. She taught in the Wright county rural schools and was employed by the Clarion Monitor printing office during young womanhood.

On May 22, 1912, she wed Earl Francis Watts. They made their first home at Oelwein, later living at Miles City, Mont. and Portland, Ore. They returned to Wright county in 1929, where they have since resided.

There are three children: Alre, of Clarion; Dorothy Warner, Goldfield; and Betty Kitchen, Anchorage, Alaska.

Survivors besides Mrs. Watts' husband and children include two sisters, Emma Smutney, Panama Canal Zone; her, the deceased's, Canal Zone; the deceased's twin, Hilda Johnson, Ventura; also nine grandchildren.

TWO FROM TOMCO ATTEND CONFERENCE ON MARKETING

MADISON, Wis. — (Special) — Two officials of Belmond's Tomco, Inc., recently took part in a conference on marketing management at the University of Wisconsin. They were A. V. Brandmeyer, division sales manager, and Don Bunnell, marketing director.

Fifteen officials from companies in Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin attended the sessions, which considered the importance of the marketing function to long-range corporate planning. The conference was conducted by the Management Institute of UW Extension.

Pre-Christmas fire wreaks havoc—

Disabled vet' loses possessions

A great misfortune befell Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pannkuk and family of Lone Rock when they were visiting here last Friday in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Pannkuk. Fire struck the younger Pannkuks' home in their absence and destroyed all of their possessions.

Henry Pannkuk was a youth of less than 20 when he suffered disabling injuries during an unusual incident off the coast of Australia during World War II. He was in the Navy when a member of his ship's personnel went berserk, firing repeated pistol shots into the abdomen of the startled young sailor.

Since his medical discharge from the Navy, Mr. Pannkuk has been able to do only light work and because of his disability has frequently been unemployed.

He and his wife have three children, who entered the local schools here this week after their Lone Rock home was destroyed. They are Marie, 15; Glenn, 14; and Jimmy Lee, 12.

Henry Pannkuk's mother has been in poor health and the son and his family have been coming to Belmond frequently on weekends to be of what help they can to the elderly couple.

The younger couple's only belongings to escape the fire were the the clothes they were wearing. The children each have a change of clothes, because last weekend they came to Belmond prepared to attend Sunday school.

It is the hope of the disabled veteran and his wife that they can again set up housekeeping; but they have nothing whatever to start with.

The Independent would be glad to receive calls regarding offers of household furnishings, clothing or any other items that its readers might like to contribute toward re-establishing the unfortunate family in a home of their own.

Persons wishing to make one sort of a helpful gesture or another may convey to The Independent what they would like to do in behalf of the Pannkuk family.

HILDMAN STILL CRITICAL

In a statement Tuesday night, the condition of Claire Hildman was described by his physician as "still extremely critical." Mr. Hildman was admitted to Belmond Community hospital on Dec. 8 for emergency surgery and last Sunday underwent further surgery. His precarious condition has been a matter of great concern to his many friends.

OES and Masons will honor Thera and Corri Fitts

Thera Fitts and Corri Fitts, sister and brother, will be honored by the Order of Eastern Star and Masonic lodge at a joint pot-luck supper Tuesday evening in the Congregational church dining room. The honorees have reached 50 years of membership in the respective organizations, prompting the special recognition. A program is planned.

On Dec. 27, 1910, Thera Fitts was initiated as a member of the OES and on Dec. 10 of the same year, Corri Fitts was initiated as a Mason.

Miss Fitts is the second in her family to become a 50-year member of the Eastern Star. Her mother, the late Mrs. Mary Fitts, on March 27, 1957, was similarly honored by a small group of local OES officers. A charter member of the Belmond chapter, she was ill at the time and her 50-year pin was bestowed upon her at her bedside.

Mrs. Claude (Onnalee) Benson, a sister of the pair to be honored next week, is a 35-year member of OES.

All Masons and Eastern Stars, with their wives and husbands, are urged by Mrs. A. W. Johnson, Worthy Matron of the OES, and George Jenison, Worshipful Master of the Masons, to attend the honor dinner.

FARM SALE ON DEC. 29

Peter Weydart of Klemme advertises in this issue a closing out farm sale next Thursday, Dec. 29, at which he will dispose of a full line of equipment and machinery and some livestock and poultry. It should also be noted that the date of Friday, Jan. 6, has been claimed by L. E. Stahl for a similar auction. Wiemann and Howlett have the Weydert sale and "Coonie" Smith will be auctioneer for the Stahl sale.

RETURN FROM SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Galen H. Johnson and daughter Marjorie returned Friday from a 5,000-mile trip, making a complete circuit of the coast of Florida. Interesting places visited included Sarasota, Everglades National Park, Key West, Daytona Beach and Smokey Mountain National Park.

Britt youth, 18, from frying pan right into fire

Gary Allen Crowder, 18, of Britt has found himself something of a "most wanted" man during the past few months due to a string of bad checks he has scattered over a considerable territory in north Iowa.

His latest court appearance was before Justice of the Peace Cecil Winbigler here last Saturday, when he was bound over to the grand jury for false uttering of a check. The instrument was in the amount of $20 and was issued Sept. 22 to Hattel's Super Valu.

Since that date, he has done jail time at Mason City and Webster City for similar offenses. He is at present in the Wright county jail at Clarion awaiting attention to his case in district court, having failed to post $500 bond to gain his temporary freedom.

Should he draw a jail sentence for the Belmond check, Crowder will likely find the Clay county sheriff awaiting his release so he can be returned to Spencer to answer to a check charge there.

Since both the Belmond check and that passed at Mason City ($63) were of felonious amount, he could be tried on a felony count in the Wright county court.

Crowder told Wright county authorities that his wife divorced him a few months ago and that, since then, he just hasn't cared much what happened.

HOLIDAY STORE HOURS

Belmond Chamber of Commerce has in this issue an announcement that most local retail stores will, during the next two holiday weekends, observe the following store hours: open on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve until 5:30 o'clock; closed all of Christmas and New Year's Day and also the Mondays following, which are legal holidays due to Christmas and New Year's falling on Sunday.

Gallagher named head of gridiron

J. R. "Pat" Gallagher was elected at last week's banquet meeting of the Gridirion club to head that organization during the 1961 football season. He succeeds Gene Griffin as head of the club.

Other new officers are Tom Hattel, who will be vice president after serving this year as secretary; and Dr. P. A. Rietz, who will take over the secretary's duties. [illegible] Porter is the retiring vice president.

In addition to putting on the annual banquet for the high school and junior high gridders at the conclusion of each football season, the Gridiron club holds a picnic for the varsity candidates at the start of each season.

It also buys special equipment for the players, mainly items that cannot be fitted into the school's athletic budget; and provides transportation for farm boys to encourage their participation in the fall sport.

A crowd of about 200, including club members, guests and football squad members, attended the banquet at the BHS hot lunch room. Duane Anderson was general chairman.

Highlights of the accompanying program were a talk by Jerry Burns, new head football coach at the University of Iowa, and showing of a film depicting dramatic moments during the Hawkeyes' 1960 season.

Chorus of "yums" ran 'round the tables—

Mary Smith's turkey mincemeat makes big hit

Without stretching a point in the slightest it could be said that the sensation of the Iowa Federation Turkey Convention's banquet at Des Moines on Wednesday night of last week was the mouth-watering mince pie that capped off what was a sumptuous meal.

This was true partly because it was "turkey mince meat;" but more than that, it was a topic of wide conversation because it was DEE-LICIOUS!

Which brings up the fact that the pie filling was a concoction invented by Mary Smith and laboriously ground and mixed (117 pounds of it!) by her and her husband, Leslie Smith. . . . Whereby hangs our tale.

For a year and a half, says Mrs. Smith, proprietor of the Blue Bell tea room, she had been dabbling with the possibility of using turkey to give mincemeat a new and distinctive flavor. She'd altered her recipe a number of times from the original start, adding a bit more of this, using a little less of that.

In due time, she arrived at a recipe that seemed "just right."

But that was about that, until a piece appeared in the daily press a short time back about meat-less "mincemeat." Mary got to thinking that if meat-less "mincemeat" had found a profitable place on the market, her tasty, turkey mincemeat might have commercial possibilities she'd never considered.

This prompted her to ask her son, Ellis of Ellis Smith Turkeys, just how a person might go about gaining some publicity for her new pantry product. Since the Iowa Federation Turkey Convention was in the near offing, Ellis decided the question might properly be put to the Iowa Turkey Growers' executive secretary, John Planalp of Des Moines.

He phoned the gentleman and found Mr. Planalp intrigued by the idea. They discussed how the turkey mincemeat might be served in sample form at the convention. Then Mr. Planalp had a better idea.

The convention banquet was to be served at Hotel Savery, and pumpkin pie was planned for dessert. He called the Savery's chef (this was the Friday before the Wednesday banquet) to see if a switch in the menu could possibly be made.

Turkey mincemeat pie as a substitute for the pumpkin struck the chef as wholly fitting (Mary thinks he was pretty bold to buy such a "pig in a poke") and he agreed to the change — if he could have the mincemeat Monday.

Mary and Leslie forthwith began grinding and mixing to produce enough mincemeat to serve 280 people (as it turned out, about 450 bought tickets to the banquet and — though the pies were "thinned down" a little — some unfortunate diners never did get to taste any of the pie).

On Monday, the mincemeat was delivered to the Savery. The chef tasted it, rolled his tongue around thoughtfully, and pronounced the delectable pie filling "wonderful." The hotel's caterer repeated the performance — and added his praise.

The Independent, over the weekend, had rushed out an order of trade mark labels so Mary could take the precaution of having her unique delicacy registered with the secretary of state before it was exposed to the public at the banquet. This was probably a wise step, for the enthusiasm won by those turkey mincemeat pies suggested that Mary's product just could be a highly saleable item.

So "Mary Smith's Turkey Mince Meat" is now trade-marked in Iowa and is thereby her sole property for a year's time. Until it has enjoyed interstate sale it cannot be given a federal trade mark; but Mary has that in the back of her mind, too.

Mr. Planalp, at the banquet, lauded the mincemeat as "the most important thing to come out of this convention." Gordon Gammack, columnist for the Des Moines Register and Tribune, made a column item of it. Also, it was given mention on a Des Moines radio program.

Several large-scale producers of food products have indicated at least tentative interest in commercializing the turkey mincemeat. It is to be given prominent mention at the National Federation Turkey Convention at Chicago on Jan. 5. And the "Turkey World," top trade publication of the turkey industry, plans an article on it in an early issue.

All of this turmoil over her mincemeat recipe has, understandably, quite set Mary Smith's head to spinning. What its actual commercial possibilities are, she does not venture to guess at this point.

Whatever they might do about it, she and "Les" say they plan to "move slow." Of course, if some food producer wants to make them a royalty offer to put it on the market, they're ready to listen.

Or — they aren't sure if their son Ellis was just "kidding" with talk of possibly producing the mincemeat right here in Belmond.

They will modestly admit that they think their turkey mincemeat is "real good." And to that, anyone who's had the privilege of tasting it will readily say, "Amen!"

MARY SMITH DISPLAYS NEW TRADEMARKED PRODUCT

Falcon drawing Saturday ends C-of-C "Gift Days"

All but two of the Christmas Gift Days prizes for which numbers were posted last Friday found "takers." Consequently, this Saturday's wind-up drawing of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce Yuletide trade promotion will have at stake the two hold-over gifts — AND the Ford Falcon, which is the grand prize.

Last week's winners were: Carl Roskamp, bicycle; Mattie Farmer, electric kitchen clock; Win Dahlgran, billfold; Don Smith, set of thermo tumblers; Mrs. Alvin Allen, table cigaret lighter; and John D. L. Pals, five-piece bridge set.

All but the last two also earned the bonus of a $5 due bill good at any local service station by claiming their gifts before 5:30 p. m. Friday.

First drawing for the Falcon and the other two prizes — a set of wall plaques and a set of sheets and pillow cases — will be conducted Saturday at 12:00 noon. If any of the prizes is not claimed during the ensuing hour, another drawing will be held at 1:00 p. m. and then at hourly intervals up to 4:00 o'clock or until all the gifts have found owners

Should it occur that 5:00 p. m. Saturday finds the prizes not all claimed, drawing will be resumed next Tuesday at noon and the process will be repeated until all the prizes are gone.

The Christmas Story...

On that night many years ago, as white stars glittered and angels' voices rang out triumphantly to proclaim his coming, there was born unto mankind, a Saviour. Humble shepherds, gathered in the fields tending their flocks, heard the message and came in haste to visit the babe lying in a manger, and they were filled with joy.

Far to the East, the Wise Men saw the great Star of Bethlehem and they followed it to where the Young Child was, bringing rare and precious gifts in their adoration.

Across the ages, the ever-wonderful story of the birth of Christ inspires mankind with a feeling of new hope. Today, in the spirit of the Holy Season, it is for us to rededicate ourselves to His teachings and humbly pray that the ideal of brotherhood will light the way to a lasting peace in this troubled world.

Let us rejoice in the true meaning of Christmas with sincere reverence and harken to the words of the angel, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

J. F. Abbott and Robert D. Blue appeared before the Board and presented the following objection in regard to contesting the election of the Supervisor in District Number 3.

December 5, 1960

Mr. Albert W. Christopher, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa and all the members of the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa, Clarion, Iowa.

Gentlemen:

The undersigned as a candidate for the office of Supervisor of 3rd Supervisor district of Wright County, Iowa has filed an election contest to contest the election of Albert Christpher, the incumbent to said office at the General Election held November 8, 1960. The undersigned objects to the said Albert W. Christopher sitting and acting as a member of and presiding officer of the contest court, by virtue of his holding the office of Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa for the reason of the interest, bias and prejudice in the outcome of the contest. And because such action is contrary to laws, and particularly contrary to the provisions of section 605.17 the Code of Iowa and it is contrary to the public policy of the State of Iowa and contrary to the rights guaranteed to the undersigned under the constitution of the State of Iowa.

The undersigned therefore requests the said Albert Christopher to disqualify himself to sit and preside in said contest court and for the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa to elect a chairman pro tem or on a temporary basis to act as chairman of the board of supervisors in all matters in connection with the election contest, and in the event Albert Chrisopher does not voluntarily disqualify himself to serve on said election contest court by reason of his being chairman of the board of supervisors of Wright County, Iowa that the board of supervisors on their own motion declare that Albert Christopher is disqualified to sit as the presiding judge at the election contest and on its own motion elect temporary chairman of the board of supervisors of Wright County, Iowa to sit as a member of and as the presiding officer of the election contest court and to serve in all matters in connection with election contest.

Respectfully yours,
J. F. Abbott

Motion by Weidemann, seconded by Kennedy to adjourn. Motion carried.

Albert W. Christopher, Chairman
Myron Price, Auditor

Million-plus in state highway funds assigned to Wright for year 1961

There will be two more years of "ridin' the ruts" on Highway 69 through Wright county, all the way from the Hamilton county line to the Hancock county line, according to the proposed five-year program of the Iowa state highway commission that was made public last week.

Resurfacing of 23.4 miles of state highway along that stretch of widened road is not scheduled until 1963. An exception is the "ox-bow" and its beaten up approaches to the east of Wall Lake. This 1.4 mile piece of No. 69 is down for attention next year.

It will receive "the works." That is, right-of-way is to be obtained to straighten out the bow in the road and the whole broken down stretch will be rebuilt and paved.

Olav Smedal, information director for the highway commission, visited The Independent recently and explained that the peat foundation under the north approach to the old ox-bow was responsible for its badly deteriorated condition. He said there is no way to get rid of the peat ground, but that ballast will be laid in rebuilding the road which will be aimed at stabilizing it so it will stand up better than the original construction.

The $185,000 ear-marked for this job will be part of an estimated $1,111,000 to be spent by the state highway commission in Wright county during the coming year. Included in this proposed outlay is $140,000 for a new maintenance building at Clarion.

Widening of No. 3, launched last year, will be continued. The program calls for "the treatment" to be given the nine miles between Clarion and Goldfield. Installation of new bridges, widening and paving of the 4.3 miles of No. 60 between Eagle Grove and Goldfield is also in the '61 program. Estimated costs of these two jobs are $214,000 and $229,000, respectively.

Biggest state road project planned for Wright county next year is the complete modernization of the 6.9-mile stretch of No. 60 between the Hamilton county line and Eagle Grove. A total of $343,000 has been ear-marked for providing this piece of highway new bridges and culverts as needed, widening it and paving the margins.

No state highway construction whatsoever is scheduled in Wright county for 1962. In 1963, the sum of $85,000 is set aside for resurfacing the 3.7 miles of No. 3 between Clarion and the west junction of No. 69 and 3 which were widened this past season. Year-after-next will also see new bridges going in on No. 69 between the Hamilton and Hancock county lines and the entire 23.4 mile stretch (omitting the former ox-bow) resurfaced at an estimated cost of $582,000.

Down on the commission's plans for 1956 (Wright will again be skipped on state construction in '64) are four projects totalling $551,000 in estimated cost. The 3.7 miles of No. 3 directly to the east of Clarion is to have its shoulders widened, right-of-way widened, new culverts placed and erosion-control work done on it at proposed $86,000 expense. Another $207,000 is on the books for resurfacing the nine miles of No. 3 between Clarion and Goldfield.

The 6.9 miles of No. 60 from the Hamilton county line to Eagle Grove and 4.3 miles of the same highway from Eagle Grove to Goldfield are to be resurfaced in 1965 at the anticipated cost of $159,000 and $99,000, respectively, for the two projects.

Other projects of interest to Belmond motorists are in the state highway program for Hamilton and Hancock counties. One is the estimated $546,000 job resurfacing and otherwise up-dating the seven miles of Highway 69 from Blairsburg junction to the Wright county line, scheduled for 1962.

Down for 1961 is the resurfacing of the 13.2 miles of No. 69 from the Wright county line to Garner, at a proposed cost of $420,000 — plus another $26,000 for additional work on the junction at US 18.

In 1962, widening of right-of-way and shoulders, plus erosion control and new culverts at $261,000 estimated expense, is on the program for the 10.2 miles of No. 69 from the US 18 junction to the Winnebago county line.

No. 69 through here included in salting plans

The Iowa state highway commission's salting program for the 1960-61 winter includes eight major routes across Iowa. The east-west routes are U. S. 34, U. S. 6, U. S. 30 and U S. 20 Chief north-south routes include U S. 69, which passes through Belmond; U. S. 65, through Hampton and Mason City; also U. S. 75 and 61. All open sections of the interstate highways are likewise included.

Highway 18 from Britt through Mason City and on to Charles City also is included in the salting program

Commission maintenance crews will salt these roads during storms as long as the temperature remains above 20 degrees. Below this temperature salt has little effect. Cinders and sand will be used on curves and hills at low temperatures and on roads not included in the salting program

Roads must also be plowed before salt can be effective. It will not remove loose snow, or prevent drifts from blocking roads during heavy or blowing snow.

During snow and ice storms, crews work day and night to keep the roads open. Usually they are successful. But heavy storms inevitably make traveling dangerous.

If severe weather starts, it is adviseable to delay trips if possible. If you must travel, inquire on local road conditions before proceeding. Inquiry can be directed to the highway patrol, or highway commission district offices and maintenance garages, including the one at Clarion.

Letters to Santa Claus

Dear Santa,

My name is Jane Kinseth. I am eight years old. For Christmas I would like a tear drop doll in play-pen, a cakemix set, a tumble bug game and an overnight suitcase. That's all for now. Have a happy Christmas!

Sincerely
Jane Kinseth

Dear Santa,

How can you get all over the world so fast? I asked by Mommie and she doesn't know. But anyway I have been a good girl. I want a 18 inch doll bed like I saw in the stores I will leave a piece of pumpkin pie and some milk on the table And for my baby sister leave her a toy.

Michele Roberts
age 7 years. My sister
1 year old

Dear Santa

I would like to have you bring me a rifle and electric train and a holster with 2 guns. Will you please send some toys to the needy and retarded children? Thank you.

Douglas Busick

Dear Santa Claus

I am 7 years old. Please bring me a rocket with a driver and 4 or 5 men. Please bring my baby brother a toy too and fill our stockings with treats. We will leave you some cookies.

Your friends
Lonny and Spencer
Lewis

Dear Santa

Please bring me a Rifleman gun. Please bring my brother some toy animals and a big truck. I will leave some milk and cookies.

love
Mike Dannewitz

P. S. Our chimney is to small for you so I will leave the door unlocked.

Dear Santa,

My name is Jeff Kinseth. I am five years old. For Christmas I would like a Scottie dog and a machine gun with batterys. A casper jack in the box and a bowling set A popeye fishing game. That's all for now. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely

Next court term set for Jan. 9—

Three from Belmond on grand jury

More than ordinary interest attaches to the appointment of a Wright county grand jury for the year 1961 in view of the possible investigation of management practices at the Wright county jail. One of the first responsibilities of each grand jury is inspection of the jail and routine inquiry into its operation.

Because of the drinking incident at the jail on Nov. 28, and because the grand jurors will be called upon to consider the indictment of one of the principals on a charge of bootlegging, more than casual interest will unquestionably be given by Wright countians to the jurors' annual report on the jail.

Three persons from Belmond have been named on the 1961 grand jury list, Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, Sam Bohning and Rex Fetrow. Others among the dozen jurors who have been instructed to report at the courthouse on Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 10:00 a. m. are:

Lloyd Robinson, Robert Maxon and Helmer Maage, Clarion; Ole Hoiekvam, Eagle Grove; Glenn Trotter, Goldfield; Elmer Bailey, Rowan; Fred Beisner, Dows; Earl Finch and Robert Williams, Woolstock.

The four-week January term of district court at Clarion, over which Judge G. R. Hill will preside, convenes on Monday, Jan. 9. Petit purors have been advised to report on the following Monday at 10:00 a. m.

Twelve persons with Belmond addresses are on the list of 75 petit jurors. They are: Gladys Swenson, Agnes Rikansrud, Sadie Gentry, Mary Ziller, Bessie Thompson, Eldoris Bunnell, Jennie Goecke, Shirley Gabrielson, Margaret Hunst, Roger Boelman and Jesse Suntken.

Nineteen Clarion jurors are listed, as follows: Ed Campbell, Frank Lester, Electa Shupe, Doris Roosa, Earl Weber, Laurel Knoedler, Loretta Tillman, Elaine Brinkman, Audrey Wright, Olga Thomas, Robert Kastler, Eldo Nichols, Edwin Pollock, Don Cramer, Hazel Tillman, Clay Kramer, Marguerite McHale, Joe Conley and Lucile Bernard.

Eagle Grove also has 19 on the list: Alfred Lindaas, Mildred Babcock, Hubert Horner, Gerald Mardick, Kenneth Rieken, Frances Wesselink, L. E. Wilson, Ruby Newcomb, Ed Wood, Hubert Banks, Beatrice Loman, Elmer Oldson, Gladys Peterson, Louise Erlander, Paul Umstead, Shirley Leeper, Marguerite Wagner, Jeanne Spellmeyer and Mrs. Harlan Yeager.

Goldfield names on the list are those of: Harlan Espe, Marjory Scott, Otis Robinson, Thomas Stevenson, Burton Sherman, Ruby Freeman and Ruth Jones; Dows — Merl Parkinson, Miriam Vroman, Robert Fanselow, Vivian Ross, Annabel Johnson and Gerald Meineke; Galt — Marie Potter.

Rowan — May Myers, Virgil Ahrens, Marvel Whitten, Jamie Lyons and Esther Lager; Woolstock — Lucille Hildebrand, Richard McCollough, Clarence Caquelin and Cecile Bige; Kanawha — Minnie Rietema; Blairsburg — Jack Gruening.

STOLTENBERG ON CARRIER

Letters to Santa Claus

Dear Santa,

My mommy is writing this for me because I can not write yet. My name is Marty Ray Revland. I'm 10½ months old. I would like a rocking horse and a telephone. Thank you.

Marty Ray

Dear Santa Claus,

Thank you very much for the presents you brought me last year. I am nine years old and in fourth grade. This year I would like to have a doll sewing kit, an autograph dog, and a deluxe cosmetic case. If there is anything else you want to bring me I will be happy with it.

Please don't forget my sister Pamela. She is just one year old. I think she would like a doll and some other little toys. We will leave cookies and milk for you on Christmas Eve.

No gerrymandering necessary to get rid of Coad

Readers of this page should find of interest the editorial of Editor Maurie Crabbe, from the Eagle Grove Eagle, which appears in "Clipped Comments." We agree that the great likelihood when the legislature gets to re-aligning Iowa's Congressional districts is that the 6th, of which Wright county is now a part, is the one most apt to get the axe as the state reduces from eight to seven districts.

We question the use of the word "gerrymander," though, when Editor Crabbe conjectures on the new re-alignment. This word's interesting history is told in Webster's dictionary as follows: a combination of Gerry plus salamander derived from the name of "Gov. Elbridge Gerry, whose party, in 1812, divided Essex county, Mass., so as to form a dragon-shaped district."

Gerrymandering, since that time, has meant "the division of a state or county into election districts or other civil divisions in an unnatural or unfair way, especially to give a political party an advantage over its opponent."

Iowa's lawmakers have not, by past practice, indulged in what could properly be called "gerrymandering;" and as the present problem of reducing Iowa's Congressional districts by one now stands, no gerrymandering will be required to obtain what the Republicans regard as desireable political ends.

Mr. Crabbe notes that the only two Iowa districts with Democratic representation are the 5th (Polk and five adjoining counties) and the 15-county 6th district. Logically, from the standpoint of practical politics, the Republican-controlled legislature will aim at strengthening GOP-inclined districts and leave Democratic-dominated Polk county and its neighbors to themselves.

By fortuitous political coincidence, Iowa's two Democratic Congressmen have legal residence in adjoining counties. In fact, Boone county, which is Merwin Coad's home, borders not only on Polk but on two other 5th District counties — Story and Dallas.

Consequently, the most compact alignment possible would permit the incorporating of Boone into a "new" 5th District — leaving the other 14 counties of the present 6th District to be attached to neighboring districts as best fits the Republicans' political purposes. Nothing faintly resembling true "gerrymandering" would be required to attain this goal.

We would not, personally, approve actual gerrymandering even to attain what impresses us as the desireable goal of fitting both Coad and his Democratic brother in Congress, Neal Smith of Des Moines, into the same district. However, it strikes us as a happy set of circumstances that this CAN be done without indulging in reprehensible, political hijinks.

Editor Crabbe, continuing to read the crystal ball, foresees that a bulk of the present 6th District will likely be attached to the 3rd (of which Wright was a part prior to the 1950 census). This would suit us to a "T" because it would give Wright countians an opportunity to help get H. R. Gross out of Congress. Republican or not, we've never had much admiration for that gentleman and it would delight us to be in a position to elect a better qualified successor.

In Mr. Crabbe's editorial, he says that placing of Boone county in the 5th District would mean that ONLY Smith or Coad could be re-elected to Congress in 1962. Actually, a candidate need not reside in a given district in order to run for Congress as a candidate from the district. However, we feel certain that Iowans are jealous enough of their geographical prerogatives that no district would ever elect a non-resident as its Representative to Congress.

We're going to be hearing a lot about Congressional re-districting after the 59th General Assembly convenes. The above considerations are going to have a lot of influence on what finally transpires.

So the man asks: just what is wrong with work?

A speaker before the 65th National Association of Manufacturers Congress held recently in New York asked the NAM delegates a real poser of a question — and we suspect it was his hope that the manufacturers' partners in U. S. production, the nation's labor unions, were eavesdropping.

Declared Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh: "I ask you the question of whether a culture of working less and less, preaching a social goal of less and less work, has much prospect of victory in a competition for survival?"

In continuing, he made it clear that he was not "against" such goals as a shorter work week, wider use of automation, and the like. Rather, his was a call for recognition that the freeing of manpower from long hours on the assembly line or behind the desk offers an opportunity for channeling energies in ever more useful endeavors.

It IS much later than we think if we're going to be satisfied with leisure as a worthwhile goal in itself. Leisure resulting from technological advancements that have vastly expanded individual production figures to be a meager weapon in our battle with Communist economic and political expansionism.

Mr. Litchfield's trenchant question is one to which our American "civilization" had best be seeking a sound answer. For leisure is a delusive and unsatisfying end in itself — and one that will win no wars, cold or hot.

Clipped Comment

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

6th District likely to disappear

All indications point to the fact that good old unpredictable Sixth Congressional District of Iowa has reached the end of the line. When the legislature adjourns in April and Iowa has only seven Congressional districts, residents of the Sixth will undoubtedly be in another district.

Members of the House of Representatives in the U. S. Congress are determined by population and each state is allotted representatives according to population as set by the census every 10 years. Iowa gained population but not in the proportion that some other states did and so consequently loses one congressman.

IT IS UP TO EACH STATE HOWever to re-district itself to fit the allotment.

In the 1940 census Iowa lost enough population that it became necessary to re-district the state and change from nine Congressmen to eight Congressmen Now with our failure to equal the national average gain in population in the 1960 census it is again necessary to re-district and make seven districts out of the eight.

Prior to 1942 when the re-districting was completed Wright county had belonged to the Third Congressional District but in the re-districting they were put in the Sixth. Now it appears likely that we will go back to the Third again

THE REASON THE EAGLE IS predicting that it will be the Sixth which gets cut up is that with a good Republican majority in the State Legislature it is only logical that our law makers will decide to get rid of one Democratic Congressman.

There are only two Democratic Congressmen among the eight from Iowa. They are Merwin Coad from the Sixth and Neal Smith from the Fifth.

The Fifth district includes six central Iowa counties of which Polk (Des Moines) is the center. It would be almost impossible to shuffle the counties around so that the Fifth could be made into a Republican district.

THE SIXTH, HOWEVER IS DIFferent It has gone Democratic the past three elections for Mr. Coad but they were rather close elections and the majority of the counties are Republican in voting habits.

The logical plan then is to carve up the Sixth in such a way as to help other neighboring districts stay or become Republican and at the same time get rid of one Democrat. In addition political leaders in the Sixth have been predicting that the Sixth would be the casualty in the change over. State Senator Guy Butler from Rolfe was quoted recently as saying, "We are going to gut the sixth."

BOONE COUNTY, THE HOME county of Congressman Coad, is a logical territory for annexation for the Fifth. And as the Fifth has Neal Smith, the other Democrat, for its Congressman, shifting Boone county into the Fifth would place both Smith and Coad in the same district. And the result would be that only one could be elected to Congress.

Mr Coad was elected to Congress for a two year period in the Nov. 8 election and he will get to fill out that term.

But two years from now when Iowa can elect only seven Congressmen it appears very likely that Mr Coad will become a casualty of Iowa's failure to gain population

HE WILL THEN HAVE TO BE satisfied with a government pension which all Congressmen are entitled to after serving 6 years or else find another home or beat Neal Smith out in the race for the Fifth district spot.

Just how the rest of the state will be Gerrymandered is impossible to predict at present. There are probably as many plans for the shuffle as there are legislators of both parties. But it is a dead cinch that most of them are pouring over population figures and voting trends in the various counties.

VERY LITTLE PUBLICITY HAS been given to this problem for the 59th General Assembly but it is an important one and one that will receive a lot of attention this winter.

Reapportionment may be the number one problem of the Des Moines Register but for the legislators who will tackle both problems we have a feeling that redistricting will get just as much attention. — Eagle Grove Eagle

TV: Some difference!

A western, a riverboat, a quiz-give-away, and a detective show are among the year-end clearance items being sacked from TV.

Their departure makes room for new items: A Civil War "western," some situation comedies, and a give-away. The more things change, the more they are the same.

THERE IS NOTHING INHERently wrong with this broadcasting penchant for horse opera, private eyes, etc.

Any study of national tastes in, say, magazine illustration, or curtain-material prints, or car styling, or dresses indicates that people like certain basic plots, but they don't like to think they have been liking them too long.

WHAT IS SO ANNOYING About the fad system of TV programming is the fact that the networks allow a fashion for one type of program to become a near monopoly. One year it is virtually impossible to escape westerns for hours in a row. Another, it is difficult to avoid private eyes operating out of tropical locations. And so forth.

CHRISTMAS GOT TOO MERRY—

So you'll know just as much about Christmas as WE do (through the kind auspices of World Book Encyclopedia), attend to the remarks following and we'll fill you in on a few odds and ends of Yuletide data.

Did you know, for instance, that Christmas for a time became SO merry in Merrie Olde England that celebration of the day was wholly abolished?

In The 1600's, Yule observances in England took such a boisterous turn that around 1640 the Puritans prohibited the celebrations entirely. They tossed out ministers who dared to hold services on Christmas Day and jailed anyone who treated Dec. 25th otherwise than as a common working day.

But while the Puritans were taking over England under Oliver Cromwell, they experienced less success in stamping out Christmas. In 1647, riots broke out in protest over banning of the holiday.

An outraged group of 10,000 men passed a resolution declaring that if they couldn't celebrate Christmas under Cromwell, they'd just as soon have the king back on the throne.

This alternative was adeptly eliminated by the Puritans a few years later through the simple but effective procedure of beheading King Charles I — which left him in no condition to return to the throne.

In 1660, though, the Yule-hungry people of England invited the deceased ruler's son, Charles II, to assume the throne and Christmas, along with the monarchy, was restored to England.

O, TANNENBAUM—

That the tradition of the Christmas tree originated in Germany, you should have learned in school. But it took a court marriage to popularize der tannenbaum in England. After Queen Victoria married Prince Albert of Germany, the latter brought the custom of the Yule evergreen with him from the Fatherland and set up a tree in Windsor Castle in 1841. . . . (Say, you're going to sleep better tonight, knowing all these nice things; providing you haven't fallen asleep already.)

"BOXING;" AS IN HANDOUT —

While we're on this British kick, perhaps we should tell you that the Englishers call the day after Christmas "Boxing Day" — which has nothing to do with welterweights and bantams.

This is the day when tradespeople and servants were, in earlier days, given boxes of food and other gifts (to invite good service during th approaching year, natch').

Nowadays, the custom has been adapted to the time and such public servants as the postman and milkman are handed cash gifts to demonstrate the householder's good will.

Probably Bill Dempsey and the mail carriers would like to see "Boxing Day" adopted in this country.

XMAS NOT DISRESPECTFUL—

Although usage of Xmas for Christmas has been severely frowned upon in many quarters during late years, the term really has good claim on propriety. The early Christian church freely used Xmas as a synonym for Christmas, because the Greek letter X (or Chi) is the first letter of Christ's name and is frequntly used as a holy symbol.

But since the substitution came to be mainly a matter of convenience (or even laziness, should we say). Xmas HAS fallen rather into ill repute. It should actually connote the same reverence as Christmas, however, taken at its face value.

IT'S TOO COMMERCIAL?—

Probably the most common criticism of the happiest of all holidays is that it's become too much commercialized. That may be — but it would make a big difference in the standard of living of a lot of U. S. families if Christmas suddenly became decidedly LESS commercialized.

According to the World Book, ONE-FOURTH of all sales U. S. stores make during the year result from Christmas shopping! Probably some "necessary" purchases are delayed until that time that would sooner or later be made anyway. But what about those rainbow-colored ties, uesless gimracks and foolish knicknacks that could hardly find a buyer other times of the year?

AND NOW TO JAPAN—

We'll end this Christmas commentary by informing you that the Japanese version of Santa Claus is the ancient god Hoteiosho. He has eyes in the back of his head to help him see how children behave. (Yeah, we know. We used to have him for a school teacher!)

Meints Produce nearing 30th anniversary

Jack Meints one week from Sunday — on New Year's Day — will be marking the completion of 30 years in the produce business here. He purchased the business from John Zook, father of Ted Zook, in June of 1929 and took possession at the start of 1930.

Accompanying this story is a picture of Jack taken on the occasion of his firm's 25th anniversary. We used the same one because five years have changed the friendly produceman so little that it seem plain extravagance to take a new one.

The passing years have made numerous changes in the produce business, Jack says. For one thing, the early days saw farmers buying straight-run chicks for their flocks — of which, quite understandably, half turned out to be roosters.

Dealing in these roosters then constituted quite a tidy chunk of Jack's volume of business. Now, except for an occasional old stag, Jack buys NO roosters. In fact, prices on them aren't even quoted any more.

Besides pre-sexed chicks, the development of hybrid lines of chickens has drastically effected the produce business. These scientifically cross-bred poultry produce many more eggs per year than the former, run-of-the-farm pullets did.

Another factor that has boosted production of the typical farmer's flock is the specially formulated feed now available. (Jack says he'd have to give credit to the modern developments in the poultry business even if he wasn't dealing in both hybrid chickens and formulated feed. He carries the Welp brand of both and with them has gained many satisfied customers.)

This has been an especially good "egg year," Jack relates. Last weekend, the price of eggs per dozen was up around 38 cents. For a couple of weeks last fall, the price got as high as 48 cents — the best since the inflated years of World War II, when a high of about 60 cents was reached.

Jack says that the egg market runs in continual cycles. A good year like the one just ending finds a lot more farmers buyer layer chicks for the season following — which inevitably boosts national egg production to a point where the price nose-dives. He foresees appreciably lower prices for eggs in 1961 than prevailed during 1960, for this reason.

The deepest part of the infamous depression of the 'thirties followed close on the heels of his purchase of the produce business. Jack rcalls that eggs sold for all too long at 10 cents per dozen during those times. Nevertheless, they comprised the bulk of many a farmer's "ready income," and were practically a medium of exchange during those days when money was desperately hard to come by.

Meints Produce today confines itself to buying and selling eggs, hens and wool — plus, of course, the sale of Welp chicks and feed.

Time was, when farmers did a lot of home butchering, that hides were dealt in quite extensively. Now, few are on the market except through commercial locker plants — and Jack is just as happy that that's the way things are.

He recalls with a wry grin that he "got taken" on more than a few occasions when buying hides. For one thing, salt being cheaper than the price of hides, he not infrequently got cow and pig skins so liberally dosed with salt that it about doubled their weight.

Hides bought in cold weather, when they were solidly frozen in bundles that defied close inspection, used to be a worrisome thing. Some customers weren't above flinging a handful of rocks between layers of hide; and sometimes a low-value horsehide would be carefully concealed by cow hides so the whole batch would sell at the price of the latter.

JACK MEINTS—30 YEARS A POULTRY-AND-EGG MAN

"There were some fellows I never did night business with," Jack chuckles. "It paid to deal with them by the bright light of day! And even then, it didn't save me from getting hooked now and then."

Jack continues to deal in wool, but just on a commission basis in behalf of a Fort Dodge firm. He says that in the past five or six years, a lot more sheep are raised in this area than ever were before. Practically every farm has at least a half dozen or so around the place as "weed cutters."

Jack was an ardent sportsman in his younger days, and as recently as 10 years ago when he was 54 years old he could pitch a softball with the best of them. He also was quite a billiard shark, he modestly admits; but poor eyesight has robbed him of some of his skill on the green felt.

For the past six years, Keith Chandler has handled the office for Jack — and, according to "the boss," does a good job of it. Also, Jack says his son Allen has been a valuable asset to the business the past couple of years and has relieved Jack of more and more responsibitity.

NOTICE TO DEPOSITORS

(No. 5 in a Series)

A Boston savings bank published a notice in a local daily newspaper that "application has been made to and accepted by the Federal Deposit Corporation for insurance of each deposit account in this bank up to $10,000." This action, the notice continued, was taken "in accordance with authority given to this Bank" under specified provisions of the general laws.

The notice, signed by the bank president, appeared twice in the newspaper, a week apart. It told the depositors also that "Further questions with relation to this subject may be directed to the bank."

Doubtless other ways might have been, and perhaps were, used to notify depositors of this action by the bank. But the use of a newspaper of general circulation was provided for specifically by law. This is common with many kinds of public notices.

Short of personal notice, which is also specified in some situations, the newspaper is the best means of giving public notice. It is tangible, it is semi-permanent, it is established, and invariably it has a substantial following of voluntary, paid, habitual readers.

For many years, then, the newspaper and the public notice have joined hands to serve the public. The public notice contributes to the protection of those whose rights may be involved. At the same time the newspaper gives maximum publicity to the notice. All of this is in the interest of both public and individual.

City announces intention to sell land to Ris-Van

Notice appears in this issue of the city's proposal to dispose of a parcel of land by sale to Ris-Van, Inc., for a consideration of $300. The land is a part of First avenue NW, identified on early plats of the city as Ellen street, that extends between the Ris-Van office building and its production facilities to the west, both adjoining West Main street.

Public hearing on the proposal is set for Jan. 9 at 8:00 p. m. at the city hall. If their are no objections that the city council regards as bona fide, the transaction will be carried through.

This additional space is needed by Ris-Van because of its expanding business. It will be used for the time being as parking space for transport tanks used by the firm for deliveries of liquid fertilizer to its dealers. There is is a possibility that some of the area might later be used as site of a new Ris-Van shop building.

The city also has leased the ground to the north of the same Ris-Van property for use of the liquid fertilizer firm. This comprises a triangle of land bounded on the east by the Iowa river and on the west by the Great Wstern tracks.

Wright countians showing up well as bond buyers

Residents of Wright county invested $68,105 in U. S. savings bonds during November to bring this county's 11-month total to $1,133,059 for 86 per cent of its 1960 quota.

Although this was five and one-third per cent short of keeping Wright even with its schedule for the year, it was well ahead of the state average of 81 per cent and was higher than the percentage achieved by all but one of the eight counties bordering on Wright.

It remained for Wright countians to purchase $176,950 in bonds during December to reach the county quota of $1,310,105, according to Robert L. Davison of Clarion, volunteer county chairman for U. S. savings bonds.

Mr. Davison offers the recommendation that those who receive cash for Christmas gifts or bonuses invest at least part of the money in savings bonds for "gifts that grow."

Iowans altogether bought $8,888,192 worth of savings bonds during November in reaching 81 per cent of the state's 1960 quota of $125,354,168.

Counties bordering on Wright had the following 11-month sales totals and per cents of quota: Hardin, $1,475,446 for 88 per cent; Hancock, $831,077 for 76 per cent; Humboldt, $718,538 for 76 per cent; Hamilton, $1,036,297 for 75 per cent; Story, $1,386,561 for 70 per cent; Cerro Gordo, $1,454,161 for 69 per cent; Franklin, $612,084 for 60 per cent; and Kossuth, $967,244 for 57 per cent.

Broncs shock Vikings, 55-54—

Northwood nipped in final second

SPORTS

With shouts of "We wuz robbed" reverberating around the scorer's table as soon as the final buzzer sounded, the scoreboard at the BHS gymnasium Friday night showed the reason for the visitors' dismay. It read: Belmond 55, Northwood 54.

Five seconds before the game ended it had showed the highly favored Vikings in front, 54-53. But the Broncos kept their heads in those waning moments, while the Vikings unravelled at the seams, and a last-second lay-up by Dennis Anderson decided the issue. A soft lob pass by Jerry Jenison to Anderson as he drifted behind the Northwood defense gave Dennis his opportunity to dribble in and mesh the winning points.

It was a victory that deserves to rank with the sweetest an underdog Belmond team has ever achieved. The much taller Vikings were in command most of the game and it wasn't until Jenison cashed a couple of freethrows with only 2:57 to go that Belmond went in to the lead for the first time, 48-47. The next minute and 10 seconds saw the Broncos' advantage spread to 52-47 and Belmond went into a stall to protect that lead.

A freethrow by John Roberts and a basket by Mike Lein cut the margin to 52-50, then with 47 seconds remaining Jenison hit on one out of a pair of gift tries. The Vikings again got possession, and Phil Johnson made it 53-52. Larry Holstad accounted for the fielder that sent Northwood ahead for the last time.

As Belmond was struggling to keep the ball, three Vikings cornered Vernie Pastour and a desperation pass to avoid a tip ball with a taller opponent went astray. The aforementioned five seconds showed on the clock as the Broncos got their last chance to pull the fat out of the fire. Anderson ducked a would-be defender as he arrived under the Belmond hoop and then banked in the decisive tally.

Without taking anything away from the scrappy Broncos, it could probably be said with truth that the Vikings beat themselves. They had the physical advantage by a wide margin. It was the Broncos' aggressiveness — and perhaps an edge on condition — that enabled them to win despite the odds. It was a wrung-out bunch of Vikings who left the floor.

Northwood jumped into a 7-0 lead at the start of the game, and the deficit for the Broncs was rarely smaller as the first half wore on. The quarter score was 19-10 for Northwood. Belmond cut the margin to 25-20 late in the second period, but a Viking flurry in the fading moments of the half re-established Northwood's nine-point advantage by intermission time, 33-24.

Belmond chopped away at the Viking lead as play resumed, and with 3:04 left in the third stanza there was only a two-point difference, 38-36. But again Northwood rallied and as the final quarter got underway the visitors appeared on their way to victory as they spurted to a 47-40 lead.

Four minutes remained when the possibility of a Belmond win impressed itself on the hopeful Bronco fans as Bob Finn swished the net to pull the Blue and White within a point at 47-46. From there, the Broncos went on to edge the tired Vikings as already described.

Jenison led the scoring with 18 points, including seven of the last nine posted by Belmond in the final two minutes and 57 seconds. Anderson and Finn contributed 11 apiece, Robbie Courson seven, Bob Burk and Pastour four each.

Roberts tallied 17 and Johnson 16 for the losers and Holstad 12. Big John Lee added seven and Lein two.

Belmond's froshmores kept their victory string going with at 38-26 win over the Junior Vikings that was easier than the score indicates. After a close first quarter, the Junior Bronc regulars completely outplayed their opponents to run their lead to 30-8. Against the reserves, Northwood pared the margin to 30-20 before the first-stringers took over again.

Good scoring balance featured the Belmond attack, Dennis Gallagher netting 12 points, Tom Downs 10, Larry Ackerman eight and Ray Roberts six. Tom Lerdal got the other two. Rod Lundgren paced the visitors with 13 points.

2 pin teams post fine performances

Last week's competition in the men's bowling leagues at Bowl-Mor Lanes produced two exceptional performances. Bud's Woodbutchers of the Kanawha league posted the first scratch 1,000 game to be recorded here this season; and the Maintenance team of the General Mills league achieved an all-time high series for that set-up of four-man teams.

A 1,009 scratch game was put together by the Woodbutchers, whose combined league averages are 800. Individual scores follow with each kegler's average shown in parentheses: D. L. Knoll 177 (165), "Buster" Anderson 222 (149), Harry Peters 223 (154), Al Assink 176 (167) and "Bud" Johnson 211 (165).

The four bowlers on the GMI Maintenance team boasted a scratch series of 2,322 and with 312 handicap totalled 2,634. Their actual pins for the series came to 315 more than their combined averages.

Following are the team members, their actual series scores and their averages in parentheses: Don Nelson 529 (486), John Robertson 530 (468), Gerald "Red" Whipple 587 (498) and Duan Thompson 676 (555).

Darlene Busick, in a Friday night Mixed League match, rolled a 584 series. This was the best of the year for local feminine keglers, replacing a 581 posted earlier by Lois Hafermann.

Kramer receives "Frosh" numeral

Larry Kramer, former BHS star distance runner, was one of eight University of Iowa freshmen awarded numerals for their showings in cross-country during the past fall. He was the only North Iowa conference athlete to win an SUI numeral.

Right now, Larry is enjoying a bit of time off from running practice between the cross-country and indoor track seasons.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer has praised Larry highly as an outstanding college prospect and has extensive plans for Larry as a varsity runner as soon as the ex-Bronco speedster starts his sophomore year and is eligible for Big Ten competition.

Dear Santa Claus,
I want a doll. I want a dog, if I've been good. May I have a nice dress? May I have a little toy? May I have a sleeping beauty Paint set? Is Mrs. Santa Claus alright? I did this in school. Are you alright? How are your reindeer? I will give you something to eat.
Mary Jo Back

Klemme, Ia.
Dear Santa Claus,
I would like you to please bring me some cowgirl boots and a Tiny Tears doll. I want you to tell Mrs. Santa hello for me. I would like to know if you want any thing to eat.
Jo Bock

Dear Santa Claus,
I would like some Christmas records, a watch and a skirt. I have two other sisters they aren't old enough to write so I'm writing for them. Shirley is four years old she wants a pair of bedroom slippers and some doll clothes. Sandra is two years old she wants a puzzle and some doll clothes. Don't forget the poor and sick children. We will leave cookies and milk for you.
Merry Christmas to all,

P. S. We will leave you cookies and milk.

Dear Santa Claus,

I would like a tickle bee game. And some dishes. Santa Claus give the poor children toys and so they can have a merry Christmas. And also little babys and children in the hospitals too. And I wish you good lucky. I am 8 years old and am in third grade.

With love
Katie Kelley

Letters to Santa Claus

Dear Santa:

My name is Grant Black. My Brother Paul and I want to thank you for the things you gave us last year. We would like to have you bring a shovel for Grant to help Dad shovel snow this winter. Paul would like to have you bring him a pair of cowboy boots and a cowboy suit.

We have a little brother named Glen who will soon be 1 year old. Glen would probably like a stuffed toy of some kind. Our sister Julie is getting to be a big girl now but she would like to have you bring something that would be just right for a 10 year old girl. There will be some cookies and milk for you when you get here.

Thank you very much
Julie, Grant, Paul and Glen Black

Dear Santa Claus,

Thank you for everything you brought me last year. I am 5 years old and started kindegarten this year. I haven't learned to right yet, so my sister is writing this for me.

For Christmas would you bring me Marybel the get well doll, some Magicolor bubble bath, a Tickle Bee game, Little Blinder in Santaland game, and a mother hen target? We will leave lunch for you.

Love,
Nancy Lynn Sharp

Film Highlights

—from—

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Steve Reeves' latest film epic, "The Giant of Marathon," leaves one wondering if they're running out of titles to match his muscles. After taking the roles of Hercules and Goliath, the ex-Mr. Universe in Thursday and Friday's feature in "The Giant" is cast as a less well known gent by the name of Philippides, a Greek Olympic hero who spearheads the defense of ancient Athens from a horde of invading Persians. Mylene Demongeot pretties up the picture more than somewhat. . . . No show Saturday night; Christmas Eve.

When Yves Montand, France's romantic pride and joy, plays not only himself, but also himself portraying himself (is this getting confusing?) in "Let's Make Love," the ingredients are present for a distinctly different comedy.

Let it be said that Director George Cukor as "chef" makes full use of those ingredients.

With the beauty and sparkle of Marilyn Monroe added in liberal portions, plus the droll wit of Tony Randall and the suave voice of Frankie Vaughn, this is a potpourri of fun and romance that should suit just about anybody. Bing Crosby, Milton Berle and Gene Kelly provide added spice with guest appearances.

Wins by Broncs, Garner scramble NIC standings

SPORTS

Belmond and Garner threw the North Iowa conference championship race into a wide open scramble as the loop cage campaign reached its holiday break by trimming the top favorites for the title, Northwood and Buffalo Center, last Friday night.

Garner did the most convincing job, ripping the Bison 65 to 46, while it took a spine-tingling rally for the Broncos to trip up the Vikings, 55-54.

With the NIC schedule two games short of the halfway mark, one thing is clearly evident. Among the top five teams, home-floor advantage has been a very decisive factor in determining game winners. Every game lost by those five teams was played away from home.

That indicates that the title asperations of Belmond and Garner will be very much on the line when activity resumes after the Christmas intermission. On Jan. 6, the Broncos will have to take on Buffalo Center on the Bison postage-stamp court and Garner must face the Vikings at Northwood.

Thus far, Belmond has been the surprise team of the conference. Short on everything but spirit, the Broncos share first place in the loop with Buffalo Center and Garner — with Britt and Northwood only a game behind and still very much in the championship picture.

At the end of five games, Garner has exhibited the most potent offense with an average of 69 per tilt; Britt follows with 65.2 average. Buffalo Center, who's played three of its five in its cracker--box gym, has the best defensive average of 52.4. Next best defense has been Northwood's with a 55 average.

As customary, Lake Mills has shown the weakest defense. The Bulldogs have been allowing an average of 69.6 points per game. Poorest offense has been Osage's, averaging only 50.2 per start.

Independent cage team doing well

Belmond has an outstanding independent basketball team this season, comprised mainly of former BHS cagers. Lone exception is Eldon Schulte, who starred at Alexander High and later was a standout player for Central college.

With a 10-man squad, the "indies" — who are sponsored by Mello Maid Ice Cream shop — have been clobbering most of their opposition in the course of posting six consecutive victories. Their depth enables them to platoon by quarters, which they've made a regular practice of doing.

On the roster with Schulte are Roger and Larry Kinseth, Lynn Jenison, Dean Pals, Larry Schimp, Dennis Pastour, Kenny Langlitz, Gordon Sandman and Gary Meyer.

In their two latest starts they whipped Hampton 100-55 and the Parkway team of Fort Dodge 101-86. The Mello-Maiders have scored 100 or more three times and 97 in another game.

They had a return game here with the Parkways scheduled for last Sunday and a Tuesday night game here with Vincent & Clay of Storm Lake, a team made up of Buena Vista collegians. Last night (Wednesday) they were to play the Clarion Independents at Clarion.

J. Murray earns gridiron numeral

John Murray, 1959 BHS graduate, was among 30 freshmen who won numerals for participation in football at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, this past fall. John was a North Iowa all-conference second team choice at fullback as a senior.

Another former NIC gridder on the Tutor frosh squad was Larry Van Oort of Forest City. As a senior, he was first team all-conference at guard and also made the Iowa Daily Press association's fourth all-state eleven.

VOL. 42 NO. 13 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, DEC. 29, 1960 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

A note to the Main Streeters from Don Collinson received last week advised "I'm heading back to the Congo and Mary (Mrs. C.) is going back to school at Scaritt college in Nashville, Tenn." Both of the Collinsons had undertaken special studies at Scaritt before launching on their missionary careers in Africa.

Don (regretfully, it seemed) decided that The Independent would have to go to his wife for the time being, because under existing conditions in the Congo surface mail is not getting inland in that country.

The Collinsons and their three daughters were leaving from Clinton for Nashville yesterday (Wednesday) and Don is scheduled to leave New York on his return trip to Africa on Jan. 13. Needless to say, the Collinsons will be looking forward to a reunion of their family as soon as Mary and the children are permitted to join Don.

Quite a few persons were inspired to extend help to the Henry Pannkuk family, whose plight was told in a story in last week's Independent (they lost all of their belongings when their home burned down). Several gave cash donations, food for a Christmas banquet came from two sources, and several items of household furnishings were gratefully received (a cook stove, daybed, some bedding); and several calls were received regarding clothing.

The three Pannkuk youngsters, ages 12 to 15, are sleeping on the floor at the home of their grandparents, the Anton Pannkuks — so understandably, Henry and his family are anxious to set up housekeeping for themselves as soon as possible.

It might be here noted that the elder Pannkuks' phone number is 8621, rather than as listed in the directory; so any others interested in offering the unfortunate family some assistance can contact them via that number. Incidentally, Marie, 15, is interested in some baby-sitting on New Year's Eve (or any other time). The Pannkuks express their deep appreciation for such aid as they have been provided and say it brightened their Christmas immensely.

A woman of our acquaintance had the feeling she should get her ears fixed when she overheard the following conversation between her small niece and nephew. Commented the former, "I don't know if I should let mama wash my new dress. It might faint." . . . To which her companion countered with some disgust, "You mean shrimp."

There was one young fellow who missed the deadline for turning his letter in to The Independent for forwarding to Santa Claus. We must say, though, that he figured out the next best alternative with a rare display of judgment.

He stuck his letter in the night depository at the bank! That's what we'd call utilizing the shortest distance between two points. . . . Seems as if the bank usually serves as an assistant to Santa Claus at OUR house, too.

This cagey tyke was Lindsey Morris, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Derl Morris. He'll be remembered by many readers of The Independent by the nickname "Preemie," from the time of his birth at the modest weight of about a pound and a half!

Nine years ago, Evie Foss gave her grandmother, Mrs. Tillie Pals, a poinsettia plant for Christmas. It's really turned out to be one of those "gifts that keeps on giving" (like a subscription to the Reader's Digest, you know?). From a spindly little affair less than a foot high, it's grown into a luxuriant plant more than four feet tall and this year bore 15 beautiful blossoms! Mrs. Pals has kept it as a house plant. It seems probable that it will go right on bringing Christmas cheer for many years to come.

Last week's paper told of a Britt youth, Gary Crowder, 18, who has been finding you can "buy" board and room with checks that aren't even any good. He'd no sooner completed a 30-day jail sentence in Hamilton county and one of 60 days in Cerro Gordo than he was picked up at Mason City for hearing on a check charge in Wright county.

On Saturday of last week he appeared before Judge Ed Kelly, who assured the young man of board and room for another 30 days.

When Clay county authorities learned of Crowder's whereabouts, they put in a bid for his presence in district court there. Crowder told Sheriff Bob Blecker, "That should clean 'em all up." . . . But no. Tuesday a call came from Palo Alto county. Seems Crowder had left one of his rubber checks there, too. Palo Alto was told to get in line.

No anemic pocketbooks?

With the time of great need apparently past for the moment, a relatively small crowd of money-seekers was on hand Tuesday afternoon matching numbers in the hope of picking off a Cash Gift Day award. As a consequence, not one of the 12 numbers worth cash was turned in. In the belief that some pocketbooks and purses must SURELY be anemic during these post-Christmas days, the CGD committee is determined to perform some cash transfusions next Tuesday. To be more certain of achieving this, they are returning the prize total to the pre-holiday total of $500, to be divided into 10 awards of $25 at 2:00 p. m. and five of $50 each at 3:00 o'clock.

BELMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

SANTA CLAUS CAME a day early for Jessie Loats, who last Saturday became owner of the Ford Falcon that was grand prize of the six weeks of Christmas Gift Days conducted by the Belmond Chamber of Commerce. It took only the one drawing at 12:00 noon to find a winner for the new vehicle. Miss Loats is shown above receiving keys to the Falcon from Ellis Elliott, chairman of the C-of-C trade promotion committee. Miss Loats has been driving a '53 Ford, to which she has become so attached that she expressed some question as to whether she will sell her old "steed" down the river — or choose to keep it and dispose of her prize.

Sudden death shocks many friends—

Claire Hildman dies at age of 47

The sudden death of Claire F. Hildman on Thursday of last week came as a severe shock to his many friends, despite the fact that had been in critical condition at Belmond Community hospital since undergoing emergency surgery on Dec. 8. He had submitted to further surgery on the Sunday preceding his death, but his condition never improved appreciably after the discovery and removal of an abdominal tumor following his admission to the hospital.

Mr. Hildman would have been 48 years old on Feb. 8 of next year. He had been in business here as proprietor of Hildman's 5c to $1.00 store since 1954, when he purchased the establishment from George Infelt.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning by Rev. R. A. Ormsby at St. Francis Catholic church, Fulton Funeral Home being in charge. Burial took place at Resurrection cemetery at St. Paul, Minn.

Pallbearers were Don Nolan, Jim Havens, C. A. Didio, Gerald McNulty, Donald McNulty and Russell Dougherty. Serving as honorary pallbearers were Jack Granzow, Ellis Elliott, Ronald Courson, Roy Henderson, Luin Cox and Dr. Arlo Pitcher.

Mr. Hildman was born Feb. 8, 1913 at Ionia, Ia., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hildman. He was one of a family of 10 children, having six sisters and three brothers.

After graduating from high school Claire worked in a grocery store operated by his brother Ray at Clarion. He later owned and operated a grocery of his own at Rockford, before accepting a sales position with a wholesale grocery firm at St. Paul, Minn.

He left this job after buying a super market at Minneapolis and not long afterward he purchased another super market at St. Paul. After conducting these businesses for 12 years he sold them and for a brief time returned to his former occupation as salesman for a wholesale house, this one being located at Fort Dodge.

On the recommendation of two of his brothers and a brother-in-law who were owners of variety stores, Claire kept on the lookout for a good opportunity in this line and purchased the Infelt store when it was offered for sale in 1954.

Mr. Hildman in January of 1941 wed Lucille Fisher of St. Paul, Minn. Two children were born to them. Their daughter Sandra was a sophomore at Marycrest college, Davenport, before withdrawing from school when her father took ill. A son, Tommy, is a 6th grade pupil in the local schools.

In addition to his widow and children, Mr. Hildman is survived by his three brothers and five sisters: Ray of Marengo, Leo of La Crosse, Wis., and John L. of Waterloo; Matilda Zimmer of Fairmont, Minn., Mrs. Al McDermott of Waterloo, Mrs. J. B. Cronin of Waukon, Mrs. Madonna Kress of Waterloo and Mrs. LaVonne Heitman of Marengo.

Preceding him in death were his parents and one sister, Mrs. Emma Lickteig of Richmond, Kans.

Mr. Hildman took a lively interest in community affairs and almost from the time of his residence in Belmond was active in affairs of the Chamber of Commerce. He was a director of the Chamber at the time of his death.

McNEAL IN CHORAL GROUP

Clark McNeal, son of Mrs. Clark H. McNeal, recently joined the Oratio Society on the campus of Cornell college, Mount Vernon, where he is a freshman.

Group discussion series slated—

Plan study of problems of today

The Wright County Extension Council has voted unanimously to aid in setting up discussion groups throughout the county to consider issues facing this county as the result of the increasing rate of change in the national, state, and local economic and family living situations, says County Extension Director Aaron Bowman.

Fact sheets on which the discussions will be based have been prepared by Iowa Sate university staff members at Ames. They will be available to all groups interested. The plan is for meetings to be held by small groups in homes.

These fact sheets will include condensed statements of situations facing people of the county on national, state, and community levels. The sheets are intended to make it possible for groups to carry on informed discussions without formal leadership, Bowman says.

This series of discussions is scheduled to start in February. The first meeting, the week of February 6 through 11, will deal with issues growing out of the demands on local people for the maintenance of democracy in the United States. The meetings of February 13 to 18 will deal with the meaning of economic growth and what must be done in Wright county to help assure growth in the United States as a whole.

Meetings the week of February 20 to 25 will bring the discussion down to the issues involved in harmonizing the interests of farmers and town people. The final week, February 27 through March 3, will bring out the means by which local people can gain effective community action.

According to Bowman, the "Iowa Future" discussions are a follow-up on the "Challenge to Iowa" discussions held in 1958. More than 600 county people took part in that program.

In the "Challenge" series, the local people studied the conditions requiring adjustment. This time, the discussions will center on action that can be taken in Wright county to achieve the most beneficial adjustment to these problems.

The Public Affairs Study group and other organizations in Wright county will have January and February to consider the Iowa Future Series and the issues they raise. Each person in each discussion group organized will receive a copy of all the fact sheets.

Clubs or individuals interested in carrying on the discussions may obtain a supply of fact sheets at the Extension Service office at the Post Office building, Clarion.

Opinion forms will be filled out by the discussion groups after each meeting and will be turned in to Extension Director Bowman for use in statewide evaluation of the discussions.

No agreements on any issue are to be sought in any of the groups. The opinion forms will merely show how many different opinions are held on given issues and will show how many individuals hold each different opinion. Iowa State university staff members will make a statewide summary of the opinions.

Dick Barkema, Jr., receives award as "Iowa Master Swine Producer"

This area enrolled its fourth name on the roster of Iowa Master Swine Producers before Christmas when Dick Barkema, Jr., of Goodell was chosen among the 25 farmers upon whom this honor was bestowed for the year 1960. Previous winners of this distinction include William H. Sheriff, Sr., and Gerald Burk of Goodell and Garfield "Gus" Halverson, Jr., of Kanawha.

It was only at the insistence of Mrs. Sheriff that Mr. Barkema agreed to permit her to submit his name as a nominee for the Master Swine Producer award. Earlier, Dick's feed salesman had asked the young farmer's permission to enter him as a candidate, but Dick declined.

Now, Mr. Barkema is happy that his "next door neighbor," Mrs. Sheriff, was so determined to nominate him. At a recent banquet of the Iowa Master Swine Producers association at Des Moines, Dick was presented with a gold belt buckle and a certificate signifying his selection as one of the state's outstanding hog raisers.

He farms a quarter section of land west of Goodell, which is owned jointly by himself and his mother, Mrs. Dick Barkema, Sr. He has been farming for himself for seven years. When he started out in 1954, he bred only a dozen sows.

Since then, he has annually increased his hog production and this year his winning crop consisted of 425 pigs from 52 Spotted Poland China sows which were bred to a Duroc boar.

Average litter from these sows was 8.9 pigs, or 463 in all. Dick weaned 431 and raised to market age 425, an average of 8.2 per litter. Average weight of the pigs at marketing was 215.3 pounds and their average age was 183.2 days. Their rate of gain was an average of 1.18 pounds.

Ten pigs from the crop had to be selected for butchering at a packing plant, for carcass analysis. Six of the carcasses graded No. 1 and the other four graded No. 2.

In addition to his spring crop, Dick raised an additional 115 fall pigs. He says he plans to follow his past practice and raise a somewhat larger number of pigs next year than he did this year. His entire farming program is geared to the hog operation.

Iowa's first Master Swine Producers were chosen in 1942, and annual slections have been made since that time. More than 100 candidates for the title were nominated in 1960.

Jack Meints will hold open house

Jack Meints is celebrating the 30th anniversary of Meints Produce by holding open house at his place of business this Saturday from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

He will serve free coffee and doughnuts and cordially invites all of his friends and customers to pay him a call.

In addition, a representative of Welp's Hatchery at Bancroft, whose chicks and poultry feeds Meints Produce handles, will be on hand to answer questions on any poultry problems that farm visitors may wish to ask about.

TO MARK SILVER WEDDING

Open house will be held Sunday at the library basement by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McLaughlin to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. All their relatives and friends are cordially invited to greet them between the hours of 1:30 and 4:30 p. m.

THIS SMILING gentleman is "Kay" Ketchum, who is the subject of this week's business feature on the editorial page. Due to The Independent's engraving firm enjoying a long, holiday weekend, the engraving was not returned in time for it to appear with the story.

Former Belmond Methodist minister has retired from high church post

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (Special) — Dr. Joseph H. Edge, a staff member of the General Board of Evangelism of The Methodist Church for the last 14 years, will retire Jan. 1.

Dr. Edge has been serving as director of the Department of Organization and Administration of the board, which has its national headquarters in Nashville. He has reached the board's mandatory retirement age.

Harold L. Hermann, Nashville, will succeed Dr. Edge. He has been public relations director for "The Upper Room," a daily devotional guide published by the General Board of Evangelism.

Dr. and Mrs. Edge (formerly Mary Mackey of Scranton, Pa.) will continue to live at 2011 Sweetbrier Ave., Nashville.

For 10 years before coming to the board of Evangelism, Dr. Edge was president of Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, S. D.

A native of Humboldt, Iowa, he served as pastor of Methodist churches in LuVerne, Belmond, Spirit Lake, Rockwell City and Algona in Iowa. He was at one time superintendent of the Sheldon (Iowa) Methodist District.

Dr. and Mrs. Edge were honored at a recent testimonial dinner given them by the staff of the Board of Evangelism.

LINDA BONTE "PLEDGED"

Forty-three Iowa State university coeds were pledged to the 11 national, social sororities on the Ames campus after the start of rushing on Dec. 1. Among them was Linda Bonte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bonte, who was pledged by Kappa Delta.

SALE DATE CLAIMED

Leter Gabrielson has claimed the date of Saturday, Jan. 21, for holding a closing out farm sale. It will be auctioneered by "Coonie" Smith.

$25 HOSPITAL MEMORIAL

A memorial in the name of Mrs. Mary Hauge has been presented to Belmond Community hospital by members of her family.

Larry Greenwood home awarded 1st as best decorated

It was the decision of the judges that the beautifully illuminated home of Larry Greenwood was the first-place winner in the annual Yule lighting contest of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce. He will be awarded a hospitality yard lamp that was donated by the Iowa Electric Light and Power company as first prize.

Winner of second place was the ingeniously lighted home of Russell Tideback, whose illumination was supplemented with Christmas music. This prize was $15 in cash.

The $10 third prize was awarded to the entry of Lawrence Kelley and the fourth prize of $5 went to the Harm Gruis residence. Mr. Gruis says that his home decorations were the handiwork of his stepson, LeRoy Goeman.

Special mention was given the displays at the homes of Frank Ratasky, Ray Borgstrom and Luther Proeger, Jr. A number of other homes were so attractively decorated for the holiday season as to make a trip around town to inspect them well worth while, according to the judges.

Chosen to serve as the judges were Mrs. R. H. Gowdy and her daughter, Mrs. Roger Brockmeyer of Anamosa, visiting with her parents over the holidays; and Mrs. L. R. Gallagher.

Hunting accident kills Clarion boy

A tragic gun accident Thursday morning of last week cost the life of a 16-year-old Clarion boy as he was hunting a half mile east of Dows with three teen-age companions.

Dead from a rifle bullet puncture of the left kidney was Eugene LaRue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levert LaRue. He was shot in the back as a rabbit was flushed from beneath a log and his companions fired at the fleeing animal.

Armed with .22 caliber rifles were Wayne Arthur, 14, and John McClelland, 16. The fourth member of the group, Allan Harson, 16, was carrying a shotgun. All are from Clarion.

The rifles belonging to Arthur and McClelland were being held this week by Wright county sheriff's office in case Sheriff Lee Lemke of Franklin county decides to run ballistics tests on them to determine which gun fired the fatal shot.

This would be possible, as the bullet was recovered from LaRue's body. On Tuesday of this week, Sheriff Lemke had not yet reached a decision in the matter. Responsibility for the errant shot seemed quite certainly determined by reenactment of the accident, but only a ballistics test on the two rifles would eliminate all question.

Young LaRue uttered a cry and dropped to the snow when hit. He was rushed by his companions to the office of a doctor at Dows but was dead on arrival. Funeral services for the youth were held last Saturday morning at St. John's Catholic church, Clarion. He is survived by his parents and a sister.

BACK FROM EASTERN VISIT

Mrs. T. A. Townsan returned recently from a month spent with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Finkelstein and Jamie at Franklin Park, N. J.

Error in naming road for grading

An error in geographical description was made by The Independent in its reports last week on road construction work with county funds projected for the coming year.

The two miles of grading on County K in Norway township does not lie north of the St. Olaf church corner. County K and County U run jointly to the west from the church corner a distance of three miles, and County K then turns north for three miles to form a junction with the extension of County K that continues into Hancock county.

It is the two miles of County K running south from the county line that is to be brought up to required grade for later hard-surfacing. This north stretch of County K is down on the 10-year road surfacing program for blacktopping in 1964.

Nielsen 1st in hot scoring race

Going into the holiday break in the North Iowa conference basketball campaign, a three-way race is in progress for individual scoring honors with Bob Nielsen of Britt, Dick Rockwood of Garner and John Van Voorhis of Osage as contenders. Not so far back but what he is still in the running is Dave Friesenborg, 6-8 Buffalo Center pivot.

Nielsen, with the help of a 32-point night against Belmond, leads the pack with a 22.4 average. Rockwood and Van Voorhis are nip-and-tuck at 20.8 and 20.6, respectively. Friesenborg has averaged exactly 19 points over the five-game route.

Nine players in the loop are hitting at better than a 15-point per game pace, insofar as available statistics show. In a few instances, the full quota of games has not been played by leading scorers — or their scoring for all the games was not immediately obtainable.

Though having two players among the top 12 scorers, Belmond's offense this season is producing an average of 14 points per game less than the high-powered Bronco offense of a year ago. The 1959-60 crew set a new school offensive record with an average of 63.4, compared to 59.4 per game for BHS in conference games thus far this season.

Belmond has, nevertheless, displayed fair scoring balance and a little more consistency on the part of part of the Bronco regulars would boost the team average considerably.

Dennis Anderson has tallied 43 points against loop opposition for an 8.6 average and Bob Finn has totalled 41 for an 8.2 average. Bob Burk has chalked up 32 points to average 6.4; and Vernie Pastour, hampered by a weak ankle, has contributed 27 points for a 5.4 average.

Following is the scoring for NIC players averaging 10 or more points, with the number of games in which their accompanying point total was achieved:

Player	G	pts.	ave.
Nielsen (Br.)	5	112	22.4
Rockwood (G)	5	104	20.8
Van Voorhis (O)	5	103	20.6
Friesenborg (BC)	5	95	19.0
Schrader (Br.)	5	80	16.0
Stadt (FC)	4	66	16.5
Johnson (N)	5	79	15.8
Jenison (Bl.)	5	78	15.6
Hagen (LM)	5	77	15.4
Holstad (LM)	5	73	14.6
Roberts (N)	4	58	14.5
Courson (Bel.)	5	71	14.2
Hibbs, E. (FC)	5	68	13.6
Tjaden (BC)	5	67	13.4
Lein (N)	5	65	13.0
Christianson (G)	5	57	11.4
Brunsvold (LM)	3	32	10.7
Ellwood (LM)	5	50	10.0
Tresemer (O)	4	40	10.0

Posts pin triplicate

Louie Mennenga, bowling last week with the Belmond Motors team in the Quint-City League, put together the first triplicate score that has been posted at Bowl-Mor Lanes this season. For his performance he gets an arm patch from the American Bowling Congress — but he wasn't too happy over the achievement. He'd as soon have had the "rut" he was in on a little higher elevated plane. His series? A 127-127-127—381.

7-game schedule for jr. hi cagers

A schedule of seven basketball double-headers has been drafted for the Belmond junior high 7th and 8th grade teams. Coach Paul Hickman has 24 7th grade boys reporting to him and Coach Jerry Kintzi is in charge of the 25-man 8th grade squad.

On the 7th grade roster are Craig Boller, Blair Brandmeyer, Bob and Jim Cox, John Dickson, Harlan Dorenkamp, Paul Green, Doug Greenwood, Alan Hattel, Paul Haugland.

Comprising the 8th grade squad are Leslie Braner, Dennis Dorenkamp, John Faris, Kent Gabrielson, Mike Granzow, Paul Hauge, Bill Jenison, Kent Johnson, Ray Johnson, Danny Kelley, Mickey Ketchum.

Sterling Laaveg, James McMannus, Gerald Madison, Bob Misner, Tony Mosiman, Bob Nelson, Gary Obrecht, Paul Rokke, Keith Sheller, Larry Suntken, Dennis Svendsen, Dennis Swenson, Larry Thayer and Neal Waddington.

Following is the junior high schedule:

Jan 10—Clarion, here
Jan 18—Britt, here
Jan 20—Garner, here
Jan 30—Hampton, here
Feb 1—Clarion, there
Feb 10—Garner, there
Feb 15—Britt, here

8th grade cagers edge frosh team

Belmond High's freshman cagers were downed by the junior high 8th grade team Tuesday of last week in a challenge game that saw the winners eke out a 28-26 decision in overtime.

Neal Waddington, lanky 8th grade athlete, topped the scoring with 15 points; but it was Bob Misner who meshed two freethrows in the extra period to bring victory to the junior high aggregation.

As well as being tied at the game's end, 26-26, the score was knotted at 4-all ending the first quarter and 18-all at the conclusion of the third. Halftime found the freshmen ahead 12 to 10.

Larry Ackerman and Doug Pals each counted eight points for the freshmen, Jerry Soma four, Daryl Suntken, Terry Armour and Dennis McNulty two each. Following Waddington, Misner tallied five for the winners, two points apiece were posted by Keith Sheller, Dennis Swenson and Dennis Dorenkamp, and one each by Bill Jenison and Bob Nelson.

Compendium of past year's news—

Belmond lost its "best friend" in C. P. Luick

Several things made the year of 1960 especially newsworthy from the viewpoint of Belmond residents. Without doubt the top, local story of the year was a sad one — relating the death of the community's greatest benefactor, Chester P. Luick. His life came to a close on May 3, but his memory will remain fresh in the hearts of Belmond people for many years to come as they take enjoyment and derive benefit from his numerous philanthropies.

Even after his passing, the impact of his beneficence was felt with the announcement of a final bequest through his will that created an educationa land charitable trust that will have an estimated $175,000 to $200,000 as its base. His gifts to the people of his native home, with this last bequest, approached — and possibly surpassed — the three-quarter million mark.

We made it! Pop. 2,506!

A happier note was struck with the official announcement that Belmond's official population as of the 1960 census was, indeed, past the 2,500 total. That the margin was a mere six souls didn't matter so much, after the unofficial, preliminary report had set the number at a disappointing 2,499.

The year saw additional industrial strides. Ris-Van, Inc., became an affiliate of Stepan Chemical of Chicago, and added three new production plants to its chain during the year. Tomco, Inc., made several major improvements, marking its steady advance in the field of hybrid corn producers. Its new office building is to be introduced to the public in the course of an open house two weeks hence.

Belmond athletes excell

General Mills enjoyed a good year, and with its new emphasis on special products at the soybean processing plant pointed to the probability of even better years to come.

Belmond High school athletics attained an all-time high as its basketball and track teams matched the accomplishment of the 1959 football team to give the Broncos a sweep of all North Iowa conference team championships. Then, to cap it off, the BHS track and field experts won Class A state championships, both indoors and outdoors. It seems questionable that the accomplishments of this fine group of athletes will ever be matched; they could hardly be surpassed.

A compendium of 1960 Belmond news follows:

Week of Jan. 7

Ed Kennedy assumes position on county board as supervisor from District 1, succeeding John Greenlander.

Lynn Ferguson, 14, takes ducking in icy Iowa river in futile attempt to save his pet dog from drowning after "Sarg" skidded under ice while chasing a rabbit.

Hospital's 1960 output of babies decreases from 1959's by more than 50

Births here total 176; boys number 100, girls only 76

Belmond Community hospital's baby crop took a decided drop the past year, totaling 53 less than in 1959 and 56 less than in 1958. For the cause of this turn of events, The Independent will leave expert analysis up to some authority better informed than Ye Ed.

The baby out-put for 1960 was unusual in still another regard. Whereas the split was 118 boys and 114 girls in 1958 and 116 boys and 113 girls in 1959, boys predominated in 1960 by a margin of 100 to 76.

A drop in the number of Belmond babies accounted for quite a large share of 1960's decrease in new offspring. Only 64 "local" babies were born at the hospital the past year, compared to 84 in 1959 and 87 in 1958.

28 babies from Kanawha

Kanawha, next-best baby customer of the Belmond hospital, showed a much smaller drop in new births. The Hancock county community had 31 babies born here in 1958, 32 in 1959 and 28 in 1960.

Twenty-two other towns contributed to the local birth total. Nine Goodell babies were born here, eight each from Alexander, Corwith and Thornton, seven each from Meservey and Garner, five each from Clarion, Renwick and Dows, four from Britt, three from Klemme, two each from Galt, Rowan, Clear Lake and Lu Verne and one apiece from Coulter, Williams, Mason City, Latimer, Stratford, Eagle Grove and Sheffield.

Two sets of twins

Two sets of twins were delivered at the Belmond hospital. Larry Lee and Loren Dee were twin sons born Sept. 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sawyer of Thornton; and Dawn Marie and Darla Mae were twin daughters born Oct. 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Duane Slining of Dows.

Tiniest tyke to survive the handicap of premature birth was Brian Clifford Voyles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Voyles, whose arrival weight was only 2 lbs. 8½ oz.

Space prevents reporting of the numerous births to former Belmond residents that were announced in the Independent during the year.

Births reported in this week's Hello World column should be added to the totals given above to give a correct total for the year. Following are the other local listings in Hello World during 1960:

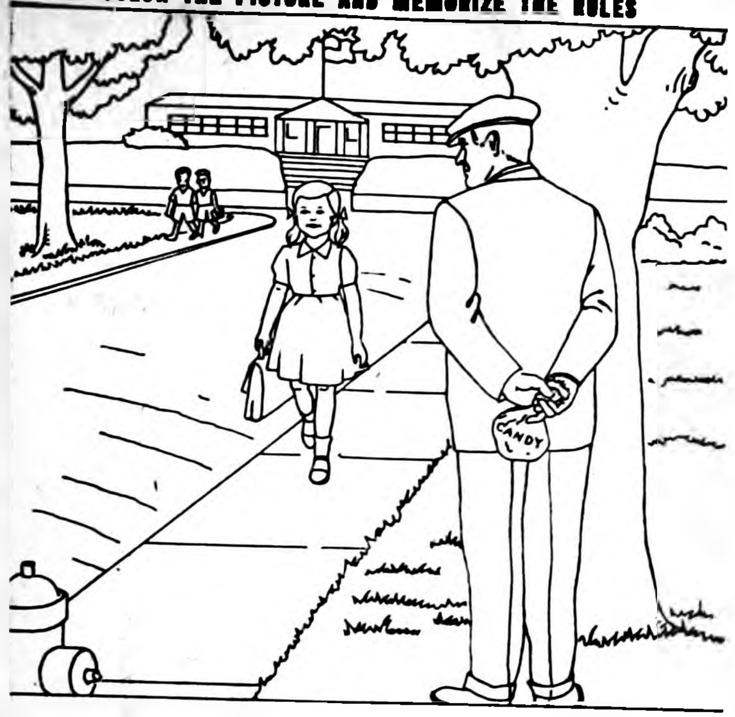
COLOR THE PICTURE AND MEMORIZE THE RULES



FOR YOUR PROTECTION, REMEMBER TO:

- Turn down gifts from strangers
- Refuse rides offered by strangers
- Avoid dark and lonely streets
- Know your local policeman

J. Edgar Hoover
Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation

THIS PICTURE is being run by The Independent at the request of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. It represents an effort of the FBI to safeguard the nation's youngsters against an alarming upsurge in the number of sordid offenses of which children have been the victims in late months. The FBI believes that if the picture is put to the use for which it was designed, it will have the effect of impressing upon young minds those situations which might subject them to the sort of ordeal from which the bureau is hoping to protect as many as possible.

NFO schedules Belmond meeting

An organization meeting under the sponsorship of the Wright county chapter of the National Farmers Organization is to be held at Veterans' Memorial hall a week from Monday night, Jan. 9, at 8:00 o'clock.

Attention is called to the meeting at this time due to appearance this week of a Public Forum letter (elsewhere in this issue) written by Roger Wilcox of Eagle Grove, county NFO president.

Purposes and objectives of the NFO will be explained at that time and memberships will be solicited from farmers interested in the organization's goals.

Cadet D. Aldrich ends pre-flight

PENSACOLA, Fla. (FHTNC) — Naval Avaition Cadet Danny L. Aldrich, son of Blanche Aldrich of Belmond, Ia., graduated recently from 16 weeks of training at the Naval School of Pre-Flight, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

The course included study in Naval orientation, aviation science, navagation and other technical lines to prepare him for his actual flight training.

Cadet Aldrich is now assigned to the Saufley Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station at Pensacola, for primary flight training. Before entering the service, he attended the State University of Iowa.

NEW YEAR'S EVE DANCE

Annual New Year's Eve dance under sponsorship of the Veterans' Memorial corporation will be held Saturday night at Veterans' Memorial hall. The Royal Rhythms orchestra will provide the music and the customary hats, horns and novelties will be provided the funseekers.

New assessment procedure noted

County Assessor F. Ross Henry publishes a notice in this issue calling attention to a change in assessing procedure required next year by the state tax commission.

It has been ruled by the commission that, insofar as possible, field personnel must call at all homes to make assessments for 1960. Consequently, fieldmen will start making calls over the county starting Jan. 5.

Applications for homestead and veterans' exemptions will be taken by the fieldmen. New applications of either kind, however, must be made personally at the assessor's office in Clarion, between March 15 and July 1.

As in the past, mercantile and business establishment will be contacted by Mr. Henry.

Trustees to sell Luick property

As a step toward liquidating the assets of the Fred and Alice Luick Memorial Trust, which is supplying the funds for building the Luick Memorial community center that will adjoin the new high school, public auction of a residential property has been scheduled for Saturday of next week, Jan 7.

This is the residence on east Main street, across from Fullerton Lumber company, that once served as the Congregational church parsonage. "Coonie" Smith will serve as auctioner and the sale is to start at 2:00 p m.

Trustees L. B Cox, A. C. Hanson and R. A. Henderson are responsible for scheduling the sale The trust also owns the house directly east of the residence to be sold next week. It was being rented at the time this initial auction was arranged, so it will not be disposed of until a later time.

The former parsonage is a two-story house containing seven rooms plus full basement and has an insulated roof, natural gas furnace and garage. It is on a lot measuring 70 feet at the front and extending north 132 feet.

Bad checks get J. Day 30 days

James B Day, 22, of Rowan was arrested last Friday by the Wright county sheriff's office on a charge of writing bad checks. Information had been filed against him by two Clarion firms.

In an appearance the same day in the court of Mayor E. F. Bisbey at Clarion, Day was given an eight-day jail sentence on two separate charges, the terms to run consecutively.

Upon his release from jail, Day is due for an appearance in the court of Justice of the Peace Cecil Winbigler here on a like charge. Information was filed against the Rowan man by a Belmond businessman, at whose establishment Day gave a useless check in payment of a purchase last fall.

COBURNS TAKING VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. George Coburn left Wednesday on a three-month vacation that will take them first to Portsmouth, O., where they will be present to help a brother and sister-in-law of George's celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary. They will then go to Florida for a while, and from there to Texas to spend the balance of the time at McAllen.

LET'S KEEP IT SHARPENED

CHRISTMAS SEAL purchases by Belmond residents were still lagging behind last year's performance, according to the latest report submitted to the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association by Mrs. Merle Bonte, local seal chairman. She says that the last total sent in was $501.15, compared to $554.40 for the corresponding date in 1959. At this rate, Mrs. Bonte noted, Belmond seems unlikely to reach the final amount of $719.40 attained a year ago unless there is a good response from families that have not yet sent in their seal money. Says Mrs. Bonte, "I am sure that the explanation is simply that quite a number who regularly pay for their seals have thus far forgotten to do so. It is not too late for the level of sales in Belmond to reach that of other years if those who have delayed remitting a check for their seals do so at this time."

Burning of greens week from Friday

Meservey residents are asked to have their discarded Christmas trees placed on their front lawns by Friday afternoon of next week for pick-up by the Brownie Scouts.

They will hold their traditional "burning of the greens" ceremony after school on that day, Jan. 6. They will gather the trees after classes have been dismissed.

After the annual Christmas tree bonfire, the youngsters will be served a lunch at the schoolhouse.

On Thursday of last week, the Brownies held their yearly Christmas party at the schoolhouse, which included a gift exchange. Leaders of the troop are Mrs. Lloyd Faaborg and Mrs. Raymond Miller.

Christmas Day dinner guests at the Henry Kuhlers home were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ostendorf of Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Oltman and boys and Dena Kuhlers.

Monday guests in the Garfield Raecker home were Mr. and Mrs. James Hungerford and family of Osage; Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming of Thornton and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raecker and Greg.

Personal Property Assessments

The State Tax Commission has ruled that all assessors, in so far as possible, must call at all homes to make the 1961 personal property assessment.

A fieldman will call at your home sometime after January 5, 1961, to list your taxable property and take care of your veteran's exemption and homestead tax credit application.

Any new applications for veteran's exemption or homestead tax credit, must be made at the County Assessor's office between March 15 and July 1, 1961.

Mercantile and business establishments will be contacted by the County Assessor.
We request that you extend every courtesy and full cooperation to the person who calls at your home, that he or she may be as fair as possible in the assessment as required by law.

F. Ross Henry
Wright County Assessor

Independent passes out some good wishes for '61

It is customary to greet the New Year with expressions of good fortune for the 365 days to follow. So, in the spirit of the occasion, we have some good wishes to pass along which, we sincerely hope, will bear fruit during 1961.

To the city of Blmond — such success with its first program of street surfacing in 40 years that a horde of home-owners will be battering down the city hall door in an enthusiastic desire to be included in a like program for 1962.

To the city of Belmond—such success with its ative patronage during 1961 that will find the influx of patients following a reasonable norm (rather than "standing room only" one week and the patients' rooms almost empty two weeks following).

To Mary Smith — a profitable offer for the manufacture of her delicious Turkey Mince Meat.

To General Mills — at long last, construction of that pilot plant for production of that promising, new protein product; and a deserved, radical up-turn in demand for MPF.

To Tomco, Inc. — good weather, good yield, and the biggest sales year yet.

To Ris-Van, Inc. — several thousand new customers anxious to acquaint themselves with the advantages of liquid fertilizer.

To Presidnt Jack Kennedy and the Democratic Congress — good luck in showing Ezra T. Benson how it should have been done.

To the Henry Pannkuk family (who lost all their possessions by fire on Dec. 16) — proof that in this holiday season, Belmond is a city of friendly people with room in their minds to give thought to the misfortunes of others.

To Coaches Rich Koolbeck and Jack Steinberg — a bunch of try-hard athletes whose success will be in direct proportion to their desire and the enjoyment they derive from their efforts.

To the school officials — More good "building weather" through the winter and spring that will permit occupancy of that new high school at the earliest possible time.

To all our friends — good health, contentment, and enough material blessings for comfort and peace of mind.

Highway information director earns pat on back

Because newspapers are continually the target of purveyors of publicity who seem to know little or nothing about what the press can actually USE, we feel compelled to make mention of recently running into a bird of a different stripe.

Olav Smedal, information director for the Iowa State Highway Commission, was in our office to inquire how useful — or otherwise — we'd been finding the stories on Iowa highway work eminating from his office.

Because he seemed sincerely interested in our answer, we decided to make it a frank one. For a year or so, we've been getting many times more publicity from the commission than we could possibly use. Moreover, the bulk of it was of the sort much more pertinent to the state press than to community newspapers.

Mr. Smedal told us that the highway commissioners were pressuring his office to mail out even MORE releases. We confided that we'd much prefer to have ONLY stories of direct and genuine interest to our readers — with the considerable sum of money wasted on unusable publicity invested in the commission's No. 1 job of building better Iowa highways.

What, asked Mr. Smedal, could his office do to serve the weekly press well and yet economically. We told him that we would appreciate stories pertaining to our immediate locale; and that it would be most helpful to have the envelope marked "Local Story Inside" so we'd be aware that it would be worth our time to open it (99 per cent of the "publicity" we receive goes into the wastebasket — and probably 80 per cent of it isn't even opened).

Our visitor thanked us and went his way. We assumed that would be that and certainly didn't expect to see any drastic, immediate change in the handling of highway commission publicity releases.

But, by golly, what do you know! Within two weeks we got a news story from Mr. Smedal's office written specifically for readers of this area — and marked "Local News Story"! Moreover, it was well and interestingly written.

If the public information profession had more people like Mr. Smedal laboring in its vineyard, untold millions of dollars could be saved in this country yearly. We'd like to advise the state highway commission that they have an A-1 man as information director — and recommend that the commissioners rely on his judgment as to how much publicity the press (particularly the weekly newspapers) will absorb.

Unlike the vast majority of bublicitors, Mr. Smedal is aware that the volume of stuff mailed out doesn't necessarily have any relationship to the amount used. If the highway commission will give their information director free reign to do his job as he best sees it — we'll just about guarantee that this department of the state government will set an example that others could very profitably follow.

Clipped Comment

What's this? Making living on 80 A.?

It was real refreshing to read the story in Monday's Des Moines Register of the young farmer down Britt way who farms 80 acres, likes it and is making money doing it.

By a good many common standards, 33-year-old John Hill really shouldn't be farming in this age of super-agriculture.

He only farms 80 acres — which he leases. And only a mere 71 acres of that can be cropped.

STILL THE PERSONABLE young Hancock county farmer is much in business. He operates a livestock schedule which would do credit to a farmer with several times as much land.

Hill says he wouldn't trade places with a man who had one of the best sections of grain land in Iowa. He likes what he is doing with livestock and therein lies the real purpose of this editorial comment.

LIKING ONE'S WORK IS PROBably the one most important requisite for success in any field. Without it there is no enthusiasm, no desire to plan, to work hard and long to achieve a goal.

Whether you are on an 80-acre farm, a 640-acre farm or operate the biggest store, garage or what have you in North Iowa, the difference in making a success of it lies largely in your enthusiasm for the task.

The story of John Hill should spark the imagination of others, young farmers and businessmen who may not have the largest physical plant in the world, but do have a desire and liking for a certain kind of life.

IN THIS CASE, IT IS ESPECIALly gratifying, for here is a young man who has stuck to the farm, and a small one at that, and has found the good life for himself and his family.

Still, Hill, named a "Master Swine Producer" a few years ago, gives credit to another source for his fine farming fortunes.

"We've always sort of felt," the young farmer said, "that the Good Lord has been kind to us.

"We just sort of help things along — and someone else does the real important work." — Lake Mills Graphic

What! No Snowman?

First the unicorn, now the Abominable Snowman.

Sir Edmund Hillary, keeper of bees, conqueror of Everest, and searcher for abominable snowmen, has just returned from an extensive hunt in the Himalaya to assert that the furry abomination who scatters his tracks so liberally doesn't really exist after all.

BY ALL THAT'S ABOMINABLE, this is bad news. We don't like to deal in doubt-by-association, but this assertion raises considerable question about the existence of the Loch Ness monster, mermaids, the abominable jungle man of Malaya, Grendel, and the Questing Beast. If these are out, there's nothing left in the bestiary. Everything's been discovered. No mysteries are left. Modern Pellinores might just as well stay at home and watch TV, which, whatever its faults, still harbors dinosaurs.

We hope Sir Edmond will relent a little and admit that his expedition may merely have been outwitted by old Abe Snowman. It's a [illegible] hard on any animal to become extinct before it becomes ex[illegible] — Christian Science Monitor

Sales tax a fair tax

Michigan voters approved a four-cent sales tax which had been voted by the legislature there. Pennsylvania, California and Washington have a four-cent tax. There are 18 states with 3 or 3½ cent tax, and 14 including Iowa with 2 or 2½ cent tax.

In Illinois there is a three-cent tax plus another half-cent for cities and towns.

The sales tax is a fair tax when combined with an income tax and a property tax as in Iowa — because those who normally would pay little or no income and property tax do through sales tax help defray the cost of government which serves them. — Algona Advance

WE KNOCK ON WOOD—

Before deciding to reprint the remarks that follow, we reached underneath our old roll-top desk and knocked on BARE wood. We didn't want to peopardize the effectiveness of our precaution by having a layer of varnish between our knock and the receptive lumber.

Things being as they are in the newspaper business, we're probably past due to have a real rouser of a "typo" appear in The Independent. It's been long enough since we had one that we feel we're probably past due.

Just as a doctor can go only so long without losing a patient, or a lawyer without losing a case, an editor KNOWS he's continually living on borrowed time where typos are concerned — even if the last one was a jim dandy that appeared as recently as the latest issue.

THE LAW OF THE TYPO—

For the benefit of the uninitiater, we offer the following explanation of the "typo," which appeared in the Rockville (Ind.) Tribune:

"One of my newspaper friends relates that recently there was a discussion, with perhaps some ugly words, going on in his office concerning a 'typo.' A customer overheard some of the remarks and wanted to know what it was.

"The answer is that it is an abbreviation of the words 'typographical error' — an ugly mixing of letters or words in a line that is as annoying as it is unintentional.

"The Law of the Typo works like this:

"1. Most of the time, the typo will appear in a story or ad that is important. Typos rarely appear in stories or ads you don't care about.

"2. Typos are sneaky. Sometimes four or five will appear in one issue of a publication. After much swearing, checking, probing, detective work, you'll have the typos so frightened that they go away. You think they are gone for good. But they are not. When you've forgotten all about them, back they come.

"3. If you write a story about, say, Mrs. Winterbottom and her friends and it comes out fiends, you can be pretty sure that after you have calmed Mrs. Winterbottom down and promised her that the typo was one of those one in a million years type of thing, the very next story you write about her will have another typo in it. Perhaps something like her husband was seen looking at the new window downtown will be the way you write it, only after the typo has crept in, it will read that her husband was seen looking at the new widow downtown.

THE TYPO'S COUSINS—

"4. The typo has a cousin and it is no improvement over the typo. One is the headline on the wrong story. It usually works in this way — a very important local personality dies and over his obit appears this headline: 'Improvement Seen in Local Affairs.'

"5. Another cousin of the typo is the wrong cutline under a picture. You'll run a picture of a pretty girl in a bathing suit and somehow the cutlines will read 'The Humane Society Announces that this little pet is looking for a good home and a kindly master.'

"6. The typo is as much a part of American life as the mosquito and about as hard to kill."

INOPPORTUNE TIMING—

As this was being written, Dave Hallowell of Tomco, Inc., was somewhat uncertain about the air-lift he'd set up to transport close to 2½ dozen employees and wives from Tomco's Lexington, Ill., plant for the big Tomco doin's scheduled for Jan. 14-15. The company is combining its profit-sharing banquet with the open house that will introduce that fine, new office building to the public.

Dave had written a glowing letter to the lucky folk at Lexington, telling them about the festivities — and the special transportation that had been arranged for them (contract for the chartered plane had already been signed). So when does the letter arrive in Lexington? On the very day of the tragic air disaster in New York!

Eighty per cent of the individuals slated to be air-lifted have never been up in a plane; and last weekend, Dave was a little dubious as to how the air-lift arrangements were going to be accepted.

Know your businessmen—

Ketchum has seen big gain in CGW traffic

A. K. Ketchum, local station agent for the Chicago and Great Western railroad, has just six months to go to complete 20 years of "railroading." Know to his many friends as Kay (that A. K. stands for Amos Kendall), the smiling red-head became a self-taught telegrapher by practicing at the Rowan depot of the Rock Island line as a youth. A buddy, Russell "Buck" Reasoner, who is now agent here for the Rock Island, learned his dots and dashes at the same time, in the same manner.

After doing a bit of bouncing around for the first six years of his railroad career (including brief periods of time with the CB&Q and the North Western line, Kay was assigned to Belmond as agent in July of 1947.

Except for the night passenger trains, which had already been converted to diesel power, all the CGW trains on this Great Western division were still hauled by steam engines when Kay took charge of the depot.

Now, of course, the "iron horses" are all gone — and a pretty good share of the passenger business accompanied them into limbo. Kay says that passenger traffic brought in about $300 a month when he first became agent here. Because this CGW division is the only rail link between Omaha and Minneapolis, the two night trains still carry a passenger coach and do a steady business; but Kay states that locally the ticket sales probably don't average over a dozen per month.

The freight business out of Belmond is something else again. No other one-man station on the division can match the local freight volume — with the exception of Waverly, which has a slightly larger dollar volume although it trails Belmond a bit in the number of cars handled annually.

General Mills, needless to say, is the explanation of this circumstance. Over the years he's been in Belmond, Kay says that freight traffic into and out of the GMI yards has gone up considerably and in recent years has averaged 1,500 to 2,000 cars annually.

Contributing to the rise in freight volume was the addition of the Larro feed mill to the GMI facilities here. It shipped 392 cars of feed last year (most of its feed is hauled by truck, at present, but railroad volume shows signs of perhaps catching up with the truck volume).

Altogether, General Mills accounted for all but 181 of the total of 1,857 cars that moved in and out of Belmond in 1959. When Ris-Van, Inc., moved in — practically into the CGW's lap — that brought a welcome addition of 100 or more cars' freight traffic yearly, Kay adds.

For the current year. General Mills had shipped out 1,227 cars loaded with its products and brought in 375 carloads of materials for manufacture, up to Dec. 1.

There was a time when the trucking industry had taken a lion's share of the soybean shipments into Belmond away from the railroads; but rate adjustments in the meantime have won back a good part of this freight hauling. The same has occurred with feed shipments out.

As recently as 10 years ago, the CGW had a couple of day trains providing passenger service; but they were discontinued in that year and passenger volume nose-dived simultaneously.

In early days, passenger business was aggressively sought by the various railroad lines. It was not exceptional for special trains to be put on for big sales events (such as Tiede's department store drew mammouth crowds to Belmond with), fairs, circuses and like "big occasions."

● ● ● ● ● ●

Because of the Christmas holidays, this week's feature picture did not arrive in time to be placed on this early run of The Independent. It appears this week on the front page.

In those times, the plaintive wail of the train whistle was a familiar and friendly sound of the night — which many old-timers miss today.

The Great Western completed its conversion from steam to diesel power between 1947 and 1950, and the old water tower south of the depot came down not long after the last "iron horse" disappeared from the tracks. Kay viewed its departure with mixed emotions.

Like a lot of railroaders, he had formed an attachment for the old steam engines — but he felt no dismay over no longer having to stoke up a coal fire in the pump house to assure that the water from the tower would flow dependably at all temperatures.

Relics of those days when railroads were at the height of their importance are to be seen in the CGW depot's freight house in the form of old circus posters plastered on the walls. There, in garish colors and exciting pictures, the glories of Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey and the less famous Forepaugh, Sells Floto circuses, are mutely recited by these souvenirs of another era.

AN ODD TRAFFIC BLINKER

(No. 6 in a Series)

An out-of-state motorist was driving along a New England highway that was unfamiliar to him. All of a sudden he became aware of a double amber blinker on his left, ahead and above the road. He had never seen this kind of signal and wondered what it meant.

His puzzlement was soon resolved. In a short distance he saw a side road approaching from the right. The blinker was like a permanent caution, warning the approaching driver to be careful.

Within limits, the blinker was like a public notice. The purpose of the notice may vary but basically it is intended to call attention to something. It is designed, moreover, to give due notice. Generally this means sufficient time to enable those concerned to take whatever steps may be necessary to protect their rights and interests, whether collective or individual.

By long practice the bona fide newspaper of paid general circulation has been shown to be the best general medium for such notices. That is why the laws of all 50 states make provision for the publication in such newspapers of hundreds of kinds of public notices. This has come to be a basic part of the American legal system and, indeed, of the democratic process itself.

Picture of a Man with Troubles

(whether he knows it or not)

Nobody asked him if he wanted to come here to live
Somebody signed his name to a note for $1700 worth of National Debt
He isn't big enough to enforce his rights
And a lot of people in his community have

The City-Shopping Habit

. . . a disease which, if let to gain too much headway, can short-change him on schools, churches, friends, neighbors, and his old man's pay check.

And he's helpless to do anything about it – until, when he grows up, he has to take off and try to find opportunity somewhere else . . . in the far places where his neighbors have scattered the community substance which Providence entrusted to their care.

We often hear folks around here complaining that our young people nearly always have to hunt their fortunes in other places because we don't have opportunities for them.

Home-spent dollars create those opportunities . . . help to keep our sons and daughters content and prosperous in our own midst.

Let's Give Our Junior Citizens a Better Break

Small communities . . . like this one of ours . . . are the finest places in the world for youngsters to grow up. They are the strongholds of the real American way of life and our country's greatest source of leadership.

Away from the regimented bee-hive life of the cities, a child has a better chance to develop the broad and independent viewpoint that makes useful leaders.

But . . . if we keep our small communities intact, with good schools and churches and comfortable living standards, we're going to have to slow down on the Great Give-Away . . . small town people giving away their community assets to Big-City business.

Film Highlights

—from—

COMING ATTRACTIONS

An Alan Ladd western can always be counted on to be a fair cut above the average. That applies to "One Foot in Hell," which is showing Thursday through Saturday. Dolores Michaels, the picture's feminine star, says she'd be more inclined to call it "One Foot in Heaven." She found it much to her liking to be the ONLY girl in a cast that included 14 men!

You won't be seeing many more Clark Gable pictures (other than re-releases), now that death has taken this popular screen idol. One of his last to be filmed was "It Started in Naples," co-starring Sophia Loren.

This gay and colorful romantic comedy—showing Sunday through Wednesday—was shot on the picturesque Isle of Capri, also in Rome and Naples.

A sensational young Italian boy, Marietto, portrays an orphaned tyke — a nephew of Gable's — whom Clark is trying to gain possession of. Sophia is the youngster's adopted "aunt" . . . and thereby hangs the plot.

Honor Mrs. Calvin Schulte on birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Barkema and children, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Bier and family and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Schulte and children were birthday party guests last Thursday evening in the Chris Schulte home in honor of Mrs. Calvin Schulte.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hagen and family left Saturday morning to spend Christmas in the Sophia Webb home in Wilmington, O.

A Christmas dinner was enjoyed by the families of Mrs. Gladys Crandall Saturday evening in the Ted Vierkant home. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Crandall and family of Livermore, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Crandall and family of Mason City, Mr. and Mrs. Max Crandall and family of Cedar Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crandall and family and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Crandall and family of Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Erickson and David drove to Huxley Friday to attend a Christmas dinner and gift exchange Saturday evening in the Tom Erickson home. The Ericksons went on from there to Burlington to celebrate the holiday with the Gibbs families.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crandall of Denver, Colo., visited from Tuesday until Friday with Mrs. Gladys Crandall in the Ted Vierkant home.

Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Nelson of Kamrar were Wednesday visitors in the Wilbert Hansen home.

Christmas dinner guests Monday in the Herman Janssen home were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Janssen and family of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wenzel, Jr., and children and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ellingston and children of Belmond and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Janssen and family of Iowa Falls. The first birthday of Loren Wenzel was also observed. Clyde Janssen could not be with the family due to having had surgery on Saturday afternoon for appendicitis.

PUBLIC FORUM

Letters to the Independent are welcomed. Please try to limit to 100 words or less.

Eagle Grove, Iowa
Dec. 22, 1960

Belmond Independent,
Belmond, Iowa

Dear Editor:

This letter is being written in the hope that it will clear up some of the misunderstanding about the National Farmers Organization (N.F.O.).

We have been charged as being a radical and irresponsible group that think they can "STRIKE" and force food prices up out of reason. This simply is NOT true. We are only asking for justice at the market place.

In other words, "Cost of Production plus a reasonable profit," — $19.60 a hundred for hogs, $32.00 for cattle, $29.00 for lambs, $1.46 per bu. for corn, $2.56 for soybeans, 13 cents a quart for milk.

This is of course for top quality products; all others graded and priced accordingly. We think any fair minded person would agree this is not being radical or irresponsible.

We are determined to have something to say about what we receive for our occupational labor the same, I am sure, as every business, industry and professional person has.

They have long known if you let your customers price your products and services you would not likely be in business very long. We are tired of taking our produce to town and asking what will you give us and in turn when we go to buy our supplies etc. having nothing whatsoever to say about what we must pay.

Much has been said about farmers losing their freedom. Today, we are convinced, through our research, that farmers are buying and selling on a controlled market. I believe, any farmer operating under these circumstances is not truly a free farmer.

The fruit industry went to a plan similar to N. F. O. years ago and it has worked out very well. Fifty years ago the majority of the citrus growers in California organized a marketing association and took the trade name "Sunkist." These farmers price their product to produce a profit and yet the consumer has not been abused.

"Diamond Walnuts" is another product that is marketed collect-product that is marketed collectively. Potatoes from Hollandale, The list is long.

These groups learned the hard way that you cannot stay in business by selling on the, "What will you give me" basis.

The N. F. O. is the only organization I know of that is trying to help the midwest farmers get a fair share of the national income. We are non-political and deal in no commercial enterprises nor endorse any product.

We are an organization of farmers for farmers and have the legal right, since February 18, 1922, through the Capper-Volstad act to bargain collectively.

N. F. O. is a farm organization dedicated to running its own business free from government dependency and to the preservation of the family-type farm, thereby we think, benefiting the local community and whole country as well. We ask nothing that is not legal, fair, and just.

In conclusion, I wish to remind you of the conditions that arise in an urban community such as ours, through the rise and fall of farm income.

I hope this has helped clarify the position of the N. F. O., the largest organization of farmers, exclusively.

Sincerely,
Roger Wilcox
County Chairman

HIGHLIGHTS

METEOR...
Priced to compete with the low-price field

NEW NAME! 2 ALL-NEW SERIES! NEW SUPER-ECONOMY "6" AND V-8 ENGINES! FAR LOWER PRICES! • This year, with the Meteor 600 and 800 series, Mercury has 2 full series of low-price cars. • Prices start hundreds of dollars below last year. • Optional equipment and transportation cost far less too.

FULL SIZE! • There's more interior comfort than in last year's Mercury. Outside dimensions are trimmer for easier parking and garaging.

FAR MORE VALUE THAN OTHER LOW-PRICE CARS. • Mercurys are heavier (starting at 3708 lbs., curb weight) have a longer wheelbase (120 inches). • First with Cushion-Link suspension (absorbs small bumps you still feel in other cars)*. • More self-servicing features than any other low-price car—everything from a self-lubricating chassis to self-cleaning spark plugs. Why not get more, save more? Just see your Mercury dealer. LINCOLN-MERCURY DIVISION Ford Motor Company.

*Cushion-Link suspension is exclusive on all Meteor 800's, Montereys, and Mercury station wagons.

1. MERCURY METEOR 600 Priced right in the heart of the low-price field.	2. MERCURY METEOR 800 Priced to compete with the top series low-price cars.	3. MERCURY MONTEREY Finest, most luxurious of all 1961 Mercurys.
